THE STANDARD, $1.50 A YEAR

Fifth Fortnightly Crop Report

ISSUED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, GOVERNMENT OF ALBERTA, EDMONTON, JUNE 28, 1926.

Since the last report, great improvement has been brought about in the crop conditions in the southern districts by rains which in most of these districts were quite heavy, and were general over the entire south in varying degree. Though these rains came somewhat too late to bring about a complete recovery of the crop which had already suffered from high winds and lack of moisture, the large percentage of grain acreage in the south now gives promise of a good average crop. There is uneven germination over a considerable area due to the activities of the cutworms, and to dry conditions, but the situation as a whole, in the southern districts, is much more promising than a fortnight ago, with the summerfallow crops and late sown rain looking very well.

Throughout Central and Northern parts the crop outlook is very satisfactory. There has been sufficient moisture at all times and although the weather has been somewhat cool the crop is a splendid color and well advanced for this time of the year.

Speaking generally, the wheat crop is coming into the shot blade, with the early grain in southern districts heading out. The prospects are for an early harvest.

Prospects in the dairying industry are reported to be brighter than last year, with promise of increased production.

Alfalfa cutting is in progress in the south, with a good crop being taken off.

Bright Outlook For Edmonton Exhibition

Dates of Big Attraction Set For July 12 to 17

"Not for years has the outlook for the annual Edmonton Exhibition looked so bright as it does this year" is the statement of Manager W. J. Stark.

"It is almost impossible," he continued, "to point to any one thing and say, That is the cause of the greater interest," because in some mysterious way, almost imperceptibly, gathering momentum all the time, there has been a revival of enthusiasm all around the line."

"Perhaps it is because the Exhibition is altogether different from anything we have done had before," [illegible] "but whatever it is, those people who have got into the chronic habit of saying, year after year, that it is the same old thing, will get the surprise of their lives. There will be the same buildings and the same grand stand, it is true, but the exhibits and attractions will all have a delightfully new appeal. It will be the biggest money's worth we have ever given."

"Let me illustrate what I mean. The Coldstream Guards Band of full tone and strength is one of the wonderful musical aggregations of the world. If it came to Edmonton as a private enterprise, and played in one of the downtown auditoriums, the seats would sell up to $2.00 and more apiece. Then there is the Historical Pageant with a cast of six hundred performers with beautiful period costumes and a setting on such a comprehensive scale as to almost take one's breath away. If it were possible to secure a down-town building with a sufficiently roomy stage to house such a magnificent spectacle, there would be a claim for seats at $2.00 apiece."

"The grand stand attractions are this year infinitely superior to anything of the kind ever before seen in Western Canada. We spent a great deal of time in selecting these attractions, and those we secured were enough to secure have been outstanding successes in London, New York, and Edmonton centres. Nobody would grudge a dollar to see these grand stand attractions by themselves in the ordinary commercial way."

"Count it up for yourself. $2.00 for the Coldstream Guards Band, $2.00 for the Historical Pageant, and $1.00 for the grand stand attractions, or a total of $5.00. The gate admission to the Exhibition is 50c, and you will get a seat in the grand stand for 50c, or a total of $1.00. This takes no count of the thousand-and-one other attractions that will be on deck this year in bewildering variety. In other words, there will be a $6.00 grand stand show for $1.00, with everything else thrown in. Every indication this year points to the smashing of attendance records beyond all recognition."

The Exhibition dates this year are from July 12 to 17 inclusive. All service close on June 26. Special arrangements have been made for auto public tablets, by the provision of free camping space at the Exhibition grounds. Specially reduced admission charges have been arranged for up to and including July 3, at the rate of six tickets for $5.00 and mail orders will be filled up to that time. The regular rate of 50c will apply after that date.

Channel Swim This Year Is Improbable

Attempt Not Feasible Owing to Abnormal Weather Conditions

No swimmer—male or female—will be able to swim the English Channel this year, in the opinion of numerous French and English swimming experts and trainers.

Abnormal weather conditions, following a winter of unusual severity and an extremely tardy spring, will make it extremely perilous for a man to attempt the swim with the usual tides, and virtually impossible for a woman.

Before starting a recent trip across the channel, the writer asked a hardened old veteran of the crew if he thought it would be advisable to conquer the cold water, the tides and the waves that are a part of the channel's daily routine.

The boat, tied up at the dock, was bobbing up and down like one of those brick floor devices at Coney Island and waves were breaking over the prow. With the exception of one or two cockleshow had remarked that "don't care" condition on the trafs from London, the passengers were all evidently ill, and the trip had not yet started.

"Feel better?" the old salt answered. "This is better for a man to feel sick. Look at the way she's rollin' now. I'd call the bobbles if a girl of mine talked to me this."

He said that only the greatest of luck ever had enabled a man to swim across, and that then it needed more luck to make it possible for a girl.

Signs of Winter

"How do you know when winter is near?" asked the teacher.

"Please," answered little Harry at the bottom of the class, "it begins to get late earlier."

To Represent Canada

W. A. Wilson Will Be Agricultural Representative For Canada In Britain

W. A. Wilson, agricultural product representative for Canada in the United Kingdom, has been appointed Canadian member on the official board created to direct the marketing of empire produce in Great Britain. The membership of the board was made known coincident with the announcement that Lieut. Col. L. C. Amery, secretary of state for the dominions, is to act as its chairman. Seven members will sit on the board as representatives of the British Isles while the dominions and colonies will have one member each.

Mr. Wilson has been connected with Canadian dairy production for many years. Attached to the dairy branch of the federal department of agriculture he organized creameries in the province of Saskatchewan when dairying in that province was in its infancy. He was for many years superintendent for Saskatchewan of the scheme for promotion of dairying under the Federal Government. He later helped organize the co-operative creameries in that province, and was for many years secretary of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries, Ltd.

Mr. Wilson was appointed three years ago to his present position.

Opening Shop In Paris

Nations Belonging to League Plan to Exhibit Arts

The League of Nations is going to keep a shop in Paris.

Twenty-six important nations, nonmembers of the league, already have approved the scheme of International Institute of Intellectual Co-operation, to be the main gallery of the historic Palais Royal in the centre of Paris and of each league member a show window wherein to display photographs of its beauty spots, fine buildings, samples of its books and pictures, material evidence of its culture and thought.

Thus will be established a permanent international culture exhibition which will further international intellectual co-operation, the aim of the institute.

Women Members of League

The League of Nations brings to Geneva Miss Charlotte Whitton, who is chairman of the child's welfare committee, and also a member of the Canadian Women's Press Club. Miss Whitton, a woman connected with the league is British, Jamaica Rachel Crundy. She concentrates on health studies, prosecution of women, and child welfare.

Making Maps From Aeroplane

Much Quicker Than Land Survey Where Accuracy Not Essential

Where speed and economy in surveys is necessary, making maps from the air has already proved valuable. The Canadian government has used this in the mapping of the Irawadi delta in Burma. In that case an area of 1,200 square miles was photographed from an aeroplane in about nine weeks, whereas a ground survey of the same difficult country would probably have taken five years.

There is one university student to every 200 people in U. S.

Airship's World Flight

Proposal to Make a Non-Stop Flight Around the World in Dirigible

A vast airship is being partly constructed at the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshaven, with which it is proposed to make a non-stop flight round the world. She is designed to carry an immense load of fuel. Starting from the airship base at Seville, Spain, she will sail out across the Atlantic, ascending until she is in a westerly air-stream. When Central America is reached the airship will seek suitable currents for her crossing of the Pacific, after which it will be the aim to manoeuvre into an air-trend from the east, and so regain the starting point in Spain.

Running her engines at moderate speed, so as to economize fuel, and profiting wherever possible by favorable winds, it is calculated that the non-stop world flight will be accomplished in about 22 days. If the airship now being built is to be Germany-owned, it should be noted that ever since the peace, German aircraft construction has been restricted by allied regulations, which seriously increase the difficulty of building an airship capable of such a flight. A conference is in progress in Paris for the abolition or modification of these restrictions.

No Arctic Continent

Nothing But Watery Wastes and Ice Fields At North Pole

Open water at and around the neighborhood of the North Pole is the report of the crew of the Nonge Expedition to Alaska. Lieut.-Com. Byrd looked down upon the pole from his plane and saw nothing but ice and more. In April, 1926, when Peary reached the top of the world he found soft ice there and thought it brought to take soundings. Norge saw no land near the pole as it approached and glimpsed neither island nor continent between the pole and Point Barrow.

"The Arctic continent," believed by many to exist, evidently is nonexistent. Watery wastes, ice-sheathed, have dispelled the dream of the ancient explorers and made jokes posts for the weather bureaus of the nations on the top of the world, for which eternal opening from time to time and giving glimpses of the polar seas seems definitely established. That much of the polar mystery has been dispelled, and with the vanquishing of that mystery it is possible that the last great blank on the globe—save it has not been for generations.—New York Evening Post.

EARLY LEADERS OF ISRAEL: FROM JOSHUA TO SAMUEL

Golden Text: Jehovah will not cast off his people. Psalm 94.14.

Lesson: Exodus 1.1-14.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 94.10-17.

Explanations and Comments

The Reason For the Oppression of the Israelites, verses 1-10.—"Not to know one's reason in oriental language is acknowledge his authority or influence. Several centuries had passed since the death of Joseph, and a new Pharaoh is on the throne in Egypt, who, although he may have heard about Joseph and his services to Egypt during the years of famine, feels no obligation to spare his descendants because of what he did for Egypt. The new Pharaoh, who is believed to have been Rameses II, said to his people, "Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we." This is a great exaggerated assertion, but the general rendering is, "The people of the children of Israel are too many and too strong for us." Here is our contingent welfare.

It is by such exaggerations and alarms that all the worst crimes of oppression have been justified to unsuspecting peoples. And we, when we worry what seems to us a rightful object by inflaming the prejudices and intolerable the passions of other men, are moving on the same treacherous and slippery incline." (Dr. A. Chadwick).

Should Show Courtesy

American Tourists Fail to Display Canadian Flags On Cars

"The people of Canada desire to welcome motor tourists from the United States in the most cordial manner, but these visitors would greatly help to create a friendly atmosphere for themselves if they would show a sense of courtesy in displaying Canadian flags on their cars. They exact the most punctilious observance of this rule from visitors to their country, and they ought to be prompt to recognize the same amenity when they come to Canada. Courtesy in such things is a mark of good breeding as well as of international good will."—Brantford Expositor.

Rhodes Lectureship Announced

The foundation of a new Rhodes memorial lectureship worth about £500 annually, was announced at the Rhodes dinner by Sir Otto Beit, trustee of the Rhodes trust. The object of the foundation is to bring to Oxford some man or woman of preeminent distinction from some other country, particularly the United States, so that special learning may be made available to the university.

Answer to Last Week's Puzzle

Tourists See Mountains

Good Motor Roads Responsible For Influx of Visitors

Tourist traffic into Canadian Rocky Mountain parks has been truly heavy for the beginning of the season. The perfect condition of the Calgary-Banff and Midway, which was completed as a permanent highway by the provincial government last year, has been responsible for greatly doubling the early season traffic into Banff and Lake Louise.

The traffic into the Jasper National Park is also very heavy.

Saturday in the Canadian Rockies has arrived three weeks earlier than usual in the Eastern United States and Canada, according to American visitors. It is the earliest Rocky Mountain Saturday in the memory of the oldest white inhabitants of this district.

New Turbine Engine Invented

Driven By Dynamos and Uses an Inexhaustible Fuel

A new principle turbine type engine which can produce 5,000 horsepower has been invented, it is declared, by F. J. Taylor, 21-year-old physics student of Toronto. Taylor says his invention is driven by dynamos and uses an inexhaustible fuel, the nature of which he refuses to divulge at present. It will develop ninety horsepower with only half the number of the ordinary motor's revolutions he declares, and will also do away with the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning.

A Tribute To Britain

That was a fine tribute paid by Dr. Wise, Rabbi of the New York Free Synagogue, to Great Britain at the Kiwanis convention when he said: "There is no nation on earth, a religion, a tongue, a race on earth representatives of which are not to be found within the British Commonwealth. As a student of His and history, I say to you that Great Britain has learned the problem of dealing justly with all its peoples and faiths and races and tongues as no other people have done up to the time."—Kingston Standard.

CHAPTER VIII.

Joanna Makes a Decision

After a time the girl, huddled on the floor in a heap of bobbed brown hair and clinging gown and silver stockinged legs, stilled the birth of a new cry and stopped the convulsive tremble of her bare, velvet soft shoulders. Her eyes, as quick to dry as to dim with moisture, which is the way of youth, selected a spot on the parlor carpet, just beyond her toes, and fixed on it. As she sat very quite, and stared out, straightened out the jumble of her bitter, very bitter thoughts. She realized that she could not blame Jack Dorr for the blow that had happened during the hectic day were not sensible things—any of them.

It was a girl in love who rebel when things weren't right; she couldn't analyze, or probe for reasons, or ask herself if she were to blame. That is, she could ask if she were to blame when things got into a jumble, but her invariable answer was "No!" That was when the spirit of Joanna was submissive and amenable to discipline, and to the learning of lessons out of experience. That was a long time ago—before she had to make her own way alone and complete with the girls—with the ones who were on the square, as well as those who weren't. She gloried in her power of self-assertiveness then. Whoever criticis her, evil, forced herself, was wrong. As her temper rose, so did her self-assurance accustomed to giving than it received; and her lips grew redder and more scarlet, and her eyes shone like some sheeter, every body——!

Even John! The one thing she admired most. Even he could never understand a girl as Joanna Deane and show-board girl who had to fight like the devil to keep up with the other girls of this and said! John had objected to almost everything she did or wore or said. Held proud by the home. Once in this same parlor—She'd given up, long ago, her struggles against the language of her young lady roomers. "Are you really sure, Jo," she asked, her words running slowly, "that you haven't had, what you call a smash? All that money you had in your pocketbook, and you say there's more besides. You know——"

Before the steady ease of the girl on the floor, the landlady faltered. The eyes that stared at her made her uncomfortable—always with her doubts. "You see, Jo," she argued, plaintive in her self-justification, "the things a girl like you talks about, and knows about, and the places you go! Georgie wears her clothes too tight and she says that's what girls are supposed to do nowadays. And you wear dresses that you ought to never cross your knees in—you oughtn't to sit down at all; it's worried me a lot. And you smoke, Jo, and I've heard you swear, too. That's why John was ready to believe——"

"You mean that's why you believe, too?"

"I won't believe. If you tell me it isn't so, Jo. I'll just believe in you and I'll take back the money you gave me." Suddenly the landlady was confused. "I'm sorry, Jo, but I put the five twenty dollars, and eighty I knows what a God send it would be to me, in the pocket of your old wrap. The coat's on your bed, now. If you say it ain't all right, like you say before, I'll take it, dear, and bless you for it."

Joanna scrambled onto her feet, straightened her frock, brought a strap that had fallen back, onto her shoulder and walked over to the foot of the stairs to her room. When she reappeared she held the bill. She put it in her bag, and then, with head held the worn fingers about it. Neither she nor the landlady spoke. Mrs. Dickey watched the bobbed head glide and blend.

"For mine," Joanna remarked, when she straightened up. "I want a drink. I'm going to wait until Georgie comes in. If she makes it early enough, and she's not too tired, we'll go out to eat. I'll buy them a treat while we hunt an all-night bootlegger."

Mrs. Dickey said, sadly—one o'clock Her companion of the evening was sufficiently equipped to supply information on the subject need, and glad of the excuse for lingering over his dinnerleaf. Joanna's bitterness was forgotten in the interest of study. For a streak of gray, steadily across the court of sordid backyards, warned the way to a penthouse of which Joanna's dad, that if they were to have any sleep at all against the exciting day to come. Joanna kissed her landlady's cheek, and then entered the courtyard that led to the basement door. Above the Andes into the dense jungle of Ecuador and then entered the country of the Incas. Then, by mule-back, for 300 miles westward through the jungle to the head waters of the Napo River. That is, Joanna and the explorers paddled down the Napo to the Amazon River, whence they proceeded to Iquitos, Peru. A 2,000-mile paddle still awaited them in order to reach Para.

Mrs. Dickey, wife in the land of the head hunters, saved the life of an Indian bitten by a venomous snake, and as a reward was presented with a head-rated while the explorers were in the territory. Head hunting, the Indians believe, is necessary to the salvation for the bilmagging of women by other tribes and causes all the wars in that district.

The skin of the victim's head is removed entirely and treated for two days with hot sand and hot stones, and by equal head measures about six inches in diameter. The features are well preserved, and the head is said to prevent the escape of evil spirits. The head hunters are not interested in the heads of white men.

The Prince's Doubles

Several Young Men Who Resemble Heir to British Throne

The Prince of Wales has other doubles than the young American who was recently in London, and whose resemblance to the Prince has caused several misunderstandings.

Before the outbreak of the war at least compelled to leave Buenos Aires to his home modeled by people who thought he was the Prince.

In South Africa there is a young man who is called "Teddy the Needle" by his friends. He is the image of his the same height and build as the Prince, and even shares his famous walk.

Oshawa, Ontario.—"After a severe operation and after weeks of suffering in a hospital I returned home so weak that I was unable to move a chair. For four months I was almost frantic with pains and suffering until I thought sure there could not be any help for me. I had every symptom pointing to a female trouble and tried many every month. One day when I was not able to get up my mother begged me to try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of Vegetable Compound at once and I took it. I started a second bottle, and to my surprise and joy the pains in my side left me completely and I am able to do all my work without help. I am a farmer's wife, so you see I can't be idle long. In all, I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of the Compound Tablets, two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and have also used the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. L. LAFLEUREUR, Box 158, Oshawa, Ontario.

Nerve Tonic Pills for Women

A dull pain has been in the employ of the Galesburg city water department for thirty years. He can't remember when it was not there, and he has given up trying to make him be his teeth. He developed a custom of planting a few or four rolls on a water main, and favoring the location of the leak by the vibrations felt through his teeth.

Hamburg to New York in 36 Hours Says Aerial Expert

The day when transcontinental flights between Hamburg and New York will be made in 36 hours is not far distant, in the opinion of Dr. Edmund Rumpler, noted German aerial expert.

Dr. Rumpler has devoted the past five years to the preparation of plans for huge aircraft capable of carrying 176 passengers and seven tons of freight.

Plans which Dr. Rumpler has evolved for huge aircraft to make the trip call for planes propelled by ten motors of 1,000 horsepower each and capable of attaining a maximum speed of 175 miles an hour.

Canada Will Extend Business

Government Voted $375,000 For Commercial Intelligence This Year

The extension of Canada's commercial intelligence service abroad was ad in the House of Commons when a vote of $375,000 for this service for the coming fiscal year was passed. Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of trade and commerce, moved the estimate, explaining that they were asked to extend business in France and elsewhere.

SIXTEEN YEARS USE OF BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Has Shown One Mother There is Nothing to Equal Them

A constant use of Baby's Own Tablets for their children has proved to thousands of mothers that they are without an equal for relieving and curing childhood ailments. One mother, Mrs. C. W. Jackson, R.R. 1, Gilford, Ont., writes:—"We have used Baby's Own Tablets ever since our first baby was born, sixteen years ago. We have seven fine healthy children and the Tablets be the only medicine we have received in their early years. Our baby is the one and a half years old, is walking and talking and weighs 25 pounds. She is very fond of the Tablets and only medicine he has ever had."

Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed to be absolutely safe for even the newborn babe. They are guaranteed to contain no narcotic nor as a opiate laxative on the stomach and bowels and their sweet, easy-to-take and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make baby healthy and strong.

You can get Baby's Own Tablets from your druggist or direct by mailing 25 cents a box from The T. Milburn Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

England's King Never Dies

Heir Apparent Receives Title Immediately Sovereign Passes Away

The King of England "never dies." All that is attached to a "demise of the Crown." The moment the Sovereign passes away the title, dignity and power are automatically transferred to the heir apparent, who from that moment relaxes to be styled. So, when just as the King never dies, so is always of full age directly he succeeds the throne, whether he has reached his majority or not. In practice, however, a regent is appointed for administrative purposes during minority. A species of customary attaches to all regal traditions, and no kind of judicial process can run against the Sovereign in any, except "against a criminal or crown debtor. A royal residence is also exempt from rates and taxes so long as the Sovereign occupies it. Thus, Marlborough House is rated, but Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle are not. On a "demise of the Crown" members of parliament, judges and justices of the peace continue in office, and all writs and summonses are issued in the name of the new King.

Restored To Original Meaning

Mapping Country From Aeroplane is Really "Surveying"

The world "aeroplane" has no longer been applied almost exclusively to men engaged in running lines and performing complicated duties of the civil engineer that it is rather amusing to see it restored to its original meaning of one who looks down upon a thing from above. The aeroplane has done it. Canada is mapping much of its hitherto uncharted country from it the machines. The photographs this taken make, when placed together, a continuous map that tells much more about the country than an ordinary map would show.—Youth's Companion.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, Saturday, June 26th, 1926.

Lumber Output for Alberta

According to the dominion year book, just issued, the total lumber output for Alberta during 1925 was sawed at 841,000. A total of 32,700,000 feet of timber was cut.

Many Coming to Camrose

More than 10,000 visitors are expected to be in Camrose from July 2 to 5 for the big Norse celebration to be held there. It is stated that 3,000 reservations have been made from the state of Minnesota alone. The visitors are coming both by auto and by special train. The Alberta government publicity bureau is erecting an exhibit of agricultural and mineral products for the four days at the celebration in order that the visitors may be shown something of the province's resources.

Big Drivers at Sheep Industry

Alberta is making greater progress in the sheep industry than any other province, according to a statement made by W. H. J. Tisdale, assistant general manager of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Association in a recent interview. Mr. Tisdale states that the co-operative pool expects to receive some 1,500,000 lbs. of wool from Alberta this year.

Dates for Corn Show

The Directors of the Alberta Corn Growers' Association at a meeting held in Lethbridge last week decided on November 11th and 12th as dates for the Provincial Corn Show which is to be held in Medicine Hat. An attractive prize list has been prepared with classes for boys and girls as well as for adults. There has been a large acreage of corn planted this year than in previous years and if the season is reasonably favorable strong competition is anticipated.

Lethbridge Celebrates

Lethbridge city is staging a historical pageant on July 1 in connection with its fair, to celebrate the first anniversary of the city and the 21st anniversary of the province.

Thousands Coming

Thousands of tourists are expected to visit the province next month and to attend the Calgary stampede from July 5 to 10 and the Edmonton Exhibition, July 12 to 17. In addition the annual stampede and exhibition will be staged while at Edmonton a large historical pageant, celebrating the 21st anniversary of the province, will be produced under expert direction. At both places the Cobbitown Guard-land, a famous British organization, will be an attraction.

Provincial Exhibits

Something unique in the way of educational work is being undertaken this year at the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, and the Edmonton Exhibition by the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

This is a special automatic exhibit depicting lessons on livestock due to housing incidental to loading and shipping, and the provincial department is putting up the exhibit, in co-operation with the university, with packers, pure-breeders and others interested, in an effort to minimize the losses thus created, the extent of which is probably not realized by a large proportion of those handling livestock.

The exhibit consists of an automatic motion picture and slide machine. The motion pictures show the proper method of loading and shipping livestock, with emphasis on swine. These motion pictures have been specially made right in Alberta, and will be an attraction in themselves. The slides, on another part of the machine, show figures, compiled by one of the packing houses in Alberta, depicting the loss on livestock due to bruising. These figures will be a startling revelation to those who see them.

It will be well worth the while of every farmer and livestock man to visit the exhibit and study it. In co-operation with other provincial departments of agriculture the exhibit is also being shown at other Class "A" fairs in the west.

Publicity Exhibit

The Publicity Branch of the Department of Agriculture will also have an exhibit at the Calgary and Edmonton Exhibitions this year, located adjacent to the other exhibit. The Publicity display will include grains and grasses collected from all parts of the province, attractively arranged, and a display also of tar sands, coal and oil.

Miss Mary B. Miller of Owen Sound, Ontario, arrived Thursday morning to spend the summer with her brother. Wheat 22 inches high and in the dough stage, was handed to us this week by W. F. H. Thompson. The grain came from S. Barwick's farm, northwest of town.

COMPLETED BIG CONTRACT

John Lee, of Indian Lake Farm, Breaks and Seeds 140 Acres in 10-acre Lots on Fourteen Hebridean Farms.

FIVE 4-HORSE OUTFITS WERE EMPLOYED

John Lee, Indian Lake Farm, northwest of town, on Wednesday last completed a contract of breaking, discing, harrowing and seeding fourteen 10 acre lots or 140 acres of new prairie land on the farms of new Hebridean settlers in the north country. Mr. Lee had five four-horse outfits engaged in the work and three men, two months being consumed on the job. In conversation with the Standard he expressed himself as particularly pleased that the heavy contract was all completed before the present hot wave they set in.

Besides undertaking and successfully completing the above work, Mr. Lee put in a crop of 190 acres of wheat on his Indian Lake farm and 80 acres of oats, and claims he has had a most energetic spring, with which we unanimously agree.

Departmental examinations are on this week at the Alexandra school, there being 22 candidates writing: 8 are from Ritzville, 4 from Innisfree, 1 from Forest Hill and 1 from Cunningham. The rest are from the local school.

Vermilion, Alta., July 1, 1926.

The Hon. Arthur Meighen has been sworn in as premier of Canada following the resignation of Hon. Mackenzie King.

The provincial elections held Monday saw the return of the U. F. A. government, the country supporting them as solidly as in the last election when they assumed office upon the defeat of the Liberal administration which had held the reins of office continuously since the province was formed in 1905. The active campaign waged against the record of the former government apparently had little effect upon influencing the electors, as the government will probably gain two or three seats. The Liberal following is weakened while three Conservatives only appear to have been elected, including the leader of the party. Two notable defeats were those of Hon. Alex. Ross and Mrs. Nellie McClung in Calgary. Premier Brownlee has received an emphatic mandate to carry on.

Hon. R. G. Reid Re-Elected For Vermilion

Hon R. G. Reid, provincial treasurer, was elected as the member for this district in the local legislature on Monday, with a clear majority over his two opponents. This will obviate the necessity of counting the second choices. With 12 polls to hear from Returning Officer McDuffe states that the count now stands: Reid, about 1400; Marnak, about 600 and Ebbett about 500. There appears to be a close run between the two latter for second place, the odds being in favor of Marnak. Even opponents of the latter concede that for a new man and entirely unaccustomed to political warfare, he made a splendid run. He carried Vermilion by a majority of 27 over Ebbett and 100 over Reid. He also topped the poll in Mannville where he polled 77, Ebbett 29 and Reid 56. Mr. Ebbett carried Innisfree by 21 votes, Marnak 15 and Reid 26. Minburn gave Reid a majority, with Marnak second and Ebbett third. The town polls stood as follows:

	Ebbett	Macnab	Reid
No. 3, South Side	19	26	15
No. 10, Town Hall	87	92	90
No. 11, Imperial Bk	24	21	17
No. 12, Imperial Bk	28	22	11
Total	156	161	81

Considerable activity was shown in town throughout the afternoon, as each special effort being made to get the vote out. During the evening the results were posted in the Commercial rooms for the convenience of the public and the U. F. A. the Liberals receiving theirs at the Robinson's office. The best of feeling prevailed throughout the contest.

FAREWELL TO REV. C. E. AND MRS. BISHOP

Grace United Church was the scene of a very happy and enjoyable occasion on Tuesday evening, when the former congregation of that church gathered in large numbers to bid farewell to Rev. C. E. and Mrs. Bishop. Rev. Mr. Bell was master of ceremonies and was in a very happy mood as he called for the various honorees on the program.

The musical part was supplied by renderings by Misses Oakley and Long, and Mr. Wm. Baddaly. Miss Wilbeck gave an elocutionary number. Representatives from the various churches were called up to express the high esteem in which Mr. Bishop is held in connection with the church work here. In the course of these speeches, Mr. Baddaly, on behalf of the quarterly board of the church, read to the retiring pastor a resolution of appreciation from that body, in which the work of the minister was referred to in most favorable terms, as was also the co-operation made by Mrs. Bishop. This latter theme was enlarged upon by Mrs. Calvert, speaking for the ladies of the church. She was most pleased and happy in the manner in which she praised the work of the pastor's wife. At the conclusion of her remarks Miss Cook presented Mrs. Bishop with a beautiful silk bag well filled with the currency of the Dominion.

Lunch was provided by ladies, and after this had been enjoyed by all a community singing was indulged in, coinciding with "Blest be the Tie that Binds," and "Auld Lang Syne."

Mr. Bishop commences on the duties of his new pastorate in Provost the end Sunday in July, and together with his family will remove there shortly. He will be greatly missed in the community but Vermilion's loss in this connection is Provost's gain.

Resolution

Text of a resolution presented to Rev. C. E. Bishop on the occasion of his departure from the pastorate of Grace United Church, Vermilion, to that of the United Church at Provost:

Vermilion, June 22nd, 1926.

To Rev. Charles Bishop.

Dear Sir:—

We, the members of the Official Board of Grace United Church, on the eve of your departure from us, desire to express to you our sincere appreciation of yourself and your services as pastor of this church during the last four years. You have proven yourself a faithful pastor and efficient preacher, and to your unwearied services have won the affection of your congregation and the friendship of all outside friends of the church and it is cause of our common sorrow. We are sure we speak the mind of, but only the congregation, but of all, when we wish you a most hearty God-speed in all your future work. Under your pastorate the success of the church have prospered greatly, both in spiritual and temporal affairs, and we are sure the same zeal will secure the same or better results wherever you may be called to labor in the vineyard.

We also wish to express our appreciation of the help which Mrs. Bishop has given in the various interests of the church with which she has been more intimately associated.

Wishing you and yours the richest blessing of God, both now and on your journey's end, we remain,

Sincerely yours,

Rev. G. E. Long, Trees. John Welch, S. S. Supt. R. J. Gould, Pres. L. A. Annie Oakley (Vice-Pres.) Pres. W. M. S. Gertrude E. Craig. John Hopkins, W. F. Baddaly, W. J. Moore, Jas. Lipsey, Dorothy Oakley, Beth. Wheeler, W. A. Kibblewhite.

Agricultural Wealth Of The Prairies

In this year, when the twin Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan still celebrate their coming of age as autonomous units in the Canadian Confederation, it is not only fitting but also appropriate to note the truly astounding progress made by Western Canada in a comparatively few years of its brief as to be considered but a passing moment in the life of a nation. When the West was first opened to settlement with the advent of the C.P.R. prediction were made that a great future awaited it, and it has proved when twenty-nine years ago the Old North West Territories passed and the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta came into being. But even the most optimistic could hardly foresee such growth in so few years as has actually taken place.

Twenty-one years ago Manitoba had a population of about 300,000, and in extending the two new Provinces they were each credited with an estimated population of 250,000. As a matter of fact the census of 1906 showed a total of 492,432, closed a much smaller figure. Compared with less than 700,000 population in the three prairie provinces in 1905, it is confidently predicted that this year's census will show a population of approximately two and one half millions.

According to a recent estimate by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the gross agricultural wealth of Canada in 1925 was $1,932,842,000, almost one-half of which was credited to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Although the youngest of all the provinces Saskatchewan occupies second place in gross agricultural wealth, being exceeded by Ontario only, while Alberta and Manitoba occupy fourth and fifth places respectively. The wealth of Saskatchewan last year is placed at $1,426,835,000, Alberta at $1,092,147,000, and Manitoba at $696,495,000. These are remarkable figures for such a young country, and for the initial stage of development.

In annual agricultural revenue the strong position held by Western Canada is even more strikingly indicated. In land values and value of farm buildings the older and more populous provinces of Ontario and Quebec naturally outrank the West, but in the annual value of agricultural production the Western Provinces take a high place. The total agricultural revenue of Canada in 1925 is placed at $1,700,587,000, and of this total the three prairie provinces produced $892,750,000, Saskatchewan being credited with $416,022,000, or only $67,000,000 less than Ontario, Alberta with $245,642,000 and Manitoba $142,086,000.

In field crops, Saskatchewan comes first with Ontario second, Alberta third and Manitoba fourth. Ontario and quebec lead in farm animals with Alberta third. In poultry and eggs Ontario and Quebec also lead, with Saskatchewan third. Alberta is fourth in the production of wool, while Manitoba occupies third place in the production of honey. The Western Provinces are not of the running in the production of fruits and vegetables, leadership in these lines belonging to Ontario followed by British Columbia, Quebec and Nova Scotia in the order named.

Considering the fact that the new twin provinces of the West were not quite nine years old when the Great War broke, and the unsettled and difficult years which have since intervened, the progress of the West must be regarded as altogether remarkable. It speaks volumes for the superiority of the country itself and the capabilities and energies of the people, while giving promise of a further growth, development and prosperity within the next decade or two unsurpassed in all the past history of the Dominion.

There has been a consistent rise in agricultural revenue since 1921 following the unprecedented high war prices of 1919, 1919 and 1920. Equally gratifying is the definite tendency towards increase in diversity of crops. No longer is it possible to sum up Canadian agricultural revenue under the two headings of field crops and livestock. Dairy products, poultry and eggs, honey, fur farming and other products have achieved a respectable rank in the total of the Dominion's annual production of wealth.

One year hence Canadians will celebrate the diamond jubilee of Confederation. That the Dominion is then to be found in a position of unexampled prosperity with ever increasing confidence and pride in the country, under conditions of expanding trade, increased development of natural resources, greater industrial activity, marked advances in production and a higher standard of living particularly in agriculture and allied pursuits, a growing population, and increased financial power and general prosperity.

The Western Provinces are only just beginning to make their contribution to the growth and prosperity of the Dominion. No section of the Dominion will have a greater contribution to make in the years immediately ahead, and not in material things alone will the West play a part. Its record of leadership in all things which make a people truly great, in statesmanship, in the arts and sciences, in the work of religion and social service. The record of the past two decades is but the promise of the future.

French President Does Not Keep Gendarmes Up Late

When President Doumergue, of France, is at the presidential summer residence at Rambouillet he declines all festivities which keep policemen away from the chateau in the evening. "You see," said the president, in explaining why he had to decline an invitation, "when I have Rambouillet either dark the gendarmes all about my route are called out and are not allowed to be in bed until I am back home again safely. So I prefer not to go out. It is not I who suffer most, of course. It is the more influential person that the president and more whom. Also, I have no power. It is the Project of Police."

National Council of Women Advocate Retention of Trained Men and Women

A report prepared by Mrs. Ora Mackay, of Montreal, for the committee on immigration and colonization, was read by Mrs. Charles Thurston at the National Council of Women conference held at Vancouver. The report pointed out that statistics showed that the universities of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Toronto and McGonnile alone have contributed a total of 1,198 trained graduates to the United States in the last ten years.

It was resolved that the National Council of Women endorse the proposal of federation as taken from the report from the throne, regarding the matter of an industrial research organization, and to petition the government to subsidize the said organization for a period of years with the view of retaining the highest technical men and women to build up the nation.

Swollen Joints, Quickly Limbered Up Rub On Nerviline

You would be surprised at the wonderful action of "Nerviline" in just such cases. Rub it on the sore and painful organization, it is able to penetrate right through the skin and into the tissues, carrying its healing, soothing action to the seat of trouble. Whether it be muscular or nerve pain, for eating a cold, Nerviline is a complete success. Pain, soreness, stiffness all disappear. Its magic power is truly wonderful indeed. Nearly fifty years of strenuous proving the merit of Nerviline—and everywhere in large 25 cent bottles.

The Decline In Democracy

Representative Government Would Appear To Be In Serious Danger

It is becoming more and more evident that representative government is in very serious danger. It has been overthrown in the following countries: Italy, in Spain, in Russia and in Greece; both in France and Germany it has been very seriously threatened; constantly; and even in this country and the United States and doubtless in other countries it is suffering. Democracy is the only form of government which there can be no remedy for the ebbing or hope of robust growth. It is the most trustworthy worm exterminator.

Says Plants Have Brains

Noted Indian Physiologist Has Conducted Many Experiments

Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose, the noted Indian physiologist and author, is quoted as declaring that, he says, accurately measures the nervous impulses of a plant. He is an observant of the anniversary of the death of Sir Jagadis Bose, who has done much to prove the way as animals, but that contribution he made, but also in the love of his heroes and the praise of science buried in suffering.

A German shell burst near him at Itapsume in July, 1917, and from that day until his death recently, Haynes was never off his back. For eight years the oldest surgeons in Melbourne beat their sleepless brains over him on his feet again. Operations became almost a monthly event for him, and he bore all with a stoical cheerfulness that won him the love of his heroes and the praise of science buried in suffering.

Most of Amundsen's Work Done Around North Pole

In two months Roald Amundsen will celebrate his 54th birthday and he can look back on a record of exploration that has carried him to the earth, in which he has devoted 30 years of his life and which has added enormously to our knowledge of the earth's physical geography. Most of his life's work has been done around the North Pole, where 20 years ago he located the Magnetic Pole and found the Northwest Passage. In 1911 he conquered the South Pole, and now he has set out to establish by means of sands of square miles of the unknown Arctic, a task accomplished in three days, which, he believes, will put controversy to rest forever.

Imports More Cream

The United States doubled importations of Canadian cream and fresh milk during May as compared with the previous month. In the past month, according to a report just issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics, 344,000 gallons of cream, worth $500,810, were exported to the United States as against 153,989 gallons valued at $252,810 in April.

The town pump is coming back to motherhood. A Paris scientist is working out a discovery which, if it is a success, promises to revolutionize economic production for the world. According to the professor, it is a mere matter of time and a question of making the necessary calculations in order to catalyze water and build a water driven internal combustion engine, or to catalyze me other body to transform the forces peculiar into energy-driven, productive machinery.

"We shall catalyze water," he says, "and you will have automobiles driven by hydrogen engines. That is a mere matter of time to establish plans. As soon as calculations are made to establish the formula for the plans, France will be freed from foreign bondage for her motive power. Preliminary formulas must be established. They will revolutionize modern kingdom British Work."

DELICATE GIRLS NEED NEW BLOOD

Which Can be Had Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Nature intended every girl to be happy, active and strong, but how many of them find their lives suddenly clouded by sadness, always because their blood is to blame. All over the country physicians, clergymen and interview eyes are in this condition. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new blood in their veins to keep them well and strong. Miss Ella Gagne, who suffer from depressing weariness and periodical headaches, finds them. Before under their eyes, must be pale plates violently after the slightest exertion, and, in fact, are afflicted with fainting spells. These are only a few of the miseries of debilitation. When the blood becomes thin and watery it can no longer nourish the nerves. Use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the blood that comes from them disappears. In almost every neighborhood you will find some one who is telling girl who has a good word to say for this medicine. Among them there is Miss Ella M. Hayes, Hazelwood Lane, N.S., who says:—"For four years I suffered and spent more than all the other medicine I took, and I cannot praise them too highly. When I began the use of these pills I was in a terribly run down condition, very thin and very pale. My appetite was poor, and I had no energy, even feeling all the time. Doctor's medicine did not seem to improve my condition and I was getting greatly discouraged when a friend advised me to try Pink Pills. I got a box and after some urging I decided to do so, before taking all the box I felt like a new person. I gained weight, had a good color, and no longer suffered from the constantly tired feeling that had made me so miserable. Before long I took a few boxes more before I stopped, and by that time I had gained as well in my life. I shall always speak highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and strongly recommend them to those who are run down."

You can get these pills from your druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Thinks Immigration Should Be Restricted

Presidents of Canadian Trades Council Speaks At World Congress

London.—Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, was one of the principal speakers at a session of the world labor migration congress.

He declared Europeans had come to Canada in the past, had worked long hours and had returned to their homes to spend their earnings. For this reason, the Canadian labor unions were opposed to this kind of exploitation.

Mr. Moore urged restriction of the present unregulated influx of immigrants.

Dr. Eve, one of Australia's prominent labor men, declared a great deal of unemployment in Australia was due largely to unrestricted immigration.

Australia, Tom Moore said, is especially fitting, who worked for fifty wages, and retained ideals antipathetic to the best interests of labor.

WESTERN CANADA GOOD FIELD FOR OVERSEAS TRADE

Montreal—Canada, admirably the most difficult field in the British empire for the exporter to British because of stiff competition, is commanding increasing attention among manufacturers across the water, and more firm principals personally are visiting the Dominion preparatory to marketing British goods here, A. E. Pollard, new British trade commissioner for Western Canada, declared here. Mr. Pollard, who for the past five years has been in charge of Canadian affairs in the overseas department of the British Board of Trade, is en-route to Vancouver, where he will establish headquarters. He follows L. B. Beale, who has been transferred to New Zealand.

Will Fight Miners' Leaders

Lord Birkenhead Charges A. J. Cook With Attempt to Blackmail Society

London.—Following closely upon a decision of the Labor party to offer strenuous opposition to the government's new bills which have as their purpose a re-organization of the mining industry, the Earl of Birkenhead, secretary for India, has delivered a verbal broadside against A. J. Cook, secretary of the miners' federation.

Cook was charged by Lord Birkenhead of aiming at the destruction of the coal mining industry and national ruination of the mines.

Lord Birkenhead said he and his colleagues were fully determined that if they were driven to it by "this attempt to blackmail society by men who declare they have a stranglehold on the vital chords of industry," they would once again, sorrowfully but resolutely, gird ourselves for a great struggle. We shall not permit the nation to be destroyed."

Elevators Practically Cleared

Saskatchewan in Good Shape to Handle New Crop

Regina.—Saskatchewan's elevators now contain the greatest number of thousands of bins the fruits of the fourth coming 1926 crop.

This was the astounding statement of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways state that all grains are now practically cleared from the farms and are ready to store up the new crops.

Less than 375,000 bushels of wheat now remain in country elevators. This means that on roads shipped from Port William over the C.P.R., Winnipeg to Fort William over the C.N.R. and Winnipeg to Vancouver over the C.P.R. coast, while westward this reduction decreased until by the time it was to Dunlop it was only 12 per cent. at Saskatoon it was 10 per cent. and at Calgary 14 per cent.

Although the previous record sold Mr. McEwen, was removal of the utmost discrimination. Now this was to be accomplished by the Board of Railway Commissioners, who worked for fifty among the various solutions that might be offered that or removing the discrimination against the Pacific points of the new mills minimum wage act.

Canada and the League

League of Nations Has Now Cost Canada $1,500,000

Ottawa.—After stressing the importance and achievements of the League of Nations, Sir George Foster in the senate declared it was the duty of all governments to put in the hands of members of parliament each year details of the governments activities with the league. He had obtained the senate each year of the league's work, but, said Sir George, the relationship between the government and Dr. Riddell, liason officer at Geneva, should be available to parliament.

Sir Georgia replying said that Canada had spent $1,500,000 on the League of Nations, and while the sum was seven years old, there were more men under arms today than before the Great War. It has been complete to peace, he said.

Missing Evangelist Found

Dauphin, Man. Positive identification of a woman here as Mrs. Almee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, who was reported missing May 18 has been made over the telephone by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, of Los Angeles, in connection with William F. McCafferty, editor of The Dauphin.

Rural Credits Bill

Ottawa.—The government's rural credits bill passed the senate committee on banking and commerce, and now stands for third reading in the upper house.

Compromise On New Flag

South African Government Likely to Accept Suggestion of Labor Party

Capetown, South Africa.—The controversy over the government's proposed new South African flag, the design of which would have included the Union Jack, has assumed a new aspect.

The national council of the Labor party a few days ago passed a resolution that there should be equal official recognition of the Union Jack, once a symbol of the empire and the other a symbol of South Africa nationality.

A deputation from the council has now interviewed Hon. Tielman Roos, minister of justice, and the executive of the nationalist party at Pretoria. The latter have expressed complete satisfaction with the Labor party council's resolution, and moreover have pledged the full support of the Nationalist party to this resolution.

It is by no means a foregone that the Nationalists and Labor parties that the government of Premier Hertzog is in power. The government may accept this compromise.

Locarno Peace Pact

London Is Interested in the Canadian Viewpoint

London.—The debate on the Locarno peace pact in the House of Commons, in connection with Premier Mackenzie King's motion that these promises of support were not to be considered as binding, aroused much interest here.

The Express declares that a useful purpose would be served if all the parliaments of the empire, including the British House of Commons, followed suit, and thus made clear the facts of obligations involved.

Prince Celebrates Birthday

Heir Apparent Receives Messages of Congratulation From All Parts of the World

London.—June 23 was the Prince of Wales' thirty-second birthday and flags were flown from all the public and private buildings. Many displays were made in honor. The bathing displays were particularly brilliant in the west end of London. A fine day for the event was considered with messages of congratulation from all parts of the world. He has received with the other members of the royal family at Buckingham Palace and a private dinner party in honor of the heir apparent.

Elevators Practically Cleared

Saskatchewan in Good Shape to Handle New Crop

Regina.—Saskatchewan's elevators now contain the greatest number of thousands of bins the fruits of the fourth coming 1926 crop.

This was the astounding statement of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways state that all grains are now practically cleared from the farms and are ready to store up the new crops.

Less than 375,000 bushels of wheat now remain in country elevators. This means that on roads shipped from Port William over the C.P.R., Winnipeg to Fort William over the C.N.R. and Winnipeg to Vancouver over the C.P.R. coast, while westward this reduction decreased until by the time it was to Dunlop it was only 12 per cent. at Saskatoon it was 10 per cent. and at Calgary 14 per cent.

British Rotarians for Denver Convention

Above is a party of British Rotarians on their way to the International Rotary convention at Denver, June 13 to 16. Left to right, standing: Mrs. Ernest C. White, President of the Rotarians, Belfast; J. E. Appleyard, Leeds; C. Whitesheet, Plymouth; J. E. Webb, Truro; L. F. Klug, Bournemouth. Ladies are: Mrs. C. White, Mrs. Appleyard, Mrs. Webb, Mrs. Cundill, Mrs. Kingston. Back row: J. Smith, Liverpool; W. Cundy, Dublin; C. Kingston, Dublin; J. Riddell, Doncaster; Howard Wilkins, Bermuda; G. Charlesworth, Bermuda; W. Webber, Plymouth, seated at back or going to George Wood ward, Chief Officer of the Canadian Pacific Fleet Steamships.

On their return from the convention, this party will travel through Canada via Canadian Pacific lines, stopping at Winnipeg, Toronto and other cities.

LLOYD GEORGE IS NOT LOOKING FOR LEADERSHIP

London.—Speaking on the "future of Liberalism" at a luncheon of the National Liberal Club, former Premier Lloyd George, Liberal parliamentary leader, kept his audience in roars of laughter by humorous sallies and sly digs at his political opponents.

Lloyd George declared he was not for leadership, but for service, and added: "At the same time, I do not want to ruffle anybody's feathers, but I want to say quite firmly that I am not going to allow myself to be defeated by the Liberal party."

Alluding to Winston Churchill's recent utterance that Lloyd George's attitude in the general strike was similar to the beginning of Lloyd George's downward course, the former premier remarked that as far as he could see the downward course began when he dropped Mr. Churchill's "mad schemes in Russia," and said concisely: "Since then I have touched the depths by allying with archbishops and such like in support of the miners' cause, was a good thing to settle the general strike."

Winston Churchill redistilled later in the evening by rebutting Mr. Lloyd George's allegations of "mad adventures in Russia," and said concisely: "Of Kolchak and Denikin—by stating that those promises of support were not to be considered as binding, aroused much interest here.

The Express declares that a useful purpose would be served if all the parliaments of the empire, including the British House of Commons, followed suit, and thus made clear the facts of obligations involved.

RAILWAY RATE CASE IS ARGUED BEFORE BOARD

Regina, Sask.—Representations for the removal of the discrimination against the freight rates favoring Winnipeg over other prairie distributing points was made to the Board of Railway Commissioners by W. H. McEwen, appearing for the province of Saskatchewan on behalf of the agricultural interests. He congratulated the municipalities of the province on having a clearing house for opinions and discussions and ventured the opinion that the board organization and others engaging in municipal work were part of the foundations upon which the province has been stately and wisely built.

Bill Granting Charter to Private Company Fails to Pass Committee

Ottawa.—For a third time the bill to incorporate the Red Lake and North Western Railway Co. has been "talked out" in the house.

Twice a week the first hour after dinner sessions are devoted to private bills by routine. At nine o'clock, the house resumes the order of the day and continues until 11 o'clock. The fifth which would give a charter to a private company to build a road into that industrial area, has failed to pass each night since Friday.

B.C. Lumbermen's Wage

Vancouver.—Effective November 1 all men engaged in the lumber industry of British Columbia, with the exception of those employed in the manufacture of shingles, will receive a minimum wage of $4 per day of eight hours. This announcement was made by the Shingle Manufacturers' Association of British Columbia.

Western Financing Methods

Municipalities of Western Canada Are Showing the Way to Those of East

Vancouver.—Municipalities of Western Canada are showing the way to those of Eastern Canada in the handling of their finances," declared A. E. Pell, one of Canada's leading authorities on public finance, on his arrival in Vancouver as a member of the Investment Bankers' Association party, which recently held its annual meeting at Jasper Park.

"The British Columbia municipalities in particular," he said, "the municipalities have been reducing their debt in actual amount, and the same is true of the Saskatchewan. In Eastern Canada, especially Ontario, the reverse tendency is true.

"The provincial governments of the western provinces have also been showing a healthier tendency in the handling of their finances."

About two months of the assembly days are spending at sea and in Vancouver before the eastern members return home. A few of their number, including Premier Mackenzie King, motored to Alaska from Prince Rupert.

To Settle Vacant Lands

Hudson's Bay Company Will Formulate Immigration Policy

Victoria, B.C.—The Hudson's Bay Company, which owns vacant lands throughout Western Canada, is gathering material on which to formulate an immigration and colonization policy, it became known here, with the arrival of J. McWhirter, of the company's London, England, office, who is en route to Lower Brockton to each a glimpse of the policy there.

Mr. McWhirter explained that the vast possibilities of bringing out settlers from the crowded parts of the British Isles and settling them on the vacant lands of Canada were under consideration. He said his present trip was for the purpose of gathering information.

GREATER STRENGTH

Rugged Frame with Five Cross Members

Strength and stamina are important factors in determining the value of a car. Long life, economy, freedom from costly and inconvenient repairs depend upon them.

Every part of the NEW STAR Car possesses an abundance of strength to meet the greatest stress and strain to which it might be subjected. For example—when other cars at or near NEW STAR prices employ THREE cross members in the chassis, the NEW STAR Car has FIVE.

If you are looking for lasting automobile satisfaction, see the NEW STAR Cars—Fours and Sixes.

The NEW STAR is "Supreme in the low cost field."

LOCAL NEWS

School has closed for the mid summer holidays.

It was a beauty, partaking in the nature of a deluge while it lasted—this in reference to the big rain of Monday night which fell pretty generally over the country for well over an hour. As a result the crops, which were making rapid growth under the warm weather, are now literally grasping.

Owing to the regulations by the Board of Health, the circus advertised to appear here on July 6th will not show. They will be in Lloydminster on that date instead.

Miss Ard, O.B.E., was a week-end guest at the home of Mrs. Warling. She is on way to the Coast, spending in the Canadian cities on the way. Her brother will be remembered by many old-timers of this district and it was to Mr. Ard that the Anglican Church owed its financial aid when first building.

Harold White and Gordon Murray, Grade XII students of Victoria High School, Edmonton, are home, having completed writing on the exams Tuesday.

Fire broke out at the Holy Name Church basement at 10 o'clock, doing damage to the extent of about $10.00. If it had not been discovered when it was, the whole edifice would have been lost. The fire brigade responded promptly. The fire is presumed to have been caused by charcoal used to burn incense.

On Sunday last the brethren of the Masonic Lodge attended St. Saviour's Church. Rev. J. F. Stevens took the service and preached on the building as a right fit and service in His. The attendance was good.

F. C. Long motored to Edmonton, Tuesday.

Mr. & Mrs. A. M. West and daughter Claire, left Tuesday by auto for Banff where they will spend part of a two weeks' holiday.

The L. O. B. A. will not meet during the months of July and August, the next regular meeting being in September.

Mrs. W. B. Elford, who has been spending the past several months at her old home in England, returned to town last week.

Ashley H. C. Cooper, who has been teaching the Calumet school near Pusoka for the past year, is home for his holidays.

Two youths, hiking from Saskatoon to Banff on a vacation, reached Vermilion on Monday, continuing their journey the next morning.

Punters are out for the annual picnic of the Cheyenne Community Club to be held next Wednesday, July 7th and from the programme of sports and other attractions advertised, it promises to be the biggest event yet held at that centre. In addition to the foot races there is basketball, baseball, trap shooting competitions, tug of war, pillow fight, horse shoe tournament, etc.—in fact, something to make it enjoyable and interesting for everyone. Sandwiches and other refreshments will be sold on the grounds for those not bringing lunch-kets. Events stay at 2 o'clock and the admission to grounds is 25c. The day closes with a dance in the school house at night. The picnic grounds are in Steele's pasture, one mile directly north of the Cheyenne school.

O. Burns, local contractor, is erecting a five-roomed bungalow on Pine St. north, east of the Anglican church for S. R. P. Cooper. It is a single storey frame on concrete foundation, 22x32. It is Mr. Cooper's intention to occupy these premises temporarily until such time as he can rebuild a family home on the old site recently burned.

A. Rock, barrister, who formerly practised law here with A. W. Elbelt, K. C., is in town and expects to remain for a couple of weeks.

A. Dufour and family who pioneered in the Angle Lake district and farmed there up to some three and a half years ago when he leased his half and went to the state of Washington, reached Vermilion Saturday by car and will again go on to his farm.

VERMILION TENNIS CLUB

Enthusiastic membership and good comradeship has certainly prevailed in tennis circles this season and previous members state that this has been one of the best seasons in the history of the club with indications pointing to a continuance of same.

The stimulant this year has undoubtedly been the inter-club tournaments, of which so far there have been five, and each one has been well supported as well as enjoyed by all those who took part.

This year's semi-annual five-fold tournament which commenced June 16th, was finally completed on Friday last, June 25th, and at the conclusion of the final games the members met at Wrigley's Parlor for a social evening and for presentation of prizes. The gathering was honored by the presence of Mayor Fallow and Mrs. Fallow, the former being the honorary president of the Club. Prizes were presented by Mrs. Fallow to the winners, and a short address was given by the Mayor, and the thanks of the Club extended to them both in the customary manner.

It might not be amiss to enumerate the games played by the winners in each competition, and at the same time state that it was regretted that quite a few of our members (high school students) could not take part owing to various calls on their time.

A Stupendous Production

Edmonton Exhibition Opens Monday

The Edmonton Exhibition this year will have much of interest for all those who have been in Alberta for a number of years and also for anyone who is interested in the progress of Alberta during the past hundred years.

The Historical Pageant, commemorating the coming-of-age of the city and province, will be a truly artistic and educational treat. Participated in by a cast of 600 performers, trained in the historical scenes and dances by experts, and assisted by a chorus of one voices, it will be a spectacle of great beauty. Never before has such a stupendous production been attempted by local talent and those who miss it will undoubtedly regret it.

Another real attraction this year is the famous Band of His Majesty's Coldstream Guards, the most wonderful musical organization in the British Empire. The Band will play each day at the Edmonton Fair and if you hear nothing else you will be amply repaid for your visit.

The Aeroplane has made the usual arrangements for camping grounds for any and every motor parties. These grounds are fully equipped for campers, purposes and are free to motor visitors.

Arrangements have also been made with the railways for excursion rates from all points in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

TWO MEN KILLED BY LIGHTNING

MUNDARE, July 7—Andrew Oranchuk and Frank Turchin were killed instantly last night by lightning. The crash occurred about 9 o'clock.

Orabchuk was lying down upstairs in his home, 7 miles north-west of here, while Turchin was sitting at the window below. The bolt entered through a window and struck both men and simultaneously set fire to the house.

Mrs. Oranchuk, who was not injured, ran to a neighbor's and secured help to extinguish the fire.

Turchin was a recent immigrant from Russia, where his wife still resides. There are no children.

MELBERTA MINUTES

Council of M. D. of Melberta, No. 183 held their regular meeting in the municipal office, Monaville, July 5th. All the members present, with Reeve Steele in the chair.

A communication was read, asking that the surveyed road running east and west through section 17-51-7 W4 be opened. As this road has never been opened, the answers of the several quarters were given 20 days to remove their fences off the roadway.

A resolution to give a grant to the Manaville School Fair was defeated.

It was decided by resolution, that on the complaint of any ratepayer, of an undue animal running at large, the councillor must have the cold animal impounded.

Arrangements have also been made with the railways for excursion rates from all points in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The secretary was instructed to return the $20.00 fee to the Alberta Association re Municipal Districts.

Reserve bids were placed on the unpatented lands to be sold on July 12th. Four or five parcels of land that the district have adequate title to will also be offered for sale.

The owner of the N.W. 25-52-7- W4 was given 30 days in which to make his application for cancellation of the road allowance on the west side.

The secretary was given three weeks holidays, to commence the middle of July. The regular meeting for August was set for the 9th. In the meantime anyone wishing to invest in the municipal bait should get in touch with the secretary before he leaves.

The following resolution was passed re the secretary participated to go west to the Minister of Public Works:

"Owing to the colonization activities of the Big Bold Alberta Land & Cattle Co. and the Club Imbold colony settling and feneing all the land in township 52-7-4, we find it impossible to get the new settlers a road without the amount or municipal funds available for public works. Therefore we hereby ask the Minister of Public Works for an additional grant of $1000 to be expended in the said township."

Council adjourned as a Court of Revision to consider appeals against the 1926 Land tax. As a court many appeals were held over till the next meeting pending the outcome of further information, a report will be presented at the next council meeting.

Marking Exam Papers

Reading and marking of the departmental examination papers written in the recent school tests throughout the province to be held under way at Edmonton, beginning Tuesday, July 6th, when a school for senior high school graduates. Papers in grades 9 and 8 will be examined in the Macky Auditorium, beginning Thursday. All the papers for the province will be read in these two schools, totalling up 100,000 or more than 10,000 candidates.

H. L. Pallin, inspector of schools in the Vermilion district, is in charge of the work at the Macdonald school with a staff of 110 examiners and assistants. At the Victoria High School Dr. Buchanan, inspector of Calgary, will be the chairman and he will have 150 examiners and assistants. The work will require about 12 days to complete reading and marking, after which the results will be tabulated and ready for announcement as usual about the end of the first week in August.

Provincial Inspector Buchanan has charge of the department, or education, for all matters of discipline, and is responsible for the safekeeping of the papers. The chairmen at both examining centres will be on duty continuously for the purpose of supervising the work and checking up on the results, and keeping the methods as nearly as possible uniform.

To Make Film At Jasper

Jasper, the world's largest national park, is to provide the setting for one of the great romantic picture epics of the year, "The Country Beyond," an adaptation of the story of that name by James Oliver Curwood, which is being produced by the Fox Film Corporation under the personal direction of Mr. Irving Cummings. The cast, which is a notable one, includes such stars as Olive Borden, J. Farrell MacDonald, Ralph Graves, Fred Kohler, and Lawford Davidson, as well as a number of others of undoubtedly ability.

Two sections of the park have been chosen by Mr. Cummings as the scenic background for the story. Last week the company started work beside the jade waters of the Lake of Fourteenthen which lies in the shadow of Mount Edith Cavell. There and about Jasper Park Lodge, on the shores of Lac Beauvert, the preliminary work is being carried on. Later the entire company will move to point Mary Hollings lake, where the remainder of the picture will be filmed. The work of production will occupy about six weeks and will call for an expenditure of almost a quarter of a million dollars.

Jasper Park Lodge will be the scene of the romance between Olive Borden and Lawford Davidson, as well as a number of spectacular stunts.

BUILDING ACTIVITY

Building through Western Canada is particularly active this week. Permits issued this year in Winnipeg up to the end of June totalled approximately eight million dollars as compared with $2,841,200 for the first six months of last year.

OKANAGAN LAKE SERVICE

Announcement is made in the time table for the Canadian National Railways steamboat service between Kelowna and Penticton on the Okanagan Lake, that two trips each day will make two trips each day, except Sunday, when only one trip will be made. The new service, which was put into operation early in the summer, some months ago on the new Canadian National line between Kamloops and Kelowna, and gives a complete service from Penticton connecting with the Okanagan Limited east and west from Kamloops.

Holiday In Canada

Taking a holiday is "good business," provided the holiday is spent in a safe, sensible manner and largely out of doors. Such a holiday is likewise a form of Good Health Insurance. Money spent in a vacation in the open will prove a good investment, as a result bringing dividends in renewed vigor, increased energy to put into one's life work, and re-awakened enthusiasm and interest in life and all its manifold activities.

To be truly healthful people should spend the summer months in the open. Fresh air and sunshine are the best doctors in the world. They are doctors of preventive medicine and make no charge for their services while are free to all mankind, rich and poor alike. Summer holidays, to be most beneficial, should not be spent in visiting crowded cities, but in the woods, beside lakes, rivers and the sea, among the mountains—in a word, close to Nature's heart.

And no country in the world surpasses Canada as the ideal land for a summer vacation. People who can afford to do so, may flock to tropical countries during severe winter weather, in order to enjoy winter sports such as are provided in Switzerland and Eastern Canada, but for a most enjoyable and healthful invigorating summer holiday, no country surpasses and few can equal our own Dominion.

In the variety and beauty of its offerings, Nature was most prodigal in its treatment of Canada. Nor did she confine her gifts to any one Province or section of the Dominion, but with impartial hand distributed luxuries on all alike. There is some-thing to appeal to every taste and inclination of the human race.

Furthermore, probably in no other country can a vacation be enjoyed at true expense than in Canada. A visit to Canada a person needs a complete change of scene and an entirely different environment to that in which ten or eleven weekly months are spent. In many of the older and thickly populated lands this is difficult to obtain without long distances and at a cost far beyond the means of the average person. But in Canada such a change is possible in a few hours journey with its great wealth of rivers, lakes, mountains, woods and seashores. Canada is indeed a land of romance, a sportsman's paradise, with abounding natural beauty to inspire the poet, the artist, the lover of the wild. And these things are available to Canadians within the bounds of their respective Provinces.

But the dweller on the prairies of the West can at small expense obtain the greatest of all changes in his environment by spending his or her holiday in the Rockies, or journey a little further and bask among the beauties of Nature along the Pacific coast, or proceed eastward to the Great Lakes. People of Ontario and Quebec might well visit advantage to themselves, and in real service to a more united and understanding Canada, take a holiday among the people of the other Provinces while the holidaying citizens of these two Provinces and the Maritimes could with pleasure and profit interchange visits.

If Canada indeed is providing scenes of Nature's beauty, or if these spots were few and far between and therefore difficult and expensive of access, then would be some excuse for Canadians not holidaying at home and leaving large stores of their great Dominion unseen. But, as already noted, this country takes second place to none as a place in which to enjoy Nature at its best, and in which to recuperate in mind and body, forget one's business worries and recommodities, and restore worn out nerves to their normal tone.

Canadians, of course, must not be narrow, provincial people. They should know the world, and to know other countries and peoples it is necessary to travel. But fortunately and more than half of the advantages to be derived from foreign travel is found in first having the fullest possible knowledge of one's own country. "See Canada First" is therefore, not only a telling slogan but good advice to all Canadians.

And while not disparaging the beauties and exhilaration of Canada's winter, by it hands the loss true that the summer vacation months offer the best time in which to visit all parts of our Dominion and learn of its beauties, its resources, its grandeur, its transcendant possibilities.

WEAK AND NERVOUS

A Condition Due to Watery Blood — Easily Corrected Through the Use of Dr. William's Pink Pills.

Thin, pale girls lack the power or energy to enjoy life. They feel tired all day long. Nervous breakdown is threatened. They have no appetite, indigestion, headaches, heartaches and many other troubles, all arising from thin, impure blood need just the help that Williams' Pink Pills can give. For many years Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a world-famous remedy for just such troubles as these, actually make new, rich, red blood which strengthens the nerves and lifts all the organs of the body. That is why such people show by an improved appetite; then the spirits revive and brightness at once gives way to health restoring sleep. For sufferers from nervousness, indigestion, weak stomach or physical exhaustion Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a restorative of the utmost value. This is proved by the experience of Miss Sarah Bigelow, Lower Lake, No. 2, Erie, N.S., who says:—"About three years ago I was badly run down, and very nervous. I had pains in my side and back. I had frequent headaches in the back of my head and neck, and was very weak generally. I had attacks of nervous irritability, and at times I felt as though my heart would hardly work it-ing. While in this condition I was strongly advised by one to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began taking them, and soon after them for about two months with the result that there was much an improvement in my health. Friends would ask me what I was taking, and I was only too glad to tell them it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am sure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are good every time I am asked to recommend them." You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hindus Worship Midnight Sun

Pilgrimage Will Be Made To Norway Every Year

In the pale mystic rays of the midnight sun at North Cape, Norway, which juts out into the Arctic Ocean as the northernmost point of Europe, a small party of high caste orthodox Hindus recently worshipped their deity through the symbol of the evershining orb, which, to the Hindu believers, represents the physical glory of their deity, the spiritual sun.

The party of worshippers consisted of Rai Golpalsai, son of the Hon. Rai Ramnaran Das of Lahore, British India, and Pandit Nagnalth Chatterji, a high caste Brahmin, former director of Oriental research at Kashmir and now head of the ecclesiastical administration of the Gaekwar of Baroda.

It is the intention of the Hindus to organize a similar pilgrimage to North Cape each year.

Find Magnificent Temple In East

Discovery in Indo-China Made By French School of Excavation

A magnificent temple, dating back to the eighth century, has recently been discovered by the French School of Excavation, in the Far East, now working in Indo-China. The temple is described as the finest example of the art of that period yet seen, and the latest find gives a fellow considerable light upon history.

Experts of the school have just reported to the Institute in France that the temple is near Angkor Thom, and that other buildings of the same age probably will be uncovered in the vast forests north of the present excavations. These forests will be explored this year.

Another remarkable discovery was reported to the institute from the interior of Indo-China, where several Chinese tombs were unearthed, but not a single bone found. Bodies always decay at home and cremated were discovered.

Comparison By Total Tonnage

Only Way to Judge Naval Armaments

Paris, May 10.—France has proposed to the disarmament experts meeting at Geneva that the only way of comparing the naval armaments of the various countries is by total naval tonnage.

This rather bears out the report of the effect adoption of the French theory would have on the Washington naval agreement.

The significance of the French-Italian initiative is that both countries feel they must maintain their submarine and cruiser forces which they deem more important to their nations than the battleships and aircraft the United States and British delegates are hoping that the global tonnage conception will be the basis of the Washington accord. They believe that the ratio of capital ships established at Washington could remain inviolate as such a tonnage programme.

American Farmers Co-operative

Four States Form Latest Pool to Market Wheat

Thousands of farmers in Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Colorado will market their 1926 crop co-operatively this fall and winter.

Farmers' elevators in these states have combined their membership and resources into the Southwest Co-operative Wheat Growers' Association, which will act as the selling agency. The organization has taken over the grain elevators of the Farmers' Union, which includes a 400,000-bushel terminal elevator in Leavenworth and facilities of 1,000,000 bushels at Kansas City.

It is planned to obtain control of 100,000,000 bushels in the several states and slowly fund it into the market.

Man Repaired Flag Poles in South Africa Preceding Visit of Prince

Hubert Kirkland, a South African, found his profession of steeplejack at a discount when the Prince of Wales decided to visit South Africa in 1924.

Kirkland seized the idea of touring the provinces ornamental to the Prince's itinerary, repairing flagstaffs, adjusting pulleys, threading new ropes and mending bunting. He kept a good three months ahead of the Prince, returned to Durban with a small fortune and determined to make holiday.

He has now arrived in London from America after holidaying prodigiously and indolently in Australia and New Zealand, the Pacific Islands, Indie, the Straits Settlements and Canada. Kirkland would only smile shrewdly when asked what his flagpole work netted him.

Was Decorated For Gallantry

A Story of the War With An Amusing Element

In the debate in the British Commons on the abolition of the death penalty for army deserters in war time, Mr. E. Marjoribanks told the following experience of a friend of his during the Great War:

"While on outpost duty this friend was the sergeant in command of a party of four men who were cut off without food or ammunition. They eventually decided to try to find their way into the German lines.

"On the way they came face to face with a German NCO. and six men. Both parties held up their hands simultaneously. The German N.C.O. was able to speak English and they discussed whether it would be safer for the Germans to take them to the British and for both to try to reach the British lines or vice-versa.

"As the British artillery barrage was the more severe, they eventually decided to try to reach the British lines. They were successful, and Mr. Marjoribanks friend concluded by announcing that his friend was eventually decorated for his gallantry in reaching the British lines with a German N.C.O. and six men."

THE DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT IS ANNOUNCED

Ottawa.—Parliament has been dissolved and there will therefore be no further sittings of the House of Commons.

It is expected that following dissolution of parliament, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen will now proceed with the constitution of his cabinet.

J. D. Chaplin, of Lincoln, and E. B. Ryckman, from Toronto, are mentioned as cabinet possibilities. Hon. Dr. Tolmie and Hon. Robert Rogers are also understood to be cabinet probabilities.

The dissolution of parliament caught members by surprise. Though there had been rumors that dissolution was imminent, it was not expected that the end would come before remaining business of the house had been disposed of. As it is, dissolution comes with legislation still waiting on the order paper. Among such legislation is the bill to further amend the Grain Act. This was amended in the senate but amendments failed to have the approval of the house.

Grain Act Amendment

Bill Is Discussed At Length in the Senate

Ottawa.—The bill to amend the Canada Grain Act, introduced in the Campbell Bill, continues along its tortuous way. This bill would give the wheat pool farmers the right to ship their grain through privately owned country elevators.

During debate two amendments were proposed. One would provide that the bill will come into force on proclamation by the governor in council, and remain in force for a period not exceeding one year from the date of proclamation.

A second amendment which was proposed states:

"Any such pool shall be empowered and is hereby empowered to purchases from any elevator company one or more elevators for the use of the shipping point at which such pool has no elevator, and in case there are more elevators than one at such shipping point, and the owners of such elevators and such pools are unable to agree as to which pool shall purchase the said pool shall purchase, then and in that event, the board shall decide which elevator shall be purchased by such pool; and in case the owners, or owners, of such elevators so decided upon refuse or neglect to agree as to price and terms for such elevator or elevators, then the price and terms shall be determined by arbitration under the provisions of any act relating to arbitration in force in the province in which such elevator or elevators is situated."

The Labor member was deeply moved by a remark which he thought reflected on the courage of his men folk.

Predicts Industrial Activity For Canada

C.N.R. President Advises People To Stay in Dominion

Montreal.—The United States sent a great railway man to Canada in the early days of Lord Shaughnessy who was one of the greatest empire builders, he has done more as much as he did for Canada. If I can make a slight approach to his work I shall not have lived in vain."

So declared Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, speaking at a banquet of the American Railway Association here.

Sir Henry made mention of the harmonious relations in Montreal of two great races, and also to the lure that the United States has had for many Canadians, drawn thither by commercial advantages. He warned prospective emigrants, however, that there will be no advantage if they are not at home and content to look ahead to the future in which looms the star of empire in the city. "We are going to happen in Canada in the next ten years," he stated emphatically, "for Canada is the battlefield of great industrial activity."

Austria Confident Of Financial Prosperity

Country Has Had Hard Struggle Since Armistice

Vienna.—War in the Balkans will be the last thing Austria would want to see. We want nothing but to be left in peace. We have no reasonable ambitions, for we recover and live," declared Chancellor Ramek in addressing the Austrian Parliament.

One of the greatest Vienna bankers is speaking. He is a cultured, prosperous aristocrat of the old days of the dual monarchy. The bank of Vienna has competed with London, Berlin, Paris, Frankfort and Munich.

Austria has struggled hard and far since the armistice," he said. "We have had repeated setbacks and disappointments, but we recover and live. In fact, if not indeed in any case what is called prosperity, we have had a tendency to dissolution while a motion of economy against that government is under discussion in the house," he proceeded. "A dissolution very manifestly should not be granted when its effect is to evoke a spirit of economy. This was precisely the case in the present instance."

The test of the statement follows: "While it is highly undesirable that a controversy should arise with regard to the conduct of the governor-general in respect to a matter upon which he may constitutionally be called upon a decision according to his best judgment, yet the attacks prosecuted by the opposition upon the conduct of the prime minister ought not to pass unnoticed. A reasonable consideration of the fact that his experience, by virtue of his office can himself make no defence, warrants surely a word on his behalf.

"There are several classes of cases in which the crown must exercise discretion in regard to the acts and advice of a prime minister asking for an appeal to the people. The only one of the whole situation need be directed at the moment is that in which a prime minister, having asked for and obtained dissolution, has failed to secure a majority. It is indisputable that in such a case a prime minister continuing in office is not entitled, during the ordinary course of parliament, to demand a second dissolution early on the ground that he is unable to command a majority in the house of commons. This rule is applicable to all parts of a new parliament."

Would Colonize Russia

American Jews Give Ukraine Preference Over Palestine

Riga, Latvia.—A large majority of American Jews are in favor of the American Government recognizing Soviet Russia, according to Dr. Joseph Rosen, director of the American Joint Distribution Committee, which has colonized 100,000 Jews in Russia. Dr. Rosen is colonize Jews on farm land in the Ukraine.

In an interview published in the Leningrad Krasnya Gazette, Dr. Rosen says only a few Jewish social and political leaders favor the Zionist movement and a few of the Jewish labor unions oppose recognition.

Dr. Rosen, in Europe, continues Dr. Rosen, has decided it is better to assist the Russian Jews for the present in the Ukraine, according to Dr. Rosen, instead of helping Palestine for the present. Of the 2,000,000 Jews in Russia, he declares more than 1,000,000 are unable to earn a living, on the colonization plan was started. Dr. Rosen is in charge of the project by a meeting of the American Jews in New York.

Is Again Premier

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, who has been called upon to form a new Government at Ottawa.

MEIGHEN DEFENDS THE ACTION OF GOV. GENERAL

Ottawa.—Declaring that "the attack complained of, the late prime minister ought not to pass unnoticed," Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, prime minister, declared early this morning a statement defending the action of His Excellency the Governor-General in refusing dissolution to Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, now opposition leader.

Mr. Meighen states that when a prime minister has asked and obtained dissolution, but failing to obtain a majority, continues in office, he is not entitled to demand a second dissolution merely because he is unable to command a majority in the House of Commons. "Here explained to the provinces. We only want to live and be taxed."

Lost Last Fall in Wheat Separator Near Findlater

Regina.—Some time last September on Ed. Dillabough's farm out from Findlater, J. M. Robb, the Cane Co. representative, lost a ring while cleaning the wheat in the separator.

The other day E. J. Topping reeved the ring from Mr. J. M. Pat person Grain Co., Winnipeg.

"Dear Sir—We are today in receipt of a ring found in a wheat pool car which has come from one Mr. Devereux of Findlater, treasurer of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, Limited.

Donald Macmillan, who has been billed as one of the leaders of the Pool and the Pool Elevators Ltd., is appointed to the position of manager of the re-organized pools of Saskatchewan. Mr. Macmillan, treasurer of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company has been appointed general manager of the corporation to J. B. Reed who takes over the duties of the office of secretary of the Pool Elevators Ltd.

FARMERS' PARTY OF ALBERTA TO REMAIN IN POWER

Calgary.—Premier J. E. Brownlee has been returned to power at the head of the United Farmers of Alberta. He will have an unillusioned majority in the legislature. Liberals will probably retain their numerical strength. The Conservative party made a gain of three seats. The Labor members and possibly a third, pledged to support the government, were elected.

Additional returns came slowly to day and tonight due to the arduous task of counting the preferences under the proportional representation system. In quite a few cases several days will elapse before elections can be definitely declared.

Labor suffered because of the Conservative vote in Calgary, returning but one member instead of two from the city in the last election. Hon. Alex. Ross, minister of public works, Labor candidate, is defeated and the Labor vote generally was small.

Constituencies represented by U.F.A. members in the legislature returned their representatives as a general rule. In Beaver River and Edmonton the U.F.A. elected members in the two new seats, Empress and Cypress, added since the 1921 provincial election. Farmer candidates were returned.

Rural Credits Bill

Has Passed Senate With a Few Amendments

Ottawa.—Rural credits passed the senate with amendment. The measure which recently passed the commons, sponsored by the Mackenzie King Government, now goes back to the commons for the concurrence of that chamber in the amendments which the upper chamber has made in it.

The two principal changes made were the removal of the limitation of one per cent. for expenses and leaving the amount in the judgment of the board, and placing responsibility for all expenses incurred in a province on the province in which they were incurred.

Senator W. B. Ross, Conservative leader, had moved at an earlier stage that the act should not come into force until the majority of the provincial legislatures had by legislative enactment signified their concurrence in section or participating in the scheme."

He said the bill was not needed, as the provinces which had already rural credits were making profits.

Senator Schaffner said that to make it compulsory to have five provinces in the scheme before it became operative was a good way to kill it.

Senators Dandurand and Willoughby opposed the amendment. The bill was then sent back to the house of commons by the senate, Empress and Cypress, added since the 1921 provincial election. farmer candidates were returned.

Weather Prediction Not Fulfilled

"Summerists" Forecasters All Wrong Says Sir Frederick Stupart, F.R.S.

Toronto.—Predictions that 1926 would be a "summerless year" have so far not been fulfilled. This prediction was made by H. J. Browne, eminent meteorologist, of Washington, late last April was unusually cold, but May was somewhat above the average temperature. June is a little colder than the average, but not unduly so. This information was given by Sir Frederick Stupart, director of the Dominion observatory here, and weather forecaster for the Dominion.

Sir Frederick was not worried about the report that this would be a "no summer year." "I put little faith in weather prophecies for long periods ahead," he said. "I have not the knowledge to determine such events in the future.

FOR CLEAN-UP OF CUSTOMS FROM COAST TO COAST

Ottawa.—"The farmers party stands for a complete clean-up of the customs from coast to coast," said Miss Agnes McPhail to the House of Commons after the Progressive party caucus. "The present inquiry has been confined to only two ports and has not scratched the surface. It must be extended from coast to coast and be thoroughgoing. There are many prospective or where the chips fall. There should be a judicial inquiry, and the Progressive party will press for the house that to to say, one judge should be nominated by the Liberals, one by the Conservatives and one by the Independent groups. This commission should proceed to work immediately after the session and divide into three categories: Defence of British rule, the Mother Country, and hours or days spent in the house of commons, and defence of the dominions and colonies.

"There are two questions are considered the most pressing and the cheese which are to be put forward by British delegates to the imperial conference, and closer relations with France, and second, control of the Mediterranean, which is the optimal coast of Canada's communications.

Planned To Shoot Musicians

Rome.—The Zambuni, former Socialist deputy, has confessed that he planned to shoot Fr. Giacomo Matteotti in revenge for a report of the minority general's investigation of the coup, made public here. Zambuni was arrested October 4 last, armed with a rifle, in an hotel room overlooking the balcony of the Chief Fascist leader when the president was to deliver an address.

"Gate Seven Years

Winnipeg.—Joseph K. Hearst, former president of the Hearst Music Publishing Company, was sentenced to seven years imprisonment in Stony Mountain penitentiary. He was found guilty of eight charges involving fraud and making use of forged documents and false pretenses.

GOVERNMENT IS DEFEATED BY ONE VOTE ON MOTION

Ottawa.—After only three days of debate, the Meighen Government was defeated in the house by one vote, on a formal motion challenging the right of the acting ministers of the Meighen Government to sit in the house, moved by Hon. J. A. Robb.

Progressives who had voted with the Meighen Government in previous divisions sent it to defeat. Attendance was large, members completely alive, the government being in the negative.

There were 12 Progressives in the house for the division. Fourteen voted with the Liberals and three with the government.

The 11 who voted with the Liberals were: Miss MacPhail, Messrs. Coote, Forke, Garland (Bow River), Good (North Huron), Jelliff, Lucas, Reid, Spencer, Gardiner, Hamilton, Steedsman, Miller, Perley.

The three Progressives who voted with the government were Messrs. Lovie, Ladner and Forster.

Four Progressives who in the first division voted with the government, in the second division, the following day, thus brought about the defeat of the government. The four were Messrs. Clark, Crerar, Spencer and Gardiner.

This is the first occasion since Confederation that a government has been actually defeated on the floor on a motion involving non confidence. On three occasions, however, before resigning, the King Government would not sell on the issue of the house divisions.

Great Damage Is Caused By Earthquake

Most of Countries Bordering On Eastern Mediterranean Effected

London.—A severe earthquake which embraced half and most of the countries bordering on the Eastern Mediterranean, has caused great damage, reports from reports indicate. It extended as far as the Ionic Islands, Athens, Constantinople, Asia Minor and Smyrna and Central Russian.

There is no report so far as to the number of casualties, but it is feared there are many to have been in the centre of the disturbances, nobody was killed and only a few were injured.

Advices received from Rome indicate that the Island of Rhodes, which is off the coast of Asia Minor, suffered severely from the shocks, numerous villages being partially wrecked and many persons injured, but even there no loss of life or injury to the inhabitants seems to have been the case.

Latest advices from Crete continue that the shocks in the mechanical instruments in Candia was extremely serious, among the many antiquities destroyed being the famous statue representing a bull fight at the Minoan Court.

Britain Preparing For Imperial Conference

Defence Is First Problem For Imperial Meet In October

London.—The British cabinet and committee of imperial defence met here today in preparation for the coming imperial conference in October, at which the most important problem for discussion by the empire premiers is as to imperial defence. According to the plan outlined today the discussion will be divided into three categories: Defence of British rule, the Mother Country, and hours or days spent in the house of commons, and defence of the dominions and colonies.

"There are two questions are considered the most pressing and the cheese which are to be put forward by British delegates to the imperial conference, and closer relations with France, and second, control of the Mediterranean, which is the optimal coast of Canada's communications.

Purchases Exceed Sales

Russia Buys More From Great Britain Than She Sells

The council of the Russo-British Chamber of Commerce has published figures tending to show a steady increase in trade between Great Britain and Russia.

The growth is given as from £15,000,000 in 1917 to £45,000,000 in 1925. The report says Russian purchases from Great Britain slightly exceeded Russian sales by the British merchant. The latter consists almost entirely of foodstuff, and raw material, while the Russian purchases are largely machinery, tools, textiles and other manufactured goods.

The council points out that the entire business has been conducted on a credit basis and says it is not aware of any case in which the Russian organizations have failed to carry out their obligations.

Statistics enable a man to prove anything except the truth of the figures.

Better Gasoline Promised

May Mean Increased Efficiency and Economy in Automobile Operation

Increased efficiency and economy in automobile operation are forecast by government experts as the result of recent motor fuel studies by T. S. Taylor of the U.S. bureau of standards.

The simplicity of the Sligh test is claimed to make it possible for refiners, or even for any gasoline superintendent, to set every production of oils under refinement, to produce without elaborate manipulation and beyond expense, a "standard" gasoline meeting the specifications and giving the public more efficient, smoother, dependable gas without increase in price.

Recuperative Powers Of Fish

Frozen Solid By Liquid Air Will Revive In Water

An audience in New York was treated the other night to an exhibition of the recuperative power of fish under injury by extreme cold. Professor Kolsbrook, of City College, transferred from a bowl of water into a jar of liquid air, two goldfish. Upon removing them frozen, one was shattered into brittle fragments by a hammer blow, and, returned to the water, soon swam about naturally.

FUNERAL OF LATE MRS. JOHN BARNES

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Barnes took place on Saturday, the 26th June, 1926. The service was held in Knox United Church, Islay. The Rev. W. T. Crouch conducted the service.

Taking for his text the words in Mark 16:22 "And they offered Him, wine mingled with myrrh, but He received it not," the speaker in closing his address, said: "After many years of death finally overcame the last effort of resistance of the deceased, and the weakened body ceased to struggle, and the calm spirit yielded to the inevitable, and the soul passed to its final resting place. There is a beautiful expression used often in the Old Testament Scriptures, "a mother in Israel." The late Mrs. Barnes was truly a mother in Israel in her own household. The tenderness, the solicitation, the attachment she showed was gratifying to behold, and while it is true that charity begins at home, with Mrs. Barnes it did not end there. Her interest, her sympathy, her love went willingly out to others. She was ever-ready fond of children, and her kindly hand, a ball in way of turning, wonderfully appetizing tit-bits for the little ones to eat. But she was always doing kindly deeds for young and old alike.

It is a truism that follow suffering makes wondrous kind, and probably the reason for the kindness of heart that the deceased showed in her life was because she was a great sufferer herself. For years she did not know what sound health was, and the shadow of pain, also, rested too often upon her countenance.

"The deceased was greatly comforted by the unremitting attention of her husband and two members of the household in her last final illness and towards her last closing hours her thoughts were turning heavenwards. As an expression of her desire to depart and to be with Christ she uttered the following words: be written down:

'My friends and husband all adieu; I cannot longer stay with you;
My Saviour calls—I must obey;
I'm summoned from this home of clay.'

And before she passed away she asked that her body might be brought back to this place, so that she might be laid beside her daughter, whose early death was a deep blow to her remembrance.

"And so this day at her own request she is being carried by the pall-bearers she herself has chosen, the friends who had known her through the long years that are past. And thus we shall leave her wearied body in the last resting place. Thus shall she sleep the sleep that knows no waking this side the union.

"The seasons shall come, and the seasons shall go, but the shall pass by unmoved over her head. The reapers who had known her in the fields near by, and the low mellowing of the kine shall be heard in the meadows, but these sounds shall never again greet her ears. She shall be peaceful and still this day of our separation, days and the shadows of death shall have forever passed away.

"Sleep in beloved sleep, and take thy rest.
Lay down thy wearied head upon thy Saviour's breast.
Thy friends have loved thee well,
but Jesus loved thee best.
Good night, good night, good night.
"Calm is thy slumber, as an infant's sleep;
But thou shalt wake no more to toil nor weep.
Thine is a perfect rest secure and deep.
Good night, good night, good night."

There was a large congregation present to pay their last respects to the deceased, and to express sympathy for Mr. Barnes' family in their great loss.

The casket was covered with flowers. The following were amongst the sender's: Wesley Union Harthorn and Lavada, William and Rachel Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Carlin, New Westminster, B.C.; John Barnes, husband of deceased; Ruby and George Travers, Barbara, Mary and Lyle, grandchild ren; Pearl and Ted Orr; Ronald Williams, grandson; Mr. and Mrs. A. Becroft, Islay; Mr. and Mrs. T. Bothwell, Islay; Mr. and Mrs. L. McFadyen, Islay; The Newcombe Family, New Westminster, B.C.; Friends, Comrades of New Westminster, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Wright, H. Brown, Mrs. McRae, Mrs. Easton, Mrs. Hannah, Mrs. Newcombe and Mrs. Warriner.

The pall-bearers were: James Moore, A. Bescourt, L. McFadyen, T. Bothwell, Dennis Casey, N. McEachern.

Interment took place to the local cemetery.

DEATH OF MRS. IRENE CROSBY

The death of Mrs. Irene Crosby took place on Sunday evening, June 27th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Parsons, Rusyfris.

Mrs. Crosby had Wee Ill sit her daughter's home for the last three years. She was taken much worse on Wednesday, and on Sunday passed away.

Mrs. Crosby was one of the first to settle in this neighborhood, coming here in 1907. She lived with her son, C. W. Crosby, until the time of her death. The deceased was 62 years of age and greatly respected in the community, where, in the years of her health, she was always ready to help in time of illness or trouble.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. W. L. Parsons, and a son, C. W. Crosby, both of Rusyfris, and a brother in Vermont, U. S.

She fell asleep in the Lord.

ACTION UNDER HEALTH ACT.

It is regretable that there should be anyone during the period of an epidemic of infectious diseases, who should be adverse to complying with the regulations provided by the Health Act for combatting its spread and ultimately aiding towards its extinction. The board of health, during the past week, unfortunately had to enforce by law the observance of quarantine instituted at the home of one of the town's business men, who objected to the same from principle and in spite of all reasoning w s willing to submit to a jail sentence rather than forego his erroneous convictions of what under the circumstances constituted "principle." Laws are made for the well-being of the masses and though these may seemingly interfere with personal liberty and the like, we add anque that "a man's home is his castle," it is only a wrong viewpoint of conditions that causes their defiance with the consequent indignity and suffering inflicted thereby on themselves and families.

TAX THE BACHELOR.

Greece is grappling with the problem of unmarried men, that is, with those who have attained an age that they may be properly termed bachelors. A decree has been issued by the Greek government which imposes a tax of 2,000 drachms (about $25) on bachelors over twenty-four and half of this amount on those over thirty. This is a very lenient tax and is not likely to cause much inconvenience to those having to pay. Canada should tax bachelors, starting in, say, at the age of thirty, and tax them hard.

THE OTTAWA MIX-UP.

What was lively predicted at Ottawa several months ago, has happened and a strenuous session of some five months with its unfinished business has seen the collapse of a liberal-progressive government and the resignation of Premier King. Mr. Forke-leader of the progressives, has also tendered his resignation as leader of the party. An election was inevitable, Mr. Meighen has been called upon to form a government and is selecting his ministers when the date of the new elections will undoubtedly be announced.

At a meeting of the executive of the Vermilion Agricultural Society held in the Town Hall on Tuesday night at which tenders for the printing of the Prize Lists for the fair to be held next month were considered, it was decided to place the work with the Western Veteran Publishing Co. of Edmonton. The tender of the Standard, which was the same price as that charged last year, was turned down. We understand that the tender of the Edmonton firm was so low that the appeal could not be passed up. So the business men of Vermilion who pay for the Vermilion Agricultural Society's printing through their advertising patronage in the Prize List, will enjoy the satisfaction of having their money spent in boosting Edmonton. Tell you, Edmonton: It is trusted the Edmonton enterprise will do all the printing required for the Fair at the same remarkably appealing prices, give it all due publicity and dip down in their pockets to the extent of some thirty-five dollars to publish a list of the Fair prize-winners. Support outside industries!

IMPOUNDED

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of power granted under Sec. 14 of The Domestic Animals Act (Municipalities) and of By-Law No. 2 of the Municipal District of Ethelwyn, 812, dated 6th day of March, 1923, One bay Gelding, white star in forehead, branded B S bar shoe on right thigh, and H S bar shoe on right shoulder, will be sold at the pound kept by the undersigned on the 12th day of July at 2 p.m.

CONSERVATIVE SAVES HIS DEPOSIT BY FEW VOTES

Hon. R. G. Reid Elected by Large Plurality Over His Opponents

Returning Officer J. T. Mellugh completed counting the votes cast at the recent election in this riding on Tuesday and announces the totals cast as follows:

Hon. R. G. Reid, U. F. P. A. — 1654
W. J. Macnab, Cons. — 592
A. W. Ebbett, Liberal — 492

Reid's total plurality over Ebbett and Macnab, 773; Macnab's majority over Ebbett 100. Macnab saves his deposit by four votes, Ebbett loses his by 96. The Standard will endeavor to publish the vote in detail in next week's issue.

THE FARMER'S INNING

(From "Farm and Ranch Review")

An examination of crop results and statistical statistics of the prairie provinces covering the past sixty years, leads to the inevitable conclusion that the West has definitely entered a fairly long cycle of generally favorable years. The theory of fundamental climatic changes being responsible for the period of somewhat dry seasons, through which the West has passed during recent years, was exploded long ago. Climate is practically a fixed factor and climatic history infallibly repeats itself. So continued prosperous seasons should, according to the law of averages, be ahead of us.

Industry and Agriculture

While long range climatic forecasts necessarily lead one into the field of speculation, there can be no shadow of doubt that actual tangible figures convince us in respect to the second factor that leads to agricultural prosperity, namely, the upward tendency of farm product prices. And although the world over has developed through the crude, directive agencies of the law of supply and demand, while, on the other hand, industry has developed on the two basic ideas, first, that those employed therein have a right to collective bargaining in regard to wages and labour conditions, thus rendering the law of supply and demand largely inoperative in respect to cost of labour. Secondly, that the consumer must pay the cost of industrially manufactured goods plus a fair return on capital invested.

The Deadly Parallel

As fully 65 per cent. of the cost of all commodities and services is represented by human labour, enjoying standardized wages, it will be clear that the farmers' operating and living costs have increased to a fantastic degree, while the price he has for such products have been governed by rigid economic laws wholly without reference to cost of production. The average price of wheat at Liverpool during the entire 17th century, for instance, averaged but $1.17 per bushel, with industrial labour at twenty-five cents a day. The prevailing price during 1923 was $1.25 per bushel, with industrial labour at almost a dollar an hour. This well illustrates the tremendous decline in the purchasing power of the bushel of wheat, which is a fair indicator of all prevailing farm produce prices.

The Farmer and Economic Justice

But while the "mills of the gods grind slowly," economic laws must prevail in the end. The spectacular drift from country side to city has been a protest against the unequal

Capsules That Combat Disease

Important Discovery Made By Professor of Pasteur Institute

A sensational discovery, which it is claimed may possibly revolutionize medical science, is made public by M. Besredka, the successor of Professor Metchnikoff, at the Pasteur Institute in Paris.

It is declared that by swallowing capsules containing a virus, the walls of the stomach are immediately vaccinated. It is believed that this manner of fighting such diseases as typhoid is much more efficacious than injections.

Among other diseases which it is claimed may be combated by swallowing various capsules are pleurisy, laryngitis, anthrax and pneumonia.

The fundamental idea of the treatment is that there should be a virus for each particular organ of the body which would be affected by the contraction of a disease.

M. Besredka makes the walls of the stomach susceptible to the virus by using a small quantity of an ulie.

Dedicate Window in Westminster Abbey

In Memory of British War Prisoners Who Died in Germany

A beautiful window in the north side of the nave of Westminster Abbey, which was donated by James W. Gerard, former United States ambassador to Berlin, in memory of British prisoners of war who died in Germany, was dedicated in London. The service of dedication was performed by Dr. Foxley Norris, dean of Westminster. Mr. Gerard was represented by Admiral H. Houghton, the American ambassador to London, and many other Americans were present.

Hadn't His Shirt

Because he didn't happen to have a boiled shirt ready, the professor of chemistry who was elected president of Poland asked to have his inaugural oration accompanied by a dress suit. There's no appropriate start for the head of a really democratic government, it reminds one of Thomas Jefferson hitching his horse to a fence and going in to be made president of the United States.—Grove Patterson in Detroit Herald.

Northern Route For Cattle

Mayor of Saskatoon is a Strong Supporters of the H. B. R.

Mayor Russell Wilson, of Saskatoon, it a strong advocate for the early completion of the Hudson Bay Railway. in a recent interview with the local Saskatoon paper his worship said:

"As mayor of Saskatoon it is my policy to co-operate with the other members of the city council, the board of trade, the press and all other citizens to secure at the earliest possible date such railway construction as will link up Saskatoon and Hudson Bay Junction by the shortest possible mileage. While I cannot, of course, state definitely what that mileage would be, an approximate estimate is 175 miles. From there The Pas is 80 miles and from that town to Port Nelson is 424 miles, being a total of 667 miles from Saskatoon to the coast. The proposed line giving Saskatoon direct connection with the Hudson Bay Railway would, no doubt, pass through Humboldt.

"It can reasonably be anticipated," said the mayor, "that one of the many readjustments in the routing of traffic following the opening of the bay route will be in connection with the great cattle industry of Northern Alberta. I anticipate the day when those cattle will pass through Saskatoon en route to Liverpool and other European ports."

"From, say, Calgary to Montreal via the Canadian Pacific Railway is 2,345 miles. From Montreal to Liverpool is Belle Isle—a route available only a portion of the year—is 2,760 miles, a total, Calgary to Liverpool, of 5,105 miles, the rail haul being 45 per cent of the total mileage. From Calgary to Liverpool via Montreal and Cape Race the mileage is 5,255 miles, of which the rail haul is 42 per cent."

"From Calgary to Port Nelson, via the proposed direct line, Saskatoon and Hudson Bay Junction, the mileage is approximately would be, Calgary to Saskatoon, 60 miles; Saskatoon to Port Nelson, 687 miles, a total of 747 miles—say 1,100 miles—and from Port Nelson to Liverpool 2,966 miles—a total of 4,066 miles, of which the rail haul per cent is rail haul." The mayor is familiar with the subject, both, one that while cattle in transit "shrink" during railway travel, they "pick up" on board ship. Also that the conference of the bay route would insure their arrival at port of disembarkation in fine condition and be entitled two marked advantages in favoring the bay route for cattle shipment—less total mileage and a lower percentage of that total being rail haul than that of any existing North Atlantic ports.

Planning Patrol Of Arctic Archipelago

This Year's Expedition Will Mean Much Commercially and Post

Preparations for the 1926 patrol of Canada's Arctic Archipelago are being made by the Church West Territories and Yukon branch of the department of the interior. This year's patrol to the far northern posts will be made in the S.S. Beothic, a sailing vessel of 2,700 tons capacity, and the expedition will start from North Sydney, N.S., instead of Quebec. The route already established will be visited and the ship will endeavor to complete the establishment of the new post at Queen Peninsula on Ellesmere Island, in Smith Sound.

The ship is expected to return in late September or early October.

Captain Falk will command the vessel and the two members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police who are taken north to relieve those constables.

Dr. L. J. Weeks, who accompanied last year's expedition as geologist, has been invited to join this year's personnel. He, with an assistant, Maurice Haycock, will establish a base for geological research on Cumberland Sound. They will remain in the north until October, 1927, studying geographical data on the interior of Baffin Island.

Jabot Trustworth Land Grace to Daytime Frocks

This cute frock illustrates the simplicity of treatment which expresses the correct note for general daytime wear. Developed in one of the wide bordered crepes, it has soft gathers at each shoulder where the bark comes over to meet the front, creating, as it were, a yoke effect. Gracefully draped plaiting outline the deep V front opening, and an inverted plait extends from the waistline to the lower edge of the skirt. The back is straight and a narrow belt crosses the new bloused effect at the sides. No. 1339 is in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. For 38 inch requires 4 yards 32-inch for dress made of plain material; or 3½ yards wide for contrasting material as illustrated. Price 20 cents.

Many styles of coats appeared may be found in our new Fashion Book. Our designers evidence their patience in the heart of the style centres, and their creations are those of tested popularity, brought within the means of the average woman. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Great Changes At Kiel

Years Have Made Vast Difference In Island Fortress

Nowhere would the kaiser, were he to return to his country, find a more poignant contrast between the present and the past than in Kiel.

William II. was the creator of this powerful naval fastness, with its huge docks and all the apparatus of shipbuilding and repair. He was the builder of the formidable fortifications defending the sea approaches. This was the scene of some of his great moments when as commander-in-chief of the fleet he steamed into the harbor as rounds of applause poured from dozens of guns.

Today the harbor looks empty. The forts are partly dismantled. The naval academy is closed. The castle in which Prince Henry, the kaiser's brother, lived is an office building. The Yacht Club House, presented by the elder Krupp, is now a scientific institute. It was there the kaiser, surrounded by his admirals and generals, made many an utterance that caused flutters in foreign chancelleries. Everywhere are suggestions of decay and neglect and change.

Not Considered A Handicap

Many Remarkable Feats Accomplished By Men With Artificial Legs

Recent questions in the British Parliament regarding the amount of artificial limbs to ex-soldiers drew from the minister of pensions some illuminating statistics and facts bearing on the feats accomplished by one-legged men. One interesting revelation was that it is seldom necessary that a man who has lost a limb is unable to return to his regular employment, so great have been recent advances in the designing and making of artificial legs and arms.

There are men today who are so fitted restricted by the use of a false limb that they are as efficient as if they had no wound. One man who lost both arms and legs. One man who lost a leg four years ago has driven a car for a total of 200,000 miles and has never had an accident. Another man, similarly placed, takes part in motor cycling competitions.

Men with wooden legs have made fine records as athletes. A man with two wooden legs walked a mile in 7½ min. Another, with an artificial leg, broke a record with a high jump of 5 ft. 7 in.

Probably the greatest military tournament ever held in England, that staged in a 20 acre arena at Aldershot on June 15 in the presence of 20,000 persons.

The producers stirred up history amazingly and rapidly, for scarcely 40 minutes elapsed between the overthrow of the Saxons by William the Conqueror and the encampment of a modern British army under the auspices of an eastern city with the latest things in aeroplanes dropping bombs and tanks traveling 20 miles an hour.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JULY 4

CHILDHOOD AND EDUCATION OF MOSES

Golden Text: Train up a child in the way he should go. And even when he is old he will not depart from it. Proverbs 22:6.

Lesson: Exodus 2:1-10; Acts 7:22. Devotional Reading: Proverbs 3:11-18.

Explanations and Comments

The Birth and Hiding of Moses, Exodus 2:1-4.—To Amram and Jochebed (Ex. 6:20), husband and wife who belonged to the tribe of Levi, a son was born. The mother saw that he was strong and beautiful, "a goodly child." Stephen called him "fair to God," Acts 7:20.

Some people have to struggle all their lives against physical disability, or deformities. Moses was an object of appeals and a casket of shame from the beginning. But he was so to teach a child who is much or cut from his cradle by means of attractiveness and power, that he is no better than his fellows. There is only one way of coping with the situation. From the beginning the priesthood one must be taught his duty to God and his neighbor.

Pitiful hope and responsibility are indissoluble mates. That is the wholesome truth, which is as sad to the unusually endowed life" (R. C. Gillie).

For three months Jochebed kept her babe securely hidden, despite Pharaoh's command that every son of the Hebrews should be cast into the Nile, where they would be devoured by crocodiles.

There are boats of babies in one great cities who are exposed to a worse fate than were the Hebrew infants. What is living done to save them?

Looks Like Pleasant Farm

But England's Leper Colony is Lonely Place for Isolated Spot

England's leper colony is one of the most lonely and isolated spots in that country. Travelers who there recently pass a collection of small houses set in the heart of fields. There are cows, and poultry, and a dog that barks fiercely. It looks like a pleasant small holding. But the inhabitants of the houses are lepers. They are British men, women and children who have lived abroad, and who come to Carville when they have contracted leprosy. An Anglican sisterhood gives them the most tender care.

London Zoo Reaches Centenary

Started With Two Birds Now Has Three Thousand Animals

Although the annual general meeting of the Zoological Society of this year was only the ninety-seventh, the fact remains that day the London Zoo had been in existence exactly one hundred years.

Centenary celebrations, however will not take place until 1929, as, although the society started in 1826, it was not until 1829 that a royal charter was granted.

There are more than 3,000 animals in the zoo today; a hundred years ago a start was made with a solitary vulture and a white-headed eagle, with an Indian deer to follow. Joshua Brookes, a famous anatomist, presented the vulture, which for nearly forty years was known as by Brookes.

The quantities of food officially consumed in the zoo are enormous. There is no computation of the tonnage of hay, straw, roots, potatoes, treacle, fish, lovely beads, rabbits' and guinea pigs' skins daily thrown to the lunatics by the public.

The report records, among a score of miscellaneous items given at regular meals, the following:

Hay, 157 tons; clover, 166 tons, oats, 8,846 bushels; rolled oats, 605 pounds; beans, 461, or approximately 220½ tons; goats, 139; plaice, 1 ton 2 cwt.; herrings and whiting, 41 tons 6 cwts.; shrimps, 1,935 pints.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Joanna, a pretty, ultra-modern, shop girl, is told by her employer that she has been given a million dollars to be spended by an unknown benefactor. She is not even told how to spend it. There are no "conditions" to meet before she can get the money. Nothing more than this can be gained from tanker Eagleson, after he has made inquiries.

"Am I just to take all this money and go out and spend it, then?" Jo asks perplexed.

"Just go out and spend it—someway. I suppose that is one way of repulsing that you may do with it whatever you wish."

So naively that she did not know that she was talking to a lawyer, she told him about Cohen, and Mrs. Adams, and John. Suddenly she hesitated and was silent. "I'm afraid you doesn't interest you, does it?" she apologized.

The gray man had been watching her intently. Almost eagerly. He reassured her quickly. "On the contrary, Joanna, you interest me—that I mean. It does interest me tremendously. Won't you go on—about John's mother, for instance? I hope she isn't quite all right, now?"

"No." Joanna replied, her voice quavering a little. "I didn't, and it isn't. I'm afraid it's the beginning of his mind."

"What are you going to do about it?"

"Just to care for her—as I promised," Crooked things that ought to be straight, must get that way by themselves, I think. And I mustn't try to be hammered out, they're only muddle-headed" She was silent, for a minute, and he did not interrupt her. Then she was sure she hoped to catch him off his guard.

"What would you do about it if you were in my place?"

He smiled. "That is one of the most difficult questions I have ever had to answer. I don't know, very sincerely, when it begins to straighten out I suppose I'll recognize them. I shall be interested in John."

"Well, that's more than I am, right now," the girl retorted. She was rest ful and happy. She had forgotten for the while Crayborn was suddenly observing her. She was still unconscious that when she spoke to him. She had intended to ask him what part in her affairs he thought Brandon was to play. But she remembered that she would have to find that out for herself, too. It was then that she resolved that perhaps Brandon should show her the way to go, as well—better, perhaps, than John.

PAINS ALL OVER BODY

Two More Cases of Feminine Illness Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Barrington, N. S.—"I had terrible feelings, headaches, back and side aches and pains all over my body. I would have to go to bed every month and nothing would do me any good. My husband and my father did my work for me and I have two children and they are quite a big place. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then got a little book about it through the mail, and my husband sent to Eaton's and got me a bottle, and then we got more from the store. I began taking the first now and do all my work and am able to go and attend meets. I tell my friends it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that makes me feel so well."—Mrs. VICTOR RICHARDSON, Barrington, Queens Co., N. S.

Dull Pains in Back

St. Thomas, Ont.—"I took four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found great relief from the dull, heavy pains in the small of my back and the weakness from which I suffered for five years after my boy was born. After taking the Vegetable Compound and using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I am feeling better than I have for the past seven years, and advise my friends to take it."—Mrs. F. JOHNSON, 39 Moore Street, St. Thomas, Ont. C

Georgie, her wife not fully gathered, broke off short in a general remark to the effect that some people had their crust. Things came back to her, especially that she must send word to the store that she'd broken a leg, or her neck, and couldn't show up at the silk counter until the next day, and that Joanna was going to take her shopping. She blotted out her first remark with: "Sweest thing you know." And, in her own conception of the way people kept their affairs straight, she added:

"I'll make the telephone in about two minutes. What did you say John's number is?"

But Joanna decided she wouldn't telephone John. She just was tenderly, and bitter. She didn't even want to ever hear from him again. Brandon had said she must make mistakes. That her perspective was no longer that of the shop girl's. Brandon? Oh, and what was he? He must be mixed up in the strange affair of her's in some way, but he decided it. She didn't like him. Why? She was afraid of him. Why? Wasn't it because she was afraid of his association with her sudden unplainable good fortune, that she didn't like him? He had been so quick to begin his acquaintance with her, and he frankly said he was going to be devoted to her.

Yet Brandon had nothing to do with her amended command to Georgie who had whistled her way into the few clothes she habitually wore and who was asking what she'd say to John when she got him.

"Nothing." Joanna replied, tartly commanded. "And be quick—you can make up afterwards. Bring some things in and we'll ask Mrs. Adams to have tea and lunch in bed with breakfast—and I want you to telephone from downstairs on your way out."

Interesting Variety Of Plants

Used Is Sent to New Gardens, England, From Explorers in Different Parts Of the World

In the New Gardens, England, a variety of plants may be seen grown in the most novel home by explorers in different parts of the world. There are yellow and purple lilacs found by Reginald Farrer in the Tibet Forest Expedition; blue poppies sent home from Tibet by Mr. Kingdon Ward, who recently started on a year of plant exploring with Lord Cavaller, a yellow saxifraga sent by Mr. Forest, the plant explorer, who is in China, and many new gentians from the collection of Mr. Rock, the American plant explorer, who is back from exploring among the northern part of Western China.

There are also numerous new primulas sent by Mr. Forrest, but as they are found growing at an altitude of 10,000 ft. to 13,000 ft., they do not all like the English climate.

Gradually Clearing Scapa Flow

Cruiser Hindenburg Will Scrapped Will More Than Pay Salvage Cost

Sunk by her crew at Scapa Flow over six years ago, the German cruiser Hindenburg will be about again in a few months. How it is to be done, and what will happen then?

Already twenty-one smaller warships have been brought to the surface by means of wires passed under them from floating docks, but the Hindenburg, with a tonnage of 27,000, is much too heavy for that. She is to be made to rise of her own accord by having the water pumped out of her.

To do this all her portholes and all the eight "sea cocks" the Germans opened to sink her, will have to be covered with patches of concrete or steel. To get at the sea cocks, which are round holes in her hull, two feet across, it will be necessary to make tunnels in the sea bed on which she lies and to arrange away the barnacles and seaweed that cover her bottom.

All this will take twelve to fifteen months, but when they have done forty pumps will pump out some nine like 27,000 tons of water in the hull, and the Hindenburg will then slowly right herself.

And what then? She will be run aground and broken up for scrap, the value of which will be more than worth the cost. After that the valuable ship ships will be raised, at the rate of two a year, till Scapa Flow is clear of them.

NO MEDICINE LIKE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

For Either the Newborn Babe or the Growing Child

There is no other up-to-date to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones—neither for the newborn babe or the growing child the Tablets at once do good. They are absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs and the mother can always feel safe in using them.

Baby's Own Tablets, Mrs. John Armour, R.R. 1, South Monaghan Twp., says: "We have three fine, healthy children, to whom Baby's Own medicine is needed we have given only Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the best medicine you can keep in any home where there are young children."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulates the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Gold Finder Died Poor

After making and losing several fortunes, James Marshall, who was first to discover gold in California, died in poverty and solitude in a lonely cabin close to the spot where he made his epochal discovery of gold 27 years before.

You can almost see the cracks in the voice of some people when they attempt to sing.

A STAR FEATURE

GREATER STRENGTH

Rugged Frame with Five Cross Members

Strength and stamina are important factors in determining the value of a car. Long life, economy, freedom from costly and inconvenient repairs depend upon them.

Every part of the NEW STAR Car possesses an abundance of strength to meet the greatest stress and strain to which it might be subjected. For example—when other cars at or near NEW STAR prices employ THREE cross members in the chassis, the NEW STAR Car has FIVE.

If you are looking for lasting automobile satisfaction, see the NEW STAR Cars—Fours and Sixes.

The NEW STAR is "Supreme in the low cost field."

A picnic will be held on Wellsdale Park grounds on Wednesday, July 14th. Athletic sports, ice cream, candy and fruit stall. Tea and other refreshments and contests style. Everyone welcome, come and have a good time.

The town has replaced a number of the worn street crossings with heavy plank and put in a similar crossing on First St. north where the new hill road enters the town. Other improvements to the streets are being carried out.

Heavy rains fell Friday last continuing the greater part of the day. The rain fall has been above the average and with the heavy down at night the country is at its best.

Miss Vera Witters of the Lloydminster teaching staff, is spending the vacation at the home of her parents, Mr and Mrs. I. Witters, town.

Russell Carroll left last week for Washington, the United States capital, where he will spend some six weeks visiting relatives.

Bob Elliot and A. H. Cooper left the first of the week to attend the summer school for teachers which opened at the University of Alberta on Tuesday.

The town park is reaching that state at attraction where it is drawing most favorable comments. With the splendid growth of trees, the shrubs, green sward and handsome bandstand it is rapidly becoming a beauty spot.

Miss Ethel Dolliver, who has been teaching out of Edmonton, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dolliver, town.

J. D. Seaborn is taking over the Shepherd Dairy business, commencing Tuesday, July 13th.

The quarantine was lifted the first part of the week from the premises on the first the cases of scarlet fever reported in the town.

Rev. M. S. Kerr arrived home last week and Mrs. Kerr is expected today from a very enjoyable vacation of some four weeks duration.

Inspector H. R. Parker left yesterday for Edmonton after he will reside on the reading of Grade IX examination papers.

A neighboring editor says he has two subscribers who frequently invite him and every time they get a pair on they come in and pay a year in advance for the paper. One of these is now coming up to January 1916.

While opposed to the treating habit on general principles, we would be pleased to overlook the evil in the case of a few people we know if it would have the same effect.

The public will be afforded the opportunity to witness one of the fastest and best baseball games likely to be played here this season on Saturday evening, when the locals clash with Battleford Collegiate Institute team. The latter team is on tour and has arranged playing dates for the main towns in Northern Alberta; they further have the distinction of holding the championship for Northern Saskatchewan, 1925. The game is called for 6.30 p.m. and is to take place on the East End diamond. Don't fail to be there.

The prize lists for Marwayne Exhibition, printed at the office of the Marwayne News, are being distributed by the Secretary. The Fair is dated for August 17th.

At a meeting of the Vermilion school board Monday, Miss Lillie Reid was promoted to the principalship of the public school to succeed Mr. Gourlay, resigned. Miss Irene McGee and Miss May Parker were engaged on the staff, one as an additional teacher and the other to fill the vacancy resulting from Miss Reid's appointment.

Large posters are out for the annual day or sports at Islay to be held on Wednesday, July 14th. A good programme is advertised consisting of baseball, basketball and a long list of athletic events. Refreshments booths on the grounds. The day will conclude with a big dance at night in Moore's hall, the music for which is to be furnished by a Lloydminster orchestra. E. Hart is the chairman of the sports committee and Stanley Jessup, secretary.

The local footballers are arranging for home and home games with Vegreville, and while dates are not definitely decided on, the first game will likely be played at Vegreville on Saturday, 17 and the return game here the Wednesday following.

The advertisement of Cameron's Garage appears in this issue — look it up.

J. G. Tillet, local photographer, was sentenced by Police Magistrate P. G. Pilkie to serve 10 days at Fort Saskatchewan for breaking quarantine for scarlet fever and absolutely resisting, from "principle," to be governed by the Health Act regulations. Despite the arguments of the magistrate on the necessity of compliance with the law and an appeal to Mr. Tillet that he use common-sense judgment and accept what was to his own and others best interests, he remained adamant and there was no recourse than to mete out the sentence provided. Mr. Tillet served in the late world war in a labor battalion and in the British army in India for many years.

Vermilion ball team took in the sports at Vegreville Dominion Day and landed second money in the big tournament. If darkness had not stopped hostilities in the final, the boys would have copped first money. A second team played the same day at Manville sports and won second place. Tell 'em Vermilion, sure.

An order for a line of commercial stationery was printed in the Standard job department this week for The Dauphin Co-operative Store, Wellsdale on the Cut Knife-Whitkow branch of the C. P. R. F. A. Howie is manager of the business which will carry a full line of groceries.

The last issue of The Alberta Gazette contains the appointment of Thomas Arthur Potts as a Commissioner for Oaths.

Baseball, tennis and basketball tournaments, contests and games for the kiddies. Every body come and have a good time. Admission, adults 50c; ladies turning in supper menu will be given free tickets. Dance in the evening in the Ottawa school house. 2c

Mrs. W. S. Cash and the Misses Ruth and Mildred, have spent a month in Edmonton, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Eldon Hayward.

Claresholm picnic held yesterday afternoon drew a large attendance from local countryside and town and was an unqualified success in every way. The long list of events were well contested and the committee in charge drew a very busy bunch. The waiters on the pie-kickers were well provided for at the lunch where refreshments and fine tasty lunches were provided.

The people are looking simply magnificent and wheat is now in head.

1926 Automobile Road Map Here

All Main, Secondary and Intermediate Trails Shown Plainly

The 1926 edition of the Automobile Road Map of Alberta, described by James W. Davidson, president of the Alberta Good Roads Association, as the most authentic and accurate yet made, is just off the press. It is published by the Western Canada Road Route Service Ltd. of Calgary.

A copy of this map has been received by The Vermilion Standard and a perusal of it shows the great care and infinite work that was necessary in its preparation.

It is announced that the map will be placed on sale in most of the stationery stores and and garages in Alberta or may be secured direct from the publishers.

This big map sells for seventy-five cents. It is valuable to anyone starting out on a motor trip and will be a stimulus to tourist traffic in the province.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The military committee of the preparatory disarmament commission adjourned until August.

Thirty-one deaths and damages estimated at $3,000,000 are attributed to the recent storms and floods in Germany.

Dr. Otto Ludwig Weldrich, former German ambassador to the United States and director general of the Krupp Works, died July 5.

The Swedish Government, growing tired of having so many drownings every year, has started a drastic campaign to force everyone to learn to swim.

Joseph Courtenay, 77, veteran of the Riel Rebellion in 1885, at one time Indian agent at The Pas, Man., and later connected with the Indian department at Prince Albert, is dead at New Westminster. He was a native of Ireland.

Seven man fields of Italy, in addition to the King and Premier Mussolini, have promised to be present at the embassy ceremony when the foundation of the Victory Monument is laid at Bolzano, Italy.

Advices from Lodz say enormous damage has been caused by a large section of Upper Austria by floods, caused by cloudbursts. The dispatches say there has been loss of life but the figures are given.

The administration of the Hoboken docks system has notified the Pennsylvania state of the willingness of his officials to resume negotiations concerning the disposition of the docks now in the state owned by the former royal family.

The London Daily News' political correspondent states that Lord Birkenhead in refusing dissolution to former President L. L. Mackenzie King will be brought up in December, when also the Dominion premiers at the imperial conference in October.

The United States submarine S-51, rammed and sunk off Block Island by the steamer City of Rome last September, was towed to the Boston navy yard. The submarine, which had 33 aboard, when it went down, was raised after a series of unsuccessful attempts. It is believed the submarine contains the bodies of 25 sailors.

Equal Political Rights

British Women Under 30 to Fight For Franchise

British women are about to open a vigorous fight to do away with present suffrage laws which exclude them from the right to vote until they are 30 years old.

Many prominent men have agreed to join a great mass meeting staged by forty women's societies in the interests of equal political rights. Among them are Lord Balfour, Lord Cecil and Pethwick Lawrence, M.P.

George Bernard Shaw, the noted playwright, however, has declined to participate.

Under the present suffrage laws in England, only women above the age of 21, but below the age of 30, are unable to vote while qualified men above the age of 21 have the ballot. All the old time suffrage leaders and thousands of other prominent women resent this discrimination.

Fail To Scale High Peak

Mountain Climbers Experience Hard Ships in British Columbia

Repulsed by British Columbia's 12,000 foot "monarch of mountains" after a 36 hour struggle for victory across huge glaciers and thin snowfields in the Selkirks, an experienced band of mountain range, an Alpine Club expedition came close to defeat actual disaster when homeward bound, after failing to conform of the party ever returned to Vancouver. They spent five weeks in battling the mountains of the existence of such a great peak within 150 miles of Vancouver and in sight of thousands of the land of Pine Tree.

The climbers reached an altitude of 10,000 feet on June 24.

Canada Reverts to Gold Standard

Canada has now reverted to the gold standard in other words, any holder of paper currency issued by the Canadian Government or by any chartered bank in Canada, may exchange such paper for gold if he wants to. Canada is continuing a gold standard country, but during the war was compelled, for financial purposes, to suspend payment in gold, and the paper money issued by the banks was made legal tender. Penny postage is now in effect.

It is rather a curious fact that the three popular beverages, tea, coffee and cocoa, all were introduced into Europe within a few years of each other.

To Make Film At Jasper

Screen Feature Portrayed in Magnificent Settings of Canadian Rockies

Jasper, the world's largest national park is to provide the setting for one of the great moving picture epics of the year. "The Country Beyond," an adaptation of the story of that name by James Oliver Curwood, which is being produced by the Fox Film Corporation under the personal direction of Mr. Irving Cummings. The cast, which is a notable one, includes such stars as Olive Borden, J. Farrell MacDonald, Ralph Graves, Fred Kohler and Lawford Davidson, as well as a number of others of outstanding ability.

Two sections of the park have been chosen by Mr. Curwood as the setting for his play. Recently the company started work beside the Jodo-meters of the Lake of Forgiveness, which lies in the shadow of Mount Edith Cavell. There and about Jasper Park Lodge, on the shore of Lac Beauvert, the preliminary work is being carried on. Later the entire company will move by pony trail to Maligne Lake, where the remainder of the picture will be filmed. The work will occupy almost three weeks, and it calls for an expenditure of almost a quarter of a million dollars.

Never before has Hollywood come so far north to film a picture. This is the first time in the history of the motion picture industry that a complete screen feature has been produced north of the international boundary.

Synthetic Wood From Sugar Cane

Inventors Have Found Material That Makes Good Substitute For Lumber

Potential homes, railway cars and packing boxes lie in every waving field of sugar cane.

As the rewarding power goes out, tantalizing possibilities lie in the residue and waste, for synthetic wood is now made of the crushed stalks. The new industry is spreading across the Mississippi Valley from New Orleans, the heart of the sugar country. From there three-million-dollar cane waste plant there, more than 200,000,000 feet of wood substitute is shipped out in a year.

The substitute has been used in place of wood sheathing on outer walls, for roof and wall insulation, as a base for inside plaster or outside stucco, for portable houses, refrigerators and railway refrigerator cars, in partitions for deadening sounds, in auditoriums for correcting acoustics, and for making cartons and packing cases.

Inventors have been experimenting with materials that might take the place of wood, against the time when use and misuse of the forests should end in a shortage of lumber. Every bale of hay rifled bagasse, the name given to sugar cane when the sugar has been extracted.

Canadian National Earnings

706.71 Per Cent. Increase In Canadian National Railways Net Earnings One Month

Earnings statement issued recently by the Canadian National Railways shows an increase of $2,826,625.56, or 706.71 per cent. in net earnings for May as compared with the same month of last year and an increase of $8,740,-960.91, or 109.28 per cent. for the five months period since the first of the year as compared with the same period of 1925.

Gross earnings for the month of May, 1926, were $22,183,204 as against $18,245,728 for May, 1925, an increase of $3,937,476, or 21.58 per cent. Prince Has Worked Hard

Tireless Energy Has Won Admiration From All Classes

There are few young men in the world who have worked so much as the prince of Wales has worked in his twenty-six years and so much hard work has likely rarely vouchsafed. He has tackled every job in Canada, and whatever he has put his mind to he has done it well. He wants to Canada is certainly a good standard country, but during the war it was necessary, for financial purposes, to suspend payment in gold, and the paper money issued by the banks was made legal tender. Penny postage is now in effect.

One Habit Japan Will Not Tolerate

Prefect of Police Recently Issued Statement Against Kissing

Kissing is decidedly under the ban in Japan, where the art of osculation is described as an "unclean and indecent habit." Recently the Prefect of Police in Tokio issued the following statement:

"Kissing is a custom entirely foreign to Japan, and it is undesirable that it should be introduced into our country. It is unseemly, immodest, indecorous, ungraceful, and likely to cause the spread of disease."

This "immodest habit" is so thoroughly repugnant to the Japanese nation that the wonderful statue, "The Kiss," by Rodin, the great French sculptor, sent to Japan for exhibition, caused a storm of protest, and there was a huge bonfire strewn around it, so that the sensibilities of the public may not be shocked.

Distinctive in Line and Fabric

The dainty printed voile in the attractive tone of the new season, finds expression in the gracefully flaring lines of the model pictured here. Details that go to make the chic and successful frock for fashion or leisure are contrasting collar and cuffs of white organdie combined in the softly modeled lines of the bodice, and the V front opening and scarf-like collar. Also, it adds plenty of wood, against the time when use and misuse of the forests should end in a shortage of lumber. Every bale of hay rifled bagasse, the name given to sugar cane when the sugar has been extracted.

How Russia Conveys Money To Strikers

Says Whitehall Gazette

The methods by which Russian money for the striking British miners was sent into England during the general strike, and is still being sent, is described in the Whitehall Gazette as follows:

"A sum of money, in one pound and five pound notes, is placed in a red envelope in Moscow. This envelope is placed in a diplomatic valise, and the whole is consigned to one of the secretaries of the Soviet Legation in London. He, in his turn, passes the envelope, unopened to a woman—a member of the (British) Communist party. This woman meets a male member of the Communist party in a room in St. Brides Street (London). The man leaves St. Brides Street on a motorcycle for an unknown destination, believed, however, to be the head office of the Communist party.

"The Communist party, it is believed, are made in the form of cheques to members of the "underground section of the Communist party, who are known only to two or three of the high officials. Firms Making Artificial Silk See Infinite Possibilities in New Industry

The rise of the artificial silk industry is marvellous. Scarcely more than two or three years old, we have one British firm alone supplies one-third of the world's demand for artificial silk. The needs of this company are valued at £10,000,000. A plant in Coventry delivers seven miles of artificial silk thread a second—made of pinewood pulp. Ten thousand workmen in Bradford are employed to give this product. The town of Coventure turns out fifty thousand pairs of artificial silk stockings a year. The Lancashire cotton weavers are adopting their mills to the industry. This now material, at once utilitarian and beautiful, has become the staple idea for our shawls, stockings, dresses, underwear—and its possibilities are only quickening story of infinite.

It is a fascinating story and a heart rating one. It shows there is life yet in the old dog John Bull, even as regards all the croakers. And it shows, incidentally, that the controversy about the proper name for artificial silk is a serious matter. For it is certain that this silk by any other name is destined to be a household word in all the world.

Largest Electric Locomotive

Driven By Six Motors Has Had Trial Trip At Sarnia

The largest electric locomotive in the world, 2,250 tons, built by General Electric engineers, was successfully tested in its first trial trip at Berne. The monster weighs 2,250 tons, and, it is known that twenty metres long and is driven by six motors, with a total force of 4,500 horsepower. Means Of Identification

Newspaper Reporters in Paris Occupy Hourly Wage High Up

Parisian newspaper reporters not wear high hats when covering assignments, but they have to be up on their toes as a matter of protection, but of identification.

Instances of reporters being lured in street frays have grown quite common, not due to the police grumbling, but because it is often impossible to distinguish between rioters and reporters. French newspapers are beginning to express an increase of manifestations rather than remaining behind police lines and waiting for the news to reach them as once was the custom.

COMMUNICATION

NOTICE OF SALE

Editor Vermilion Standard

Dear Sir:

Through the columns of your paper the Retired Implement Dealers wish to thank the citizens and farmers of Vermilion district for their kind support during the past year. We have disposed of the second lot of Massey-Harris binders and the second shipment of the second were also disposed of by us this season. Although there appeared to be a slump in July last year the time was not entirely lost as a considerable number of binder twine were sold during that month. Our sales of twine for the season have already exceeded the total sales of last year by over 100 per cent. We succeeded on the 20th day of June 1926 and sold only on July 1st, 1925 to Mike Zlotnick of Islay and that the said animals have been redeemed by the owners as no doubt they benefit within a period of thirty days from the publication of this notice in The Alberta Gazette upon payment of all fees and costs due to the municipality and the purchaser of said animals.

For information apply to Farrell and Secord Town Municipal Bailiffs of Vermilion No. 52. Post Office Dewberry Alta.

Dated at Vermilion, Alta., this 13th day of July, A.D. 1926.

Bad Weeds And Their Destruction

In view of the fact that a large proportion of the farmers in this section of Alberta have learned the serious menace of the weed situation, and many of these have taken great pains to eradicate the worst of them, the fact remains however, that a more concerted effort will be required on the part of the remainder in order to stamp out this virulent pests as the Perennial Sow Thistle, the Canada Thistle, the Stink Weed, and Couch Grass.

As a latest menace, no serious is the Perennial Sow Thistle that, under no circumstances whatsoever and two seedless effort required or less obtained, should a patch of even one plant of this pest be allowed to go to seed. Here is a case where an ounce in prevention of infestation is worth many pounds of effort in eradication. Sow Thistle can however be easily eradicated in one summer to sufficiently intelligent effort be made and if weather conditions are at all favorable

A method of control might be here suggested but that is not what we want or need yet. We want method of eradication supported by reason

Small patches can be dug out, being careful to get all of the roots. Then the place should be often tilled with the hoe or cleaning out any plant which may and very likely will, come after

The far paper method is good if the paper is put five feet over the edge of plants. Also having the strips well lapped and covering it all with about an inch of soil or the equivalent. This should then be undisturbed for a whole summer or about six months for securing the winter months.

The best method of dealing with the larger patches is by deep plowing followed by the continued use of the cultivator cultivator But even the larger patches should be isolated and worked separately. It is not enough to cultivate the patch or the field, whatever it may be, and then wait for a month until the plants have come up afresh. Such work would be useless. The roots of the perennial Sow Thistle are somewhat like a storage battery and the plants are the generators. When the plant is pulled or cut off then the life in the root begins to discharge and continues on long as no living leaf of the plant comes to light. If this discharging process is forced to continue indefinitely for a sufficient length of time, probably four mid-summer days, then the roots will have become so weak that bacterial action will set in, resulting in their death and decay

On the other hand if, during this time the plants, however small, are allowed to grow they begin to store life in the weak roots. In a few days the roots are again recharged with life and the plant is strengthened. Cultivation was in vain. Therefore it can be clearly seen that the ground must be kept black and well worked, not monthly, cultivation is absolutely essential to successful eradication.

Canada Thistle and other similar habits to the Sow Thistle and being next in order of seriousness, must be dealt with in the same manner

Stink Weed, being a true winter annual and at the same time having different habits, comes in another category. Because the plant, when ripening, its seed to the ground it is not kept back by frost. Weekly and monthly, cultivation is absolutely essential to successful eradication.

Couch Grass is another similar habit

LOCAL NEWS

The Misses Davis and Edna Daley left during the past week on a trip to Chicago, where they will spend a few weeks visiting their sister.

Considerable work is under way on the streets of the town. Old grades are being rounded up and new streets graded. The council have purchased and opened up a first-class gravel pit on the point of the big hill across the ravine in the northwest end of town and this is to be used liberally on the thoroughfares.

W. H. Graham of Whitecourt, Alta., formerly connected with the Royal Bank here for a number of years, arrived in town by motor last Thursday night and is renewing old acquaintances for a few days. He will leave for home next Monday.

A. Lewis, T. White, Herb Stone and A. Bennett, all of Islay, left Thursday last at 2 p.m. by auto for Cold Lake to test out the excellent fishing for which the lake is rapidly increasing in fame. They were back in Islay at 5 p.m. Saturday with the full quota of trout allowed each, namely 10 per day per man, and established a record that looks as if it would take some beating. The party secured their catch in two motor boat trips out on the lake. In the disposal of the catch the community spirit was much in evidence, the hostess in the village enjoying trout fantasia evening and Sunday.

By the full returns by polls of the recent vote in this electoral division, both Liberal and Conservative candidates lost their deposits. The vote cast for Hon. R. G. Reid on which the Standard based its statement last week that only the Liberal candidate had lost his deposit, was given at some 100 votes less than now appears.

Mr. and Mrs. John Watt returned home Monday from Calgary where they spent a few days visiting their son, Tom.

The Edmonton Exhibition is the attraction this week for large numbers from both town and district. This year's standing committee set aside a much larger appropriation for advertising in the country press which has dealt with gratifying results in increased country attendance as shown by ticket sales by the various rail roads which more than doubled that of last year.

W. J. Casterton of Coyote Valley was a passenger for Edmonton yesterday. Besides taking in the fair, he will interview the Attorney-General on matters effecting his district.

Contractor Burns and staff are making good headway in the erection of the editor's new bungalow.

Miss Vera I. Winters left for Kenwood last Sunday morning. She will be the guest of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Max Bother.

The mechanical industries of the town are carrying on under very great disadvantages this week owing to the closing down of the electric light plant for the annual midsummer holiday. The several garages, blacksmith shops, chopping mill, hospital and the typesetting machine in the Standard office derive the bulk of their operating power from electric motors, hence the period in purging of the power plant, while necessary, hits these industries hard.

Harry Scott is having an addition built to his cottage in the east end.

A motor party comprising Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hill, Miss Watson, Miss Kelly and Mr Groome Wright spent a few days' enjoyable holiday at famous Cold Lake, returning the beginning of the week. They were successful in catching 38 fine trout of an average weight of nearly 2 pounds a piece, the heaviest tipping the scales at 13 pounds.

The large crowd in attendance at the ball game Saturday evening between Battleford Collegiate Institute and the local team, witnessed the best class of ball played on the home diamond this season. The visitors are a heavy batch and have met with a great reception on their tour of Northern Alberta. Vermilion lost out by 1 run, final score being collegians 3, Vermilion 2. Redegeon for the homesters pitched a beautiful game, while Edwards for Battleford also proved himself an artist with the ball. Sensational plays on both sides met with generous applause from the fans. Further communication on the touring boys in another column will be read with much interest.

SIXTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, Saturday, July 10th, 1926

Generally satisfactory conditions prevail throughout the province with respect to the growing crops. A period of great heat has occurred since last report, but the crops have been affected very little thereby. The crop thus generally, is ideal for growth.

Early seeded grain in the south is in head, and short, but with more rain will produce a fair yield. There has been numerous precipitation in the south, with the exception of a few limited areas, and the prospects are encouraging. Late sown grain in the south is growing rapidly and showing a most satisfactory condition. In the central and northern parts, while there has not been any further heavy precipitation in general the conditions are excellent. From twenty-five to fifty per cent of the wheat in central districts is coming into the head.

Hail is reported from one or two localities, but the damage has been slight. The general conditions of setting to that with normal conditions, the province will harvest above an average crop.

Irrigated crops in the south are in excellent shape. Alfalfa has been a very good crop for the first cutting, and the corn and sugar beets are coming along well.

Pastures has been good and there is an increase in milk production.

Contract Let For New Telephone Exchange Bldg

Will be Brick and Tile Structure 22x32—Site on the Main Street. Work is Under Way

ESTIMATED COST $5000.00

Work of excavating for the concrete foundation of the new provincial government telephone exchange building, here, commenced Tuesday afternoon, the contract for its erection having been awarded to George Lindberg of Edmonton. The estimated cost is to be around five thousand dollars. The site is on the Main street, the government purchasing two lots immediately east of the town hall which gives them a 66 foot frontage by 120 feet depth.

The architect in Peter Hyde, provincial publicity inspector of the telephone department, who is superintending the work. Mr Hyde, kindly submitted the blue prints to the editor and gave an outline of the plans in detail, which showed a substantial and pleasing architectural design. It will have a floor area of 24 feet extending back 22 feet with 10 foot walls, the material used to be pressed brick built in Flemish bond, surmounted by a 2 foot 6 inch slate roof construct asphalt shingles painted green.

The main entrance projects 2 feet, the portico steps to be paved with hard brick, most convenient. Through this the entrance is to the public office, separated from the local manager's office by a partition. The public booth is located at one side of the public office. The remainder of the building is divided into two offices, one, operators room with switchboard and the remainder is located in the rack room where the operators public booths, entire property will be fenced with the wooden wire.

The contract does not specify time and material however and are in fact left to the total cost of the building at the rear end of the property.

Mr Hyde stated that this type of building has been adopted by the government in the larger towns and cities.

Canada's Gains and Losses

Prosperity is its pace, then Canada now has the largest favorable balance of any country in the world. During the fiscal year ended March 31 1926, while imports of good into Canada substantially increased, exports of Canadian products and manufactured articles increased to a far greater extent with the result that during the year exports exceeded imports by the huge sum of $101,113,000. In the history of Canada's favorable trade balance has been exceeded in only one year, 1918, when the figure was $177,000,000, and only one year since has it approached a high war picture of $100,000,000.

During the last fiscal year Canada not only enjoyed a favorable trade balance with the British Empire, but it also had a favorable balance with foreign countries, the only country with the United States being more than offset by the balance with other foreign countries. The total of Canada's export trade in the year was $1,222,000,000, or about $120 per every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

It is this large favorable trade balance which was contributed so largely, to the fine movement in Canadian exchange and placed the Canadian dollar at a premium in the United States as well as in other countries. It is a high index of the returning prosperity so strikingly in evidence throughout the country at the present time and a promise of further advance in the future.

But while Canada is thus making really remarkable progress in the matters of the world it contributes to suffer heavy and quite unnecessary and preventable losses at home. Of the importance because it is the most serious, is the unnecessary loss of life from wholly preventable causes. In previous articles in this column reference has been made to losses sustained through disease which could be avoided by the exercise of proper precautions. Attention at this time may well be directed to the increasing list of killed and seriously injured for life as a result of reckless automobile driving. The newspapers are full of accounts of fatal and serious motor accidents, nearly all of which could have been avoided by the exercise of ordinary care. Recently the Railway Commission of Canada issued a bulletin dealing with only one cause of such accidents, namely, the indifference of motorists and drivers of other vehicles at railway crossings. This bulletin records the fact that the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railway together reported 262 cases of grade crossing accidents in 1923 to 284,242 cars, in 1924 to 284,242 cars in 1925 to 284,242 cars in 1926 to 284,242 cars in 1927 to 284,242 cars in 1928 to 284,242 cars in 1929 to 284,242 cars in 1930 to 284,242 cars in 1931 to 284,242 cars in

A Town In The Making

The editor was a recent visitor to the new town of Wetlesdie, 21 miles northeast of Vermilion, located on the Cut Knife—Whitford Lake branch of the Canadian Pacific railway now under construction. The site for the town to be is quite imposing and the prospective site of the several business premises commands a view of a wide area of the surrounding country, judging as it does a long stretch of road on a cross country highway. T. Saunders's grocery and hardware store is the largest structure on the site, being two storeys high and located on the highest point of ground at that place. It is on the north side of the highway and running westward are buildings occupied by superior Lumber Yards, R. Mackenzie, confectionery and general supplies, Nelson-Hill Hardware and Lumber Co., a confectionery store and Imperial Lumber Co., while on the south side stands the Rimphyin Co-operative store. A movement is on foot to build a community hall. All of the buildings will probably be moved next year on to a site near the station which is yet to be selected and laid out, as the town increased that there is not a possibility that removal will have to be necessary. A blacksmith shop livery barn and hotel are on the list to be built and that is the prospect as also of school churches and other buildings will come in. Large quantities of supplies and goods are being received daily along and stocks are gradually becoming well assorted in view of an ever increasing demand. All together the prospects look exceeding ly bright as Wetlesdie developing in to a substantial little town. The people is still a mile or so east where the siding was heavy but it was expected that before the construction camp farther west closed.

The country is well settled and crops are looking good.

Fall Wheat Cutting

Cutting of fall wheat started in Southern Alberta during the present week. The second cutting of alfalfa has also started.

Attendance at Exhibitions

The total attendance at Calgary's campaign for the five days of last week was 137,000 which was nearly 20,000 greater than last year. At the Edmonton Exhibition and historical pageant during the present week the total attendances have also been in excess, more than 100,000 attending during each day.

Prize Winning Districts

Vermilion and Sedgewick provincial constituencies won first and second respectively in the competition for district exhibits at the Edmonton Exhibition, during the present week.

Reeds Convention for Alberta

The annual convention of the Canadian Seed Growers Association will be held in Edmonton, Alberta, some time in September, the exact date to be announced shortly. Members of the executive committee of the association visited the province recently, to arrange for the convention at which delegates are expected to attend.

Big Tourist Traffic

More than 1,000 tourists have registered at the Calgary auto camp since July 1 according to figures compiled there. Many of these tourists have come on to the summer resorts in the mountains of the province.

Members Go To Australia

For the purpose of advising Australian wheat growers on the formation of a wheat pool, members of the Canadian wheat pool will go there during the present month. The Alberta representative will be W. W. Wood, president of the Alberta Pool, and Geo. Hoover, sales manager for Alberta. The party will also visit the Orient to study market conditions and will start away for four months.

Employment Increases

Considerable improvement over employment conditions of last year is noted during the present season. During the last six weeks the government employment bureaus have placed from 20 to 25 more per week than in the same period last year. In order to make plans for the harvest season, a conference of the provincial employment association with representatives of the western provincial governments will be held for one week at Winnipeg.

Wing Girls' Scholarship

The scholarship offered by Hon. Gen. Local Footballers Enjoy Game At Vegreville

Lost By One Goal

On Saturday last the local football eleven travelled to Vegreville to play their first game of the season and, although beaten by the odd goal in five, they gave a good account of their opponents. A brief synopsis of the game is as follows:

The Game

Vegreville won the toss and took advantage of the stiff wind which started the game and Vermilion made headway on the right but were checked before they could do any great damage. Some fine passes were put across but none were converted. A lovely effort at this juncture provided the first thrill. Vegreville forwards came within an ace of scoring but brilliant net minding by Bryden foiled them. The exchanges during the first twenty minutes were fairly even, Vegreville showing to advantage when attacking. After a spell of desultory exhibited play, Maskell opened the scoring for Vermilion. It was a snap shot, but finish of Vegreville fumbled and over the line trickled the ball from Vermilion later from a beautiful pass by Bennett. Nose equalized for Vegreville. Score at half-time stood Vegreville 1, Vermilion 1.

Second Half

Ten minutes after the restart Veg scored a fine one up. Anon scoring a lovely goal from a free centre. They did not hold their lead long, for Lloyd added a second goal from left and to Vermilion five minutes later after this a ding dong battle ensued on supremacy, and a goal was bound to come and at last it did—but for Vermilion, but for Vegreville, and a gain the whole in the lead. Thus ended a well contested game. Referee Mr. Jones, Lethbridge, was in, but it struck the cross bar, then Maskell had a try, but put over there next essayed a shot which also went only by inches. Great but anon ery good try which the goalie managed to just turn round the post. At the corner kick was really cleared Veg reville shots were non-existing den and for Vermilion, and on the whistle the Vegreville goal was under going a terrific bombardment. Final score: Vegreville 2, Vermilion 2

Summing Up

It was a good clean game, and Veg reville were the better team on the best one of the two chances. Best in Vermilion were Whiteley, Gimur and Machab while Fred Gare at centre played like a trojan but was shaken out from start to finish. Bryden kept a good goal and could not be blamed for any of the goals.

The Vermilion team was as follows: Bryden, Johnson and Cusak, Hyde, Whitley, Thompson and Machab, Cooper, Bissett, Clare, Maskell and Gimur.

U. S. Farmers Coming to Canada

Marked activity in the movement of agricultural settlers from the United States to Canada is stated by the Dominion Government department of immigration and colonization in the month of June 1926 settlers, who with their wives and families represent 212 persons, came into Canada from Fergus, North Dakota, bringing with them cash and effects to the value of $405,450. The Canadian National Railways colonization officials at St. Paul, Minn. were responsible for a large number of these settlers embarking to the Canadian prairies.

GET THEIR PUBLICITY WHERE THEY GET THEIR JOB WORK.

An editor of one of the rural papers in the state of Kansas, and a lady editor at that, is telling them to get their publicity just where they get their job work and to those sentiments the Standard says "Amen." The vast majority of the right thinking public will also agree with this sentiment is they consider what the small town paper gives and does. "More of us run job offices" says the above quoted editor. "And into the job offices we feed a lot of money we make in the newspaper business, and by enlarging our plants we make more profits by which we make better newspapers. The small town papers are the best papers in Kansas largely because the editors run job offices.

"Now then it happens that scores of town institutions and other bodies are crucified free by newspapers, such as churches as colleges, chambers of commerce, associations, clubs, also various other organizations do not advertising but they show a decent appreciation of the newspapers by giving the newspapers all their job printing. It is all they can give and little on which to compete with the free and advertising which the newspapers give them.

An attempt was being made by a member of a certain club to have the annual year book of the institution printed outside of town, and this editor endeavored to enlighten the public on to just where the publishing of a newspaper in a small town was interdependent upon job work patronage in contributing the editor said, that if the printing for public or civic organizations is printed out of town, it can take its troubles elsewhere and sell the papers elsewhere to do the free boosting and free publicity. Legitimate business is legitimate business, in that it enables editors to give space in their papers free to local causes.

ROSEBOROUGH—MORMAN

St. John's cathedral rendered, decorated with quantities of larkspur and potted plants, was the scene of a pretty midsummer wedding on Wednesday afternoon, July 14, when Miss Hazel Gladys Morman, younger daughter of Mr and Mrs T. H. Morman, became the bride of Mr. Adelbert Roseborough, of Platte River, and only son of Mr. & H. Roseborough of Vermilion Mrs. and the late Mr. Roseborough. Canon Armitage performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends. Mr. Johnson presided at the organ. Lohengrin's nuptial march was rendered as the bridal party entered the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was lovely in a gown of white georgette with flowing veil hung on white satin ribbon. Her veil was held in place by a garland of pearls and orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. Her only ornament was a gold magic locket, the gift of the groom and which has been worn by the bridegroom's mother on her wedding day.

Miss Lois Morman, sister of the bride was maid of honor and Miss Margaret Roseborough of Vermilion sister of the bridegroom was bridesmaid. Their frocks were of georgette fashioned alike. Miss Morman was in shell pink and Miss Roseborough in apple green. They wore hats to match and carried arm bouquets of pink and white carnations and ferns.

Mr. Stanley Morman, brother of the bride, was best man.

Mrs. T. H. Morman wore a navy green of panama lace georgette and smartly embroidered in rose, blue and gold. Her hat was of rose silk and she wore a corsage bouquet of carnations and ferns.

Mrs. Roseborough the bridegroom's mother, was in black canton crepe beaded in crystal with hat to match and gold lace corsage was of carnations and ferns.

Following the ceremony the wedding party motored to the home of the bride's parents where a delightful wedding supper was served. The dining room was prettily decorated in the bride's colors, pink and white. Mr. and Mrs. Roseborough left later on a month's motor tour of Saskatchewan and Alberta. The bride traveled in a smart frock of black taffeta and bordered green georgette. Her hat was of green and white and on their return they will make their home at Platte River where the bridegroom is principal of the school.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a handsome necklace to the maid of honor and bridesmaid bracelets and to the best man a tie pin.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John Voight and daughter Helen, of Dauphin; Mr and Mrs Ernest Stahr of Dunbloon; Mr and Mrs Theodore Rudolf; Mr and Mrs K. Fullman of Dunbloon, and Mrs Ainsworth of Minico

CORLEY—POOLE

A quiet wedding was solemnized at McDonald church manse, Edmonton on Monday, July 12 at 4 p.m. when Miss Gertrude Pauline Poole became the bride of Edwin Corley of Vermilion. The Rev. A. C. Bingham performed the ceremony.

The bride was charming in white brocade with georgette and lace trimmings.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. W. G. Morrison 9674 107 street. The rooms were tastefully decorated with a profusion of roses and the table was centred with a wedding cake resting in nids of pink and white asters.

Later on the couple left by motor for Banff on a honeymoon trip the bride going to Vermilion to prepare for the reception on the evening of August 4th.

FIELD DAY AT EXPERIMENTAL STATION, LACOMBE

Saturday, August 7th, 1926

What varieties of wheat should I grow? What variety of barley shall I grow? What variety of oats shall I grow? Shall I grow wheat barley or oats next year?

Farmers who have problems in connection with grain production or in dairy farming, should attend the Experimental Station Lacombe on August 7th. On some fields a comparison between varieties can be seen. Many of the problems of the dairy farmer will be discussed. Come and bring your friends. Lunch will be served on the grounds at noon. Tea and coffee provided.

Addresses will be given on soil drifting and spring wheat, on the value of roots and turnips, on the value of corn and ensilage, on the value of alfalfa and on the value of pasture for dairy cows.

Following the afternoon session, the Lacombe Agricultural Society will hold its annual field day sports. There will be a baseball game between Lacombe and Blackfalds, a baseball game between Lacombe and Bentley, a baseball game between Lacombe and Eckville, a baseball game between Lacombe and Lacombe, a baseball game between Lacombe and Lacombe, a baseball game between Lacombe and Lacombe

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The third biennial convention of the World's Federation of Education Associations will meet in Toronto Aug. 6 to 10, 1927.

Premier Taschereau, of Quebec, declared there will be no provincial elections this year. It is possible that one may be held in 1928 if certain issues now under consideration should arise, he remarked.

Films of British soldiers marching are to be used in Britain, while the movie industry is under the control of Stanley Baldwin, Premier Bonar Law's chancellor of the exchequer, it was announced by Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer in the Conservative cabinet.

Provincial elections in Manitoba, Ontario and Saskatchewan will be held this year, it is understood. Premier Bracken of Manitoba has announced that the election in that province will be held in June. Premier Ferguson of Ontario has declared that the election in that province will be held in October. Premier Anderson of Saskatchewan has declared that the election in that province will be held in June.

Lady Astor, Conservative member of parliament for Plymouth, England, is the first woman to be elected to the British parliament. She succeeds her husband, Viscount Astor, who has been elevated to the peerage.

Russians To Colonize Wrangell

Have Renamed This Barren Waste As Lenin Mitroff

A Russian expedition is on its way to colonize Wrangell Island in the Arctic Ocean, North of Siberia, and to name it Lenin Mitroff.

The expedition, in a Russian icebreaker, the Krassy Oktiabr (Red October) was scheduled to leave Port Nagaiev, Siberia, on the way, calling at Nagaiev Straits June 25 for the island of Lenin Mitroff, re-named in honour of Vladimir Lenin, considered the creator of Soviet Russia.

To Wrangell Island for whom a number of Russians and Esquimaux have been settled in 12 years, the Krassy Oktiabr will transport 25 families of Chuki-Lees (Siberian Esquimaux) dogs, and 25 reindeer. Equipment of the colony includes 2 motor boats for hunting and seal fishing, 2 chain boats for use on the Red (reindeer) for Lenin Mitroff were established in the three years of Those familiar with the history of Wrangell Island for Lenin Mitroff's presentation to the Bolsheviki. It became of such importance that the value of fuel and supplies was quadrupled.

French War Debt

British-France Agreement to Wide In Scope

An agreement was signed recently for the funding of the French war debt to Great Britain after a conference between Winston Churchill, chancellor of the British exchequer, and Joseph Caillaux, French minister of finance and a subsequent discussion with treasury officials to draft the terms of the agreement.

The conclusion reveals not only the French war debt, but virtually all the outstanding accounts between Great Britain and France. Announcement of the effect was made in the House of Commons by Rt. Hon Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer of the British parliament, as well would be £4,000,000 (£4,000,000 less, or say, £3,000,000 annually, the last named figure being reached in 1950.

First: 1926 to 1950, the payments would be £12,500,000 annually, rising to £14,000,000 for the final 21 years.

Mr. Caillaux expressed himself as entirely pleased with his reception in London and especially with Mr. Churchill's amiability.

The full payment terms are £12 annually for 62 years and France will not be required to pay the indemnities during the years of German retaliation till after a long period has elapsed. The French Ambassador to London and Mr. Caillaux, French Minister of Finance, will be the signatories to the agreement on behalf of their respective governments.

Taking the entire arrangement into the British Empire, it is considered by experts that Britain's financial interests in Russia have not been jeopardized by the agreement.

Combat Wholesale Forgeries By Use Of Secret Service

While European bankers are making valiant collective private efforts to combat wholesale forgeries of German Reichsmark bank money orders, the government is also taking steps to combat wholesale forgeries of the commercial Inflation Journal.

Three large ironclad engines have been ordered by the British Admiralty, it was announced in the House of Commons by Rt. Hon. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty. The engines will be installed in the battleships Nelson and Rodney, now being built at Birkenhead and Barrow.

Requests for such work are said to have been received from Africa, India and Australia — one map, in British West Africa, wrote six flems in succession. Wrangell Island is the Arctic Ocean, North of Siberia, and to name it Lenin Mitroff.

The expedition, in a Russian icebreaker, the Krassy Oktiabr (Red October) was scheduled to leave Port Nagaiev, Siberia, on the way, calling at Nagaiev Straits June 25 for the island of Lenin Mitroff, re-named in honour of Vladimir Lenin, considered the creator of Soviet Russia.

To Wrangell Island for whom a number of Russians and Esquimaux have been settled in 12 years, the Krassy Oktiabr will transport 25 families of Chuki-Lees (Siberian Esquimaux) dogs, and 25 reindeer. Missing Persons Bureau of New York Police Department Handles Difficult Cases

A record-sensitive device putting on the familiar "disappearing lady" act, would do well to comb his audience for members of the missing persons bureau of the New York police department.

During the past year this bureau has had to deal with 25,000 real life disappearances, far more baffling than those from the magician's trick cabinet. Since the bureau was opened in 1917 more than 120,000 such cases have been handled. And more than 90 per cent. of the vanished persons have been found.

When someone disappears out of sight, as the saying is, it would seem to the inexperienced searcher that all the world must be dragged with a fine-set. Some of the disappearances are no unexpected, and apparently inexplicable that it seems to relatives and friends that the last one must have stepped out of known life altogether into the mysterious realms of space such as Alice found on the other side of the looking glass.

Actually all it is interesting to learn from Lieutenant Ayres that of the 25,000 persons reported missing to the police in the last year only 4,000 were children! Disappearances for the purpose of financial or domestic trouble, with the "other woman" or the "other man" as the directing force in many to 10 stances

Cause and Effect

South Punishment As a Substitute For Capital Punishment Is Suggested

There were 181 homicides in England and Wales in 1923 the latest available date. The population of the countries was about 34,000,000 in New York city, with 6,000,000 people, the homicides in the same year totalled 300, or twice as many for one sixth of the population

There is no explanation for the situation about the number of murderers executed in England and Wales in 1923. In that year the average was 10 and the ratio of executions to crimes was high, for that is the way things are done in England. The following year, 1924, there were four executions in all New York state, and it is not a matter for surprise that the penalty for murder in New York city rose to 247 for the year.

Now we tried swift punishment of murderers in this country as a substitute for dilatory judicial proceedings and delayed executions. The murderers might get down somewhere near the humanity from crime they enjoy in England.—Detroit Free Press

May Remain Until September

His Excellency Lord Byng Not Lose Immediately on Expiration of Term of Office

His Excellency Lord Byng will remain in Canada until the middle or later part of September. While his term expires in June, it is the usual the governor-general's leaving is always a matter of arrangement between the British and Dominion governments. As Lord Willingdon has not been long in England after his trip to Canada, it is thought he will not be ready to arrange to get out here before the latter part of September. Lord Byng and Lady Byng have many friends in Canada that the outgoing and incoming governor-generals will meet at Quebec

The governor-general has not yet made up his mind as to his future plans, but is likely to live at the conclusion of his term. It is stated at Ottawa. While the period of his appointment is five years, it is not any way an arbitrary rule that the old governor-general must be invested and the new one appointed at exact date of expiration. The political situation, it is stated, has nothing to do with Lord Byng's decision to remain here until September.

Mystery Woman of British Near East Dies Suddenly in Paris

Miss Gertrude Bell, "the mystery woman" of British Near East Empire many, is dead.

Miss Bell was 58 years old and a graduate of Oxford University. She travelled extensively and had acquired considerable knowledge of the Near East. During the world war she was an intelligence agent for the British army in Egypt. Later she served as a political official in Bagdad and was credited with playing an important role in the formation of Iraq, Britain's post war policy in the Near East.

THE PASSOVER

Golden Text: Our passover also hath Christ sacrificed, even Christ 1 Corinthians 5:7.

Lesson: Exodus 11:1-12:28

Devotional Reading: Psalm 91:1-7

Explanations and Comments

Instruction As To the Instituting of the Passover, verses 1-11 In the words of Rabbi Wise, It is the high day of the first independent nation established on the principles of liberty and equality It was fitting that the new era should be dated from that deliverance To Moses and Aaron came a revelation that time is stilled a change in the calendar to commemorate the great deliverance which would accompany the Exodus This month shall be unto you the beginning of months it shall be the first month of the year to you." This month was the month Abib, which corresponded to the end of March and the beginning of April. The month Tishri, the month of harvests, had been the beginning of the year After the Exile the month Abib was known as the Babylonian name Nisan. As it was the month of their birth as a nation, and therefore it was fitting that it be regarded as important It should be the beginning of their year. The later Jews had a twofold computation of the year the ecclesiastical year, which began in autumn, in the seventh month of the civil year. The Jews in Egypt the year properly began with the summer solstice, when the Nile comes rowed to rise" (Ellerslein).

U. S. Scouts Send British Comrades Bronze Statuette

An interesting inspection ceremony took place at Buckingham Palace, when the Prince of Wales in his guise of the British Boy Scouts' Chief Scout, received a statuette of a Boy Scout presented on behalf of the Boy Scouts of America as a token of the friendship and goodwill and friendship.

The statuette is described as the "unknown scout" who, by doing a good turn to a United States tourist in the London streets, took upon himself the responsibility of doing a good turn to every scout.

Turkish Traffic Rules

Traffic police in Constantinople wear extensive pride in their uniforms and carriage. They wear crimson and brass helmets, and carry a baton of red and white stripes which is remarkably like a peppermint candy. They take great pride in outdoing one another in the neatness of their uniforms and in their carriage. The effect is striking to tourists visiting that country.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Joanna, a modern, pretty, shop girl is to have a blind date with Jack Grayson, her employer, tells her. There are no preliminaries. He just wants to know the name of her boy-friend. Nothing daunted, Joanna tells him and, freed from banker Linkerton now his suitor, takes about seven to show who helps he write her first check and tells her that he intends to make love to her. Dazed by the sudden flood of undreamed of wealth, crushed by the fact that her shop girl friends will not believe she gifted is honorably she is constrained to let John Linkerton sweetheart. He also scorns her tale, angry accusations are said on scene ensues Joanna crushed sinks to the floor, Later that night, when she gets her landlady, does both sit in her. The next day she gets a position as cashier in a shop girl companion. They plan to spend some of the fortune for finery.

"Tricks," she continued, laughing at him in spite of herself, "with which georgie—she's been rather a victim, you know—or with any of the rest. If they had only been the kind of men I thought them if I tried, and they had to start early to get anyone away from me but myself, I'm in for some competition now

A woman, a young woman, whose smooth dark hair clung in a beautifully formed head; a woman with sombre black eyes that suggested vivid flowers of red, hovered close to the table and paused An observer would have thought that she had stopped, and was a bent on the purpose of the other of the pair at the table. But she moved on, her shadow fell for a moment on Joanna's paper, and the one who observed very closely would have detected the almost imperceptible hesitation in the woman's step, and with a gesture of his elbow Joanna was not even conscious of the little upheaval of interest Brandon had for her attention

"You think then that your poor boy will not be able to resist the call of what you are calling comparatively? from your own set That the girls that you have been meeting will be a conquest of mine?"

Joanna's brow wrinkled That question is one that she had not considered "I shouldn't. Won't you tell me what?"

"But you don't," he pressed on, earnestly "I want you to tell me. I want to be you to plan but to help it

Brandon made his presentations easily. Joanna rejoiced in the softness of a foreign speaking name, and heard that Brandon exile of the attaché. "Yvonne," Despite its pretense, Joanna sensed, instinctively, that the meeting had been arranged.

CHAPTER X.

Joanna Meets Another Suitor

In the sudden cascade of small talk, with which the two women were carried into their places at the table by two waiters, each more excitable than the other, Joanna was vaguely uncomfortable—out of her environment depths. Her store of smart things seemed utterly inadequate to the sharp greetings and parables Within her own experiences, introductory conversation with a child or dinner or two at routines herself, or dinner it She was never concerned with who was here, whether they lived here or not. Not the ones who came and went across her horizon They were all like her, merely there, supplied as she was with the common weapons of affluent flapperhood lips always shaped for the kiss, a ready wisdom that guarded those lips when occasion arose clothes that added to the line of her and a skill at delicate evasion In Joanna's code no thing—any girl those days, must be ready instantly to take the place of one lover with another—one or the other was certain to be necessary She and Georgia sat alone together for lunch, but Joanna had been so quantum sulphuric among the available supply of properly mannered, good looking young men to allow them any places to go She reminded now when she stole a glance at the man who had come in with Yvonne, and with the sleek, black hair, that by the time he had said, "How do you do" to Georgia, Joanna felt she would have hitched inspired of him:

"Well now, look who's here. Who do you think you are, running off with my best girl friend? Don't you know that I'm the one who's always run away with her?"

As she had concluded a moment before, Joanna was at her first sight of him. Keen of mind, she had instantly realized that he was to have some tragic influence over her and her future. Some day she would be grateful, she wouldn't be little He would not be the one who would plot for something for her, but he would be the one to arouse herself with a woman, he would aim at her soul. She knew the kind of man he was, and she subsided

Sudden Death North Farmer

Wade Warren Succumbs to Heart Failure — Found Dead by Search Party

Wade Warren, who farmed about 10 miles north of town, was found dead on the roadway Thursday night last about 9 o'clock by a search party made up of neighbors and his son, Oliver, who had instituted a search for him following his non-return home the previous evening. The party comprising the deceased's son and Messrs. Causey, Plumer and James were on horseback and while proceeding down the trail leading to a Hudson's Bay section of land where it was customary to pasture the cattle, came upon the body alongside the trail. The A. F. P. of Vermilion was immediately notified and upon arrival at the scene had the remains covered with a blank set until the arrival of the coroner, Dr. Knell, the next morning, when J. Waring of the local undertaking parlors removed the body to his mortuary. The cause of death was probably due to heart failure.

Mr. Warren had gone to the pasture on the Wednesday evening to bring up the cattle and on the way back had chatted for some time with Mr. James a neighbor, leaving as the cattle were moving along. Mr. James also left right after on horseback to go over to his father's farm. Oliver, who was working on the road, watered the stock and retired for the night, thinking that his father was probably at a neighbors, he left early next morning for his work and it was not until returning Thursday night and finding no sign of his father's return that he notified neighbors with the above result. Death must have taken place very shortly after bidding his family good night.

Wade Bridges Warren was in his sixty-third year and came to Canada from Wisconsin eight years ago, locating on the land north some three years ago. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and two sons, only Oliver being with him at the time of his death. The remains were shipped to Edmonton on Sunday morning by the request of his widow, accompanied by the two sons whose funeral was held at 2.30 o'clock the same day from Walmsley's & Jackson's parlors, Rev. Mr. Hughes officiating. Interment took place in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Big West City

It is anticipated that the wool city in southern Alberta will reach the 2,000,000 lbs mark this year. Of this a million and a quarter pounds will be handled through the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers association. The fleeces this year are stated to be unusually large.

Re-Union At V.A.S. On August 13-14

Special Arrangements Made for Annual Gathering

In the interests of keeping all ex students together, the Alumni of the Vermilion School of Agriculture are planning a reunion on August 13 and 14. This will provide an opportunity for all ex-students to renew old acquaintances and make new ones. It will be the best time to come and see the school and its wide lawns at their best. The lawns are green, the flowers in blossom, plots at their best and the staff entertaining as well as in attending.

The plan is to have the general registration commence at 2 o'clock on Friday, August 6th. The afternoon baseball for the two trains from the west being in time to get students here.

After the registration and current business meeting, there will be a splitting of the students whereby the boys will go on an inspection of the plots and the girls to the Domestic Science department. A tea will be served on the lawn at 6 o'clock, after which baseball for the boys and basketball for the girls will be indulged in. At 8:30 a dance will be started and just until all the wee sma' hours at the morning.

At 9 o'clock on Saturday there will be a meeting of the groups, girls in the Domestic Science department for some instruction how to have a night's rest at a minimum cost. There will probably be two classes for each group during the morning.

There also will be more especially by an extra issue of the many good items that visiting students may be interested in.

At 2 o'clock there will be a business meeting and election to offices for the year, all to be over in time those who must get home on the 5 o'clock train going west.

This is your reunion, your party, your treat. The more who come the better the time, the greater the benefit and the more lasting the memories.

All members are invited to bring long friends relatives or prospective students all of which will help to make the reunion a success. Come in cars or on horseback by train or freight, but come. Bring the children and the neighbor who has no car and needs a ride.

Don't forget the date—August 13th and 14th.

Mount Fryatt Conquered

One of the Highest Peaks in Athabasca River Section Has Been Scaled

Mount Fryatt, one of the highest and most formidable peaks in the Athabasca River section of the Canadian Rockies, has been scaled, by Howard Palmer of New London, Conn., and Dr. J. W. Hickson, of Montreal.

This mountain with precipitous sides sloping on one side, and great glacier fields on the other, had hitherto resisted all attempts to conquer it, and only last year it had been placed in the category of those peaks which it was thought would never be climbed, when Mr. Palmer was climbing at it was engaged.

It was accomplished on the second attempt.

German Army Officers Taken Prisoners By Russians Refuse To Return

More than two hundred former German army officer and men, taken prisoners by the Russians during the war and exiled to Siberia, like the fruits, seem so well that they refuse to come back.

This is revealed in a statement of the German Government which declined to repatriate them, on the ground that the treatment of the Germans in Siberia equals that of the Russians in Germany.

Since 1922, the statement continues, the government has offered each year free transportation back home to those years only fifty have taken advantage of the offer, while two hundred and sixteen have become Russian citizens. All have married on German soil and are running a good living.

Explorer Secures Photographs of Strange Tribe in Philippines

Photographs to what their owner, J. Weir Reid, stated were specimens of the "missing link" in human evolution, which he had discovered in a remote district of the Philippine Islands, have been received in Toronto, it has been announced.

He arrived from Chile. Mr Weir Reid is said to be a Swiss scientist.

The photographs, it is stated, are pictures with great difficulty after remaining for seven days among the natives. They are said to be of a photographic was of a woman who might at last a tall like combination of the two.

The tribesmen, according to Weir Reid, refused to pose for pictures, and those which he obtained were by snapshots secured while the subjects were unaware of his actions.

Radio in Canada

Six Plants in Canada Engaged in the Manufacture of Radio Equipment

Production in Canada of radio apparatus including sets, parts and batteries reached a total value of $6,548,659 in 1925, according to a recent statement issued by the Canadian Government bureau of statistics at Ottawa. Six plants in Canada were engaged solely in the manufacture of radio sets or parts, nine other concerns made sets and parts in conjunction with the manufacture of other electrical apparatus and 13 of the manufacturers of batteries in Canada reported an output for radio purposes.

Statistics for 1925 show a substantial growth in the radio industry during the past year as compared with 1924, the increase being due largely to the production of complete sets rather than the manufacture of separate parts. In 1925 the number of complete sets manufactured by these companies was 43,498 and the selling value, f.o.b. works, was given as $2,196,924. Production of vacuum tubes amounted in value to $1,390,614, which was double that of the previous year.

Radio licenses were issued by the radio branch of the marine and fisheries during the twelve months ending March, 1926, to 124,448 persons, a increase of 24,000 over the total of 60,110; Quebec was next with 21,161. Registrations in the other areas were as follows: Saskatchewan, 19,981; Manitoba, 14,5--; British Columbia, 14,191. Alberta 8,152, Nova Scotia, 2,285, New Brunswick, 2,412; Prince Edward Island, 302; Yukon, 23; and the Northwest Territories, 17 Licenses broadcasting stations, including amateurs, numbered 55, distributed as follows: Ontario, 24; British Columbia, 10; Quebec, 7; Alberta, 6; Quebec, 1, Manitoba, 2; New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, 1 each.

SOME SYMPTOMS OF THIN BLOOD

Everybody Should be Able to Recognize Them Because Early Treatment is Important

Anaemia, or thin blood, is a scientific disease and is often quite advanced before it is recognized. It is much easier to correct in its early stages, but if unchecked causes weakness, loss of weight, lack of vigor and ambition.

Some symptoms of anaemia are loss of appetite, indigestion, headaches, breathlessness, shortness of breath after exertion, and often extreme nervousness. In women and girls all of these symptoms begin treatment sure with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for these pills will make the blood rich and plentiful. Every part of the body will receive new strength as soon as is shown by the case of Mrs. Homer Hay, Port Arthur, Ont., who says:—"A few years ago I was a very weak, nervous woman. I was run down and my nerves badly shattered. I had read Dr. Morse's medicine, but I had no help from it. I tried other medicines, but with no better results. One day I was reading a newspaper, I came across an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I began to use very much like my own. I decided to try them, and by the time I had used two boxes I could feel the benefit I was getting from them, so I faithfully continued the treatment and was soon restored to better health. Since then I had occasion for some years in my family, and I have done for me I cheerfully recommend their use to all weak, run-down people."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont. A free booklet, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent to any address on request.

More Wheat This Year

Predicted World's Output of Wheat Will Show An Increase

Prospective wheat production this year in twelve countries, producing 83.5 per cent. of all wheat in the northern hemisphere last year, exclusive of Russia and China, is placed by last estimates at 1,357,000,000 bushels, compared with 1,330,000,000 bushels last year.

Production in European countries is expected to be smaller than last year, but the decrease is more than offset by prospective increases in the United States, the department of agriculture announced in making public estimates from abroad.

Canada Protects Railways

The request of American manufacturers of automobiles to drive new cars across the Canadian border has been met by the customs department at Ottawa the officials of which main tain that this is a discrimination against the railways that should be encouraged. They say to encourage the use of automobiles would mean the construction of more highways and the building of more bridges.

Will Be Presented With Medal

Scottish Scientist To Be Honored By American Chemical Society

Sir James Irvine, principal of the University of St. Andrew's, Scotland, since 1921, and a member of the advisory council, department of scientific and industrial research, has arrived in Canada. The object of his visit to this continent is to receive the Willard-Gibbs gold medal from the American Chemical Society. The last scientist of note to whom this medal was awarded was Madame Curie. Although Sir James was of considerable value to the British Government during the war on account of his studies and discoveries of antidotes for poison gas, the American Chemical Society is presenting him with it, it is said, in recognition of his valuable researches on sugar, a subject dealing with starch, and on cellulose. The presentation is to take place in Chicago, September 17.

Question Of Naturalization

The Matter is to Come Before the Imperial Conference

The fact that Canada was the only dominion that had failed to reply to a circular from the Imperial authorities relating to the naturalization of children of British subjects born abroad during the war, was mentioned in the British House of Lords by Lord Desborough.

Replying to a question he explained that nationality having become a subject of Imperial importance, it would be placed on the agenda of the Imperial conference.

International Territory

North Pole in the Midst of the Arctic Sea and Not on Land

North Pole is international territory, and no nation could make an individual claim to it, Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, said in response to a question put by the Aften Posten, of Copenhagen. He had received the following from the newspaper:

"Was it Peary, Byrd or Amundsen who annexed the North Pole?"

Amundsen replied:

"The Norwegian expedition proved the North Pole not to be situated on land, but on a sea, and as the Arctic ocean has been proved to be international, no individual nation, Norway, the United States nor any other, could say it had annexed the North Pole."

SAYS IT WILL BE A PRIVILEGE TO HELP CANADA

London.—"It will be a privilege during the next five years to help Canada achieve her great purpose. I shall do my utmost to ensure the prosperity and progress of the Dominion."

Viscount Willingdon, son of Sir Freeman Freeman-Thomas, Canada's new governor-general, made this statement in the course of an address on his new post, at the dinner in his honor given here. The function was attended, among other notables, by the Duke of Connaught, former governor-general of Canada; Rt. Hon. L. C. Amery, secretary for the dominions, and Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian high commissioner in London.

The Duke of Connaught, proposing the health of Viscount Willingdon, declared he was confident that the new governor-general would like the Dominion better the longer he lived there. This had been his own experience.

Hon. L. C. Amery supported the toast.

Viscount Willingdon spoke in the happiest strain of his recent journey to Canada, "the general impression of the Dominion can be expressed in two words," he said, "confidence and optimism." He could not, he added, forget that Canada was saying "we gave our best during the war but we sang no thanks because we were only doing our duty; we have passed through a bad time since but we think we see the light shining through the clouds; we are perfectly confident that we shall get through our difficulties. We are determined to become a real help to His Majesty the King, and determined more and more to become a pillar of support to the mother country and the British Empire."

"If I am right in this impression, then I am indeed proud that stirring the next five years will be privileged to help Canada achieve her great purpose," he declared.

"I am determined, so far as it lies in me, to do my utmost to ensure the prosperity and progress of the great Dominion," he concluded.

Viscount Willingdon was accorded cheers at the conclusion.

Santa Cruz Snowbound

Sheep and Cattle Herds Suffer Through Cold in South America

Buenos Aires.—Unofficial reports from the remote country in the Santa Cruz territory in the far south of the republic are more than confirmed by official reports, the dispatches received by the ministry of the interior from the governor of the territory of Santa Cruz, in which the snowbound, and where all communications either are interrupted or are cut.

The governor estimates that 50 per cent. of the country's immense sheep and cattle herds have been killed by the snow causes and the thaws sets in within 10 days.

The thermometer, which for some time has registered 24 degrees below zero, overnight, shows no signs of rising. The snow has become a pure dictions has caused a considerable effect in wool circles in Buenos Aires.

Warsaw To Paris Flight

Paris.—Lieutenant Thoret, the Pyrenean aviator, piloting an aeroplane with a racing speed of 200 kilometres an hour, with a 500 horse-power motor, has made a non stop flight between Warsaw and Paris at an average of 180 miles an hour. The aviator had sufficient gasoline in his tank when he landed in St to London had he so desired. The Klem sette" consumed 2½ gallons of fuel for each 60 miles flown. There's trip was made with the purpose of making air tours popular. He says flying in the small plane is cheaper than using an automobile.

Lord Willingdon Congratulated

London.—Viscount and Lady Willingdon were among a distinguished gathering at a luncheon tendered by the British Indian Union, and the Marquis of Reading, former Viceroy of India took the occasion to toast the man who had been appointed to succeed Lord Byng as governor-general of Canada. The luncheon was held under the chairmanship of the Duke of Connaught, who has himself served as governor-general to Canada.

King To Run In Prince Albert

Accepts Nomination In Northern Riding for Federal Elections

Ottawa.—Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, former prime minister, telegraphed the Liberal Association in Prince Albert, Sask., accepting the nomination for the Liberal candidature in the September elections.

At the same time, Mr. King announced his regrets to the Liberals of North York, who also wished to name him as their standard bearer.

He pointed out in the latter that he would be compelled to spend most of the time between now and election day in a canoe-to-canoe campaign and would not be able to devote to North York the time and energy necessary to redeem the riding. "I am here fell," he adds, "that to enable me to serve the party's interest in the largest way, I should avail myself of the only constituency which the unexpiance of the nomination by the Liberals of Prince Albert will thus afford."

To Manage Wheat Pool Elevators

C. M. Hall Will Have Charge of Pool Elevators in Alberta

Calgary.—C. M. Hall, manager of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, has been appointed general manager of the Alberta Wheat Pool, it has been officially announced. He will assume his duties on August 15.

Mr. Hall has been associated with the Alberta Pacific Grain Company ever the line seven years.

Thomas H. Gilliver, also of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, has been appointed assistant to Mr. Hall. It is generally known that the wheat pool has already purchased 18 elevators in Alberta and have contracted for the building fifteen more which it is expected will be ready for business this year.

Harvest In Northern States

Minnesota and Dakotas Commence to Gather in Crops

Minneapolis.—The northwest's 1926 harvest has begun.

Harvesting of small grains is under way in several sections of the Dakotas and Minnesota, and will become general within a week or ten days.

In southern South Dakota and Minnesota, harvesting of wheat is underway, and some oats and barley is being cut. Central South Dakota and Minnesota farmers will start harvest within a week, while other reports said that some harvesting will begin in Northern Minnesota and North Dakota within four to eight days.

The first threshing of the season in South Dakota was reported on the Cliff Hunsaeth farm in the Irene district near Vista Falls. Threshing will be general within two weeks.

To Visit Dominion

American National Editorial Association Will Tour Canada

Victoria, B.C. Favorable impressions gathered by members of the National Editorial Association of the United States on their periodical visit to Canada has been a source of encouragement to influx of settlers into Western Canada. This was the view expressed here by Wallace Odell, vice president of the association who is leading a party of 150 journalists across the Dominion on their return east from the 41st annual convention at Los Angeles.

The party will split at Vancouver, about 50 leaving for a trip to Alaska and the remainder wandering at through the Canadian pass ing the provinces on their unlimited trunk that the party will visit Mr. Odell's ranch which comprises

Laborite Is Reproved

Jack Jones Is Ejected From the British House

London.—Jack Jones, irrepressible Laborite M.P., figured in another scene in the commons and had to withdraw from the house on the speaker's orders.

During the question period some members grumbled because the minister of mines, Lt.-Col. G. B. Lane, had not answered, and Jones said: "Is not the real reason that the minister of mines is incapable of answering questions?"

He refused to withdraw the remark, which the speaker declared was grossly improper, and was ordered from the house. Two weeks ago Jones caused a stir when he called Lady Astor a liar. Reproved by the chair he remained Churchill's phrase "terminological inexactitude."

More Self Discipline

Ramsay MacDonald Says Youth Requires More Discipline Than Ever

London.—Harsher self discipline is urged upon the youth of today by former Premier J Ramsay MacDonald, addressing a huge throng at a session of the World's Christian Endeavor convention at Crystal Palace. Because of the misery the world was passing through, the socialist M.P. declared, the standard of conduct of a few years ago, he said, youth required a discipline severer, more drastic and more hard-shot. In spiritual things than had been called for by any generation for a long period. The speech was roundly applauded.

ELECTION DATE ANNOUNCED FOR SEPTEMBER 14

Ottawa.—Canada goes to the polls on Tuesday, September 14, in his speech here. Hon. Arthur Meighen announced today. The duration of the campaign will be of just four weeks duration.

Premier Meighen opened the campaign with the first address of the party leaders. Addressing a huge throng in the Ottawa Auditorium, the premier declared that the issue was not a national unity cry regarding tariff, or any minor question, but the issue was "Canada or Canada and Canadianism versus the United States." He declared that the United States was out to annex Canada and "the Conservative party is the only party standing in the way."

Further Home Bank Claims

Toronto.—The Home Bank of Canada issued a statement today in which it claims that the bank has been able to pay all its depositors in full and has also paid the shareholders the amount of their holdings. The statement says that the bank has been able to pay all its depositors in full and has also paid the shareholders the amount of their holdings. Poincare To Form Cabinet

Takes Up Task Of Forming Government in France

Paris.—Raymond Poincare formed the cabinet of the republic and immediately presented the list of his ministers to President Doumergue for approval. The new premier will take up the task of forming a cabinet to replace that of Edouard Herriot, which resigned when the senate refused to approve the government's financial proposals.

President Doumergue's acceptance of the list of ministers submitted by Poincare was announced by parliamentary and political quarters declared that the new premier would be able to form a cabinet which would be voted the confidence of both houses of parliament. The new premier will be the fifth premier of the republic since the beginning of 1924.

BRITISH TRADE IS DEPENDENT ON PREFERENCE

London.—Third reading of the Imperial Preference bill was given in the House of Commons after the house had rejected by a vote of 324 to 117 a Labor motion which would have thrown the bill out.

British trade in recent times has been saved by the amount of British manufactures taken by the dominions and colonies of the empire, Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Horne, former Conservative chancellor of the exchequer, declared in reply to the attack on imperial preference, which is provided for in the bill, he said: Wednesday night. Lloyd-British's exports to the various parts of the empire represented forty four per cent of her total trade.

"Does anyone imagine that we could keep these making without the dominions' markets?" he asked.

The result of Australia's increased British preferences was that 72 per cent of her imports were British manufactures. Hon. Old Wedgwood Benn anticipated keeping the dominion preference if British did not keep its part. Mr Hacker continued.

He pointed out that there had been propaganda in Canada in favor of preference, but it was doubtful if the British preferences if British did not reciprocate itself and more than three times that number will have to be brought in from the outside

SEVENTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, Alberta, 25th ..., Saturday, July 24th, 1926.

Alberta crops are passing through the critical stage at the present time. The period has been reached when fairly definite conclusions may be arrived at respecting the harvest prospect with regard to a considerable portion of the wheat crop but the situation is greatly to the disadvantage of low dry weather or the coming of benefi... rains now effect a change in some, at least, of the districts at present affected. In view of this the depart... deems it premature to issue ... estimate of yields at present.

Generally speaking, with the exception of one or two fairly well developed areas of somewhat limited extent, the wheat crop situation may be said to be satisfactory, taken over the whole province. In this respect the province will reap a somewhat larger crop than last year. The areas of very poor crop are less extensive than last year, and the situation throughout is better.

There has been, however, no general rainfall over the south-eastern, central and northern sections, with the exception of the territory above referred to, the condition has been relieved by rains varying in degree but in the districts where the crop was ... it has had the effect of destroying th... prospects for any very large yield.

The chief territory thus affected may be described roughly in two areas, the first being the south-eastern corner of the province, from Empress district south through Medicine Hat district, and the other being a belt extending from Edmonton eastward and north-eastward to the border of the province with Lloydminster. Between these areas with those Dar Man date and Vegreville districts as intermediate bands and the St. Paul district on the Canadian National railway, north of the Saskatchewan River as the northern boundary. South and east of Edmonton through the Innisfree district the crops are very irregular, having suffered continuously from lack of moisture. This is an area, which, for in past years invariably produced good crops so that the condition exhibited this year is unusual. In this belt the only crop that is showing up to that on summer fallow and early sowing. This, while in which the best work will likely ... is by no means the average of the crop in this district generally. To the east of Vegreville the situation is better, and east of Vermilion to the border, the crop is very satisfactory.

In the southeastern section there will be some very light crop, interspersed with some good fields.

In the south-western general and northern sections, with the exception of the territory above referred to, the condition has been relieved by rains varying in degree but in the districts where the crop was ... it is reduce the prospect but spell. Many ... Exceedingly heavy rains fell Friday night and all districts increased materially the prospect for the fall of the past five weeks a mixed rain has fallen in each week.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Brown last Sunday when her daughter Mary Kathleen was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Ronald Ernest Gilbert of Islay. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wm. Simons, Presbyterian minister of Vermilion. ... is understood is building a home for the honeymoon Walkerdale

150 Students Expected At Agril. School

All Branches of Institution Show Tone of Activity.

The work of the School of Agriculture is proceeding very satisfactorily. The Vermilion Pig Club, formed under the direction of J. F. Andrew, is in full swing, and it is expected that the... ruling may be given in the necessary impetus in the district.

The manufacture and distribution of Lactone Culture for the inoculation of seed resulted in more than ... thousand bottles of the culture being distributed to the farmers of Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan. This culture was manufactured at the School of Agriculture, at which institution the Provincial Government maintains the required equipment for such work. Extra plans are being carried on under Mr. Whitbread and the results have been very gratifying. The School Fair each summer, from the School under Mr. Herbert has reached a point where the judges will be kept busy almost every day during the month of September in awarding the prizes on the work entered at the various local fairs.

The Scholarship Short Course, awarded annually to the boy and girl under and each school fair in Northern Alberta which it was to have been held on July 21st to 24th, has had to be postponed until August 24th to 26th. At that time there will be about 150 children in attendance at the school of Agriculture, where they will be entertained in a variety of subjects and ... sewing, cooking, carpentry, ... and field crops. These children ... some of the best pupils of about five hundred schools and it is hoped that in future years these boys and girls will form the nucleus of the classes of the School.

Commencing this year the boy and girl who make the highest grades each year in the Short Course will be given a free pupil's training in the School of Agriculture, the Old Country Agricultural Society paying the ... ment providing for such.

The enrollment of last year, ninety ... boys and girls, which was then a record for the School, is still outstripped by far surpassed for the 1926-27 term, and already more than twenty-five students have signified their intention of attending the course on Approximately forty-five of the first year students, or fifty per cent of last year's attendance, are coming in for their second year, also showing their appreciation of the fact that the institution is more open for the reception of Canada students, and for the ... ation exhibited this year is ...

That the attendance will reach the one hundred and fifty mark, seems certain and all boys and girls in Vermilion territory, who are desirous of taking advantage of the opportunities offered, should at once communicate with the Principal of the School, Mr. Elford, who will be pleased to furnish all information regarding the subjects covered in the institution.

It should be borne in mind that the courses offered to Alberta boys and girls are entirely free, and that the ... that the instruction given is designed to be of really practical value to them in their every day life.

Girls over sixteen are accepted as students and will be accommodated in the Home Economics building over by the lady members of the staff. Boys requiring board in town should send in their applications at once, as the ... has long since may be found ... them. Accommodations will be ... in the Hostel and the applications ... come. Boys desired" will have to be a ... daughter.

Members of the staff of the School have been enjoying short holi...

The eastern border of the province from Lloydminster to Youngstown is ... crops are very good, though somewhat ... against the district from Leduc south to Calgary, there have been but ... rains in the past week and a ... ery crop is anticipated in this territory.

In the Peace River country, the crop generally is good south of the Peace, but not so satisfactory north of the river.

In the irrigated districts good crops are reported. The prospects for the corn and sugar beet crops are satisfactory.

Over a large portion of the province oats and barley are likely to be somewhat short this year. The late sown crops have not done so well, having suffered from the hot dry weather.

The bulk of the wheat is in head and maturing rapidly.

Harvesting will commence in some of the early districts in the first week of August but cutting will not likely become general until after August 15. The labor department estimates a requirement of 12,000 for the harvest, which is a greater number than last year

VERMILION IS EXPANDING.

There are evidences on all sides that Vermilion is expanding. That it will keep forging ahead with an ever-increasing momentum depends upon the vision of its business men and citizens; their faith and pride in the town and the spirit of co-operation manifested. One of the best ways and very far-reaching in its effects, is to keep the town and community well to the front by a live press—and the way to have a good, live, up-to-date, progressive paper is to all get together and give it all the business you can. Fill its columns with live co-operative advertising, for it is through the advertising columns of the town paper that outsiders and business interests see the standard of a town. The paper can fill its columns twice over with outside advertisings, but would prefer ten times over to carry the advertisements of every business man in Vermilion.

EXPECT HIGH RETURNS.

The town weed drop, which set previously dominates the sides of the highways, byways, sidewalks and open lots, is now well headed out, the seeds being in the stiff dough or full stage of fat flesh. A low estimate of the yield is placed by experts at about 10 bushels per acre should nothing unforseen happen to destroy the stand.

NAVY LEAGUE OF ALBERTA

The Rev. Fred Cunliffe, who has been in Vermilion taking up subscriptions to the Sailor Maranite and donations to the Navy League, wishes to thank the citizens for their assistance, as they have subscribed about $58.00.

The Navy League of Canada is to assist the widows and orphans of our men of the Merchant Service as they do not receive Government assistance. The Navy League is also training our young men and boys and making sailors of citizens of them. The League also supports Sailors' Homes and Institutes in all our larger Canadian ports. The Alberta Division is required to raise $5000.00 as its quota to the Dominion budget of the Navy League of Canada and of that, amount the people of the province of Alberta have already raised about $4,500.00, and the League hopes to raise the balance as soon as possible by your continued co-operation. The Sailor Magazine is published monthly at $2.00 a year and should be in every Western home.

Contributions can also be sent to Jno. A Irvine, Esq., 817 First St. E. Calgary

OBITUARY

Anna the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Millan, members of the Clan Donald settlement died at the home of her parents 19 miles south of Vermilion early Monday morning. The family have been in Alberta two years, coming from Red Deer to the place of home. The deceased had been in ill health for some little time and was for a period a patient at the local hospital. She was born at Craigston, Barra, Scotland and was sixteen years ago. Besides the parents a family of ... survives. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning with mass in Holy Name Church at 10 o'clock, and the remains laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery, services being conducted by Rev. Easy Win For Local Footballers

Quite a few spectators turned out Thursday to see the local footballers in their return engagement with Viking and by their support encouraged the boys along. The home team made one change from the team that played in Viking the week before, Hiscott, Hilditch and Thomson at outside. The opposing team were very small and quite a few thrills were given on both goal mouths during the game. It was indeed a happy gathering and hearts rejoiced in everyone.

A fire which broke out at about 9:30 o'clock last night in the livery barn owned by J. M. McMillan, Armadale, and run by P. M. Arbuckle, completely destroyed the building with the loss of five head of horses, six animals were saved. The barn was the first erected in Manville many years ago and was a popular stopping place. The fire was easily visible from Vermilion.

CORRECTION

The attention of readers is drawn to the following correction to the Manitoulin Agricultural Society Prize List.

All Poultry Sections on Page 16 are divided into 3 classes namely

(1) —Cock.
(2)—Hen
(3)—2 Pullets and 1 Cockerel

The prize money as stated in the list will apply to each class. 12-2

While on holidays the Rev F. J. Stevens of St Saviour's Vermilion, will be the preacher at the morning service on Aug. 8th and at both services on Aug 15th, at St. John's Cathedral, Saskatoon.

On a visit to this district last week the provincial weed inspector of Vegreville found five patches of sow thistle considered the worst of noxious weeds. One patch only 2 miles east of town produced a sample 5 feet 3 inches high, bearing scores of flowers. Steps were immediately taken to their destruction.

Credit to Pupil And Teacher

Miss Sybil Moore, who recently passed the pianoforte section of the Associateship examination (Toronto Conservatory of Music), has a brilliant record in the Conservatory examinations, the excellent results gained by this gifted young lady being worthy of note. In five examinations Miss Moore's standing was as follows:

Primary Theory—First class Honors
Primary Harmony—Honors.
Junior Pianoforte — Honors
Intermediate Pianoforte—Honors
A. T. C. M. Pianoforte—Pass

These results are particularly gratifying in view of the fact that Miss Moore was prepared for all the above examinations by a local teacher Mr. W. B. Elford and the Standard extends congratulations to both Miss Moore and Mr Elford on this splendid record.

"This week end at the Columbia Mark Twain's great Comedy "A Connecticut Yankee" in King Arthur's Court.

An issue of four hundred copies of the Radio News Letter is being printed by the Standard this week. It is published by the Alumni of that progressive institution, the Vermilion School of Agriculture and has some exceptionally good stuff in the issue.

Town And Country Search For Lost Clan Donald Child

Two-Year Old Babe of Mr. and Mrs. P. McCarron, Hebridean Settlers, Wandered From Field Where Father Was Plowing

Search Of 24 Hours Before Found

Word was received in town over the telephone Thursday evening last week of an unsuccessful search which had been going on since 11 a.m. of the same day for little Annie McCarron, the two year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McCarron, one of the Hebridean settlers located about eight and a half miles north of Vermilion. Information given was to the effect that the little two year old Annie McCarron had disappeared so completely as if the earth had opened and swallowed her up. All through the night the long winding line of lights of hundreds of searchers reflected their rays over the place, down the dips, amongst the bluffs, over one quarter section and then another. Footsore, fagged out, and all but ready to relinquish the party had again re-assembled between seven and eight a.m. around the autoson Mr. Carron home. It was decided to go to town and have the exhausted searchers given taken by others that night, recalling to mind the fact that all people were retiring to another day's hunt, and around 9 o'clock also the said party started for town as best it had joined the rest a mile or two further on, as it was then twilight, and it was thought best to gather the search that the child was not in the section near its home or a considerable distance further afield.

The search was continued stunningly and unremittingly and the whole country seemed to teem with knots of searchers. Parties from all over the district had been notified and asked to help search in the morning. Automobiles were all on the road to the site where the child had disappeared. It was 3 and 11 o'clock yesterday morning and others came in to procure new terms and flashlights and to take another and somewhat fresh through the night until the break of dawn, reloaded northward and although the search had been unremitting nothing found all efforts unrewarded as not even the slightest clue that would indicate in what direction the little lost child had wandered.

The country in the neighborhood of the McCarron home is very poor being rolling and plentifully spotted with poplar bluffs, some of quite a large size; there are as well large hay sloughs, prevailing between some sloping valleys and all through the new town ed land recently taken up by the Clan Donald settlement, wind and trails as the early settlers, and numerous cattle paths. It was in an area such as this that little two year old Annie McCarron had disappeared as

Now Spores Can't Taint Your Butter

Spores are the seed germs of bacteria. They are present in the air we breathe and in the dust we see. Spores are also present in the milk we use for butter making. Ordinary methods of pasteurization do not destroy spores. Spores are the cause of "cheesy" flavor in butter. Spores are destroyed by the Alexandra Milk Pasteurizer. Alexandra Pasteurized Milk is the only milk from which spores are destroyed. Alexandra Milk is the only milk which will not taint your butter. WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, Saturday, July 31st, 1926

Will Exhibit in U. S.

Announcement has been made by Hon. Geo. Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, that the province will place an exhibit for immigration publicity purposes at the Interstate Fair at Sioux City, Iowa, in September. The exhibit will include a display of grains and grasses collected from all parts of the province, and tar stands, illuminated photographs of scenes throughout the province and other material. The interstate fair at Sioux City includes the states of Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota, and is one of the outstanding fairs in the middle Western States

In making this announcement, Hon. Mr. Hoadley stated that it was decided better to expend the money appropriated for this purpose in sending an exhibit to the States, where a greater field for settlers exists, than to the Toronto Exhibition. The usual assistance will be given to the exhibit of the Women's Institutes at Toronto. The usual exhibits of seed grain and livestock are also to be sent to the international show at Chicago in December.

Big Interests Enter Oil Fields

A party of fourteen officials and geologists of the Marland Oil Co. of the United States, have arrived in the province, and will make preliminary arrangements for an extensive campaign for oil fields in Alberta, in connection with the partnership which has been formed with the Hudson Bay Co., to develop possible oil fields on the lands of that company. The operations of the company will extend over a part of the years and considerable development is likely to result.

Imperial Well Producing

The new Macleod No. 2 well brought in last week in the Turner Valley produced gasoline at the rate of 127 barrels a day and 4 million cubic feet of gas per day. The flow of gas is now increasing. This has been connected up with the distillation plant of the Royalite company, and gasoline is being drawn off

Nine Millions in Wheat Post Payments

During the past week cheques totalling $9,000,000 were forwarded to members of the Alberta Wheat Pool as second interim payment on 1925 wheat. The further and final payment will be distributed sometime in the fall.

New Branch Line

Steel is now being laid on the new branch line of the C. P. R., from Carbon to Cineburst, in the south-western corner of the province, and the line will likely be completed for its 20-mile length in time to handle this year's crop.

Soil Surveys Progress

The soil surveys being made under the co-operative agreement between the Provincial Department of Agriculture and the University of Alberta are progressing, the present year's work being under way in the territory west of Vermilion. This is the third year in which soil surveys have been conducted.

FORCE PUBLISHERS TO ACCEPT MAIL ORDER ADVERTISING

Only Loyalty of Local Publisher to Town Has Turned Down Legitimate Business of Big Proportions.

It has been the rule in Canada and in the United States for publishers especially the town and community publishers, perforce to accept mail order advertising, no matter whether these publishers are given the support of their merchants personally or not. In the United States the Federal Trade Commission is considering steps to require newspapers to accept mail order house advertising when offered, regardless of the attitude of the publishers on this subject. This is another step in an attempt to lay down the principle that the advertising columns of a publication are a public carrier and that discrimination regarding advertising will be accepted is not to be left in the power of the publisher. The mail order houses are making it hard for the town merchants, but the information is gleaned from newspaper publishers' conventions in both Canada and the United States that in cities, towns and communities where the local papers are liberally used by local merchants the mail order business is not as great. The advertising expert is of the opinion however, that all newspapers closely and are quick to observe when local merchandising is not fully recognized in that town's money. Efforts are at once made to get into the local papers and the direct-by-mail advertising is pushed into that section with full force. If boosting is made in the United States to induce local publishers to accept mail order advertising, it will follow that Canadian mail order houses will advance the same arguments. It can logically said that the local publishers have remained loyal, and will continue to do, but in these days of severe business rivalry, when many newspapers are failing by the wayside, others being maintained and boosted, it is necessary that legitimate business be secured from whatever source available.—Renfrew Mercury.

U.F.A. POLITICAL CONVENTION

H. E. Spencer Again Endorsed

The Battle River Constituency convention which took place at the Wainwright theatre on July 26th was most enthusiastic and harmonious. The convention came to order at 10.30 with Mr. A. P. Aitken of Moyerton elected as chairman and R. A. Beck of Czar as secretary.

The president in his address spoke with pleasure of the increase in membership, the improvement of the enthusiasm of the members. He emphasized the formation of the U. F. A. political party and felt that if it was something new, something uninterred by the old political parties, and that the U. F. A. group at Ottawa as well as a separate unit, a distinct group co-operating with the other groups but amalgamating with no other group as a party.

The secretary's report showed the organization to be in a healthy, solvent condition.

Several resolutions were then dealt with. One of importance, in view of the present political situation. Where no the power to advise dissolution, when flightly exercised, threatens the stability of our parliamentary institutions and may plunge the country in to unnecessary elections, and Whereas the Governor-General may be placed in an invidious position as the result of improper advice as to dissolution gained by the Prime Minister of the day, and Whereas it is undesirable that the representative of the Crown should at any time be in danger of appearing to become involved in any party controversy as the result of such improper advice. Therefore be it resolved that subject to the statute, limitations of five years upon the life of parliament the Prime Minister shall be under obligation to obtain sanction of a majority of the House of Commons before advising the Governor-General to dissolve Parliament. This was carried

Another resolution declared that every U. F. A. candidate be pledged to the political principles laid down by the U. F. A. convention and that the U. F. A. group to preserve its solidity by not amalgamating at Ottawa with any party or group not constituted along similar lines. This also carried

Another resolution recognized the existence of a National Convention as the body coordinating the activities of the various Federal Constituency U. F. A. associations and the right of the body to receive reports from time to time from the U. F. A members at Ottawa

An excellent musical programme delighted the audience during the afternoon and evening. The singing of Messrs. Hall, Aitken, Beck and Patterson being especially appreciated

Mrs. Gunn of the U. F. W. A. gave one of her splendid addresses on making a success of the political progress showing that every effort to weaken our efforts had been made in the last campaign without success. She was glad that our ideals were being set forth and practiced by such men as Mr. Spencer and others like him.

Mr. Kinsmanee then addressed the meeting in his characteristic manner on the purpose of the U. F. A.

Mr. Henry E. Spencer, the member for Battle River, then gave an exhaustive survey of the last session of parliament his audience was impressed with the clear business like presentation of the various incidents leading up to the prorogation of dissolution of parliament. He carefully and deliberately went over details of the work of the U. F. A. group, and the utter fairness of his speech disarmed all possibilities of comment. He especially stressed the autocratic manner in which Mr. Meighen had carried the work of the year by unnecessarily dissolving the House without accepting for a formal prorogation between securing the Governor-General's assent to the measures passed

The real spirit of the convention was fully realized when the Chairman called for nominations for candidate to contest the Federal riding Mr. Spencer's name was at once put forward and amongst cheers and a demonstration that was a wonderful tribute to the affection and esteem in which he is held, he was declared elected It augurs well for the movement that the faithful service of men like Spencer meets with such whole-hearted and spontaneous approval If the other constituencies show anything like the same enthusiasm and strength of purpose that the Association in Battle River did, the results of the election in Alberta may now with safety be written

Mr Farquharson, M. L. A., gave a short and effective address on the movement "Groups have come to stay," he said and a co-operative basis of government must function

Mr. E. J Garland, M. P. of Bow River, gave a most interesting address showing the wretched state of the condition that had developed in the Canadian Department, and dealt energetically with the spectacle of the Conservative party posing as the party of purity. He also made clear the achievement made when even the old-time political parties realized that in their group might always be found men who could cooperate for the good of the country

The enthusiastic convention closed by singing the National Anthem

Geo. L. Morrow
Conservative Candidate
Large Convention

WAINWRIGHT, Aug. 4—The Conservative convention here today nominated as their standard bearer for the riding of Battle River George L. Morrow, a prominent barrister here chief of the village of Edgerton There were over 100 delegates present representing various parts of the riding The names of J. W. G. Morrison Vermilion and E. C. Teasdale of Daysland were also placed before the convention but Mr. Teasdale in business reasons would not permit the convention to vote on his selection There was quite a heated discussion with regard to the convention voting on Mr. Morrow's nomination in view of the fact that he was not present but was finally allowed to be presented

STEVENS—SLEIGHT

A wedding of more than local interest was solemnized Wednesday morning at half past eleven o'clock in St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Tisdale, Saskatchewan before a congregation which filled the church, when the Rev. Frederick J. Stevens, rector of Vermilion, Alta., son of Mr and Mrs. T. B. Stevens late of Torquay, Devonshire England and Miss Edith Sleight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sleight of Tisdale, Sask were united in marriage Rt Rev D. Eton Lloyd, Bishop of Saskatchewan officiated and was assisted by the Rev. Walter Dean rector of the church. Several other everyday close friends of the bridegroom were also present

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of sweet peas and other summer flowers. The choir was present and the impressive service was fully choral Mrs. H. Sumler sister to the bride presiding at the organ While the register was being signed Mrs. A. Dean sang very effectively "O Promise Me."

The charming bride who was given in marriage by her father wore a gown

During the discussion Mr. Morrison referred to replies as he was not running his candidature, but his supporters reared in protest The convention divided almost evenly on the issue, Mr. Morrow having a few votes to the better of the Vermilion man Mr. Morrison then moved that the nomination be made unanimous and this was carried with a tremendous outburst of applause When Mr. Morrison's name was placed before the convention he expressly stated it was not his desire to be a candidate but felt that as he name had been brought forward it was only fair to his supporters that the convention should make its selection Mr. Morrow's speech on accepting the nomination was appreciated by the leadership and politics of the Conservative Party

His conclusion closed with a spirited address by Mr. Morrison who extended the constitutional issue, pointing the onus for the loss of the north to the session upon the Conservatives who claimed the Kine government had been in office only but not in power and that the main issue in this election was the North Saskatchewan and that the main issue in this election was the North Saskatchewan and that the main issue in this election was the North Saskatchewan

Twenty-five persons are dead and many more injured as the result of a tornado which swept through Buffalo and eastern New York state and Western Ontario on Tuesday afternoon. The storm was the worst in the history of the district. It was more than a tornado. The storm was more like a cyclone. It was accompanied by torrential rains which in some sections of the state amounted to a cloudburst. In the city of Buffalo the storm lasted for about 20 minutes. In that time more than 200 persons were injured and fifteen or more were killed. Property damage in the city alone will run into the millions. Damage in other sections of the state was also heavy.

60,000 Harvesters Wanted

Army of Harvesters Required to Garner the Crop on Prairie

It is estimated that about 60,000 men will be required to garner the harvest in Western Canada this summer. This army of harvesters will be drawn from the provinces of Eastern Canada, British Columbia and the United States. It is understood that Saskatchewan will need 25,000 men; Manitoba, between 9,000 and 9,500 and Alberta about 20,000.

From points in the east and west he pend the time profitably at Brandon, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, especially how railway rates will be available to certain regular points in Western Canada for those seeking work in the harvest fields. Return tickets will be issued at reduced rates to harvest hands provided they have worked at least a month on farms in Western Canada.

"IDEAL Fashions" by Fashion Sheets

Fashion tells us that sports frocks have assumed a jaunty haut plaisir in the waist line, Peter Pan collars and cuffs and the fullness in pockets with the popular flapping overlay over the pockets. The dress-making woman will find this model a very simple one to make. Simple because of the straight lines and because it is easy to work on the machine. Collar, cuffs and pockets are finished with bias binding. The skirt is cut in one piece and is joined to the waist line. The sleeves are in one piece with the yoke. This is an every day frock that will be found very satisfactory in every wardrobe.

Pattern 10-20 cents each.

Our Fashion Book, illustrating the latest and most practical styles, will be of interest to every home dressmaker. Price of the book 10 cents the copy

Candle Would Reform India

Tells What Measures He Would Take If He Were Emperor

"If I were Emperor of India," Mahatma Gandhi, the great Indian Nationalist idol, stated "I would prohibit the importation of manufactured liquors and close down every dram shop. I would summon the representatives of both Hindus and Moslems to search their pockets and destroy those of all varieties and weapons and then lock them together in one room and eject it only after they had settled their quarrels.

"I would intend the hand of fellowship not only to the whole world, irrespective of race, color or creed. I would disband the entire army of occupation in India and rely solely upon police to protect the citizens. I would withdraw all state protection to every European as well as all honors European enjoy. In fact, I would guarantee protection or part of the to be rendered to all forms of religious worship, except that which is repugnant to the principles of mankind. I would not allow any foreign tribes as they are now being brought by every outgoing steamer. I would abolish all I would impose an import duty on all foreign goods."

Reunited After Twenty-One Years

A most interesting reunion which took place on the Canard liner Aquitania, docked at Quebec last week, was when Mr. Harold Taylor, well-known buyer for the C.N.R. in Winnipeg came aboard and met his mother, who was one of the passengers. Mrs. Taylor had not seen her son for 21 years. In the picture above Mr. Taylor is shown on the left, while on the mother's left is her grandson, whom she had never seen.

Survey Of Unoccupied Land

Manitoba Government Taking Agricultural Survey of the Province

The Manitoba Government has commenced an agricultural survey of unoccupied lands in the province which when completed will provide the incoming settler with all available information on such lands. A total of 2,474 homesteads have been taken up in Western Canada this year. In addition 657 families coming to the 3,132 persons have come to the west under provisions under the government settlement scheme. The Canada Colonization Association has placed 643 families on 150,353 acres of land in the past year. All post-war immigration records were broken recently when 1,681 immigrants passed through Winnipeg in forty-eight hours

To Manufacture Automobiles

Engineering Firms in Australia Arrange to Establish Industry

Four large engineering and electrical equipment manufacturing firms in New South Wales are planning to form a company capitalized at £1,000,000, to produce Australian-made motor cars. They intend to build a six-cylinder type car suited for Australian conditions, and apply it to its manufacture the mass production system. Representatives of these firms have approached the Australian Government with the view of securing a subsidy to aid the new industry. The minister of trade and customs promised that any reasonable proposal would receive very early consideration by the cabinet.

Machine Can Be Transformed Into a Small Monoplane

A young French mechanic in a factory at Lyons has just invented a bicycle that flies

According to a report received in Paris the Frenchman had been work ing on his invention several years and has finally developed successfully.

The bicycle can immediately be transformed into a small monoplane and fly to a height of 150 feet. Trials were conducted without mishap and the mechanic intends to present his invention to the public.

The successful manufacture of the bicycle in large quantities will make flying within the means of all, in the opinion of the inventor.

Rare Paintings Stolen

Merchant Plunderers Called in France by Ingenious Ruse

Valuable old masters for eventual American collectors of rare paintings found their way into the hands of a Paris dealer by a trick which has placed the dealer behind the bars.

The French method is a highly specialized antiquity faker and an artist of some ability made copies of the paintings in the art galleries. After carefully "antiquing" the copy, he calmly carried away the original work of art and left the fake which was hanging in its place. He never worked around Paris, and was careful to select distant cities in the provinces where experts would not be likely to pass.

Celebrated Russian Church in Danger

The cathedral of St. Isaac, the largest and finest church in Russia, and developed perfect figures in the great granite monolithic columns. Both upon subsequent wooden piles, as are most of the buildings in Leningrad, the magnificent edifice, which cost $15,000,000 to build, has been steadily sinking. Great perpendicular cracks have appeared in our columns, facing Alexandra Park and the portico, which is supported by 24 columns, is threatened with collapse.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON 5

THE GIVING OF THE MANNA

Golden Text: Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life. John 6:35.
Lesson: Exodus 16:1 36.
Devotional Reading: John 6:33 46.

Explanations and Comments

I. The People Complain of Lack of Food, Verses 1 3. This is the third recorded "murmurings"; see the Historical Background. The "wilderness" had dried by the hand of Jehovah in the land of Egypt." The people cried, "when we sat by the flesh pots, when we did eat bread to the full."

They remember the flesh-pots, but not the suffering. Human nature does not change. Murmurers still have short memories. They especially call recent unhappy past blessings and bedewed past sufferings.

The Israelites even accused Moses of having brought them forth into the wilderness to kill them all with hunger!

"It is worthy of remark that those who are the most unworthy of mercy are the most ready to murmur against towards their deliverer" (Milton).

II. Food Is Promised, Verses 4 12 And Jehovah spake unto Moses, saying, I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel: speak unto them, saying, At even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am Jehovah your God." and shall know it by the manifestation of my power and love. Here in the early part of the wilderness life the complaints of the people are treated with mildness, as if made by irresponsible children; but toward the end of their journeyings such complaints are severely punished, for after so many years' experience of God's providence, something better was expected from them.

Auxiliary Lungs

Artificial Lungs Provide Air Pilots With Oxygen For High Altitudes

Auxiliary lungs enabling airmen to reach unprecedented heights, are said to have been perfected by a French chemist, M. Garmaux. The Academy of Science regards the invention as one of the most important in the science of aviation in recent years Artificial lungs, adjusted to a flexible, portable plume with increased amount of oxygen as the plane climbs. Experiments have shown that a pilot can stand without pressure over the ground corresponding to a climb of 19,000 feet hitherto unattainable by man

Potatoes For California

Arrangements for the export of large quantities of British Columbia seed potatoes to California are being made this year by a potato grower of this state. The British Columbia potatoes are desired in California for seed purposes because they introduced new strength into the southern strain Experiments were made with Canadian grown seed last year in California, and growers were well satisfied with the results.

Building Bigger Airships

Gigantic Airship Hangar at Cardington Has To Be Enlarged

British airships of the future are to be much bigger than was thought some months ago that the gigantic airship hangar at Cardington has had to be reconstructed. It was originally planned to be 700 feet long and 144 feet high and capable of housing two airships of the R 33 class, but it now measures 812 feet long and 180 feet high, says the Modern Transport, and will house one airship of the R-101 class

A towering mast has been erected with a pump capable of lifting 2,660 gallons of fuel oil an hour to airships

Growth Of Saskatchewan

415,830,000 Bushels of Grain Produced In Province Last Year

When Saskatchewan became a province, twenty-one years ago, there were almost 60,000 farms with a little over 2,000,000 acres in crop, according to the provincial minister of agriculture In 1905 the yield of grain was under 60,000,000 bushels, while in 1925 it was 415,830,000 bushels. In the period the wheat production increased from 24,742,000 to 246,511,000 and was 57 per cent of the wheat grown in the Dominion in 1925, as compared with 21 per cent grown in 1905.

Saving Money

Conditions are evidently good in Alberta for as much money has been invested in Alberta Government savings certificates up to the end of June this year as for the whole of 1925. The figure for last year, covering the entire twelve months, were $2,110,-1415, and to the end of June this year, $2,180,706 had been accounted for. Since July came in, the sales of certificates have brought the total for the year thus far well up to that of the full year preceding, with five months' business still to come in.

Joanna laughed gaily with him "Funny things to look forward to, smiling wistfully, aren't they?" she pondered, looking down at her quit sically

"Funny you say, getting through the marrying stages fast enough to leave time for an anniversary ch that!"

"Oh, I shan't be so quick to get married that I'll be likely to chang my mind," Joanna retorted

"Now that's a sensible resolve," Kenilworth agreed She felt his arm tightening a bit. He was holding her closer than Brandon had, almost as close as her own dancing boys customarily did. She began to wonder much about him. She had thought him old, much too old, but he danced with her and talked to her on the level of easy youth She had noticed earlier in the evening that most of the men around the tables appeared to be much older than their women and she reflected, they seemed to be men who had a place in life and, so were more worthwhile than the younger men and the rather blank the change. Her companion was still talking to her as he swung her deftly in and out among the dancers on the well crowded floor

"You remind me like you say, young and happy kind—is much more attractive when you're not set on being carelessly wise in one's self. I shouldn't say half the things I really mean if I thought you'd be adding them up later as matrimonial assets. You'll find life is all one chart, for the asset of things."

Joanna looked at him queerly "I ought to resent something in that," she announced, by I'm too sure just what I should resent to me.

"You know you're gossiping about me, Kenilworth," she charged. "It will be all over the country that you're my escort the other, now Only he'll start your interestation by saying that I'm a bold thing who will run after married men."

"Not possible, I assure you! he protested. "Besides, I'm not married any more—not for years. Only those who don't know about it think I am. Anyway, I'm not a marriageable man, so there's no danger of my being caught."

"Why are you telling me this?" she flung up at him.

He didn't answer for at once but smiled quietly again, and let the dances roll on for her answered for. The music stopped and he ended the dance at the dance floor entrance and up only between the tables. Still he had not acknowledged her sudden question. She put her hand on his sleeve and stopped him.

"You haven't told me, you know, why you wanted him, standing quietly still on that he could not evade by again: "Why you were so against now—both at once, in fact

"For perfectly obvious reasons my dear girl," Kenilworth said, there being for gaze steadily. "I've and decide to have a try at it on myself Brandon plays his game deep and I think Yvonne plays her's deeper still. And just now you are the stake. I'm going to play for you, too."

CHAPTER XI.

Joanna Is Invited To Yvonne's

The flash that deepened the hues of Joanna's cheeks, and the wrinkle in her brow, did not escape Yvonne when Kenilworth and the girl seated to the table. Brandon, too, saw, and divided a quick glance between the girl and the man who had been dancing with her Yvonne, in her fluttering way touched the girl's hand.

"He's been making love to you! I knew it Was I right" Didn't he begin with your eyes?"

Joanna's chin vanished In the sliver joy of her closeness to the woman whose exotic beauty and haunting allure enslaved by a world of lovers romance had made a rendezvous, her ultimate secret the mystery which confronted her to each new encounter was quickly charmed away.

"Am I supposed to tell?" she parried, appealing to Kenilworth, who was nonchalantly lighting a cigarette cigaret. He answered easily; "It hasn't been my way of wooing your lovely like medals on your breast, for your friends to estimate and your rivals to envy. You may as well begin now, I warn no confession I promised to consult him you with my situation. Joanna I doubt the composer that I'll not be in be pay you completely."

Brandon, Joanna recovered, that Reddy on compliments a woman A dream of his obvious base asserted she. But now his low his first and then to them when his reasons are, the helper, accepted as he would the compliments of the host, and not flatteries. A woman doesn't class what is said of her by a man who to know by, for, and from whom she likes it to be a part inventory of her perfection."

"Correct, that!" Yvonne declared "It proves what I've always contended that a man ought to have a style of his own. He is by the way, to listen to most men go sentimental"

"What would Joanna, you insist upon? Kenilworth asked "If I promise you complete relaxation it you will take a turn on the floor with me and Mr. Brandon, I'll do my best to entertain what sort of a chap Lane and to ask him who you're planning to marry, and—"

"Our beautiful friend is one who I never romantically without a thrill," broke in Yvonne behind her fan. "A bird husband is a thrill, I suppose we for other persons for Yvonne's widow you'll probably find them out for yourself I know the story. She'll probably decide to take you under her wing You will make an admirable foil for her."

A curious turmoil shut through Joanna's blood. "I'll come! Certainly, I'll take her, Joanna replied, but talking to her as he spoke, her words the world according to her standard

She clutched shyly at the man who was her partner for the fourth for the glance and fallowed it

"Quite probable I assure you he answered. He called Joanna by her name for the first time

"Now you've matrimonial aims, you two millionaire fortunes are also to be Brandon

"Yvonne Provokes! I don't care what you mean."

"And you've got an engaging way of saying it, Kenilworth laughed, "I'll be not very jealous the other, now Only he'll start your interestation by saying that I'm a bold thing who will run after married men."

He spoke lightly, almost wholesomely but Joanna was certain he was serious. She felt a sudden thrill of impression that all—neither Yvonne and Kenilworth to the dining table had been in pre-arranged. It made another angle of attack for her. She tried to match Kenilworth off his guard

"Why are you telling me this?" she flung up at him.

He didn't answer for at once but smiled quietly again, and let the dances roll on for her answered for. The music stopped and he ended the dance at the dance floor entrance and up only between the tables. Still he had not acknowledged her sudden question. She put her hand on his sleeve and stopped him.

"You haven't told me, you know, why you wanted him, standing quietly still on that he could not evade by again: "Why you were so against now—both at once, in fact

"For perfectly obvious reasons my dear girl," Kenilworth said, there being for gaze steadily. "I've and decide to have a try at it on myself Brandon plays his game deep and I think Yvonne plays her's deeper Colborne, Ontario — "When I was first married I was very thin and weak. The doctor said I was weak and would never be able to have a child, but I did, and from the time my baby came I suffered all the time and developed bad and sick spells. I became restless, and dizzy. I could only do a little work and was down most of the time. I was so weak that I had to crawl from my bed to the chair. I had five doctors and had their bottle when I could feel it helping me. I took five bottles and had her health Now I have three girls and a boy and have done my work up to confinement. I am now at the Change of Life and some my good health to Lydia E. Edison Dislikes Painted Portraits

Believes Pictures Not Good Unless Mechanism Is Used

Thomas A Edison's love of mechanical contrivances is his ruling passion, according to his friend, Edward Jerome Rice Rice, who is a portrait painter, has painted Edison's portrait at the request of Mrs. Edison, and has also painted a portrait of the inventor's mother.

Mr. Edison recently visited the studio and looked at the portrait of his mother. Then he looked at the portrait of himself. Rice says he was pleased with the former, but displeased with the latter.

"I don't like it," Edison declared. "It doesn't do me justice. It doesn't show me engaged in anything. It's just a picture of a man sitting in a chair. It's no good. Paint me working at something, or don't paint me at all."

Rice argued, but Edison remained firm. He said he would not sit for the picture unless Rice painted him at work.

So Rice did. Mr Edison seated himself at his work bench and began to tinker with a phonograph. Rice painted him as he worked.

Edison is said to be the only man who has ever refused to sit for his portrait.

Brings Substantial Income

Missouri Woman Makes Good Living Selling Butterflies

Income from the sale of butterflies, moths and other insects has made a success of a woman in Missouri, according to Popular Science Monthly. She is Miss Grace Hall Hamilton, of Webster Groves, near St. Louis.

Miss Hamilton has been collecting insects since she was a child. Her collection now contains more than 100,000 specimens. She has a room in the garden for her collection.

Little Helps For This Week

Put salt about the egg cups at breakfast time to prevent the eggs from rolling off the table.

Turn the cream pitcher upside down when not in use. This will keep the lip clean.

Wring out the dish cloth in hot water after using it. This will keep it sweet.

Such a combination is delicious: pineapple and bananas, sliced and served with cream.

Use a wire egg beater for making cream sauces. It takes out the lumps.

Wash the dishes in hot water and soap, then rinse in cold water. This makes them shine.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Rich, Red Blood to Maintain Good Health

After passing the age of forty-five a woman's blood is apt to become poor and watery. This condition is responsible for many of the ailments peculiar to women at this period. Dizziness, headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness, and depression are the symptoms of this condition. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will make new, rich, red blood and so banish these troubles. Mrs. Wm. Hall, Bedford, Que., says: "I was troubled with dizziness and headaches and was very nervous. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I was pale and weak and had no energy. I was in this condition for about a year and then I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. After using a few boxes I felt much better and continued taking them until I was restored to health." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. A. Oxinbelcon wish to thank the many friends for their kindness, help and sympathy in their and bereavement, in the loss of their little son, George, who died on Wednesday, May 19th after a short illness of scarlet fever, aged 7 years, 8 months and 22 days. Owing to the restrictions imposed, the funeral was private and was held on Thursday, conducted by Rev. F. J. Stevens of Vermilion at both the house and services at the graveside in the Ottawa cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest. The family specially thank the Ottawa U. F. A. and U. F. W. A. for the pretty wreaths sent.

Georgie was the second child of a family of four boys and one girl and his death is the first break in the home. He possessed a happy and very cheerful disposition and was a general favorite with his young schoolmates of the Ottawa school. General sympathy has been expressed for the family in their sore visitation.

Vermilion Ball Team Is Winner In Tournament

VERMILION, Aug. 9. In the baseball tournament played during the fair last week, Viking defeated Myrnam, Vermilion defeated Vegreville, Viking and Vermilion entered the finals on Saturday. The batteries in this game were for Viking, Walker and Henderson, for Vermilion, Baldwin and Newchebrook. Up to the seventh inning it was a hard fought, well played game, comparatively free of errors with no advantage to either side. In the seventh, Viking fell down, allowing four runs to Vermilion and running on the score against Viking piled up, giving Vermilion big money.

Ford Motor Co. Exhibit at Vermilion

An exhibit that attracted marked attention at the Lloydminster exhibition the first three days of this week, in the manufacturing section was that of the Ford Motor Company of Canada with an exhibit of nine tractors, each geared or attached to a piece of farm equipment. Interest in this display centered upon the 22inch super lime, driven by the Fordson. A load per test ten in the machinery display, proved a boon to women folk, tired quite of much cider-ing. The machine which formed part of the exhibit of the Ford Motor Company was fitted out with detachable arm chair and couches. It was a popular rendezvous for husbands and wives through out the fair. The Ford automobile display was particularly attractive and there seemed greater interest than ever in the light car. time car on the personal popularity if the number who visited it can be taken for a guide was the sport Roadster. A very snappy model finished out by the company. A similar exhibit will be on the grounds here at the local fall

RAIN SAVED GRAIN

FISH LAKE. The cooler weather of this week accompanied by several showers of rain which fell over all most every part of the district has saved the grain crop from a total failure. The crop will now be fairly good in most districts. Grade A heavy crop on May. The may have gained distance in some districts but in the opinion of estimate the extent of the damage for a few days yet. Farmers were busy and all hands were busy cutting. Rains Add 20 Millions To Alberta Crop Value, Hoadley's Estimate

Twenty million dollars' worth is the estimate that Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture, puts upon the general benefits that the farmers of Alberta will gain from the recent rains. The minister has been making careful inquiries in all parts of the province and finds that there has been a remarkable improvement as a result of the timely showers of the past week or so.

The wheat crop alone says Mr. Hoadley, will be [illegible] bushels heavier because of the rains and he figures this out on a basis of [illegible] per acre more than there otherwise would have been on [illegible] one-third of the total crop area that is, on [illegible] acres. In the country adjacent to Edmonton, where the need of rain was greatest [illegible] recovery of the wheat crop has been wonderful, the minister has found.

Besides the wheat crop, which has thus benefitted from the additional moisture, the effect on the crops of oats and barley to say nothing of pastures and feed, will help substantially to swell the total benefits to the Alberta farmer

Nations Are United Against Russian Reds

British Have Completed Ring From Egypt to China

Following a conference of the chiefs of the secret services of all the British dominions, just concluded in London, the British admiralty and the foreign offices feel assured that with the exception of Turkey and Hindustan the whole southern part of Russia is encircled by a series of states determined to oppose attempts to spread red propaganda.

These states, it is announced, are united in a continuous, unbroken effort from Egypt to India, to China. It is further announced that Sir Charles Tregear, Calcutta police chief, has been appointed to head the propaganda section of Scotland Yard for the next few years.

In Egypt, the governor of Sudan, who is most friendly with the czar's tyrannic, and when he was forced to resign opposition and England now is well prepared to withstand Red propaganda there. In Bokhara, Indian the Reds has spread until it offers threat to the northern neighbors. Mesopotamia is unwilling to tolerate any interference from propaganda.

Canadian Show In New York

Canadian Nayers Invited to Visit N.Y. During Canadian Show

Following a meeting of the executive and general committees of the Canadian Exposition, held at the Hotel McAlpin headquarters in New York, Henry E. Coleman, executive chairman of the exposition, announced that plans had been made to bring the mayors of twenty-four Canadian cities to New York on a special train, for the exposition opening in January, 1927. Other detailed plans of the exposition, which will be housed in the Manhattan Opera House beginning Jan. 14, were made known also, following the meeting.

Arthur L. Lee, managing director of the McAlpin, who attended the meeting, stated that several floors of the hotel would be set aside to entertain the Canadian officials, and that a considerable part of the hotel would be given over to guests here for the big show. He will have special decorations, with the Maple Leaf of Canada predominating, and special entertainments have been arranged, one each in honor of every province of the Dominion.

Among the mayors expected to come are: The Honorable Thomas Foster of Toronto; M. Martin of Montreal, and the chief executives of Quebec, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Ottawa, and other principal cities. It is planned to have their special train met by a delegation of city and state officials, and Mayor Walker will welcome the visitors. A special committee, headed by Canada, within the week, by the exposition officers, and are now engaged in arranging tart ing details from the Canadian end.

Already the search of "Miss Canada" has begun north of the Dominion line, and a young woman selected as the fairest in the Dominion will be entertained while in New York by the Miss Canada" who will be selected at the annual contest in Atlantic City.

Every town of Canadian activity will be displayed and will be represented by exhibits in the show.

The Training Of Children

Valuable Work Being Carried On For Welfare of Children in Toronto

Ten or twelve years ago two English ladies specially trained in Canada and their work came to Canada in the hope that they could do for the children of the prairies by giving them instruction in child care. After giving some years to this work in a restricted area they married the idea of carrying the Mother Craft to all the children widely scattered on the prairies and for this purpose a van was built and equipped and for months this van has been travelling about the southern part of the province of Saskatchewan, the object being to advise and teaching them as far as possible something about the religion of our Lord Jesus Christ. This work was begun in 1920. Now, there are vans doing a similar work in all the provinces of Canada, and in Ontario alone there are six of these vans. The children are taught in the summer are enrolled as members of the Mother Craft Guild and as they are kept in touch with those truths which concern their moral and religious welfare.

Just Miss Boulanger was not content with this alone. She felt that something more should be done and so she gave up $15,000 to start a girls' training school for the children of parents who wanted to give their children a religious training but who had no other opportunities. The school was started in Regina in 1924 and has been moved to the Province of Quappelle and the work is carried on under the care of the Ursulines of St John the Divine, a Canadian bridge of the Church of England in Canada. The school has grown in numbers and a good moral education is given by very competent teachers to the girls who take their part in building up our country on a sound and righteous basis. The education is given by very competent teachers and the girls are trained in such a way as to be beautiful and well-behaved women, and to be the beautiful grounds of St. Chad's College, and well prepared to fill by nature interested in the welfare of children and their moral and religious training.

The Canadian Legion

Charter of Incorporation Has Been Granted By Letters Patent

Letters patent incorporating "The Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League" have been issued by the secretary of state, according to an announcement made out by Legion headquarters. Through the charter of incorporation the legion is empowered to "establish, organize and regulate provincial, district and local bodies or commands and branches, in connection therewith throughout Canada and elsewhere," and to establish parallel organizations to be known as ladies' auxiliaries.

The charter of incorporation gives legal effect to the work of the unification that has been proceeding among Canadian veterans' organizations since the visit of Field Marshal Earl Haig, grand president of the British Empire Service League, to Canada last year.

The original intention of the legion was to seek a royal charter by special act of parliament, but the dissolution of parliament made it necessary to alter the proposal. Application then was made for a charter under the Companies Act.

General Field Day Experimental Station Lacombe, August 14

Owing to wet weather many who were anxious to visit the Experimental Station at Lacombe were unable to get on either August 6th or 7th. The wet, cool weather has delayed ripening and as very little cutting will be done for a week or more, another Field Day will be held on Saturday, August 14th.

The programme will commence at 2.30 with short addresses on the work of the Experimental Station This will be followed by a practical demonstration of how varieties are produced 3 comparisons will be made of the [illegible] varieties of wheat, 3a varieties of oats and 15 of barley growing in the plots.

Weather from town or country you are interested in growing flowers, shrubs and hedges, gardening, housekeeping, poultry raising, horses, cattle or swine, you will find something. Visit the Dominion Experimental Station at Lacombe on Saturday August 14th. Bring your family and your friends see the work of the different departments and ask questions It will be an afternoon of profit and pleasure.

Girls B.B. Team Play Here On Saturday

It was announced on Tuesday that Jimmy Robertson manager of the Vermilion Senators baseball team, has completed final arrangements, after considerable difficulty to play an exhibition game with the American Athletic Girls baseball club, who are making a tour of the western provinces. The game is to take place on Saturday evening, 14th at the east end ball grounds and it is expected that amateur baseball supporters will see to the support of members of the team when these two aggregations clash.

The appearance of this girls' club who have made such a favorable impression during the past six weeks in the various towns in the Western provinces, should draw a large crowd of baseball enthusiasts to the ball park. To say that the American clubbers, J. B. have perfected nine of the best players in Vermilion and surrounding district and that the team could not be improved upon, as this is undoubtedly the case at this time this year that Vermilion will have a chance of seeing a good brand of baseball dished up. It is hoped by the officials that a large number of spectators will turn out to witness the contest. Miss Robinson, of Vermilion pitching are, will do second duty for the locals, with George Mead behind the bat.

The game Saturday evening will start at 8 p.m. in order that the teams may play through the light evening and save the shadows of evening appear on the game. Al Hubbard will officiate.

All members of the American girls with the exception of the pitcher and catcher. This team has been drawing large crowds where ever they have performed on their tour As the officials of the local team have gone to considerable expense in bring these players to Vermilion, it is expected that every baseball fan will turn out to see the game.

EGGNOG FOR TIMOTHY CLOVER EXPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta Edmonton, Saturday, August 7th, 1926.

The weather throughout the province since June has been unseasonably hot and dry since the last crop report was issued two weeks ago, broken only in a few localities by brief showers which have not lasted more than long enough to be of some aid in the filling process of the wheat crop. The general effect of the continuance of the hot weather with the exception of the rains has to retard the filling process and will result in the reduction of quality and yield, only to a limited extent. The weather is now cool and somewhat showery, which will be an aid to the later crops.

Generally speaking the wheat crop situation is fair to satisfactory, and now that the ripened stage has been reached, the statement may be made with more or less assurance that there will be a good average crop of this grain, probably as large and possibly larger than last year. There can be no definite estimate, however, of the exact effect of the late hot, dry weather until the separators are at work and the actual shrinkage which will take place becomes known in the yields obtained. Throughout the most of the province the grain is believed to have passed the stage well, and superiority is this the case with that on summerfallow and breaking. The acre of seed crop is larger than last year, so that the general conclusion which may be arrived at for the present is that the wheat yield will be well up to last year's total, if not exceeding it in the areas which have suffered from a continued lack of moisture, however, notably the southeastern section and the belt from Edmonton east and north-east, the crop will be very light, and in certain parts of this territory some 70 per cent of the crop will not be cut, the rest of it yielding from five bushels upward To the oats and barley crop will be fully as fatal, owing to lack of moisture in the latter part of the growing season.

Many parts of the province, however, report excellent stands of wheat The district from Calgary north to Leduc, south to Strathcona and Lacombe, and thence south-west and the crop will be very little, and in certain parts of this territory some to per cent of the crop will not be cut, the rest of it yielding from five bushels upward To the oats and barley crop will be fully as fatal, owing to lack of moisture in the latter part of the growing season.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, Saturday, August 7th, 1926

Government Takes Over Ownership of E., D. & B. C.

Full ownership in the Edmonton Dunvegan and Central Canada rail ways now rests with the Alberta government, which will proceed in accord with other interests for their future operation or, as an alternative will operate them as a public enterprise.

The ownership rights have been secured in consideration of $1,375,000, which has been paid over to the Royal Bank in final settlement of its claim of $2,400,000 and accrued interest. Complete control of both railway lines thus passes to the province

A further step in clearing up the northern railway situation has been taken, it is announced by the government, by giving notice to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company of the government's intention to terminate the existing agreement under which the Canadian Pacific is now operating the freight and passenger services on both lines

This has been done in a letter from Premier Brownlee to President Beatty of the Canadian Pacific, which was the subject of discussion between the Premier and Hon. C. C. Ballantine, minister of the Canadian Pacific, a few days ago.

Premier Brownlee has also declined the last offer of the Canadian Pacific Railway which proposed a renewal of the agreement on somewhat different terms. No new offer has yet been received, and it is not known at the government offices whether any further offer will come from Canadian Pacific sources or not

Debentures Transferred

By the settlement with the Royal Bank, the province secures from the latter a transfer of the debentures issued by the E. D. & B. C. railway to J. D. McArthur, who subsequently assigned to the Union Bank and then to the Royal Bank The total deed mortgage securing these debentures, is also transferred to the province a bank with the capital stock issued by the two railways

The transfer to the capital stock places on par value places the province in the position of having complete ownership and control of the properties so that it can now deal with them as it may desire, without the necessity of restricting with and securing the consent of other parties, as in the past All the restrictions as to the right of way, townsite and terminal properties which the bank has held as collateral security have also been transferred to the province

Alberta Government's Immigration Plans

Hon Herbert Greenfield, executive of Alberta, has been appointed by the provincial government to take charge of a survey of the province for the purpose of determining areas suitable for land settlement, especially among community lines He will begin work at once and on his return to Edmonton to work in conjunction with the various emigration organizations operating there This announcement was made by Premier Brownlee before leaving the city for his holidays and is the outcome of a decision by the government to put on an active immigration program Mr Brownlee said that the government will take advantage of the better conditions now prevailing to see what can be done in resolving the several problems of communities in Alberta, and the first matter in that direction will be to make a thorough land survey of the province with suitability for [illegible] settlement primarily in view

Centralize All Agencies

"It is not the purpose of the government" said the premier "to duplicate any existing machinery or attempt to take over work that properly belongs to remain with the dominion An effort will be made to cooperate with the dominion government and also to be in touch with the railway companies and the British Empire Settlement Board Through the latter we hope to encourage suitable immigration

"Much valuable work has already been done by private enterprise in certain sections of the province." Mr Brownlee continued, "and such undertakings as the Can Donald settlements near Vermilion and other Hudson settlements will furnish information ready to hand"

Experimental for Present

Asked if the appointment of Mr Greenfield may be taken to mean the opening of an Alberta agency in England, Premier Brownlee replied None at present but that will depend upon the results obtained and also upon the likelihood of securing the natural resources at an early date The question will however, be considered during the year

In asking Mr Greenfield to undertake this work the government is of the opinion as indicated by the premier, that his early life in England and his intimate knowledge of Alberta life and conditions will make his work in the mother country, especially in the rural parts, highly effective and that he will be able to stimulate a movement of desirable land settlers to this part of the empire.

Dairy Council for Province

Formation of a permanent advisory dairy council for the province was announced by Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture. The new organization will be representative of all the varied interests of the dairy industry. The object of the minister in the formation of such a council is to get at the intervals together in round table conference with the minister to discuss problems common to the dairy industry

This industry is considered to be one of the most important branches of agriculture, and the minister feels that by securing the advice and cooperation of the representative men in the industry, including producers, manufacturers and distributors, that the best interests of the entire industry will be served

Danish Visitor

A visitor to Alberta in the past week was S Sorensen, agricultural attache to the Danish government, who is a guest of the Danish legation at Washington, D.C. Mr Sorensen is paying his first visit to the Canadian West and is studying general agricultural conditions and particularly the dairy industry

Canadian Co-operative League Meets

The Canadian Co-operative League, co-operative League with representatives from all parts of Canada, was held at the Macdonald Hotel, Edmonton, during the past week. Co-operative merchandising in all its phases was discussed at the convention. The progress of the co-operative store in Canada was indicated by one report which showed that in 1925 fourteen stores were [illegible] and aggregate sales of $2,475,000 visitors at the congress included Horace Chas. T Burch, John Peters, J. G. Alexander, as the Co-operative wholesale society of England and John Wadsley of Illinois who has been considerable to the debates held during the session of the congress.

CANADA'S GOLD

It is estimated that in the present year Canada will produce gold to a value in the neighborhood of $16,000,000, which will place the Dominion running neck and neck with the Unit ed States in output The figure will in reality be in excess of the United States paper since approximately $8,000,000 worth of gold comes annually from Alaska and the Philippine Islands At the present time the production of Canada is mining practically twice the value of gold as is California the banner state of the republic Last year's production amounted to about $16,000,000

Unemployment

Unemployment is not considerable information has been gathered from all parts of Canada the United States and other dominions during the past week, has been held during the past week, at which representatives of urban and rural municipalities have been present in respect to their various taxation problems The chairman and secretary have spent considerable time assembling and compiling the mass of documents which have come to hand and on the portation of comparative tables of revenues and expenditures

Lethbridge Northern Irrigation Tract Prosperous

The Lethbridge Northern Irrigation Tract opened for settlement, is prospering prosperous to the farmers operating there In 1921 the total production on the tract was valued at less than $100,000. This year it is expected that the total production will be [illegible] This year it is expected that the total production will be [illegible] This year it is expected that the total production will be [illegible]

Why Many Homes Are Damp Inside

Builders agree that the dryness of a building depends largely on the insulating powers of its sheating paper.

Hercules is the only building paper which offers 100 per cent. protection against winds and dampness Its hard protective surface is obtained by using an exclusive coating preparation that is absolutely unvolatile

The reduced heating expenses more than offset the slight extra cost of Hercules

Seventy-Six Boys And Girls Taking Short Course Here

Agricultural School Will Have Record Attendance this Fall — Alumni Re-Union Last Week Greatly Enjoyed

Applications for admittance to the courses to be held at the School of Agriculture this winter are coming in very satisfactorily. Already about sixty-five boys and girls have registered for the first year work; this number, together with approximately fifty of the second year students, creates a record for attendance at the Vermilion school. At this early date, however, it is impossible to gauge the actual attendance, although the 150 mark is assured

Camp Sessions all over the country have been battered considerably by the recent rains which have held the ground mud on the crop roots to a very large extent the enrolment of a large number of boys and girls Requests for information regarding board and the work offered at the school have been received from thirty prospective students, this number not being included in the registration total as given above. Those in town who would consider taking boys in board for the winter months are requested to advise the school at once in order that housing accommodation be secured for our non-school's large next enrolment.

Commencing Tuesday next, seventy six boys and girls, members of the highest number of points at their respective school fairs last year, will be in attendance at the local one of a week's course. These children will provide many of our students of the future and every effort will be made to provide a happy and useful week

Alumni Re Union

The Alumni of the Vermilion School held a re-union at the college on the 12th and 13th of August and consider for the best season of the year the registration was entirely satisfactory. Forsay, students registered from as far away as Minnesota and California, while many points in Alberta were represented

The social hours were spent in profitable discussion in renewing old acquaintances and in going over the fields and barns on Friday evening. Tea was served to a large number of the Alumni and the friends and in the evening a dance was held in the auditorium of the school. The dance was well attended as evidenced by the fact that between 150 and 200 were added to the receipts to pools, for the publishing of another of the newsy "Red and White" booklets we have come to expect from time to time

World Happenings Told Briefly

A Reuter dispatch from Moscow says it is semi-officially announced there that the Russian Baltic fleet has sailed for manoeuvres in the Public Sea.

The Grand Army of United Veterans in annual convention at Kamloops, decided unanimously to enter the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League.

Believed to be one of the oldest pupils in Canada, Mrs. Matilda Farrell, aged 104, died recently. Up until a year ago she was active in her life-long work as a housedress.

Col. Sir William Wilson Hey, Johannesburg, general manager of the railways and harbors, South Africa, will accompany the South African premier, General James Barry Herzog to the imperial conference.

A new era in air transportation with installation of taxi freight and passenger service between municipal airports in Winnipeg, Man., and the principal cities of the northwest states, is predicted by Stanley Pearson, acting police minister, said.

The Union Jack is part of an inheritance that includes even hooded justice to all classes, the right to civil and religious liberty, personal freedom to live according to one's conscience, and glorious traditions that have marked the advances of human by its higher levels with each succeeding generation.

To emphasize it with any other design, no matter how artistic it may be, is to rob the Canadian people of their invaluable link—hence accumulated through centuries of earnest strivings—for what it is or.

Prince Camps With Scouts

Big Example Should Attract Respect For Worthy Institution

The announcement that the Prince of Wales will go into camp with the Welsh Boy Scouts will not only fill with joy the hearts of the Welsh Scouts themselves, but will serve as a well-earned encouragement to every peacemaker. In every part of the world the mountaineers are quietly and conscientiously carrying on the work of that admirable institution, the Boy Scouts, sacrificing what is commonly a scanty leisure to the welfare and the happiness of the lads who are gathered with him under the banner of Baden-Powell. But said Jeremiah Shiloh, JP., of 4 Berkeley Street, Cambridge, Mass.:

"Give it to charity. Your poor need it more than I do. The only example I claim I desire for my work is the friendship of the Hungarian people."

Mr. Shiloh knew more than half the poor of Hungary. He hoped the cause of international comity. He inspired the development of a finer and broader humanity. He gives the world the helpful spectacle of a brilliant intellect purified by years of kindly and generous heart. Rich, we said he was. He is opulent. He is surcharged with those riches of the mind and spirit which the world never values and would be a better world did it more revere. But he, too, has given Hungary $100,000 and the United States something to be proud of.—Worcester, Mass., Telegram

Philadelphia Exposition is Confronted With a Debt of Large Proportions

The Sesquicentennial Exposition not only faces court action to prevent the operation of its amusements on Sundays, but it is also confronted with a huge operating deficit and more than $700,000 in most outstanding obligations. Despite these developments, however, Mayor Kendrick took an optimistic view of the situation, asserting that the celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth birthday of American independence was "chock as any price" and that he was sure Mayor the citizens of Philadelphia would support and encourage the Broad Street.

Woman is Mining Engineer

Doing Practical Work in Region of Sierra Valley

Miss Schrammel, a graduate of one of the best mineral schools of France, obtained her diploma as a mining engineer, and came to this country to do practical work in the mineral region of the Sierra Valley. She is the daughter of the minister of the interior under Premier Poincare, a powerful and decisive man who controls the mines in appreciation of her work. She is wealthy and need not follow a profession, but is gradually adapted to it.

Canada's National Emblem

Union Jack Is Only Suitable Flag For Dominion

What objection can be raised to the Union Jack as Canada's national emblem? This Dominion is a part of the British Empire. No person openly advocates separation. But the only argument that the Scotland can think of for a distinctive flag must rest upon Canadian independence.

Assuming that Canada is to remain a part of the empire, then the Union Jack is not only suitable, but highly desirable as the flag of this dominion. It is an emblem of liberty. It has a history of which every man and woman of British blood should be proud. It is emblematic of the high type of civilization to which mankind has yet attained. It speaks of service, not only to one race, but to all races—world service in the broad est sense of the term. It is respected by all nations, and it is feared by aggressors against freedom.

The Union Jack is part of an inheritance that includes even hooded justice to all classes, the right to civil and religious liberty, personal freedom to live according to one's conscience, and glorious traditions that have marked the advances of human by its higher levels with each succeeding generation.

To emphasize it with any other design, no matter how artistic it may be, is to rob the Canadian people of their invaluable link—hence accumulated through centuries of earnest strivings—for what it is or.

Blonder Linen-Effect Tweed

The rich designs of the bordered materials have developed trimming fashions in the new waistline. Cut by slip on over the head, and with a convertible collar that may be fastened high, this diagonally-bordered frock for daytime wear is developed in bordered crepe of gratified polka dot tricolette. A single large tuck in front of each shoulder gives easy fullness over the bust, and the long full sleeves are gathered into narrow wristbands. There are two large patch pockets, and a narrow belt is fastened at the low waistline. Size 1197 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. For 36 bust requires 3¼ yards 36-inch, or 2¾ yards 40-inch, or 2¼ yards 54-inch bordered material as pictured. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the Fashion Book a needful and new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet sophisticated enough for the needs of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Vendors of Deadly Alcoholic Brew and Their Work

What must be humbly said the conductors and the vendors of this faint brew? They must know it to be so. Secretly in his efforts, and that anyone who drinks it does so at the risk of his life. Are they not potential murderers? Technically they may not be guilty of murder for it is their purpose not to kill but to make money, and not willingly and with malice aforethought of human life and knowing as they do that every bottle they sell may be the instrument of death, their offence may closely resemble, murder without the act of a man who, under the stress of a sudden gust of anger, strikes and kills.—Hamilton Herald

The Wheat Pool

Greatest Achievement in Co-operative Marketing That the World Has Seen

Over 120,000 farmers in Western Canada, members of the Canadian Wheat Pool, are enabling checks totalling $37,000,000. This sum of money represents the second interim payment of 30 cents per bushel on last year's wheat in the Canadian Wheat Pool. It comes to the farmer at an opportune time to meet the expense of the harvesting operations.

Members of the Canadian Wheat Pool receive most of the payment for their wheat as soon as they deliver it at the elevators after the harvest. The balance is later paid out in certain payments according to the prices obtained in the markets of the world by the Central Selling Agency of the pool.

The Canadian Wheat Pool is an organization made up of over 123,000 actual farmers in the three prairie provinces of Western Canada—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. It controls over one-half of the 1928 crop acre sown to wheat in the three provinces mentioned. Each province has its own unit in the Wheat Pool. The wheat is supplied to the pool by the farmers under contract usually of five years' duration, and is sold through the Central Selling Agency, which has agents and agencies in 61 parts of the world.

Speaking at the convention of the American Institute of Co-operation held recently at St. Paul, Minnesota, Aaron Sapiro, of Chicago, attorney for a group of American Co-operative organizations, stated that the Canadian "the greatest single achievement in co-operative marketing in two years and has been the successful formation of the Canadian Wheat Pool.

"The organization handles more wheat than any line of business in Canada and virtually dominates the cash wheat market of Canada," said Mr. Sapiro, "and all of their wheat publicity and information are internal information."

The farmers of Western Canada have achieved their success through one thing—organization."

Royalty To Visit Australia

Duke and Duchess of York to Sail on H.M.S. Renown

It is officially announced that, in order to mark the importance of the opening of the Commonwealth Parliament in Australia's new capital, Canberra, on May 9, 1927, by the Duke of York, who will be accompanied by the Duchess of York, H.M.S. Renown will be detached to the Antipodes. They will visit New Zealand as well as Australia.

Their royal Highnesses will probably leave England about the middle of January. They will proceed via the Panama Canal to New Zealand, where they hope to arrive in the latter part of February.

The New Zealand visit will be taken in order to avoid unfavorable climatic conditions that might possibly be encountered later.

The Duke and Duchess will arrive in Australia in the latter part of March, and they will visit all the Australian states, except Western Australia, before the ceremonies at Canberra, which will be the culminating point of their tour. They will visit Western Australia on their homeward.

Famous Scientist Records "Heart Gesto" of Soapdragon

Sir Jagadis Bose, physicist, the famous Hindu scientist, who says plants have heart pulsations, caused something of a sensation before the British Association by revealing the "heart beats" of the soapdragon by means of delicate apparatus.

His apparatus, part of which was invented by the assembled scientists present at the time, recorded the action of the soapdragon's heart beat.

Sir Jagadis also demonstrated that certain poisons in plants are paralyzed by drug, in the same way as human being.

Automobiles In Canada

Canada has a registration of 720,000 automobiles. Eight inhabitants in every 100 in the Dominion owned motor vehicles last year. The greatest density of cars is found in Ontario, where there are 11 cars per 100 inhabitants. British Columbia ranks second with 10.1 cars per 100. Then come Saskatchewan with an average of 9.5, Alberta with 8.3, and Manitoba with 7.6.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS: DUTIES TO GOD

Golden Text: Thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might. Deuteronomy 6:5.

Lesson: Exodus 19:1-20:11.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 19:7-14.

Explanations and Comments

The Preface to the Commandments: "And God spake all these words"; We call these words the Ten Commandments, the Decalogue (from the two Greek words deka, ten, and logos, word). The children of Israel had been attached by a knowledge of these religious and moral principles. They knew that they should worship idols and should not kill, but they had also learned that these principles were God's laws. Now they may have thought that they had found out all this for themselves, but the real Leader had been the Spirit of the Lord. It is important to remember that God was in all the process of moral development, from the patriarchs to Sinai, as well as at Sinai itself. Compare Romans 2:14, 15; Galatians 3:19. We cannot suppose that Moses was a mere mechanical instrument in receiving their laws to Israel from Jehovah, or in embodying great principles of religion or civil order in practical institutions. God had been "in the human, that are fit" (dic. A. S. Peabody).

Did Not Claim Reward

Juvenile Telling In London Robbery Are Returned Anonymously

The recent return, anonymously, without a claim to the $50 reward for its restoration of a pearl necklace valued at $75,000 which was stolen from a jewel case, adds another chapter to the romances of rewards, says a London paper.

In connection with a still more sensational robbery—that of a pearl necklace worth £150,000—a reward was obtained in two instances. In one instance, the wife of one of the thieves, in order to save her husband, gave the police information and dropped it into a gutter in the north of London.

It was found by a plumber's mate, who, having dined his pipe, discovered that he had not a match, and picked up the box in the hope that it contained one. When he saw the necklace, he thought no ill of it that he tried to sell it for a few shillings, but in the end he got the reward several thousand pounds, offered for its recovery.

Possible to Broadcast Heat Waves

It is no more difficult to broadcast heat waves than it is to broadcast sound waves, according to Prof. E. A. Lehde, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology. Discovery or invention of instruments capable of controlling heat waves, and a detector that will hold the waves and amplify them are the main need.

There are two ways of remaking for either—the other one being when the stores closed doesn't go off in fire.

Answer to Last Week's Puzzle

Homage To Britain

France Depends Upon Britain To Bring About Restoration of Stability

Jatran-degeant (Paris) says: We should be lacking both in foresight and gratitude if we did not realize our homage to Great Britain. Britain is not like her haughty kin-sters across the Atlantic, threatened by an unprecedented crisis of prosperity. England, if the truth is to be told, suffers from similar ills to ours. Upon the parity of the pound and dollar there should be no illusion. For Britain the unemployment problem is an open wound, and the mining dispute is still unsettled. The future after bolshevism is dead, and yet with a political discrimination which she has not invariably displayed she begins to understand that she has nothing to gain by crushing France. It is possible that her large-minded and far-sighted statesmen may bring about the restoration of Europe. We shall not forget it, and it strengthens our position in Washington. Let us exploit our services in London while the iron is hot.

Duke of York Goes to Australia Via Panama Canal

Official announcement shows that the Duke and Duchess of York will not pass through Canada on their visit to Australia by the opposite of the usual route, which is via Canada, but will take a north star. The Mediterranean, Suez Canal, Red Sea, Indian ocean and Bob Jamma cities had a date, begotten over his mother's shoulder at the fifth reunion, had, settled at last in her grasping brain. Her fight for understanding of the fantastic thing that had happened to her was over, smash ed was the retrospects of the evening. The feel of the rendezvous of her cheeks and throat and shoulders, the scents of Brandon, who wore his version clothes as smartly, the prospect of the morrow when she would more into the sun of income, the symbol of life threshold bounds her palace and suffered her alert body with a gentle glow.

For the twentieth time she resolved to puzzle no more about the source of the money or the reason of it coming would happen to her, of restrictions next it on tiptoe. On things, though, she must square up. Brandon, whatever his part in her affairs means to think she was well, the kind of a bell that is all clapper and no ring. She tossed him suddenly

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of The Vermilion Standard
AUGUST 17th, 1910

A gentleman prescribed the editor three bars of music—times during the week as an appetizer before the effects of the Standard as a newspaper, in its commonest and distinct attributes, began to assert itself in a manner that terse and effective manner. Newspaper men think the persons don't prefer their own remarks here below, and the above recognition is all the more treasured.

It was published last week, all those who wrote on standard 5 passed Kes (Hinkley) had the distinction of taking the highest marks of all examined at the Wetaskiwin centre, which include a substantive month in Red Deer number, and some 250. She obtained health 97 out of the total marks. Miss Freda Johnson and Emily Hay were the next highest on standard 4, and those are the first two to receive ten others diplomas from Vermilion school in the regular monthly meeting of the town council Monday night. Inauditor's report showed taxes and other monies invested for the three months to be over $2000. The town is now clear of all indebtedness to the Bank of Commerce.

CAMPAIGN QUIET IN BATTLE RIVER.

With no Liberal candidate in the field and a late announcement of the Conservative candidature, on advice of his physician, Dr. Shelton resigned in this constituency is quiet. No an nouncement as to the selection of an other candidate by the Battle River Conservative association has been made yet. Another convention will have to be held necessitating consultation and polling day is little over three weeks away in the meantime. Dr. Shelton, U.F.A. candidate, has the field all to himself and is well away on a series of meetings which when completed will cover all portions of the riding.

VERMILION DISTRICT HAS GOOD CROP

The harvesting of the 1926 crop is now well under way in all parts of the Vermilion district and the returns are going to be good. The wheat yield will be the best in years and the average high. The men of country attending from Kinburn to the east right through to Lloydminster has produced a stand of grain this season that has been outstanding and it is doubtful if any other similar stretch of territory in the West has been blessed with such a magnificent crops. The grain was not stricken and good bed last retreat and the rainfall has been most generous.

The two Canadian provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan attain their harvest peak of nine on September, per let next. They will then be leach 15 mile towns old no provinces of the country have turned into lives of riches and thus. There may not at may be substantially remunerative in the country, but there is a crop work which will at least keep the wolf from the door and feed in the mouths of the children. Even the humblest tenant may have the garden row and fifty hens.

Which means that grass (not housed at pens)

Which means proper and well housed and the funds for the other hand every town knows its prosperity of both store-proprietor and of fitting employment — such which may pay well at certain seasons and not even provide food or house rent at others — and every Town, too, it a farmer tells a victim to subsist there are mostly always other members of the family who can carry on the local work and often neighbors who gladly help, while the fate of the friendless worker in the city is often desperate the moment affliction comes. Such a situation may be polished by the respect, sympathy, but the ofttimes yet poor by intimate their understretched clothing and even understretched kitchen and kitchen. And even among the so-called relatively prosperous classes there is often such a struggle with debt to keep up appearances and keep up style that family life is marred, love fades from many a home, and the only of loneliness more crushing than the poverty of want.

Two proud Wealth does strut on the city boulevards but utter Poverty crouches and slinks about in obscurity, while from our country districts there still come up the prayer of the Wise Man of old — Give me neither poverty nor riches feed me with food convenient for me — Lloyd Poe in The Progressive Farmer

Death of Dr. Laidlaw

The sudden death of Dr. W. C. Laidlaw, provincial deputy minister of health, took place at his home in Edmonton, Sunday morning, August 15. The late Dr. Laidlaw was appointed to the position of Provincial Medical Officer of Health, in June 1912. At that time the public health service was a branch of the department of agriculture in the early fall of 1911 he went overseas, and when he returned in 1916, the public health service had become a separate department under the late Hon. A. G. MacKay, the Deputy being Dr. Norman. Dr. Laidlaw again took up his duties as medical health officer until the retirement of Dr. Norman, in 1921, when he was appointed Deputy Minister of Health. Dr. Laidlaw was also a veteran of the South African war.

W. J. Jackman, director of the wheat pool, has left, for Argentine to study wheat producing and distributing conditions in that country. Mr. Jackman will carry on his investigations on behalf of the three prairie pools and will be absent about three months

To Farmers & Stockmen of the Alexandra District

Before taking over the duties of manager of the Alexandra Cooperative Livestock Marketing Association I wish to outline a few of the conditions that have obtained in the past in this territory and point out how they have been brought about. Also I would bring to your attention in this way what we hope to accomplish in the way of better marketing of live stock. It is three considerations that have let me take over the management and that make me enthusiastic as the possibilities through our large family of contract organizations linked up with a strong selling organization and a common aim

It is well known that many attempts have been made to handle livestock co-operatively Some of these attempts have aimed at only a reduction in the cost of local collection and shipment Others have attempted to support unloss markets in the hopes that they might by that system assist to control prices While a third idea has been a combination of the two above very important percentage of these associations have been successful in the elimination of much duplication and have reduced the cost of marketing by carrying on a large business at a low ratio of expense While a good number have supported and shipped to central markets. There has also been a number who prefer to sell at home rather than go to distributing markets From the standpoint of the market it has been a sad fact that a large period while cattle were in big only selling up that which that only widely distributions obtained at different times and in the case a scarcity of the supply has been met with an over supply at the same time. Thus the producer has not received the actual cattle before since could be sold at its actual value too, never with a view of marketing cattle on the markets by having their supplies through drovers and even non-contract associations. It is with the idea of organization established to control the price or the distribution they were enabled, and to which their cattle were bought direct into their plants, on certain weeks to fix the price on the market a week, and the cattle in the area forwarded then and established as responsible or loose cattle to the dealers selling there.

The Alberta Co-operative Livestock Producers Ltd with which we have the honor to be connected is a provincial organization. Through their own organization the contract basis in the last instance to certain co-operative stock should their own organization the contract basis in the last instance to certain co-operative stock should their own organization the contract basis in the last instance to certain co-operative stock should

How Do Your Children Grow?

Only a few years ago the health of many children seldom aroused much interest. Sickness was accepted as a matter of course. Nowadays parents, aware of the importance of health, are more careful to keep their children well. Regular weighing and measuring, with careful records of progress, is being done in many homes. In these home and school records, some power of thought and time notation which is not always easy to obtain. Charts and graphs are used, which make it easy to see whether normal progress is being made. Variations from the normal are noted, and the cause investigated. In all these normal physical records, the standard of intelligence is higher and is constantly rising.

It is well that we should take account of the mental and physical development of the young generation. It is to be feared, however, that there is sometimes neglected much that is needful for health and well-being, and that is the importance, or lability of the methods being employed.

Our school system, however, has a greater function to perform than the giving of knowledge for the improvement of boys' or girls' mental faculties, and the encouragement of right living leading to physical health and strength. These things are, after all, but the foundation stones upon which to erect that noble structure which we characterize as devoted to build character.

Our examinations for and physical records do not, as I cannot prevail whether as a result of the present system, or of both, add character has been added to the sudden pass of an examination. Good behaviour, or any of the essence of individuality made more important and given greater consideration than intellectual equipment and health signs which, even if only serious in nature, into the world's mind or remain capable of doing greater harm than they could otherwise do. Health, rather than the development of a fine char- acter, appeared to be the chief aim of many parents and educationists alike which education rather than physical development is the greatest of all gifts.

If progress is to be found in the schools of to-day, first and all the time No child is now required to pass an examination which is beyond its physical capacity to do with it. Time after time, parents, the teacher, the parent, boards of school trustees, and the Department of Education have insisted upon reports being made to them of the physical condition of the pupils in the schools of the world. The time has now arrived to forget the futile reports.

Like a healthy mind, so a healthy body is the necessary point to be better equipped on the way of life than has been the case in the past. Artificial results upon children and their mental abilities, and information is seeking a wider application. Let us have more and more of this, and let us have it applied to all pupils, for young characters and minds of varying degrees of health and purpose, high ideals and the whole one.

Within the last appears in this connection creates advancement in such a way as to make it necessary that in the period in the world's history. If the world is to be saved as an organized unit, rapid progress and the development of such particular characters must be secured that we have no more nominations and will have rapid strides in the years just ahead. For boys and girls of to-day will be the men and women of to-morrow, which will be more responsibilities than will be in the generation, looking back. I do not want to be one of those.

Therefore is the purpose of the education system with it is the duty to make children grow." In mental attainments, in moral physical perfection in strength of character."

Has Established A Record

Forty Cloth Gives Gallons of Blood To Heal Sick

Having given 22 litres, nearly five gallons, of his blood in 42 transfusions and operations since November 1924 Hammond Rider claims to have established a record. Rider is a healthy looking fresh complexioned young man, employed in the shipping office of the Post Office. In 1924 he was in need of blood and began a normal life, giving a few ounces a day.

Then he found that his blood which was taken in a hospital and sent Dr. Blood, who stopped him and said, "You have a wonderful healing pair of cheeks! It's a good one for you."

He had his blood analyzed and the transfusions were performed, which at the time he has repeated almost continuously. In theory presented that his blood is of a type which is common in the U.S. and has American characteristics, and that it is suitable to cure illness in America.

Bridges Built in Dark Ages

Eighteenth Century Engineers Had To Re-invent Principles Of Construction

It is a revelation to learn from the latest publication of our common term "the dark ages" that those dark ages were not so dark as we have been taught to believe. In the arts, bridges, barns, roads, and the like, the Romans had attained a high degree of excellence. Horses are shown in the Roman mosaics of Carthage and bishops and abbots mounted, and are equally amenable to the bridling of the modern horse. Agriculture has made thousands of true friends during the past fifty years.

The fact is recalled in an unusual way in the plan of the island of Lesbos, which, although it is a comparatively small island, has had a number of bridges constructed over its streams. Each of these bridges is a work of art, and is a monument to the engineering skill of the Romans. Some of these bridges are still in use, and have been for centuries. Many of the bridges are built of stone, and are in a state of perfect preservation. The bridges are built in the form of arches, and are supported by piers. The piers are built of stone, and are in a state of perfect preservation. The bridges are built in the form of arches, and are supported by piers. RUN DOWN IN HEALTH

Why Many Men and Women Are Badly Handicapped

When you are so run down in health that it inspires the efficiency of your work, and you feel the pull your energy your feelings hours, or which you, it is because your blood is in need of toning up. You do not a serious breakdown is always the result, but you are badly handicapped. In many cases this condition, which doctors call anaemia, is brought on by sudden illness, due to poor blood blood that is deficient in the red coloring matter. When the blood is thin and weak your whole system suffers. You lose appetite, your nerves trouble you, you are languid, your nerves trouble you, you are languid, you are languid.

What you need to help to build up your blood and you should begin at once to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Thousands have found new health and strength by taking Dr. William's Pink Pills. They are a blood builder and nerve tonic, and they help to bring back health to the pale cheeks and weak body. Mrs. Alfred Edd, Wilmot Lake, Alta., says: "I was in a badly run down condition," when I got a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using the first box I felt greatly benefited, and the full treatment restored me health and strength. I am now well and strong and can do my housework without any trouble. I strongly recommend Pink Pills to all who are run down in health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

Queen "Mat" Reconstructed

Queen "Mat," who was the fifteen hundred Egypt, been reconstructed by Mr. Mansfield Brunton, and Londoners are now able to see some idea of the appearance of the strong minded ruler who dressed as a man on state occasions. The real name of this queen was Hatshepsut. But Egyptologists have nicknamed her "Mat."

Britain Will Pay War Debts

To Show Example of Highest Standard of International Honor

Defending the accuracy of Winston Churchill's statement Mr his contract with Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury of the United States, as to whether Great Britain's war debt was for commercial purposes. Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, replying to a question in the House of Commons, has reaffirmed Great Britain's full intention to pay its debt without whining.

The debt controversy was raised just before the House of Commons adjourned until November 9, when Chrisala W. Wedgwood Benn, Liberal, said it was unfortunate that Mr. Churchill had been drawn into the absolute with the United States on the undignified broadcasting that began to Senator W. E. Borah.

Captain Benn pointed out that the settlement was straightforward and business, and that Prime Minister Baldwin in Vancouver, was to make the literature a crutch rather than a staff. ment of the country.

"We got a material reward in a very strong credit position, strong exchange and stronger world commercial position," he said. "This settlement is regarded by the United States and President Coolidge himself declared it was an example of the highest standard of international honor."

Captain Benn pointed out that the only reveled stress upon the fact that while the American Government tackled the work of Canadians going into the island states, the British Government put no taxes upon the enormous flood of American literature circulated in Canada.

A very interesting talk upon his experiences with publishers was given by Arthur Stringer, well known Canadian author and illustrator.

To Make Starting Discoveries

Sir Oliver Lodge Gives Address Before British Association For Advancement of Sciences

A prophecy that within the present generation science will make revelations of immense discoveries in the realm of the spiritual was made by Sir Oliver Lodge in an address before the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Sir Oliver pointed out that other sciences had been materialistic but were followed by startling new advances in science. Sir Oliver Lodge is the president in 1924-1925.

"If I had to make a guess," said Sir Oliver, "I would say that sciences, through the research activity now going on, will be re-established more surely, and this time beyond all the pessimism of the past. Then there will be a new scope. We shall rise to become beings of a higher order and some we have stepped over these limitations, the grave, the gate of death there is no end to the harvest."

The British Association last met at Oxford in 1894, when Sir Oliver gave the first demonstration of wireless signalling by means of electromagnetic waves.

Not Following Golden Rule

Says Many Americans Agree With Stand Taken By Clemenceau

Richard H. Edmonds editor of The Manufacturers' Record, Baltimore, in a cablegram to George Clemenceau, said France's wartime president, "All lovers of America agree with every word of your letter to President Coolidge."

"Millions of Americans deeply regret," he said, "that for its own honor this country has not enrolled the alleged indebtedness of France and other allies to the money it advanced with which to carry on a war for world civilization and international safety.

"So long as we seek to collect these debts we are following the Gold en Rule but are violating every principle of humanity and Christianity. Millions of Americans feel this and in the belief that your appeal will stir to the deepest depths that sense of honor and responsibility to the world which commands us to realize that unto whom much has been given, of him shall much be required."

Encourage Canadian Authors

Assistance Should Be Given To Canadian Writers Dealing With Canadian Material

The idea of Robert Watson, Canadian novelist and poet, given at a session of the Canadian Authors' Association in Vancouver, was to make the literature a crutch rather than a staff. ment of the country.

"We got a material reward in a very strong credit position, strong exchange and stronger world commercial position," he said. "This settlement is regarded by the United States and President Coolidge himself declared it was an example of the highest standard of international honor."

Advance Of Aviation

World's Record For Successful Land Landings On Deck of Carrier

What is said to be a world's record for successful landings on board an aircraft carrier at sea was made by aviators of the U. S. aircraft squadron attached to the U. S. S. Langley, when 26 planes were landed on the flying deck of the carrier as it was steaming to its home base, twenty miles off Point Loma.

The feat is considered unusual, but the pilots of the planes are comparative novices. Only one pilot had ever before performed the performance.

Rather Hard to Answer

Emily had been fascinated by Uncle Will's stories. Until lately she had implicated with some exploits of Teddy Roosevelt before he became president. One day Father found her at work.

"And do you remember him?" asked the little girl.

"Indeed," replied her uncle "I can see I'm much older than you."

"Well, then," she asked, "how much older will I have to be before I can remember him?"—Christian Science Monitor

Fair Dates For Next Year

Managers and Officials Already Making Plans For 1927

Fair managers and officials of the Western Canada circuit fairs met at Regina during the Regina fair to consider dates for next year and any other pressing business. Owing to the agreement made last year that no fair will be expected to include in their dates more than three days in June, the western circuit next year will start at Brandon, July 4. The Calgary fair will follow, July 11 to 16 inclusive; Edmonton, July 18 to 23; Saskatoon, July 25 to 30; Regina, August 1 to 6.

It was recommended by the meeting that the officials go back to their districts and confer with the suggestion that two representatives from each of the A circuit fairs make a tour of the Eastern United States fairs, Iowa State Fair at Des Moines; Wisconsin State Fair at Milwaukee; Michigan State Fair at Detroit, and then go through to the Toronto fair. The suggestion is that these delegates go in a body, so as to be picking up suggestions for their own fairs.

KING DEPLORES ANY SUGGESTION OF ANNEXATION

Victoria, B.C.—"I stand for the British constitution through and through. I am not in favor, never have been in favor, and never will be in favor of annexation," declared Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King in reply to a question at a meeting in Victoria. "Nothing would please Britain's full intention to pay its debt without whining.

The debt controversy was raised just before the House of Commons adjourned until November 9, when Chrisala W. Wedgwood Benn, Liberal, said it was unfortunate that Mr. Churchill had been drawn into the absolute with the United States on the undignified broadcasting that began to Senator W. E. Borah.

Captain Benn pointed out that the settlement was straightforward and business, and that Prime Minister Baldwin in Vancouver, was to make the literature a crutch rather than a staff. ment of the country.

"We got a material reward in a very strong credit position, strong exchange and stronger world commercial position," he said. "This settlement is regarded by the United States and President Coolidge himself declared it was an example of the highest standard of international honor."

Captain Benn pointed out that the only reveled stress upon the fact that while the American Government tackled the work of Canadians going into the island states, the British Government put no taxes upon the enormous flood of American literature circulated in Canada.

A very interesting talk upon his experiences with publishers was given by Arthur Stringer, well known Canadian author and illustrator.

Deals With Rabb Budget

Hon. Chas. A. Dunning Addresses Audiences in Ontario

Stratford, Ont.—There was a large gathering at the town of Mitchell to hear Hon. Charles A. Dunning, minister of railways and canals in the King administration, who spoke in the interests of Fred G. Sanderson, the Liberal candidate in that riding. Michael Haverty, president of the South Perth Liberal Association, presided, and gave a brief address, as did also the candidate, Mr Sanderson.

Mr. Dunning claimed that the people of the west knew the people of the east better than the people of outside the east, know the west, and gave as the reason the fact that so many residents of the west were natives of Ontario.

Mr. Dunning spoke at length on the trouble in the eastern settlement and praised the work of the late Hon. George H. Boivin.

He dealt at some length with the Robb budget and declared that it was the best the country had enjoyed for many years—particularly in the benefits which had been given to the man of modest means. He quoted a Montreal financial statement regarding the tariff board plan and declared that such a board was necessary. He severe information as to parliament might have some definite basis on which to judge changes in tariffs.

Sir Henry Thornton Says He Has No Complaints To Make Regarding Political Interference

Brandon, Man.—Premier Mackenzie's proposal to exchange visits between himself and Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, to discuss the questions of political interference with the Canadian National management, Mr. Meighen of the newspaper correspondents at his meeting here. It opens with the following telegram from Mr Meighen to Sir Henry, dated August 6:

"Allegations are being made that the present government, including myself, have been and are responsible for political interference with the Canadian National Railways. I ask you to wire me whether there is the slightest foundation for such allegations and if so to advise me what it is."

Sir Henry's reply follows:

"Your telegram your telegram of August 6 reading as follows; (then Sir Henry quotes the text of Mr. Meighen's message). Sir Henry then adds: "In reply I have to say that the administration of the Canadian National Railways has no complaint whatever with respect to the attitude of the present government or any member of the present government in their relation to the National Railway system."

Canada Has Received Another Gold Shipment

Makes Over Six Million From New York in Two Weeks

New York—A shipment of $1,000,000 of gold to Canada has been announced by the bank of Montreal, a continuation of the movement that started about two weeks ago to repatriate to the strong sterling on Canadian exchange. The Canadian dollar was quoted at a premium of five thirty seconds of one per cent, which is about the level at which the bulk of the recent shipments were made.

A total of $6,500,000 of gold has been shipped to Canada since the beginning of the present movement. The strength in exchange is attributed to the heavy financing that was done here recently on behalf of Canadian industries.

SUBJECTS WHICH WILL COME UP AT EMPIRE PARLEY

London Forecasts in the London papers here will regard to the subjects to be discussed at the Imperial conference in October which seems highly now based more or less on most official information reveal little more than was suggested a short time ago. With reference to the status of the Dominions. The Manchester Guardian says the subject possibly will be settled by Canada, South Africa but if not, it certainly will be raised by the Irish Free State.

As to the alleged anomaly complained of by the Irish Free State in the continuance of the oath to the governor in Canada, the Irish Free State dispatches from the British Government, The Guardian says it regards this as really not of first importance.

More important, The Guardian continued, is the relationship between the Dominions. It says that this "no one shall possess power to have any say in regard to the work of a strong enough to refuse to give, or to accept the Government of that Dominion." In practice this is recognized. The Guardian says, but what is demanded is an explicit declaration that this is part of the British constitution. Such a declaration would be a definite step forward.

Lash of Law Enforcement Blamed For Failure to Check Outlawry

Commenting on the latest gang killings, Morgan A. Collins, Chicago police chief, has revealed that in the last 12 months his policemen have killed 180 robbers, that gang warfare has claimed 54 lives since January 1, and that more than 1,000 killed pigs or cattle have been raided

"There is really nothing the police can do to stop gang killings," Collins said. "The gunsters have their own organization. They are all over the city, and when they want a thing they take it The police have their hands full protecting the lives of respectable citizens If gangsters kill each other we don't care very much."

Collins blamed "unsympathetic courts" for his department's failure to check the crime wave

Canadian Development

(By C. W. Peterson)

It would be well for Canada to take stock of herself, her resources and her institutions and commence to formulate national aims in keeping with her peculiar conditions and limitations. Have we, for instance, any national ideas in respect to our population requirements? Should we aim at the status of Russia with 15 per cent. urban and 85 per cent. rural population, or should we strive to reach the standard of the United States with 67 per cent. urban and 33 per cent. rural population? At what point then the normal equilibrium for Canada? Obviously, such questions as these must be answered approximately before we can attempt to construct intelligent, rational development policies. Some years ago an "Economic Commission" was created by our Federal Government to give us the answer. It never made a report and died on the job.

Thinking persons can, however, all agree on one point, namely, that our present agricultural population is ridiculously out of proportion to the vast area of our agricultural lands, which, as well as west, fairly lie in the lap of settlement. There can be no manner of doubt that this condition must be remedied as promptly as humanly possible. It considered, in fact, our first, national remedy At was suggested by one of the last Dominion Trade conferences, Canada's best policy should be recommendered for public review and forward one considering this step-sided unsymmetrical state of affairs because we can ill afford to perpetuate poverty until intensive agricultural production overtakes our present greatly overextended industrial, governmental and transportation plants

There is, however, a deplorable absence of intelligent opinion in Canada on the vital question of colonization. Important occupational groups are at present even in blatant hostility to public expenditure in this direction, their judgment being founded largely on superficial premises The people of Canada has a patriotic task to perform in bringing the arrival facts before their readers at all crossing a vigorous and militant public opinion on this issue. Because governments in democratic countries more easily bow obedience to the will of the people. The initiative, therefore, must come from the great body of Canadian citizens rather than from their governors

New Canadian Structure in Paris is Almost Completed

A visit of the Prince of Wales to Paris is now under consideration, it is understood he promised two years ago that, if possible, he would open the building which has almost been completed for the accommodation of Canadian students in the Cite Universitaire in Paris. This has been designed to accommodate 56 Canadian students at a cost of approximately 2,000,000 francs, given for its purpose by Senator Joseph H Wilson, of Montreal. Hostels planned for French students, both men and women, are obviously inspired by Oxford and Cambridge, were opened last autumn after The Universities, who a complete set, will be one of the most interesting groups of academic buildings in Europe. The buildings are being erected on the spot where the old fortifications of the city of Paris stood, and the 22,000 students now at the university, 3,200 come from other countries.

Decrease In Unemployment

Figures For June Show Large Numbers Added to Payrolls

Reports on employment provided by the Dominion bureau of statistics from firms with a minimum of 15 employees in industries other than agriculture and fishing showed a further improvement in the volume of employment at the beginning of July

The number of persons added to the payrolls during June was greater than in the same month of any previous year of the record Jnto was 5,998 more than 5,998 June employees, 430 715 workers against 420,819 in the preceding month.

At the beginning of July the percentage of unemployments among members of local trade unions was 3.1 as against percentage of 4.9 at the beginning of June, 1926, and 6.1 at the beginning of July, 1925.

Notable Revival In Trade

Business Activity in Canada Is Maintained At a High Level

Stimulated by the profitable marketing of the excellent crops of 1925 and by the prosperous conditions in the United States during the summer months, business activity in Canada was maintained at a high level during the first half of 1926. Construction was especially active from April to June, the contracts awarded in May requiring a record for all time. Revenue car loadings were also greater in the second quarter, when almost all grains, live stock and timber are shipped, than in the preceding month. Bank clearings in all cities showed increases on the corresponding dates of any previous year and the index of employment in April, not available later than in any other month since 1920 With the exception of barley, the yield per acre of practically all crops of industries reported increases, that in construction is for the most part the

Energy From Atoms

Harnessing Radio Active Substances Not Impossible of Attainment

Chemists, in their search for a means of releasing the energy of atoms and other radio active substances, are looking toward other catastrophic restraints or unlimited riches for the world, speakers advanced at the fifth ture of Politics now being held recently.

Dr. Umberto Pomilliao, Italian chemist, predicted that the recent, of wresting the energy from atoms would be discovered within the next 25 years, and declares that the certain progress of science toward releasing and harnessing radio active substances points toward either destruction or unlimited riches.

In his discussion of radio active substances and the giant energy they contain, Dr. Pomilliao declared that two tons of uranium have enough stored energy to light New York city for an entire year. The magic formula for utilizing this energy is being sought by chemists who are convinced that success is not impossible of attainment, he said.

Dr. Pomilliao asserted that the modern alchemist is not trying to make metals into gold would in time be realized by modern chemists, but that their greatest ambition centered on the possibility of transmuting the elements into commercially value in the production of gold because of the high cost of the operation.

Volcanoes, about all the day atom, are also potential stakes to be won for mankind, Dr Frederick Soddy said. He referred to the fact that fish has harnessed her volcanoes and natural steam pits to develop power.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS: DUTIES TO MAN

Golden Text: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. Leviticus 19.18.
Lesson: Exodus 20.12-21.
Devotional Reading: Proverbs 3.1-7.

Explanations and Comments

The Law of Filial Piety.—Verse 12. Thou shalt honor love and respect thy father and thy mother. This is the first commandment with promise, Eph. 6.2. That thy days may be long in the land which Jehovah thy God giveth thee. The promise is coupled with this command, in contrast with almost all the promises made to the ancient people of God, which related to the land rather than to the individual. The people among whom the children of the Old Testament Ideal is maintained, where children prize obedience as the first virtue during the time of immaturity, and always honor them, will be the nation of strength, existing in the land of its own possession, and abiding.

The Sanctity of Life.—Verse 13. Thou shalt not kill. Murder, the most complete violation of the law of love to the neighbor, and the most impressive manifestation of that spirit of selfishness from which the girl cannot guiltless of murder, is also forbidden. Human life was sacred to Jehovah.

Purity.—Verse 14. Thou shalt not commit adultery. Purity of heart and life is the foundation of all true manhood and womanhood. Jesus Christ has taught us that the spirit of impurity is as much to be condemned as the act, Matt. 5.28.

Honesty.—Verse 15. Thou shalt not steal. Honesty in all our dealings with our fellow men is the only true policy. Dishonesty is the sure mark of a base character.

Truthfulness.—Verse 16. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor. Truthfulness is the basis of all true character. Falsehood is the mark of the devil, John 8.44.

Contentment.—Verse 17. Thou shalt not covet. Covetousness is the root of many sins. Contentment is the mark of a noble character.

New French War Device

British Air Officials Interested in Pilotless Air Ram

A pilotless, radio-controlled air ram is said to be the latest deadly weapon which France is preparing to use against her enemies in the future. This civil news agency report is said to have been demonstrated successfully at Quiquelleie, near Cherbourg, and to have given promise that it might be one of war, dash straight at a mission of enemy airmen wreaking havoc on its planes. British aeronautical officials are intensely interested in the reports of the new death dealing device, but absolutely refuse to say if it is perfected it will play havoc with close formation flying, the bunch of the British air forces. The new machine plane is said to be so made that it can be directed either by radio from the ground or from the cockpit of an accompanying plane. Observers claim that they have seen the pilotless plane take off from the ground through nearly all the stages of which a piloted airplane is capable.

Labor Reforms Sought

Canadian Labor Party Wants National Minimum Wage For Dominion

A national minimum wage for the Dominion of Canada, and the establishment of a national minimum wage board to administer the system, were two of the planks decided upon for the platform of the Canadian Labor party, which held its convention in the Labor Temple at Toronto. Other planks in the platform were endorsed as follows. Old age pensions on a federal basis; unemployment and health insurance; abolition of the Canadian senate; the discontinuance of child training in public and high schools; the abolition of child labor under 16 years of age; a minimum living wage for all young workers, the repeal of all anti-labor legislation.

Still, fight with herself as more as she might, nothing could keep her from so much as John. She had intended to spend the rest of the night packing her new things and her old, for she had no idea of sleep. There'd be lots of time for sleep when she was thoroughly convinced she wasn't asleep and dreaming anyway. She had wanted just to pack and talk to Georgie through the night and shape vague things that she planned to do for her into a definite program This last idea, Georgie dismissed at once with a practical, "Wait until you know where you're at I'll take my first respectful shot at you at about 8 Monday. I always did want to land that bird, Now that you're gone, maybe I'll get a chance." Joanna agreed that she wouldn't be a bad idea and Georgie concluded: "Then when I've got him eatin' out of my cross hire" That is, such is Will and maybe I won't Who knows? It's not such a bad bird at that"

Joanna was also about to tell Georgie Mr. Good Morning or even Knife much who had ordered her to fall Buddy" whom Georgie knew as Mr or Trotter, who earlier from Paris to London and America was as well known as Georgie was after he had murder of the Sunday press, or Brandon's isolation and sinister problem of her Ireland, when Georgie's usually prevailing was all right

With little success Georgie was detached her from the subject and her attention with ever new splendor, rising out in the shore of the trip as the dawn of the day of the things hanging about the room "He said he wanted to see you and square that bad that he could put the thing behind him, and that Georgie would vaudeville

With the morning Joanna had decided Nine sent to John a brief to the note that cost her an hour. She received Hilma was down and in Sunday Everything was all right They wouldn't talk about that night when he got back her. She would wait for him at Vivienne's. Woman Suffered Nearly a Year. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Her Health

Mount Jaw, Sask.—"I am going to try to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from displacement, dragging-down pains and inflammation, also pains in my right side over my hip and down my whole side into my leg. I had to nearly go to bed and I went to a doctor and he said I would have to have an operation, but my mother said to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I used her life years before. I took two bottles and I found I had better so I kept on taking it and also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have had two children since and then am perfectly well. I used to have to be down every two or three times a day, and now I do all my housework without trouble. I always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house as I find a dose now and then helps me. Pain willing for you to use the letter any way you see fit and I will answer letters, if I can help any other woman I'd be only too glad to try" Mrs. Esther Hoe ditton, 712 Athabasca W., Mount Jaw, Saskatchewan.

Beneath Her Dignity To Ask Contribution Of War Debts

Although it is now three years since Great Britain signed an agreement to pay her debt to the United States, the controversy as to whether it is a just debt or not is more alive than ever.

Britain will still be paying that debt when most who are infants in arms today will be grey haired men and women.

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer in the Labor cabinet, is one of the few who has had the courage to say publicly that the principle of the payment of the international debt according to the mutual exercise of the

GARNET WHEAT MAKING GOOD.

Garnet wheat, heralded as possessing qualities that would push the wheat-producing areas of Western Canada 100 miles further north, is making good. Results of tests made last year by individual farmers and on the Dominion experimental farms have, in the opinion of the federal department of agriculture, proved highly satisfactory, and tests are being made this year on a larger scale during the present season nearly 1,000 bushels of Garnet seed wheat have been sown by Western farmers. We have seen some small areas of this wheat in the Vermilion district and it has done splendidly, ripening a day earlier than Marquis and the stalks indicate that wheat areas in the West will travel another hundred miles northward, look well to, being published.

WEEDS A NATIONAL PROBLEM

(Experimental Farms Note)

Travelling through Canada in mid-summer one is struck by the prevalence and diversity of weeds. Weeds distribute, certainly double, can be described as white, blue, yellow or green — the green, too often unfortunately, of couch grass rather than of clean, vigorously growing crops. The occurrence here and there, of exceptions to the rule, simply demonstrates the possibility of better things.

Losses to farmers and to Canada total not many millions of dollars annually, are represented by this riot of color. Any means, however partial, of reducing such waste, must there now command respect.

Much of eastern Canada is fit only for a forest crop. Fire and ax have exposed to the incursion of weeds, millions of acres that can only be a menace to adjoining lands until restored, by governmental or municipal action largely, to its own proper use.

To bring additional areas the farmer can only be described as very low pressure cropping indeed. The land lies in hay or pasture chiefly, and in a year or two from the plow, produces herbage unmarketable as hay. Until brought under a more intensive agriculture, or correct permanent pasture management, returns from such farms will be meagre.

In more advanced farming districts there is a noticeable decrease of such conspicuous, but readily (under rigid variant) suppressed weeds as buttercup, ox-eye daisy, and the hawk weeds. In their place, according to locality appear various mustards, thistles and others. Certain weeds are more or less indicative of over-reliance on grain crops, others prevail in rich or seed growing districts, fruit or tree lining side, are perennial new thistle invades the richer soils, especially, poorly drained Russian thistle the lighter regions, sheep sorrel those in need of liming Everywhere some weed is ready to seize an opportunity Man's only hope here, of comparative freedom from weeds is in energy exactly such adapted crops well plan and skilfully tightended according to sound principles of tillage and plant growth timely or can be possibly prevail Nature a constant effort to replace lost vegetation or forest and seed and plants on the vast in the West is a hope.

SOUDER—PARLEY

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of the Metropolitan United church, Edmonton, on Monday, August 23rd, when Gordon Allison, only daughter of Mrs. S. A. Parley of Kirkella, Alberta, was united in marriage to Thomas J. Souder, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Souder of Allandale district. After a motor trip through the prairie couple will reside at Wetaskiw where the bridegroom is in business. Mrs. Souder is the sister of Mrs. Ernest Allison of Lavoy. The Standard unites with their many friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Souder all joy and happiness.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, Saturday, August 21st, 1926.

Learning About Alberta

Request for full information on coming Alberta, with suitable illustrations, has been received by the provincial publicity bureau from the California country of education, which is visiting its annual agricultural tour, and wishes to include a generous reference to Alberta. This is one of many indications recently received that greater attention is being paid to securing information about the Canadian West than ever before, by the people across the line.

Exhibit at Tone Fairs

Arrangements have been made to exhibit which goes to Sioux City, Iowa show the provincial government exhibit which goes at Iowa also, a neighboring city, where a large exhibition is held each year.

Prepare for Beaver Convention

The Canadian good roads association will hold its annual convention in Edmonton this year, on September 28, 29 and 30. It is expected that some 250 delegates will be present and that full advantage will be taken of the occasion by the eastern visitors to see something of the charms of Alberta's mountain scenery.

New Grain Board

The new grain appeal board for Alberta has been appointed, with the following members: C. H. Mitchell chairman, formerly of the staff of the grain commission of Canada, with L. G. Ingram, of the U.F.A. W. H. Boyle of the wheat pool, Clyde Gillies, an Edmonton district farmer, and F. J. Wolfe, of Edmonton, representing the producers, and R. H. Hottle, A. Prasse, H. E. Reid, and J. W. Allen representing the grain trade.

Heavy Flow of Gas

Drilling in Richmen Combe, near Coutts, on the international line between Montana and Alberta, the Imperial Oil Co. has struck a flow of gas to the extent of 10,000,000 cubic feet daily.

International Show

Alberta exhibitors for the international stock show at Chicago, are receiving notice now of the short dates which are set for November 27 to December 4. Alberta livestock and seed grain will be seen on the show, as usual

Horticulture Flourishes in Alberta

Horticultural shows are the order of the day in Alberta now. During the past week the Edmonton show was held, with those in attendance, and some of the best displays of flowers ever seen. Camrose show, also being one of the best in the province, was also held this week, and Calgary show, always a big affair, is scheduled for the coming week.

Characterize "Smoothest Chevrolet"

New features and mechanical refinements adding still further to ease of operation and driving comfort, and striking fleet lines characterize the "Smoothest Chevrolet" just announced.

A motor even more remarkable for smoothness in operation and in a refinement. The new features are announced in the middle of the greatest sales year in Chevrolet history.

Among the more important new features included are the following:- A new frame member strengthening the motor support at the transmission housing, thus still further reducing vibration and at their same time adding greater rigidity to frame and chassis, a new steering rear shaft with spring universally mounted to eliminate noise, gas and spark control mounted with both button on top of the steering column affording more cab comfort control in driving but also giving a more artistic appearance, an improved universal joint with front and rear propeller shaft, which is also operating in separate bushings to give greater wear and to afford easier lubrication, new shifter and brake support and a more rigid connection between the front riders which provides additional support of the levers and thus tends to noise.

A notable advance is the improved stop light switch which has no wires attached to the brake pedal and provides a positive and dependable switch operation on the switch thereby eliminating a frequent source of annoyance and failure in the electrical supply. The new switch is of non-arcing, lever type and is operated by the brake rod.

The new battery is equipped with a solid rubber case and has the handle built in as part of the case thus eliminating metal handles which are subject to corrosion. The new type case also holds the battery in such a way as to eliminate any strains on the battery case and the consequent liability of breakage.

All models have a rear view mirror and there is a handy pocket in right front door of closed cars as standard equipment. Balloon tires are standard equipment on all closed models.

Exercise Your Franchise

It is one of the peculiarities of the human race that they frequently desire very much those privileges of which they have been deprived, and which they enjoy most after regaining possession of them. It is an established fact in the history of mankind, as Addison and Steele point out, that the people of Rome appreciated their liberties to the highest degree after having been driven from the throne by the Tarquins, and that the Athenians were never more jealous of their rights than when they had recovered them from the Thirty Tyrants. And that is the case also in the history of our own country. Legislative enactments with regard to the franchise are frequently altered, and public opinion generally grows a little broader and more liberal with each succeeding election. Each one does something that is a little better or more advanced than the one that preceded it. Apparently it is only when we are threatened with the loss of something that we realize how much we prize it. And it is especially the case with regard to the franchise. Many people do not seem to realize that it is their duty to vote, and that they have just as much right to do so as they have to eat their meals or to go to church on Sunday. They look upon it as a matter entirely optional with themselves whether they shall vote or not, and they do not seem to realize that they are neglecting a duty when they refrain from voting. Apparently it has to be brought to their notice in some way before they realize that they have been neglecting anything. It is only when they are threatened with the loss of their franchise that they realize how much they prize it. And it is especially the case with women. They have had the franchise for a few years only, and they do not seem to realize that it is their duty to vote

Honesty is the Best Policy

IT IS TOLD THAT ABRAHAM LINCOLN worked hard for seven years to pay debts incurred by an unscrupulous partner

Technically released from the obligation of payment by the Bankruptcy Court, "Honest Abe" nevertheless felt it a duty to his creditors to pay them up to the last penny

We have many Lincolns in this community — their integrity, however, is one whose promise to pay can be depended on like a government note. Is!

There are others who take advantage of the trusts placed in them. Some are careless about paying their bills on time while still others attempt to evade payment of just obligations.

There's only one safe way — be honest with your creditors and treat them as you would have them treat you.

Honesty IS the best policy!

J.W.G. Morrison Conservative Candidate

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., Aug. 25.—"Your Conservative and let Borden speak his work" was the keynote of a short but spirited address given by F. W. G. Morrison of Vermilion at a large and representative convention of Conservatives held here this afternoon and at which Mr. Morrison received the unanimous nomination as the party standard bearer in the forthcoming elections. This nomination was made necessary through the retirement of Geo. L. Morrow of Edgerton, who received the nomination at the convention held some three weeks ago. President Tweedie of Provost presided and delegates were present from every section of the riding. Mr. Morrison's name was the only one presented and in his speech of acceptance he said that as the Liberals had seen fit not to enter a candidate in the contest, his major efforts would be directed towards the record of the Progressive party. He charged that Mr. Spencer, the late member, was misrepresenting the situation at Ottawa to the electors of this riding when he states that the legislation enacted at the recent session of parliament had been lost through the arbitrary action of Premier Meighen in dissolving the House. As a fact stated Mr. Morrison, that legislation was lost because Mr. Spencer and ten or fifteen other Progressives had switched their votes and defeated the Meighen government in spite of keeping it in office as the group had pledged itself to do. Had Mr. Spencer and the other members signed by Mr. Meighen the Hand Credits Bill and the Soldier Settlement land revaluation bill would now be upon our statute books instead of in the discard. He quoted from a land tax form to show that this legislation was lost because of Progressive Group action, from which however, Messrs. Lucas, Boutilier and Tansley were to be excepted. These men stayed with the government at which had agreed to pass supply and complete the work of the session.

Referring to Old Age Pensions contained within the Progressives were [illegible] which on their withdrawal allowed that they fell as passed could not be given effect to the reason that the Lieutenant Governor had been consulted and they had not so agreed to it.

Lastly he charged the Conservative party pledged to the holding of an early conference and the passing of legislation which would be effective and that a Meighen government had opposed on the ground that it was the people to say. The people on this occasion was stalled and [illegible] and [illegible] but he had when a small group seemed able to govern, held the balance of power. To add a half million dollars a year was too much to pay for expenditures in Ottawa. Concluding Mr. Morrison referred briefly to the time when he expected his name to be on the nomination and the application

A Western Programme

On 8-September 11 through the medium of the ballot box, the electors of Canada will declare on an important issue, but in so doing they will declare several to fully important matters. In the first place they will make a decision as to whether or not they have confidence in the present Government and its new line of policy. In only a few brief months the people of the Dominion will have to choose between the old party leaders and the new. In such a choice the electors of Canada believe that they have a right to be informed as to the principles and policies of the party or group that is asking for their support. Such information they have a right to expect from the platforms of the parties and from the speeches delivered by the party leaders in Parliament or on the platform. It was but the express duty of the Liberal party, at the last session of Parliament, to embody and declare their position on the various questions now before the people.

Parliament is the supreme court in matters of government. The will of the people finds its expression in it. It is through the votes of members of the House of Commons that the will of a majority of individual voters on the platform will be made into definite legislation. Thus, whether we realize it or not, in each constituency in Canada, believe that likely has been or will be selected and advanced by a Party, protective tariff, the old Conservative issue for a quarter of a century, has been the dominant issue in Canadian politics. Its supporters can be depended upon in the next Parliament to vote for its maintenance and to oppose its reduction. In Parliament on the other hand, was but the express duty of the Liberal party, at the last session, to declare their opposition to the protective principle as an issue, and to declare and record their belief that the tariff is to be used for the purpose of raising revenue sufficient only for the needs of the government, and therefore should be reduced and adjusted

What's back of TEXACO

If we could take you through any one of the Texaco refineries and show you where Texaco Motor Oil is made and how it is made: the wonderful equipment of the modern refinery, the great laboratories, and the minute care at every stage of the process, you would never accept a substitute for Texaco.

You would see how carefully the special crudes are selected, the whitchfulness at the stills and fractioning equipment to control the motor oil body, the huge agitators where the oil is repeatedly purified and treated to remove tars and sludge, and finally the giant filters where for days it is processed until the clean, golden Texaco Motor Oil is the result.

If you could see all this evidence of The Texas Company's policy —never satisfied with less than the finest in product —nothing but Texaco Motor Oil, clean, clear, golden would ever enter your motor.

If it isn't golden, it isn't Texaco

Eliminate Rumble In Closed Cars
McLaughlin-Buicks for 1927 Will Have Live Rubber Insulation

Rumble in closed cars has been one of the chief objections to this body type McLaughlin Buick engineers have eliminated it from the closed McLaughlin Buicks for 1927. Live rubber insulates the body of the McLaughlin Buick from all outside noise which might fame noise. The engine is suspended at all three points of contact with the frame, in heavy, rubber inserts. The engine has been made smooth and quiet at all speeds, with a complete absence of vibration periods. This, in addition to the rubber engine mountings, prevents any frame noise in the interior of the car. The frame and chassis rumble has also been thought to the body, but this can not pass the rubber bushes in the new McLaughlin-Buicks. This stops to the interiors of the cars is aided by quiet operating mechanism throughout the models, which starts with the balanced engine and includes silent valve operation, new gears and gear teeth to reduce hum, and a multiple and exhaust system designed especially to keep all noises out to the body of the car. Surer and positive joint gives correct alignment between the engine and the transmission. His combination for all models have been radically changed and extra set-nuts have been given to the ball housing and the ball bowl housing. The result is positive alignment among all units which eliminates clutch rattle clutch release bearing noise and gear noise. Another noteworthy feature of the new McLaughlin Buick is the hanging of crankcase dilution which makes it necessary to change oil only four times a year instead of every 500 miles, as in the past. McLaughlin Buick engineers have designed a Vacuum Ventilator which automatically removes water and kerosene in a vapor form before they can dilute the oil.

The 1927 McLaughlin Buick has distinctive body lines and many improvements which may now be seen at McLaughlin Buick showrooms.

The prolongation of the wet spell is beginning to cause general anxiety regarding the crops. The bulk of the grain is in stook and so long as the weather keeps cool no harm is likely to result from the continued rains to the cut crop. Late oats are slow in ripening and there is still a big acreage to be harvested.

JOHNSON — OLSON
Knot Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding, Thursday afternoon, August 26th, at Oxbury, when Allen Viola, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.K. Olsen of Holdfast, Sask. became the bride of Mr. Robert A. W. Johnson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Johnson, of Vancouver, the Rev. Dr Shearer officiating. Only immediate friends were present. The bride was charmingly gowned in mauve georgette and cream lace, wearing a picture hat to match, and carrying a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lillies of the valley. She was attended by Mrs. H. H. Heathman. The groom was supported by Mr. Walter K. Webb. Immediately after the ceremony a dainty lunch was served at the Tea Kettle Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left on the evening train for Vancouver and other coastal cities, where the honey moon will be spent. On their return they will reside in Vermilion, Sask. where Mr. Johnson is on the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

THURSDAY FRIDAY SATURDAY

To the Electors of Battle River

As the nominee of the U. F. A. forces in this constituency I beg to address to you the following letter

No one regrets more than I do that an election is forced on the country so soon and at such an inconvenient time for the farming population. Owing to the busy harvest season, it will be impossible to hold afternoon meetings, but the fact of omitting these will prevent me from meeting as many people as I would wish in the campaign.

During the past session much valuable legislation was passed through the house of commons. The outstanding items of which were

(1) Revaluation of C. N. Land.
(2) Rural Credits—Long Term Credit Bill for farmers
(3) Amendment to the Grain Act (Bill No 31) giving the grower the right to direct the grain in car lots to a terminal of his own choice.
(4) 642 odd petitions.

Of these the last mentioned was defeated in the Senate which body has amended the Grain Bill No 8 making it almost valueless. For this and now a similar action they deserve public condemnation.

Of the other legislation which was passed after much intensive work by the Farmer group and others, all was lost through the arbitrary action of Mr Meighen in asking for dissolution of Parliament without putting the Governor to Retail formal assent to the numerous bills.

The un-normal condition of the Customs department necessitated an investigation. Considerable work was done on this by a House Committee but owing to political party exigencies it was not as thorough as it should have been. On the report being given to the House I therefore supported an amendment asking that the investigation be continued by a judicial commission the judge being appointed by the judges of the Exchequer Court in this way placing the continued investigations as far as possible out of party politics.

The voluntary resignation of Mr Mackenzie King on being refused a dissolution by the Governor General and the appointment of Mr Meighen to take his place, should not have interfered with the passage of all legislation that had passed both the Commons and the Senate.

The present administration however attempted to carry on without regard to appointed Ministers and elections received the censure of the house.

Mr Meighen then asked for dissolution without going through the form of prorogation a most unconstitutional and so called 'snap' vote. This action nullified any legislation that had not received the signature of the Crown.

The present administration is therefore responsible to the time of any legislation that had passed both Houses.

My experience while in Parliament has more confirmed me of the opinion of the two party system whose energies are expended too much in struggle for power and too little in considering legislation for the common good. I am now where the people must decide whether they wish to continue the present system of government by the competitive party system or to encourage a freedom adjustment based on cooperation for the good of the whole country through the House of Commons. In order to do so I wish to express to the electors my deep appreciation of the support given me during the last two years, and hope that I shall again have the honor of serving you as a delegate.

Yours very truly
HENRY E. SPENCER

No Use For Conscientious Objectors

International Democratic Congress For Peace Unanimous on this

Although the International Congress for Peace has emphasized more than ever at this year's sittings that it believes in peace, it has no use for conscientious objectors. This decision was taken at the last meeting of the congress when a resolution was adopted that conscientious objectors in countries with compulsory military service, be forced to perform work equally hard and dangerous as that some period as those who serve in the army.

The delegates, numbering early 5,000, ended the congress in complete unity, despite the fact that they represented twenty-three nations of different ideals. One point emphasized by the delegates was that poor youths should have the same chance for higher education as the sons of the wealthy classes in countries where, unlike Canada, workers' scholarships through college is unknown.

Maimed veterans of the great war held of their actual experiences at the front and urged the need of international peace at the congress

Japan Charges Emigration Policy

Will No Longer Encourage Country-men to Emigrate to Canada

Henceforth Japan intends to abandon its Hokkaido, Formosa, and other possessions, her in future does not intend to immigrate to Canada, Australia and other countries, realizing that the previous policy caused much trouble and ill feeling, a Japanese official spokesman announced in Tokio.

The spokesman declared that Japan had reversed its entire emigration policy after discovering the futility and fatal of previous efforts to send out its surplus population to places where it is not wanted.

The present policy is to increase trade with other countries, especially those of the South Pacific, with all efforts of commissioners and industrialists concentrated on developing more and building up exports, he said. He announced that a South Pacific trade conference would be held at Tokio on October 9

The Country And Its Consuming Population

By C. W. Peterson

With comparatively few exceptions, the country towns of Canada have been going down hill or have barely held their own during recent years. Various causes have been described to this disturbing phenomenon chiefly improved highways and the general use by farmers of automobiles, which enable them periodically to do their trading, and, incidentally, in dulge in recreation, in cities, thus cutting off an enormous volume of farm labor employed and, consequently, the consuming population tributary to the country town. Rural mail delivery has largely cut out the visit to the post office and so forth

But these changes have up-peared in the towns. There are the sales agencies for automobiles and their accessories, which, however, mean in charge is related also to thousands of others like him in a wonder ful period of automobilizing in a time which was absolutely unknown in the towns twenty years ago. Farm implement sales have held to larger and better implement houses, tractor agencies and filling stations.

Garages are also organized better than they used to be, to ship out their products. Here's a place of business—Hillsville, people, where I live—established a big poultry-and egg-shipping centre. A modern building, properly arranged and equipped, with well-equipped office rooms, a good warehouse, ample side track from the main line of the railway. Hundreds of poultry shipped direct to the cities. Can you beat it? Who says that the town is not coming back?

The farmers are shipping the cream out from the towns, through local cream-buying stations, and getting cream checks for it every week—real cash money from the outside world—making their purchases at the local banks and spending a lot of the money with the home merchants.

It's true there was a time when city high schools lured the young people away from the towns. But during the past decade the towns have caught up to their own high school buildings. As one travels across Canada, he is impressed with the fact that towns everywhere here gone into the high school building boom, such as was not known previously.

From the cities they are doing something that is helping in the towns in return. Certain railroad companies are moving their repair shops from the congested centres to small division points. It saves overhead cost, minimizes the risk of labor troubles, and preserves certain stations for repair work.

In the east, there's a notable trend to locate new industrial plants that do not become so marked that an organization in the United States has made country estates and publication the results, of the influence of these industries upon the rural areas surrounding them. Many workers in the cities, commanding the magnificent interest of the department, estimated that the average citizen should pay as income tax of $7,000.

The great surface districts for professional workers are Wall Street and Fifth Avenue. On a good day, unfettered by police, Dunn believes a pushcart can clean $100 a minute.

If there were no such word as fail some unscrupulous man would soon invent one.

The Jun.per Costume Still Plays A Winning Game

The sun never sets on the activities of the insatiable two-piece mode there we see it in its smartest and most approved version—straight slip pile overblouse, and softly flaring skirt, so charmingly youthful for the slender figure, and equally flattering to more mature figure. The blouse opens at the neck under a flat plait and chooses a collar of the boyish type. There are gathers at each shoulder where the back joins the front, and two set-in pockets furnish the only trimming note. The long sleeves are set in at the armhole and finished with ticked cuffs. The blouse No. 1044, is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards 36-inch plain material, 1¼ yard 36-inch plaid fabric. The flared skirt, No. 1238, is fitted to a body lining, and is in sizes 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist. Size 26 requires 2¼ yards 54-inch material, and 1 yard 36-inch plaid fabric. Price 20 cents each pattern.

Good Town For Beggars

Handicapped Cultured Million and Half Vagrants in New York

A million and a half dollars annually in pennies, nickels and dimes drop into the hats and cups of the blind, deaf and blind beggars selling chewing gum and pencils on the streets of New York.

The ordinance was given by the police superintendent, Frank L. Dunn, secretary to Lieut. William C. Whalen, commanding the magdicants' bureau of the department, estimated that the average cripple should pay an income tax of $7,000.

The great surface districts for professional workers are Wall Street and Fifth Avenue. On a good day, unfettered by police, Dunn believes a pushcart can clean $100 a minute.

A tablet of bronze weighing 100 pounds, had been placed together with three silk flags of Japan, England and the United States, to the Hon. Mr. Kanawa Matsubara, mayor of Sappo, by passengers on the Empress of Scotland on her latest world cruise. The tablet was erected in one of the principal squares of Sappo, a city native Japanese town, which has never before been visited by a world cruising liner, and which welcomed the Empress of Scotland and her passengers in the vociferous fashion of the west.

Tenderly watched out, the appearance of the rabbit to me that he over-talk to attract attention, and in the central location of the city where it is placed it will be of lasting interest both to the inhabitants of the city and to visitors passing through.

Mayor Matsubara, in his speech acknowledging receipt of the tablet, thanked the Scotland's captain, Commander R. G. Latta, for this token of esteem on the part of the passengers, and said that it was felt that a great deal had been done for the city of which he was chief magistrate. He hoped the Scotland on her next cruise would visit Sappo, and getting cream checks, reformed that the city would leave nothing undone to give the ship and her passengers an enthusiastic reception if they should do so. On this occasion nothing was omitted to give the visitors a high ideal of what Japanese hospitality and courtesy were, and that they were by no means mere words. The passengers carried away with them very pleasant memories of the incident.

Turning Point In Biology

Recent Experiments Tend to Revive Theory Expounded by Darwin

"A turning point in biology," that was how a British savant described his address delivered at Oxford before the British Association for the Advancement of Science by Professor W. MacDougall, of Harvard University, on deductions drawn by him from experiments with rats.

The savant then generously lauding his colleague from America was Professor Myers, who was presiding at the meeting of the British Association meeting.

Referring to Professor McDougall, he said: "His experiments with rats prove the belief current since Darwin's time, and now established for the first time, that mental attainment on a particular direction can be inherited by the young of succeeding generations. Psychological characteristics can be produced in some way—and as with of his own brain—and so are bodily peculiarities."

Professor Myers said this was a fundamental thing in education and with have great future results, although much remains to be done.

Probably more young men would be able to earn their own living if they didn't have fathers to support them.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 5

THE TENT OF MEETING

Golden Text: Jehovah spake unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend. Exodus 33:11

Lesson: Exodus 33.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 8.1-T.

Explanations and Comments

The Place and Purpose of the Tent of Meeting, verses 7-11.—These verses describe the customary way in which Moses performed his high priestly service during the wilderness life, before the tabernacle was erected. At every new encampment Moses "used to take the tent," a smaller one which he called the tent of meeting, and have it set up by it self, far from the camp. Similarly, after the settlement in Canaan, the local sanctuaries were beyond the towns and villages. This tent was especially sacred because in it Moses as priest obtained answers from God for any inquiry who came then with his perplexities. The pillar of cloud were over, Moses returned to the camp, but the tent was constantly guarded by his attendant, a young man named Joshua, the son of Nun.

When Moses started for the tent all the people followed him until he entered it. Then the pillar of cloud descended, and before the door of the tent, each man stood and watching at the entrance of his own tent worshiped God in worship. And Jehovah spake with Moses.

Britain's Oldest Living Soldier

Guardsman Served At Balaclava Is 100 Years Old

How many people who are familiar with Lady Butler's painting of "The Roll-Call After Balaclava," know that the mounted officer seen in the picture is still alive? He is General Sir George Higginson, who has just celebrated his 100th birthday. He is Britain's oldest living soldier, is still hale and hearty, and he is known as "The Father of the Guards."

The famous body of soldiers is noted for its hardy veterans. Francis Wood, another Guardsman, who is now eighty-three years old, has just completed the 700-mile walk from London to Colchester and back. He undertook the journey on foot as the result of a challenge at a regimental dinner.

Peril From Air Traffic

A new form of traffic peril: While riding in an automobile with her family, Mrs. A. B. Montarne, of Clarkmont, suffered a severe gash in the top of her head from a soft drink bottle which crashed through the top of the car. The bottle evidently had been dropped from an aeroplane passing overhead.

Monument To War Nurses

Erected to Nurses of Canada Who Gave Their Lives in Great War

The monument built in Montreal in Canada's hall of fame in the Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, and dedicated to the memory of Canada's nurses who were killed in the great War, will bear the following inscription, built:

"Erected by the nurses of Canada in remembrance of the sisters who gave their lives in the great War. Fourteen fourteen nineteen eighteen open to perpetuate a noble tradition in the relations of the old world and the new

"Led by the spirit of humanity which found its highest form of Professional ministrations to those in need has given to the world the example of heroic service, enhancing three centuries of Canadian history."

The words were composed for the memorial by Hugh Hies, W. L. Mackenzie King when, as premier of Canada, he made arrangements for the erection of the monument

German Ports Are Reopened

Shipping Magnate Says Trade Growing Up By Leaps and Bounds

Rotterdam, already the first harbor on the European continent, is enjoying a period of unprecedented prosperity. Numerous ports that stretch along the rivers are choked with commerce. One is astonished to see the endless chains of ships headed to the waters edge. The preferred coal strike in England is proving a boon to the Dutch ports and the Ruhr district, of which Rotterdam is the export harbor. Coming from the country are shipments of Canadian and Russian grain. A Dutch shipping magnate told the writer that business was growing by leaps and bounds, and that export through Holland already surpassed the volume of 1913.

Unusual Instructions

"My practice is not to be sued and no debts are to be collected," was the unusual instruction in the will left by Dr. Wallace Brown Cranbury, London, Eng. The physician left slightly more than 9,000 pounds sterling, of which 50 pounds was stipulated for the upkeep of his parrot and dog.

CHAPTER XIII.

Yvonne Cousteau

Yvonne Cousteau was one of those women, young in spite of late hour, odd in the face of all else that is wonderful, whom it was the fashion to know much, but of whom few knew much like appearance on the semi-circle balcony at Shepherds, in Cairo, or made together and enjoyed a delicious lunch upon the shaded terrace of the Hotel Sphinx. Her arrival at Nice, or Cannes, during the season of the Mardi Gras was told in the Chatter, at Monte Carlo and echoed from ville to ville along the whole Riviera shore. It, some evening, she appeared in the framed herself in the purple curtains of the exclusive Embassy club in London, or supped in her private room in the lounge of any other fashionable supper rendezvous, Mayfair knew about it long before it was over. Even with a final brandy and soda. Only the favored few knew whence she came or where it was to be the night lights of her city.

For Yvonne Cousteau was a free-lance of high lights—Reddy Kenilworth's fourth called them "high spots." Teddy, lieutenant, of London, Paris and New a great deal more about Yvonne Cousteau than he did, and some things, if she wished. So might Brandon. Of the two Reddy probably had the safer reputation. He was a supercilious observer of women. Brandon was only nominally interested. Reddy was worth knowing. And somewhere underneath the challenge in his mood whose name upon her in a corner of the Ritz-Carlton garden which appeared on the drawing room of her hotel in front of the fashionable cross streets that they navigated the astrologers of Avenue. Every Woman Deserves One

The SMP Roaster is a fine time saver. You put the roast or fowl in the oven. The roaster does the rest, bastes, roasts to perfection. It roasts with very little shrinkage, thus saving dollars every year. Most of the tasty roast juices are here; all the rich flavor is retained. Besides you can buy cheaper cuts, for it makes them extra tasty and tender like choice ones.

The tiny thing cover keeps all the cooking odors and the grease inside the roaster. You need smell nothing when it is in the house, and the oven is kept sweet and clean. Made of heavy gauge steel, with a splendid finish. Price $6.50 at hardware stores. Send for booklet. Sold on all hardware stores.

Alive in Ice Blocks

Many Fish Merely Go to Sleep in Freezing Temperature

The director of a new Chicago aquarium is investigating the possibilities of keeping live Alaskan black fish in blocks of ice with the idea of shipping it, in that condition to the show tanks

Such a scheme has already been considered by the aquarium authority at the London Zoo, for there are many fish which will stand being frozen solid and still revive when carefully restored to normal conditions. At the temperature of freezing water these fish go to sleep.

An ordinary goldfish which jumped out of its tank lay for 18 hours on the hearthrug before any one in the house noticed its absence. It was frozing stiff when found, but was put in a bucket of water and in a few minutes it was swimming about.

In the process which is being considered in this city, a block of ice is placed in the tank, and the fish are slowly chilled in tanks until they become sleepy. Then, in lightly covered water, they are slipped inside a hollow in a block of ice and frozen still. There they sleep until scientifically thawed.

English Brunettes Popular

British Statistician Says Larger Percentage of Blondes Single

Some years ago an English statistician discovered that among nearly a thousand women 75 per cent of the dark-haired were married and that only 40 per cent of the fair were wives, says Jeremy Mortimer in the London Mail.

It would seem from these figures that brunettes are considered more charming than blondes. But this is unfair in an adjective meaning fair should, but among modern efficient people the possible belles have been chiefly brunettes.

Brunettes have greater vitality than blondes, and a number of the people in Europe is stated to be steadily diminishing. It is interesting to learn from statistics that women prefer fair men as husbands, for the greater number of brunettes remain single.

Strange Ways Of Lightning

Some Trees Show Evidence of Being Struck Many Times

Lightning often strikes tree or even more times in the same place. Some trees, favorably located for attracting the flash, bear scars of light scars, all visible, and developed by a keen analysis of the trunk.

It has been contended, though not proved, that big trees in California are repeatedly struck, and that at length not killed, their bulk gives no benefit to the lightning, and in consequence. The forest rule, based on the shape of the trees, that those trees which are struck, Atlantic giants, the lightning are much less than would be expected from the bigger of their bulk.

Lightning is one man, more particularly in the case of a tree, but also in animals. A bullock in Ceylon, struck by lightning, recently died, and also his companion, who had been standing beside him.

Strange Story From India

Boys Stolen Hindu Children Grow Like Wolf Adopters

Fantastic tales of how Hindu children, stolen by wolves, learn to crawl on all fours in imitation of their adopters until far past the age at which children usually walk, are contained in the reports from Lieut.-Col. Fauntleroy, magistrate of several provinces of India. During the last year season, reports have their children asleep on the ridges separating the fields, finding later that the babies have disappeared. The women believe they are carried away by grizzlies and wild beasts.

Fauntleroy, writing in a Calcutta newspaper, mentions the case of a boy of eight years, who was captured by wolves and later photographed by Fauntleroy crawling on his hands and elbows and behaving like a wolf. After his capture the child died soon.

The Hindu people, commonly, are the victim of the theory, held about Brahmans and Rajputs.

The wolves are accustomed to rear by the Hindus and the manner in which is making efforts toward their destruction

Lieut.-Col. Fauntleroy mentions the case of a pack of wolves attacking an antelope in flank formation. As soon as the wolf dashing in the antelope is exhausted it is relieved by another, which carries on the battle until the antelope is vanquished.

Honesty is the Best Policy

IT IS TOLD THAT ABRAHAM LINCOLN worked hard for seven years to pay debts incurred by an unscrupulous partner.

Technically released from the obligation of payment by the Bankruptcy Court, "Honest Abe" nevertheless felt it a duty to his creditors to pay them up to the last penny.

We have many Lincolns in the community — they inherent honesty among whom promise to pay can be depended on in a thousand and one ways.

There are others who take advantage of the trusts placed in them. Some are careless about paying their bills on time. Most will even attempt to evade payment of just obligations.

There is only one safe way — be honest with your creditors and treat them as you would have them treat you.

Remember IS the best policy.

The Bon-Fire Sing-Song at Indian Lake in aid of the Church of England debt was rather a damp affair altogether. A few kind friends braved the elements, but though the bonfire blazed up and did its best to cheer, the rain descended steadily. After a cup of coffee and sandwiches, everyone departed in haste. When we heard of the rationale of people that had intended to come for the evening, we felt sad—cutting up 10 loaves of sandwiches which are not needed is no joke. Mr and Mrs Eddie Gordon of the Turkey Hill district mourn the loss of their infant daughter Nellie Eliza Beth, aged 5 months and 25 days, who died under very distressing circumstances about half past five o'clock on Wednesday afternoon August 25th, being smothered by a comforter. The mother was out in the garden when the baby became unconscious and upon her return could see no matter with the baby. She found that the little one had pulled the comforter over her face and smothered to death. Dr J. J. Knell was notified and in company with Mr Waring went out to the scene. The funeral took place on Friday afternoon last at 2 o'clock, with services by the undertaker, interment at Mr. Waring, town, the Rev. M. S. Rees conducting the services. The floral offerings were: Wreath, from father and mother and little Nellie's two sisters and two brothers. Cross, from the Union U. F. W. A. Spray from Mr and Mrs West Jackson, Turkey Hill. Spray from Mr and Mrs. J. E. Payne and flowers from Mr. and Mrs J. Waring. The family have the deepest sympathy of all in their bereavement.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr and Mrs. Eddie Gordon wish to express their heartfelt thanks to friends and neighbors of the district for their kindness and sympathy in their recent sorrow and bereavement.

Record Exhibit At Annual Schools Fair

Pronounced Best to Date and None Better in Province

Fine weather prevailed for the annual Vermilion Schools Fair held yesterday at the exhibition grounds and which was pronounced by the various judges and visitors as the best held in this district to date. H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, who was a visitor to the fair, characterized the exhibit as equal to the best he had yet seen in the province since the institution of the school fairs. So numerous were the exhibits from the twenty-four schools participating this year that the officials in charge of placing them were confronted with a monumental task. That they discharged their duties efficiently there was no doubt when the doors of the main building were thrown open to the crowds, for no more pleasing array could have greeted the eye. The showing in vegetables and flowers was truly magnificent, the orderly arrangements permitting of the vast throngs passing to and down the various aisles and viewing every exhibit thoroughly. As on the second floor, all available space was utilized on the first floor for the school work and cooking and the display here was undoubtedly by far the largest and best exhibited to date.

Another pleasant feature was the exceptionally large entry list in live stock, evidencing the growing interest among the boys and girls in this important branch of the "fairs. Poultry made a remarkably fine showing, all crates being filled; sheep and young pigs had their quota of entries as did also the classes for calves. Cattle was the only light entry.

Following the completion of the Hon. Premier Jelatin an adjournment was made to the grand stand where a number of highly interesting addresses of marked educational value were given on the fair exhibits, methods of judging, points determining placing of the awards and the aims and objects generally of developing the system of school fairs. President J. W. G. Morrison presided and those who motored the several hundred assembled school children and adults were Mrs. Edwards of the agricultural school staff, who gave a short talk on "Cook Stoves"; Miss Alexander, "Sewing"; Mr. Malaher, "Vegetable Flowers"; H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, on the aims and objects of school fairs generally. The interest taken now in boys and girls would have to mark upon their characters and today, if success was to be attained, they must be trained and educated. A variety of agencies were at work, such as the Beef Club, Calf club, Pig Scouts, C. G. I. T. to do one thing in particular, the objective being the real boy and girl do their best, the

Farmers Suffer Enormous Loss

According to a bulletin recently issued by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture weeds will cost the farmers of the Province more than thirty million dollars this year in the decreased yield due to weeds, in the increased cost of harvesting and threshing their grain, in dockage and freight on weeds shipped with the grain to Fort William or Vancouver.

Two seasons combine to make Saskatchewan favorable to the growth of grain, they also combine to make it equally favorable for the growth of weeds. Conditions which are best suited to the production of the richest quality of grain are also those which have been so yellow with mustard that hardly a blade of grass could be seen. Wild oats have been worse than ever this year, and [illegible] were making the area where it is to be sown in the side of the [illegible] look would be describing like the proverbial green hay tree.

The [illegible] million dollars lost by Saskatchewan alone, the losses for Manitoba and Alberta are likely to be [illegible] to the three Prairie Provinces will be [illegible] and sixty millions at least, easily constituting the heaviest burden ever placed on Western agriculture. Half these losses have been borne by them [illegible] year, but they do not begin to approach the losses sustained by [illegible] weeds.

In a recent issue of the Canada Year Book [illegible] and machinery on each one of the many thousand farms in the country, is listed [illegible] of major importance as a real relief to the agricultural producer. The practical wiping out of the Income Tax so far as farmers are concerned, the reduction of the Customs Tax on farm implements, the removal of the Excise Tax on gasoline, are all steps in the right direction to relieve the farmer from the heavy burden of taxation, are directly responsible as important in assisting to make farming and all industries more profitable. But these savings are small in comparison to the millions of dollars which would be left in the pockets of Western farmers through a big non-partisan, successful fight all along the line against noxious weeds.

The whole country gets a stirred up in an election campaign where tax reduction policies are in issue. Farmers unite and organize to place candidates in the field pledged to tariff reduction, reduced freight rates, Rural Credits and other measures of relief. Why not unite to fight weeds in the same party. But all too many who wage battle for the farmer gains appear quite indifferent to the weed menace and its resultant heavy losses to themselves and the country at large. Many organizations are formed to fight taxation, and secure all the other blessings which they can only obtain in co-operation with the other Provinces of Canada, yet display the most astonishing apathy in dealing with a problem which is all their own, and the solution of which rests entirely with themselves working in co-operation with their next door neighbors.

The Saskatchewan Weed Bulletin just issued contains valuable information and guidance for farmers in dealing with their weed problem. It is well written in clearly understandable, non-technical language, and every Saskatchewan farmer who has a weed problem on his hands should send to the Department of Agriculture, Regina, for a copy of this Bulletin, while farmers in Manitoba and Alberta should likewise communicate with their Provincial Departments of Agriculture for similar literature.

The Saskatchewan Bulletin states that the greatest source of the weed trouble is found in dirty seed, and it has been proven that quite a large number of farmers who realize their soil naturally is destroy weed seeds already existing in the ground, are actually preparing the same plant conditions on the soil through weed seeds contained in their seed grain, thus rendering all their toil and labor for naught. Pure cleaning the problem, and keeping up the loss.

Co-operation among Western farmers to accomplishing great things for them and for Canada, all recognize is possible in scheming even greater things in the years to come. Possibly in no one way can more be accomplished than by such individual farmers enlisting in the war on weeds, and waging it unreservedly in season and out of season, in town and [illegible] with his neighbors and municipal officials throughout the whole district in which he resides.

While other wars, which always end in losses for both victor and vanquished, a successful war on weeds means great gains and larger profits throughout the years to come. Let's fight!

England's Oldest Living Barrister

Sir Harry Poland Was Celebrated Ninety-seventh Birthday

Sir Harry Poland, K.C., England's oldest living barrister, has celebrated his 97th birthday. He received many congratulatory messages, but he was too unwell to be seen by any but a few friends.

It is 72 years since Sir Harry was admitted a member of the Inner Temple, being called a few months after his brother, Edward Poland, who died at the age of 32.

Sir Harry has been famous largely for his conduct as crown prosecutor of many notorious murder cases. He became known as "the north bound of the treasury," being a great deal shortly on the Bounding bars and the incident of taxation.

Sir Harry succeeded to the [illegible] of the Duke of Wellington and the hardening of the Bedford estate to the top of the column in Trafalgar Square.

Scale For Weighing Sturgeon

Means Celebration Within Hundredth Part Of a Grain

Among the articles shown at the exhibition of the Incorporated Society of Inspectors of Weights and Measures at the Central Hall, Westminster, England, is a pair of scales capable of weighing a person's eyelashes.

The method adopted is simple, the paper being weighed before and after the writing of the signature.

The difference affords a calculation within a hundredth part of a grain. Sometimes the weight of the writing is as infinitesimal that it has to be calculated by means of a mirror and shadowgraph.

The writer is an average weight for a signature, but in the main everything depends upon the quality of the paper used or the degree of softness of the pencil.

Another factor is the temper of the writer, for a man in a temper writes more heavily than a man in a state of mildness

The Fine Art Of Carving

Lucky is the Man Who Has Mastered the Carving Knife

Carving is said to be an art that takes a man a lifetime to master. Everyone that may be there are good and bad carvers, and one is never so expert but that he may learn some new trick to carving a roast or fowl. There has recently been published a valuable and most entertaining little book, entitled "The Fine Art of Carving," which deals with this subject.

In addition to giving details regarding the best way to carve the various kinds of meats, joints, fish and fowl, there are also valuable hints for the housewife on the best way to prepare a roast of meat of any kind. The booklet is well illustrated in cut form showing the correct way to joints of meat, and how to carve. There is also good advice on how to reduce your meat bill, and how to roast meat without loss from shrinkage, and a great deal of other valuable information. Copies of this booklet may be obtained free of charge by any Canadian housekeeper. Others would be well advised to write to the Shoot Metal Products Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, or in branch offices at Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton or Vancouver, and obtain this valuable booklet, "The Fine Art of Carving," which will be mailed absolutely free of charge.

Solidification of Rural Land Values

By C. W. Peterson

No public issue has been the victim of more platitudes than that of municipalism on platform and in press. In Canada there seems to be no intelligent public opinion on the question, and our economic groups are consequently hopelessly divided on the issue. Added population merely spells family management to the labor group, and increased competition to the farmer. Hence, we forget and find our great rural organizations unfriendly and even officially antagonistic towards any effort to augment Canada's population

Public Apathy

An intelligent study of the population question bears one in no doubt, that lasting permanent prosperity is not possible without the steady, progressive colonization and development of the extensive resources by real agricultural settlers. The realization of such a programme would, however, involve a constructive and forward-looking colonization effort of a magnitude no movement or nation has ever undertaken today. In view of the apathetic state of average Canadian public opinion on the subject, it is extremely improbable that Canada at this moment, therefore, would appear to be to convince her governments of the necessity of making the population question as the corner stone of all public policies, which, indeed, it is.

Agricultural Unrest

We have for almost a decade been confronted with the demoralizing effects of rapidly changing rural land values all through Canada. This was the outcome of a combination of circumstances, but in the main largely due to the cessation of immigration, coupled with the modern speculative drift to the cities. Land values day by day, east and west, are at very low ebb, and many farmers have then on their hands today, not what they want to come to it. One suggestion which had some advantages and no disadvantages, but which is not likely to be established however, the railway management and Maritime industries a closer contact than exists at present.

ALL CANADIAN ROUTE IS NEEDED SAYS SIR HENRY

Montreal.—"The construction of an all-Canadian route to the Maritimes next year was just as imperative as the rest of Canada as to the Maritime Provinces," Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, told the royal commission on transportation, unofficially and even officially sympathetic towards any effort to augment Canada's population.

Automobile Fatalities

Autos Have Killed 3,605 People In 78 U. S. Cities Since Beginning Of Year

Washington.—Automobiles have killed 3,605 persons in 78 of the country's large cities since the first of this year.

The greatest number of fatalities occurred in the four weeks ending June 19, when 1,000 were killed, according to figures gathered by the department of commerce covering four weeks periods.

For the four weeks ending Aug. 14 this year, the last reported, there were 697 fatalities. This was about the same period last year, when 687 deaths occurred.

From May to December last year, the total number of automobile fatalities was 4,345, making a total from the time to August 14 this year of 1,948.

Liberal Leader In Nova Scotia

Final Week of Campaign to be Spent in Ontario

Antigonish, N.S.—Surprises in the public accounts, reductions in taxation, old age pensions and the constitutional issue were the matters dealt with by Mr. Mackenzie King here.

"What about Wall Street," called out someone who looked in through a window of the rink building for a moment.

"Isn't that a fine example of Tory taxation?" asked Mr. King.

"This fly-by-night shower has head in a window, smoke and runs away."

Mr. King pointed out that the country as a whole prospered from the removal of considerable taxation this year.

The Liberal leader has concluded his campaign in Nova Scotia. In Fort Hawkesbury, on Cape Breton Island, a terrific downpour drove the crowd to the town hall. Here Jo Johnson, Liberal candidate, addressed the crowd filled the curling rink at the meeting. Mr. King will hold two meetings in Ontario today and tonight he will start west again, stopping at Campbellton in New Brunswick and Winnipeg in Manitoba.

The final week of the campaign will be spent in Ontario.

France Near Breaking Point With Russia

Trouble Arose Over Soviets Action Regarding Moscow Fair

Paris.—A consistency which may result in France breaking off relations with the Soviet of Russia is going on between Premier Raymond Poincare and Premier Constantin Chrisitan Rakovsky, the Liberal leader of Soviet Ukraine. It is, Europe, independent, by a Soviet chief exercising such an influence. Mr. Rakovsky is now in Moscow on the invitation of the Russian Soviet government to attend the opening of the Moscow fair. The invitation was extended to the Ukrainian government, and Mr. Rakovsky is the chief delegate. The trouble arose when the French refused to grant passports to the commercial attache's bureau of the Soviet embassy, prepared the passports for Mr. Rakovsky and his party as the fair and arranged their personnel to proceed to Moscow to take charge of the exhibits and take orders for the wares.

The Soviet Government then refused to grant passports to the French Premier Poincare, so that the exhibitors were unable to participate. When the French asked for reinstatement of the money paid in advance, the soviets refused.

What's back of TEXACO

If we could take you through any one of the Texaco refineries and show you where Texaco Motor Oil is made and how it is made; the wonderful equipment of the modern refinery, the great laboratories, and the minute care at every stage of the process, you would never accept a substitute for Texaco.

You would see how carefully the special crudes are selected, the watchfulness at the stills and fractioning equipment to control the motor oil body, the huge agitators where the oil is repeatedly purified and treated to remove tars and sludge, and finally the giant filters where for days it is processed until the clean, golden Texaco Motor Oil is the result.

If you could see all this evidence of The Texas Company's policy —never satisfied with less than the finest in product—nothing but Texaco Motor Oil, clean, clear, golden would ever enter your motor.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK.

Electors of Canada will exercise their franchise next Tuesday at the polls to determine the government the country is to have for the next five years. The parties in the field this election are roughly classified as Liberals, Conservatives, Progressives, Liberal-Progressives, Fusionists, U. F. A., Labor and Independent. The Liberal-Progressives and Fusionists run as candidates are supporters of the Liberal party; the U. F. A. stands by itself as a political body pledged to certain principles and aligned to no party. What has brought about a second federal election within a year has been the lack of a majority ever all by of ther of the old line parties. Last November the country returned 116 Conservatives and 101 Liberals with 24 Progressive, Labor and Independent—the Progressives with 11 members holding the balance of power. With the co-operation of the Progressives, the Hon. Mackenzie King, K.C., was called upon to form a government, managed to carry on for several months but when the situation became impossible. Forecasts being made in the last stages of the campaign point to a close race between the Liberals and Conservatives. Just what the determining factor is going to be after Tuesday next, it is impossible to surmise

BATTLE RIVER CAMPAIGN.

With no Liberal in the field and the late entry of a Conservative candidate owing to circumstances with which the public are conversant, H. E. Spencer, U. F. A. nominee has had the advantage of the campaigning. Weather conditions, however, have been a great handicap. J. W. G. Morrison will have less than a week in which to address meetings. The U. F. A. cat is the riding is large; which way the Liberal vote swings will have quite a bearing on the result.

* TENTH FORTNIGHTLY *
* CROP REPORT *

* * * * * * * * * * * *

Issued by Department of Agriculture Government of Alberta, Edmonton.

September 3rd, 1926

Rains have continued to interfere with harvesting operations throughout the entire province since last report although there has been intermittent warm weather in which cutting has been done. It is estimated that about one-half of the wheat crop in the province is now cut. A much larger proportion is ready for the binder, but progress of harvesting is slow during the periodical rains which have been general.

The ripening is at present cool and showery, and unusually heavy rains are occurring in some districts. The effect of the precipitation on the grain is not expected to be serious, and it may result in benefit to the later crops. The cut grain may suffer in quality if warm dry weather does not come soon. There has been no serious frost to date.

The prospects remain bright for a good yield of wheat. In many districts, yields of from 20 to 30 bushels and even higher, are anticipated while in the higher districts the yields will be low as no sown to twelve bushels. The average over the province, it is estimated at present date will be equally as large if not larger than last year. Prospects are for heavy yields of oats and barley than at first expected, but these crops will be lighter than last year at best, and much of the oats for grain may be cut for sweet-feed.

The acreage in the various crops this year, as arrived at between the dominion and provincial departments are as follows:

Wheat, 6,376,193 acres; oats for grain, 3,176,084 acres; oats for feed, 1,230,500 acres, barley, 512,000 acres, rye, 130,000, and flax 8,000. Wheat shows the greatest increase over 1925. The figures quoted are preliminary estimates, and are subject to revision when the census figures, taken in June, become available.

A shortage of harvest help has been reported, labor seemingly not being available to the extent of former years. It is hoped that with the delay caused by rains, and with the arrival of later excursions, the situation will be remedied.

ALBERTA CELEBRATES DIAMOND JUBILEE

The Province of Alberta on September first celebrated the 21st anniversary of its creation as a Province of Canada. Various functions commemorating the event, took place throughout the province, including radio addresses by prominent men, including Dr. A. C. Rutherford, first premier of the Province; Hon. Geo Hoadley Minister of Agriculture and present acting premier, and others

During the 21 years, the province has increased in population from less than 200,000 to 650,000 its area in wheat has grown from 220,000 acres to 6,000,000, and the area in all crops has grown from 616,000 acres to 11,000,000 acres. The estimated value of agricultural products has grown from $20,000,000 to $254,000,000 and the dairy industry alone has grown from very small proportions to the production value of more than $20,000,000 annually. Coal production has grown from less than one million tons to seven millions, and industrial establishments have increased from 97 to over 2,000. School enrolment has grown from 28,000 to 148,000, and the number of schools from 400 to over 3000. Telephones have increased in number from less than 2,000 to over 45,000, and automobiles from the small beginning of 55 to over 67,000

Value Means More than Price Alone!

THE price of a car is what you pay for the value is what you get. Value is the relationship of Quality and Price.

Notwithstanding the recent reductions in Chevrolet delivered prices the Chevrolet car is by far the cheapest car to be close, in these days — to justify conclusions of economic value in its class.

The smooth Chevrolet is outstanding in its quality of performance—more luxurious acceleration—more flexibility of line and finish—more richness of upholstery—more completeness of appointments.

To say less than the price of the 1926 Chevrolet is to be unfair to the car. To say more, for a car in the Chevrolet class, is needless extravagance.

The Investment Chevrolet in Chevrolet history is selling at the Lowest Prices for which Chevrolet has ever been sold in Canada.

Ask your Chevrolet dealer about the GMAC Plan of buying a car on time.

THE WHEAT POOL AND TRADING IN FUTURES

If the Chicago Prices Current Grain Reporter, the organ of the Chicago Grain Trade, there appeared early in August an article referring to the delivery of three million bushels of wheat on the last day of July by the Pool to cover sales made on the July option. The Central Selling Agency of the Canadian Pools is left at the time that the article was not worth much attention. Recently, however, it has appeared as a paid advertisement in the form of a news article, identically all of the Western Canadian weekly newspapers. The advertisement was sent out by the Pool as press-type plate forms with the following instructions to the newspapers:

"You may add printers' or editorial matter of any kind to the plate."

In view of this organ and effort to misrepresent the transactions to the farmers of the west, the following facts are hereby given:

On July 1st the Selby Import-Export of the Canadian Pool had on hand the equivalent of a short interest in July wheat of about one month as the 1 par was then "the" last actual deal, closed by either the grain trade or the farmers, available for delivery out when all stamps are used frequently made on the last day of operations. 30 days in the month. It soon became evident that an interest of the Pool had to be made. The Pool had in store a fair quantity of No. 1 Northern wheat for delivery on the same immediate export basis as the cash wheat with which the ... market there was a scarcity of cash wheat. Under the circumstances the Pool could not ... Winter wheat from the United States, but was buying at from 10 to 22 ... ins under Canadian No. 1 Northern wheat. Sir Gilbert Parker And the French-Canadians

Noted Writer and Parliamentarian Talks of Friendship With the Wilfrid Laurier

The Right Honorable Sir Gilbert Parker, who at present is making one of his frequent visits to his native land, made his only public appearance on this trip at Monkton Assembly, the Canadian Chautauqua, recently. A large audience gathered from various points on the lakes and listened to a delightful series of personal reminiscences which he gathered under the title, "Forty-one Years After."

His address dealt largely with public men with whom he had been brought into contact. Speaking of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the French Canadian, he said:

"It is a good thing to have long enough to prove that apart from literature, one loves one's country, is a patriot, and has no fear. I remember a speech I delivered in Toronto well over twenty years ago at my own university. I had just come back from Quebec and I said then, what I repeat now, that, while the French Canadian did not share sympathetical ly in our imperial commitments and responsibilities, he was loyal to the soil as any U. E. Loyalist in this U. E. Loyalist district. It must not be forgotten that twice since 1760 the French Canadian has saved Canada for the British flag. It must not be forgotten that the second most popular prime minister Canada ever had, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was a French Canadian. Had I lived in Canada I should have been opposed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier politically, but we were close and intimate friends, stayed with him in his home at times I crossed the continent with him once. And what was the basis of our friendship? He believed that I put the French-Canadian in his true light before the world. I attacked him in 1911 in the British House of Commons, over the reciprocity proposal with the United States. I said I believed he would be driven from power, and that he would never receive the privilege of leadership again. I said to myself: 'That ends me with Laurier.' It didn't. When he heard I was coming to Canada again, he cabled me and asked me to stay with him, which I did."

Honor Portuguese Explorer

Compatriots in India Erect Memorial to Vasco da Gama

Portuguese citizens of India have honored the memory of their great compatriot, Vasco da Gama, by the erection of an imposing monument in Nova Goa, or Panjim, as it is often called.

Vasco da Gama was born in 1469 and died in 1525, after a stirring and adventurous career His admirers in India have honored him chiefly on account of the fact that it was he who opened up the way to India, thus ordering one of the most important works in the history of civilization. Above all the world can claim a share in the glory.

But the Portuguese of India naturally feel he is their great hero, and have expressed their love and veneration in cast "tops," and the British Colonists Sugar Refining Company, Vancouver, submits a request for inquiry into duties on corn and cane syrups.

Witchcraft Is Still Practiced in Europe

But Only Form That Has Survived Is Harmless

A witchcraft case in Staffordshire, England recalls the fact that witchcraft still lingers in all parts of Europe. The British penal laws were repealed in 1736, but there have been cases within the last 30 or 40 years, especially in the Highlands, in which there have been reports of witchcraft. It was estimated that between 1484 and 1782 no fewer than 300,000 supposed witches were put to death in Europe, and there have been cases in which "witches" have been lynched much more recently. The usual form of witchcraft to survive is that in connection with the making of a wax imagine of the person to be bewitch ed, this being good method of wax in the Highlands.

Canadian Pacific Express Company

Dominion Express Company Now No Longer Known By That Name After forty-four years of operation during which it has grown up with the country and contributed in no small degree to Canadian development, the Dominion Express Company will no longer be known by that name. After September first that great transportation system will be known as the Canadian Pacific Express Company. In all parts of Canada and the United States and throughout the civilized world signs on the windows of the many hundreds of branch offices will be changed, and then will be forged a still closer link with the great parent company whose railroad, steamships and hotels are known around the

To mark the change of name the company has issued an attractive little booklet giving a short history of its career and a synopsis of its present widespread activities. The Dominion Express Company was incorporated in 1873, but it was in 1882 that Mr. Van Horne, then general manager of the C.P.R., took it over as an operating part of the Canadian Pacific Railway. H. G. Kirkpatrick, later Sir George Kirkpatrick, LL.Gov. of Ontario, was its president, and Mr. W. S. Fox, a young but thoroughly experienced express man became its superintendent. Mr. Stout is today president and has for many years guided its fortunes in that capacity.

For some years he and his assistants had a hard and uphill fight. They not only moved traffic, but helped create it by finding Canadian and foreign markets for Canadian products, and by scientific rate making encouraging the farmer, fruit grower and others whose products were for export. The growth of the company over those many years is an interesting story and it is an important chapter in the commercial history of this country and its present position where it is daily entrusted with hundreds of millions of dollars in goods and treasure by the public, business institutions and banks, is a matter for justifiable pride. The booklet is handsomely illustrated and is being widely distributed wherever the company operates

Boy Climbs Highest Mountain

Six-Year-Old Lancashire Boy Accomplishes Feat

The youngest to climb Mount Snowdon, the highest mountain in England, is a Lancashire boy of six. This feat he accomplished with his grandfather, who is 60 years old, his father and his uncle. On the way up the boy met the Keswick official guide, who was taking a party up to the top of Scawfell Pike. Learning that the youngster was not going to be carried any part of the way, he said that he would give him a shilling if he got at the top by half-past two. The boy was the first of his party to reach the top, arriving there at 1.52.

GIFTS FOR THE TABERNACLE

Golden Text: Honor Jehovah with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase.—Proverbs 3:9

Lesson: Exodus 35:4 to 36:7

Devotional Reading: Psalm 84:1 to 4-12

Explanations and Comments

I. The Call For Contributions. For the Sanctuary, Ex. 25:1-9. Moses assembled the people and addressed them, probably from a raised platform. He reminded them that it was God's desire to have a sanctuary built in the camp, but it could be erected only when the people were willing to sacrifice. He called for voluntary contributions of materials and labor for the sanctuary and its equipment and for the vestments of the priests. There was one restriction the givers of gifts must be "willing hearted" and the labor must be "wise-hearted." The people hastened and quickly went back to their tents.

"You might have wondered what they would return, since so little had been said to tempt their emotions and arouse their sympathies. How different this seems to the methods in the today to extract money from reluctant hands!"

II. The Full Subscription. 1:4-7 verses 21-29. This heading is the same as that for Abraham's Machiavellian given to the exposition of this chapter. "Let each man do according as he hath purposed in his heart," Moses said. The Israelites "met grudgingly or of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giver. The men and women on this old subscription list fulfilled that injunction of Paul's. They came in great crowds, willing givers, every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing." Idols with gilt jewelry for the building of God's house, and for the holy garments, the garments consecrated for use in the sanctuary.

"The world asks, How much does he give, Christ asks, Why does he give?" (Dr John R. Mott)

"There!" the woman on the couch Lois exulted "You are delightful again, as you always are when you've trapped me. I shall tell my dear Mark if I may, while you proceed to your own examination. See! I am ravished by my self! I repose them to the same whiskey"

"Satire becomes you, wonderfully," the artist said, with a slight inclination of appreciation "Somedar a master painter will parody the Madonna after I shall be dead and gone the world a new masterpiece. You lips are my first right for him. Now you shall see, Lois, while I work especially to everything that fem Madonna like about you, since I can do that better than any model in the while. I admit to being curious. Mind you only curious What are you going to do with all that money?"

"Do you think an impulse of last night, born of my own thrill at the idea that must be going on in her mind, can ever make me a Madonna as that? With some hidden motive behind it?"

He did not at once reply. His thoughts seemed to have wandered off for a moon or. When he spoke again his tone had lost all veneer of satire "I do not believe you ever entertained a Madonna thought in your life," he said, his words suddenly mesmered "There can be nothing in common between you and the one who has no other means than her own natural kindness. She's more likely to be a mother to you than you have a motive already decided as the previous you are to bringing into your life."

Yvonne treated him to her silvery laugh and would have interrupted him, but he went on, his manner becoming absolutely pitying "I am convinced that he knows where he can never come from and that he is his existence. And I am convinced that it can not be the sort of life you have led so far and will lead, plainly in the future."

Coalition Government Likely

OTTAWA, Sept 15.—Rival political leaders are twitching the field for the next move. Neither so far has made any public announcement. Premier Meighen was at his office this morning but declined to make any statement. Expectations in political circles are that he will summon his cabinet and make preparations for placing his resignation in the hands of the governor general. This would be followed by the summoning of Mr. Mackenzie King to form a ministry.

There is already talk in the air of a Liberal-Progressive coalition government. During his previous term as premier, Mr. King made a number of endeavors to secure admission of Progressives to his cabinet. In the early part of last session the admission of Robert Forke at the time Progressive leader and two other Progressives was mooted but the proposal failed to materialize. It is now thought that Mr. King will be in a position to form an administration which will include Progressive members of his cabinet. When in the east during the recent campaign, both Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Forke spoke on the same platform.

A De Luxe Street Car

London Street Cars Are To Be Like Limousines

Their utility having been brought into doubt, London's street cars may still be saved by luxury.

By way of experiment the London council recently put a de luxe street car in operation along the Thames embankment. It contained seats as comfortable as those of a limousine. Special attention was paid to the lighting so as to enable passengers to read their newspapers without straining their eyes.

So popular has the car proved with passengers that the council has decided to order 100 more of the same kind.

Ambitious Plan For Empire Broadcasting

If Accepted, Audience of Half-Million Would Benefit.

An audience of five hundred million people! Half a billion! Within two or three years this may be a very real fact if the plans of the British Broadcasting Company and the British Government are approved by the vast sum parts of the empire and their new scheme of cultural links-ups is put into being.

Broadcasting in the British Isles is controlled by the British Broadcasting Company, which has the right to collect an annual fee from all owners of receiving sets. In return listeners-in are provided with astonishingly good and well-balanced programmes from a great many stations, and most of the important national events are broadcast.

Next year this company is planning taken over by the British Government. Broadcasting Commission and has proposal to the other parts of the British League of Nations will be for the building of eight high-powered stations, eight special receiving stations and six repeating stations. By means of these it will be possible to relay broadcasts from any part of the empire to all other parts of the empire and to reach not only four hundred million people within the British realm, but also a hundred million outside of it. This may benefit by the broadcasting of the news of transatlantic aeroplane flights.

With Daventry, England, as a starting point Moncton, New Brunswick, would be the first relay station, a distance of 2,410 miles. Moncton would radiate its programmes for Canada, with intermediate stations in remote parts of the Dominion participating in the local distribution. Land stations would be employed to carry the programmes to Vancouver, on the Pacific coast, a distance of 2,500 miles.

Invents Instrument To Analyze Brain Power

German Scientists Calls New Apparatus a "Diagnoscope"

Dr. Eberhards Mackey a Ukrainian scientist living in Berlin, has invented a new psycho-electric apparatus known as the "Diagnoscope."

Extraordinary claims are made for this instrument. It is said to be able to register mental capacity and says that so accurately that parents need no longer be in doubt with regard to the proper line for which their children are best fitted.

The "patient" sits before an apparatus resembling a modern-sized wireless set, on which twelve buttons are set at intervals. To the end of one of these is attached a metal rod which is grasped firmly by both hands. Something resembling a pair of head phones is then fitted over his head. The current is switched on and the doctor then proceeds to pose an electrode over the head and face.

A secretary from time to time takes down figures read off the instruments by the doctor, the entire procedure lasting about half an hour.

The apparatus, by scientific contact with the various nerve centres of the brain, is said to register the most delicate shades of mental liveliness. Dr Mackey also graphically draws up a report from the resultant graphs, and gives his diagnosis of the case.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer season, when severe bowel troubles and stomach complaints come on so quickly that without prompt aid in almost every case the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Fortunately in the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent, a medicine of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mothers' best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The "Dead Point" in Canadian Progress

By C. W. Peterson

The Great War and its aftermath of economic misery in Europe demonstrated the dire social effect of over-population in highly developed countries. Nature, however, has a way of effectively compensating for over conditions, and we are now witnessing the operation of this corrective process in the rapidly falling birth rate of the more advanced countries of the world. It is, however, an open question whether such over-population brings in its train greater economic evils than under-population in an undeveloped country of such enormous extent as Canada.

A young country of vast natural resources obviously faces difficult problems of administration. Such resources lie dormant until the magic touch of man and capital evokes them available. And until they are made available and contribute to the national wealth they cannot be taken seriously as an asset. All this involves the opening up of the country with the consequent increase in terms of great expenditures on transportation facilities of various kinds and for providing such amenities as will attract the homebuilder and capital, whereupon local and municipalities are consequently faced with perpetual demands on their credit and resources, all of which add to the burden of taxation. If this, in turn, becomes too high, it acts as a serious deterrent to capital and to immigration.

Now countries, therefore, normally grow into "between the devil and the deep blue sea," until they successfully pass through the "dead point" in the evolution of progress, which is the point of population and general development approximately sufficient to absorb the abnormal burden of capital and taxation in the earlier stages of pioneering conditions. Canada just now is drifting about in the doldrums of this dead point period, laboriously carrying the burden, public, private and corporate, of very vast modern facility, to be of a population at least four times as numerous as that which it is today. So the outstanding problem of Canadian public policy just now is how to augment rapidly our insufficient agricultural population. Compared with this, all other issues are fairly trifling.

There has always been a deplorable tendency on the part of Canada to follow blindly in the administrative footsteps of the United States. This was never more apparent than when, following under wartime conditions, we adopted drastic curtailing regulations following the imposition of the quota in respect of the lines. We never stopped to consider that the United States carefully refrained from any such drastic action, and by prohibition created a rotund hunted millionaire and she was on the verge of heavy imposition of income taxes. We cannot possibly escape the conclusion that the United States is a great, prosperous, self-reliant nation enjoying a standard of living far above that of any other, except perhaps Canada. In the light of these facts the entire world that the country rarely resorted to the $1 Dorado. All this has been accomplished through the "open door" policy. If we in Canada would attain the same degree of material prosperity we must similarly adopt the world apparently have reason to be amply satisfied with ourselves. That we are accomplish this through immigration policies proceeding in the opposite direction to those that made the U. S. great is, however, open to serious doubt.

Worms in children work havoc. These pests attack the tender lining of the stomach and bowels, if left to purchase ravages indiscriminately, ultimately perforate the child's system. Remove them at once at the least vestige that clings to and feed upon the interior organs. Miller's Worm Powders will not only exterminate these worms, but whatever else may be wrong to repair the injury they have done.

Promises of Blessings to Those Who Obey the Law, verses 2-13.—With the preliminaries from Ex. 23.24-26 and Dt. 28.1-11. Focus was right when he declared that "Prosperity is the blessing of the Old Testament." If Israel was faithful, they keep the laws, and in here promised the blessing of fertile land—the products of the ground, the flocks and the fields shall be fruitful and the

"A truly modern mind scorns the idea that the fertility of the soil can be affected by immorality," Ezekiel says in the desert. Where long ago populations once covered the land, but which now are found in various cities, there are now in the land of the Turks and Kaybrave a few handfuls of people, and all the fertility of the country has disappeared. Of the world that was to be made all this. He here has been gradual but it has been complete. Nothing of the most precious and fertile parts of the world has become a desert. In Palestine the same thing may be seen. The Turks have not seldom the character of the soil changed in many places, where in ancient days the hills were terraced to the top, the terraces having have been kept way and the very soil has been carried away leaving only rocks to glitter in the pitiless sun.—Andrew Harper.

After Four Hundred Years

Basilica in France Dedicated To Joan of Arc

The Basilica which King Charles VII. vowed he would build if Joan of Arc succeeded in relieving Orleans and of France as she promised more than 400 years ago, was consecrated in Domremy, the birthplace of the national heroine.

King Charles VII. failed to fulfill his promise, but it was left to Domremy, and the little Lorraine village was gay with flags for the ceremony which began with a procession.

The church was thirty-three years in building. It is ornamented with scenes of the life of Joan from the days of the peasant girl who has become a Saint of the Church. The main altar is surmounted by a crown of thorns, the emblem of the Passion, and the nation's churches.

The church faces the little house on the hill where Joan was born and overlooks the Valley of the Meuse, where the girl heard for the second time of Joan's day also fought for the delivery of France from foreign occupation.

Ticket Includes Insurance

Passengers on German Aeroplanes Are Well Protected Against Accident

Every time a traveller goes up in air on one of Germany's seventy-five aeroplane routes he is insured for $6,-000 at the expense of the company, the concern which operates these routes.

Flying in Germany is regarded quite as safe as travelling by train or motor car. The insurance companies with which Lufthansa has contracted for the insurance of passengers charge merely the usual accident rate, which not the super-charge customary in the case of aviation hazards generally.

According to official statistics the percentage of safety in aeroplane flights during 1925 was 99.99; per cent. This far during 1925 not a passenger has been injured.

Curfew Law in Chicago

Edict Goes Forth That Gives Much Trouble to Policemen

Time turned back a generation or two at Chicago, a sophisticated city of 2,900,000 revived the curfew law of its innocent village days, but policemen, owing to the styles of the reigning generation, found enforcement a matter of considerable difficulty.

All unescorted boys and girls 16 years old were ordered off the streets at 10 o'clock, the city fathers have ruled, in an effort to end a long period of attacks and kidnappings and 2,000 cops were sent forth to enforce the edict.

Soon their troubles began for they claimed that with the prevailing mode of short skirts, rolled hose and bobbed hair it was impossible to tell whether children from grown-ups. Several married women, well over twenty, were taken in charge because of their appearance and the police had to appeal to her flps. "She'd get on, or she'd taken an awful wallop trying."

Yvonne swept the girl's face with a quick glance. "What do you know about me?"

It was difficult for "Miss Twenty-Two," as he understood, for a time, that the exquisite miniature drawing room, rose shaded and satin lining with willow- hooding down upon an open garden, was to be exclusively her's. With John, through such evenings as he had ventured to spend with her, she had planned, or, rather listened to him plan, the future that would some day befall her little petites. They had allowed this dream house with many lit-tender's, but in this latter there had been no room for the "little" room, with its rose bedroom and canopied bed and the softly draped dressing table and Yvonne had prepared for her. And Yvonne was native!

"I don't know your own guild, of course. But I haven't engaged one who will want to engage her yourself. I may have her send you a list of a section of them- he has a way of producing them when they're needed, I shall add-a French girl, and an English one. The first will be more skilful, the other more lovely."

Jimmie couldn't offer any thought. "You'll have to tell me what to do with a maid," she explained. Then something like a phantom of fears hovered suddenly in the deep brown eyes. "One know. I feel terribly afraid—I feel terribly afraid of myself, I mean."

Yvonne swept the girl's face with a quick glance. She spoke hurriedly as she fluttered about the room. The maid went out, closing the door behind her. To Joanna Yvonne said "Come and sit down." She indicated the divan beside her. "If you'd like one there are chances in her on the wholesale. I think I'll have one, too. Before she spoke again she drew a contemplative puff and allowed the smoke to curl slowly from her lips. Joanna watched her silently. Her first words were abrupt.

"There are a great many people who regard themselves faithful above you she said. "And some—those

She talked on, saying things that were meaningless to Joanna, the children things that had to do with the blessings of a new friendship, and the prospects of a "jolly" time for the girl in a new life. Again, Joanna opposed and white head-dressed maids answered Yvonne's summons and supplied her solicitously-questioning that Miss Manners' apartment was in order.

"I'm a little bedroom and a rest sitting room for you, but you can room my own," Yvonne explained. "I hope you will be comfortable."

At a finger touch a cold panel in the wall of the reception hall slid back, and there was a little alcove of the kind that is automatic. The maid followed them into the lift and pushed the button that sent them up to an upper floor. Joanna was strangely contagious. She wanted to say hello to the world she was leaving—was ushering by, into the new one invisible surroundings, but her mind was in a numbed state of mull. "Why was everything happening to her? Was it naturally, so swiftly, so smoothly? Should she trust herself to Yvonne Courant? She stole a glance at the woman who stood so close to her, and was profounded her extraordinary fascination that the lift that was so black as to invisible, the nacre-like face, the contrasting sharply with the two luminous black eyes, and the lips that were cut and red as the petals of the geranium of his adult romance. The fear that thrusted through her at times, with Brandon, returned to her, and that seemed so unreasonable, gripped her for a second. Then her thoughts flicked to the last Teddy Brandon had said in the room downstairs: "A classy, or a dancer, or something like that—" And she had not denied her. She had put on her best girl trait and the tabby coat and had let women and clothes do the rest. Fantastic Grace stung. She still had to mind one of the silk coaters? Was she, after all, only Yvonne's the temptress or the silk coaster all right? Ironically she had been so glad to be

Dear Sir

Your letter of July 2nd is at hand and I regret that I could not give you an address to write to. Whilst the last thing we did came through from Millard's we only had the time necessary to run it off the beginning of this week. However from reports we still have received from Mr Pinder at Mellrose, as well as from others I think I really expected more time above the ordinary and I believe after four or five days' operation it will run one bit disappointed.

I am sure that I was not in the tractor using this oil when the oil was to be changed after a three days' run with replenishing, and from what we drained out and the appearance when compared with the oil, I certainly feel that Texaco Tractor Oil C is the best oil we have used yet. The natural test of the oil after being the case when this oil is at, and I am satisfied of its quality.

While I do not know what your proposition on oil is, I should like to be able to give further enquiries as required especially for myself.

Hoping to hear from you, I am,

Yours very truly,
O. MILTON LUNDLIE.

A COALITION GOVERNMENT.

The outcome of the elections Tuesday in Canada has resulted in the Liberals having the largest group with 119 members returned; as the Liberal Progressives, which included Robert Forke, formerly leader of the Progressives in the house, are supporters of the Liberal policy and will support that party, have secured 11 seats the Hon. Mackenzie King will form the next government. Assured of a following of 130 in the house, Mr King will have a substantial majority over all other groups, enabling him to carry on without being handicapped by opposing factions. The Conservatives hold some 91 seats but Hon. Arthur Meighen suffered defeat in Portage la Prairie. Straight Progressive carried 8 seats and the U.F.A. political party of Alberta 11 seats; with Labor 2, and Independent 2, the 245 seats are completed.

In Battle River riding, Henry E. Spencer, U. F. A., was elected over R. W. G. Mackenzie, Conservative, by a large majority. The figures are not available at press time.

V.A.A. Donate Silver Cup

For Girls' Basketball

At a meeting of the Vermilion Athletic Association held on July 17th last, it was moved that a cup be donated for Girls' Basketball competition under the following rules:

1. The boundary limits to which the cup may go shall be from Minburn in the west to Kinsella in the east, from the Saskatchewan River in the north to the Battle River in the south. Teams from beyond these limits may play on condition that the town nearest to the visiting team shall be considered as to be their home town.

2. Competition within these limits shall be open to any team composed of girls within the ages of fourteen and twenty years and living in the district which the team represents.

3. The Executive of the Association shall be the trustees of the cup.

4. Days' rules shall be used exclusively.

5. A losing team shall not challenge the team that defeats them within one month from the date of their defeat but may challenge any other team that should gain possession of the cup during the month.

6. The team holding the cup shall accept challenges and arrange for games in the order in which the challenges are received, within one week.

7. Home and home games shall be played, the total score to determine the winner. The first game shall be played on the floor of the team defending the cup, the second on that of the challengers, unless the challenging team shall elect to pay back possession on the floor of the defending team.

8. Each team shall provide its own transportation to the point of play.

9. A default-ed game shall count as 2-0 for the team winning by default.

10. If either team leave the floor before the conclusion of the game, that game shall be considered cancelled and score shall stand as it was before the game started, and that game shall be replayed on a neutral floor within two weeks.

11. The home team shall provide a suitable ball and a referee.

12. The cup shall be returned to the Executive of the Vermilion Athletic Association on or before the first day of June in each year and shall be played for in the annual Sports Tournament, going to the winning team providing that team comes from a district situated within the above named boundary limits, otherwise it shall go to the team next in line by virtue of position in the finals, or to the team gaining the highest score in the semi-finals and being within the said limits.

13. Bad roads or weather shall cause a game to be postponed but not declared.

14. The Executive shall have the authority to settle all disputes and add such additional rules from time to time as may be needed to control the competitions.

15. Each team winning the cup shall at once notify the Secretary of the Association in writing.

Sixteen Years Ago Today

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of The Vermilion Standard

SEPTEMBER 14TH, 1910

At a special meeting of the town council a contract was entered into with A. R. Pierce, a well borer, to sink a three foot well in connection with the town's water system to a depth of 200 feet on property just north of the fire hall.

Fully 95 per cent of the harvest is completed around here and threshing has started; the fine turn in the weather should see it pretty well all through next week.

Born — At Vermilion on Monday, September 12 to Mrs A. F. Turner a daughter.

ALL HORSES AND CATTLE BRANDED ON RIGHT THIGH,

are the property of CLAN DONALD COLONY. Parties having information as to where-about of strays bearing above brand are asked to notify Neville Robertson Phone 520, Vermilion.

8stf

The board of trade has taken action in the form of an application to the C. N. R. for another crossing even if only a three foot one, in connection with the town's water system as being extremely dangerous and a constant source of anxiety to drivers passing to the north running up to it and constant shunting going on in the yards.

Bert Duncan is rebuilding his barn which was destroyed by fire two weeks ago.

The foundation of N. E. Morrison's new residence in the east end is finished and work on the building proper will start immediately.

TENDERS

Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to and including Oct. 8 for the supply on coal to the Vermilion Municipal Hospital for a period of six months commencing Dec. 15th, 1926. Low or any tender not to be necessarily accepted

A Baby Of Great Value

Human Image is Soon to Jewel Found in India

Real rubies, including the drops of pigeon's blood, are beautiful jewels. But when one discloses, inside, a perfect, made not by human hands, but by nature, it is unique and of surpassing value. Such a ruby has been found by a member of the Burmese legislative council. The natives consider it a gift of God, and the jewel assumes an importance that cannot be estimated in terms of cash.

The stone is not large, but inside the outer surface, deep down behind a scarlet cloud appears a tiny image of a man, dressed in white, with a darkish brown face and deep brown eyes.

The man is seen wearing a white puggree (part of the national dress of the Hindoos) and the rest of his body is covered by deep folds of a garment of plain white.

The human form seen is exactly like the human image comes out in detail. The ruby was sent to the Indian Museum, Calcutta, and, as Dr. Robert Bell, the eminent English geologist, pointed to the world "consultation to the forerunner of Commerce."

New Ray Discovered

Unlike X-ray It Can Penetrate Layer Of Lead

A description of a newly-discovered Milikan rays will be included in the next Smithsonian annual report on the progress of science, it was announced in new ranged. These rays are invisible, but, like X-rays, can penetrate substances. This does not bend, however, will stop X-rays. Milikan's rays will travel through a layer of lead, it is said.

"It seems," says a bulletin of the Smithsonian Institute, "that all space is filled with these new rays. They do not originate on the earth, but come into us with the velocity of light from the universe beyond the upper atmosphere. Probably they are formed by the breaking up of the elements in the various stars. The one can yet foresee by what remarkable steps they may come to serve us.

Dr. Millikan's work was announced before the Royal Society that all that can be necessary to obtain an electric current, and that the rays were the pole of magnet, a woman in the audience asked him of what use the discovery would be. "Absolutely no use," he knew, formed the basis of all the modern electrical machinery. Faraday replied.

"Madam, will you tell me of what use is a new-born babe?"

"Faraday's babe has grown up into a giant now So it may prove with Millikan's.

The Poisons We Love

Every healthy man, woman and child to be forward to the pleasure of spicing breakfasts, tasty luncheon and abstainly provided dinners without giving a thought to the time when such table delights will, for them, no longer hold attraction. If the reader will recall the many people he or she knows with whom he was acquainted, who no longer continue to meet him at the festive board, he cannot fail to be struck by the fact that almost every one of such friends knew finally sickening when they should have been in the prime of their lives. And if the actual cause of their decease be investigated, the fact that the cancer sometimes laid their bodies should give the reader food for candid personal self-examination.

The refined foods, such sauces, meats, denatured vegetables and fruits, white sugar and white flour from all or which the best traces of health giving potassium and other salts have been deliberately and thoughtlessly extracted, unite in creating more acids in the body than the human liver can efficiently excrete or dispose of economically. The consequent state of acidosis is the precursor of the most practically universal complaint of civilization and, as Dr. Robert Bell, the eminent English geologist, pointed to the world "consultation to the forerunner of Commerce."

The season why cancer strikes civilized men and poor in an impartial way is because civilization generally is suffering from an unrecognized metabolism starvation. This prevents from of starvation is essential to the proper nourishment of cells, tissues, bone and blood, as the late Dr. F. W. Forbes Ross stated in 1912, if the potassium deficiency be remedied, cancer, even in advanced stages, is curable. Believes Leprosy Is Curable

Medical Secretary to Leper Mission Optimistic About New Treatment

Dr. Robert G. Cochrane, who is not yet 30, has just returned to England after a 40,000 miles tour of the world's principal leper stations.

In his capacity as medical secretary to the Mission for Lepers he has for south visited every centre in Burma, India, Siam, Borneo and the Philippines.

For four months Dr. Cochrane lived among lepers at one of the stations, spending his time attending to them and investigating their cases. He is very optimistic about future work

"If you can isolate early and treat their troubles," he said, "many patients can be treated as outpatients in all cases possible—which means much more comfortable suffering than asylum. Leprosy is curable, the sufferer becomes exhausted and finally, though the attack appears, he left in increasing dread at its return. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is a wonderful remedial agent. It immediately relieves the frightful air passages as no remedy can really. It is sold by dealers everywhere.

Was Western Pioneer

Veteran of Red Million, Born in the West, Dies at Age of 97 Years

Henry Monkman, perhaps the oldest of Alberta's pioneers and well-known by most old-timers of the Edmonton district, quietly passed away at Vegreville a few days ago. The late Mr. Monkman, who lived to attain the ripe old age of 97 years, was born and raised in the west, and his career was quite a colorful one. He was a veteran of the Red Rebellion, and won further distinction from the fact that he brought the first load of Peiglish into Edmonton by ox-drawn Red River cart

Like a Grip at the Throat. For a disease that is not classed as fatal there is probably none which causes more terrible suffering than asthma. Sleep is impossible, the sufferer becomes exhausted and finally, though the attack passes, he left in increasing dread at its return. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is a wonderful remedial agent. It immediately relieves the frightful air passages as no remedy can really. It is sold by dealers everywhere.

MELBERTA MINUTES

The regular meeting of M. D. of Melberta No. 662 was held in the Municipal Office, Manville, Sept 8th. All the councillors present with Wm Brisk, Reeve, in the chair.

Minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

It was decided to pay the C. P. R. Co $54.86 for land expropriated in N. W. 7-51-6-4 for roadway; to offer them $17.00 for the land taken in N.E. 31-51-6-4 Councillor McCallum was to arrange for settlement of certain lands included in survey running east and west between sections 2 and 11-50-5-4 W 4th. Davis was offered $10.00 per acre for roadway taken off N½ 35-52-5-4.

A resolution, protesting against the grant of a lease of road allowance between sections 4-52-5 and section 33-51-5, was passed and the secretary instructed to forward a copy to the Dept. of Public Works.

A synopsis of the proposed uniform stock by-law as drafted at the meeting held in Innisfree Aug. 14th was read and endorsed by the council. Some of the features of the proposed by-law are: Horses to be prohibited from running at large during January, February and March, cattle from Sunday and Saturday to November to March 15th, entire animals at any time. It was also decided to ask the government to give authority for the holding of a round-up of all animals running at large and to charge $1.00 per head on stock claimed within 48 hours.

Tax Receipts for $1256 and $10.78 were cancelled and cheques to be issued to Geo. Smallwood and Charles Dougherty for three amounts respectively

It was decided to pay a commission of 10 per cent on sales of municipal lands

South Side School To be Re-opened

Unsatisfactory Condition of Grade 1 Makes Move Necessary

Owing to the overcrowded condition of Grade 1 in the newly-opened west end school where there are considerably over 50 enrolled with the possibility of several more to come in, the school board at a meeting held last week decided to re-open the south side school which has been closed for the past two or three years. All Grade 1 pupils attending the west end school and whose parents reside on the south side, will be transferred to the school there. Similarly, south side pupils attending Grades 2 and 3 will be transferred. This will give an enrollment of about 30 pupils on the south side. The school will be opened as soon as a teacher is procured. The west end school, the building for which was purchased by the board a few months ago, includes Grades 1 and 2. Miss Irene Metlee and Miss Irvine, now members of the staff, being the teachers. There has been but little change in the Alexander school, excepting that Miss Reid takes the pole classship and some of the staff have been assigned different grades from which they taught last year. The High School staff besides the year with three teachers instead of two as prevailed last year until after the Christmas holidays when Miss Watson is added. The total enrollment for the public schools is considerably in excess of last year; that of the High School remains about the same

Landonville And District Schools Fair Big Success

On Tuesday, September 14th Landonville and district held its second annual School Fair at Stapp's all. Although the weather was very disagreeable and cold, the pupils of the five schools exhibiting were early on the grounds and a scene of great activity and enthusiasm prevailed as the hall was rapidly filled to capacity with what we believe to be one of the finest exhibits of garden products, household economics, industrial arts, etc., produced in this verdant valley.

Although the Stapp's exhibit was not as large as we would have liked to have seen it, there were very representative types in the various classes.

Principal Elliott of the V. S. A. who judged those classes proved himself to be the "children's man." As he judged the various animals and birds he gave lectures and practical demonstrations on stock and stock judging. The interest shown by the pupils was evinced by the difficulty of those in charge in keeping the show rms large enough.

The physical training exercises of the compelling schools were well worthy of special note. Although it was cold and muddy the children never wavered and showed great vigor in upholding their school colors

After the doors of the hall were thrown open the exhibition was opened to inspect every exhibit thoroughly, after which the various judges awarded and recorded their decisions. Mr. Herkhert gave notes of school life spoke on The Aims and Objects of School Life." Miss Alexander spoke on "Sewing. Miss Edwards on "Cooking." Mr. Malaher on "Vegetables and Flowers" and Mr. Elliott on Livestock and the work and object of the Vermilion School of Agriculture.

The teachers of the various schools and their pupils are to be highly commended on the magnificent showing and the orderly conduct generally, which spells success.

The schools participating in the fair were Ellsworth Telegraph, Lonsdale Lake, Antler and Amyl Lake.

Owing to the complete list not as yet being easy benefit, we shall publish only the first and second prize winners: Lunches: Hazel Gray, 2 Ella Gray. Bowls 1 Grace Mc Mullin, 2 Claude Long. What Trade Treaties Mean To Canada

The tariff and the shooting is over, the ballots have been cast and counted and the standing of the two major political parties in the House of Commons has been recorded. When it was dissolved by the late Governor-General Byng 116 seats in a total of 245 constituencies were controlled by the Conservative Party, and the Liberals were sitting in the minority with 99 seats and are the largest group in an individual sense of all Liberal Progressive elected pledged to support a Liberal Administration.

In other words, in the new Parliament, unless the old, there is a clear majority of members returned in support of one particular leader and who accepted nomination at the hands of constituents of the Liberal party. That is the complexion of the new House of Commons Banks possible a record in this form of government than existed in the last two Parliaments.

Then, over and above, the clear cut majority of its Liberal and Liberal Progressive, we united in support of a Liberal administration, numerous Progressive, Independents, Labor and Farmer members, practically all of whom represent Western constituencies, can be depended upon to give fairly consistent support to a Government pledged to the carrying out of Liberal policies.

Now that the battle is over, and the general verdict of the electors obtained, even those who would have preferred to see Mr Meighen and his party in office will, to a degree, be reconciled to the fact that the people have on the whole fairly decided as if the alternative, which has prevailed for no long to the distant vantage of the whole country, besides. It is what both the leaders political parties desired and asked for, and what it has been done—obtained a majority of the constituencies wanted.

And now to business. Let everybody settle down to the task of assisting the new administration to carry out the mandate which has been bestowed upon it by the electorate. With this end in view was expressed that whatever party was placed in power it should devote its energies to the further promotion of the policy of negotiating trade treaties with other countries, and particularly with all other members of the British Empire, in this open to Canadian products and manufacturers larger and more profitable markets. We now desire to repeat and to emphasize that declaration. Since it was written a week ago events have occurred to emphasize its wisdom."

On the day of the election a large display advertisement—not of such vital character—was inserted in Canadian papers by one of the largest automobile manufacturing concerns in the United States, in which the following statement was made: "Buy Canadian Cars Manufactured for You," and it went on to point out that it was owing to the rapid increase in the export business that enabled the company to establish factories in Canada, because of the enormously greater volume of production and consequent increase in efficiency and in lower production costs. It was not a fatal shooting out competition which had brought increased prosperity to this firm, but the opening of new and wider markets through trade treaties, and, in short, that a step be put to the making of a political football out of such matters.

It is right and proper that such matters should be carefully examined and fully discussed by Parliament and the people of Canada, but when they have been agreed and put into effect the efforts of petty politicians to try and create party capital against the Government of the day by appealing to armed sections of people against the treaty because of some one particular item in it and another not because of some other item, instead of viewing the treaty in all its entirety, this aspect, should be promptly opposed.

Canada produces a surplus of nearly everything raised in this country. If Canada is to prosper and grow greater and employment found for an ever increasing number of people, that surplus must be profitably disposed of in the world markets. In order to obtain entry into those markets on the most advantageous terms, Canada must offer some concessions in return. This is only business, and the same principle obtains in the conduct of international business as in private and domestic business relations.

Important Scientific Discovery

Clean Nickel and Cobalt Bought Cases of Diabetes

Professor Gabriel Bertrand, director of the biological chemical laboratory of the Pasteur in Institute, Paris, is responsible for the announcement before the American Chemical Society that experiments with nickel and cobalt have produced encouraging results in the treatment of diabetes.

Experiments conducted by Prof. Bertrand and associates, he stated, first with nickel or cobalt alone and then with a mixture of the two have in every case been followed by considerable lessening in sugar content and quantity. The biological expert stated that they have produced many of simple diabetes, excluding the non-complicate type, could be described sometimes as cases in which the complete suppression of the sugar occurs.

The two metals the professor said had been used successfully in dogs, and man body especially the pancreas gland.

Many War Widows In British Have Married Again

Nearly 10,000 British war widows have married again. They have the best wishes of the ministry of pensions, and there is a large cut in the war pensions bill.

In certain textile towns in England there are as many as seven widows to every man. And yet the widows marry again! Most of them have shown a preference for men who have been invalided out of 4,445 widows in London who married again within a single year, only 1,679 chose widowers.

Hideous "Dragons" For New York Museum

Lizards Eight Feet Long Were Captured in Malay Archipelago

Two monstrous "dragons" arrived at New York on the Cunard liner Aquitania from the Island of Komodo in the Malay Archipelago.

The "dragons," great lizards eight feet long and weighing 200 pounds, were captured by Douglas Burden, a trustee of the American Museum of Natural History. The museum's appearance is horrid in the extreme. They are as thick as a man's body and are covered with scales of protective armor. They have short, stubby legs on which they are able to run fairly fast. Their tails are barbed forked tongues and make a hideous noise like escaping steam. One of the lizards is a large one in the new specimens bill.

Inventions Of Russian Scientist

Now Method to Extract Many Products From Coal

From 500 tons of coal a Russian scientist would extract, by a new method which he has invented and which is being seriously considered in Great Britain, the following products:

2,500 gallons of gasoline.
6,500 gallons of kerosene.
2,000 gallons of lubricating oil.
12,500 pounds of paraffin wax.
28,000 pounds of phenol.
18,500 pounds of pitch.
17,000 pounds sulphate of ammonia.
12,000 pounds of sulphur.

And even after that he would have left 274 tons of smokeless fuel that would give a greater heat than coal.

Dr. Paul Dzierzbicki, the inventor of the process, is said to have interested British financiers and engineers in the project.—New York World.

Achievement In Europe

Lady Astor Tells Americans They Should Rejoice

"Americans should rejoice in European progress rather than "hold my their hands in horror at the present situation," Viscountess Astor, M. P., declared in New York.

The admission of Germany into the League of Nations, with the world's greatest war, only eight years after, she said, was an achievement of which Europe was proud, "no matter what you in America think."

In her address before the National and New York League of Women Voters, Lady Astor said that while "many thinking people" believe the United States has taken the wrong course in the matter of intoxicating drinks, she was not "discouraged by national or international mistakes." Americans learn from their mistakes, at least some do," she said, "and there is no reason to be downhearted."

London saw its first flying sleeper when a machine, equipped with berths, arrived at Croydon from Berlin. It was the Albatross L-73, a twin-engined machine capable of flying almost silently through the night with four persons sleeping in luxurious berths in the cabin. The passengers and pilots have electric lights and running water and by day the berths can be converted into seats.

Dr. Eckl, of the Albatross company, designer of the plane, was a passenger when she arrived in England.

Bridge Used By Shakespeare

Built At Stratford-on-Avon In Fourteenth Century

The town council of Stratford-on-Avon yesterday decided to demolish the ancient bridge which has carried the traffic over the River Avon for centuries, and to build a new one in its place.

The bridge, which is fourteen feet wide, has fifteen arches. It was built in the fourteenth century by that Sir Hugh Clopton who also built the house in which Shakespeare afterwards lived, and which another member of his house destroyed later. Shakespeare must have been familiar with the bridge long before it, and before that a ford, for it certainly represents a very ancient highway. Indeed, the Romans may have used it, for they are known by their coins to have lived not far away.

By Shakespeare's time it must have been well wantbored, and we can imagine him lingering on it with Anne Hathaway, gazing on one of England's fairest breast.

Premier Mussolini of Italy Thinks He Will Dip a Natural Death

Premier Mussolini believes that the star of his destiny has risen over Canada, and that he will die a natural death.

That is what he told Robert H. Davis, of the New York Sun, who was received by the premier after the recent attempt on his life. Mr. Davis says:

"I saw Mussolini in the street room of the Chigi Palace. And there was no shadow of which he addressed an impassioned speech to the people after the third attempt on his life in the last ten months.

"You ask why I do not protect what I call my person from the assassins?" he said. "There is no need. My star protects me as Italy is protected. I shall die a natural death. As I live now, there must be adventure, and I must be free to come and go among the people, always my people."

PARLIAMENT MAY CONVENE ABOUT NOVEMBER 20

Ottawa.—While no official statement on the election has been forthcoming from Premier King, plainly favors the 18th of the fifteenth parliament, annual meeting about November 20. In the eventuality, the house, after completing parliamentary authority for the outlay of the provisional treasury funds, would probably have a long adjournment for Christmas. A into fall session, it is also believed, would mean an endeavor to conclude the session by Easter of 1927.

Following the general election last fall, it took from four to eighty over six weeks to have all election writs returned, with the exception of Ponce River, where a recount was held. In ridings represented by probable members in the new King cabinet, the writs were returned last year within from three to four weeks after the election. This fact is thought that writs could be issued and returned in by elections for the new cabinet ministers in time for parliament to convene about November 20.

Unless calling for Mr. King is simplified, it is stated, by the fact that approximately three-quarters of those who hold positions in his Government or governors will be back again. For the most part it is assumed they will occupy their old seats.

Hon. H. S. Marlonald, former minister of national defence, has announced his retirement from politics, and the likelihood is that he will be appointed to the vacant vacancy for Nova Scotia.

Ontario Elections Soon

Toronto Paper Says Election To Be Held In Month of November

Toronto.—A provincial election will be held the week of November 5, according to a statement in the Conservative organ of this afternoon," The Evening Telegram, a journalistic supporter of Premier Ferguson's Government, states in a news story.

"It is expected that the people of Ontario will go to the polls on Tuesday, November 11," the report continues. "Although this is the anniversary of the signing of the armistice, the observance of Armistice Day will be on Monday, November 8."

Mexican Indians In Revolt

Mexico City.—Aeroplanes and gas bombs will be employed against the Yaqui Indians, now in revolt in the state of Sonora, the Mexican war department also ordered out cavalry and infantry.

The Yaquis in rebellion complain that much of their land has been appropriated and that all demands for reimbursement have been ignored.

Alfonso Pardons Rebel

Madrid.—The commander of the military academy at Segovia was sentenced to death by court martial for his participation in the recent revolt of the artillery corps. King Alfonso, however, on the advice of Premier Primo de Rivera, and also in the exercise of his prerogative, has extended clemency to the officer.

Offers Seat For Meighen

Hamilton.—The member of the Ancaster-Dundas-Flamborough-Wentworth Conservative member elect of the House of Commons for Wentworth, and friend Premier Meighen, who was defeated in Portage la Prairie, Man., offering to resign his seat in order that Mr. Meighen could contest the constituency. He has also forwarded a letter to Mr Meighen containing his telegram.

Ottawa.—It is claimed Louis Auger (Independent Liberal), of Hawkesbury, Ont., who was elected to parliament for the constituency of Prescott, will be the youngest member of the new house. He is in his 24th year.

Wants Seat On The League

Claim to Being Pressed By Irish Free State

Geneva.—A sharp fight is developing in the league for the ninth non-permanent seat on the council which was originally considered an safe for Switzerland.

Other probable candidates are Finland, the ballot of the Baltic group, Czecho-Slovakia whose claim is supported by some of the powers in the hope of reminding the world of the love of Premier Benes on the council, as well as Ireland.

Ireland has notified all the Dominions' delegates that in spite of their decision not to demand a seat on the council, Ireland is a candidate for the place and that while he best serving the interests of the Dominions as a whole, he presents her claim.

In view of this statement, Sir George Perley has amended his declaration that none of the dominions were candidates for the ninth place, and his exception on behalf of Ireland.

Candidates Lose Deposits

Liberal Candidates in Toronto and York Fared Badly

Toronto.—Nine candidates in the Dominion election in Toronto and York forfeited their deposits in the voting, according to the returns compiled. There will be a further addition to the total list, but it is not expected the result will be materially affected.

The Liberal candidates in the Toronto and York losing their deposits were:

Toronto East: Hon. Manning Doherty, Toronto High Park; Tippin, in Parkdale; Hunter, in West York, and J. W. Venables North West; Dr. Walker, in Toronto, Nearboro; and Miss Bennett, in Toronto East. Both Conservative candidates in Toronto North West and Macdonald in West Centre also lost their deposits.

Of the candidates in the province of Ontario five forfeited $200 to the Dominion Government.

Fighting In China

British Cruiser Has Been Ordered to Leave For Seat of Trouble

Shanghai, England.—The British cruiser, H.M.S. Carlisle, has been ordered to leave for Hankow.

Hankow, China.—The "Hi-Ci" Canadian mission under another attack on Wu Chang, but again were repulsed. The bombardment killed a number of the life of the head of the Italian regime. All this cannot be longer tolerated.

The orders declare that if Foreign desires to continue friendly relations with Italy they must cease to interfere in the nationalist question now on.

Thus the resolution that once again he had been immensely impressed with the friendship of the Italian people for the great spirit of enterprise in all directions there.

Progress in Ireland

Vancouver.—Ireland is steadily progressing now that decree of unity which is apparent both with social and industrial progress, declared Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster, who, with Lady Craig, is visiting Vancouver.

Prince Rupert.—Sir Robert Borden has piloted a property across Canada and will remain at the Pacific Coast for about a week to two remaining east

German War General Married

Munich, Bavaria.—General Erich Ludendorff, 61, who was wounded nine times during the war, was married here to Frau Margarethe Von Kessinin, 41, widow of Baron Von Kessinin. The bride who was mentioned by the first Frau Ludendorff in the divorce proceedings last July, is a specialist on nervous diseases. The marriage report many was strictly private.

Family Settlement Plan

Lord Clarendon Says Scheme Provides Canada Who Picked British Seniors

Montreal.—"A complete success," was how Lord Clarendon regarded the 1926 family settlement scheme which has provided Canada with a type of picked British settlers during the past year, according to Lord Clarendon, who has presided over the scheme.

Additions to the 1927 quota will be made as soon as possible, he said, and the scheme will be extended next year, he said.

Lord Clarendon regarded the movement as one of the most important of the day, and questions are likely to arise in the conference and there is a fine chance for the Empire to benefit by it, he said, and this spring was a splendid time to bring it about.

At the same time there is no attempt to force emigration, he said, and the scheme will be kept entirely voluntary.

ITALY ANGERED BY THE STAND TAKEN BY FRANCE

Rome.—Orders issued to the Fascist party by its directory refer rebellion to the French attitude in refusing to accept responsibility in the case of Gino Lovetti, who came from France to make his escape against the life of Premier Mussolini. The order says in part:

"The land of France, for whose safety some of our legions war dead fell, has been for years the most hospitable land for all those hatching in the perfidious hearts that rod against Italy.

"It is there," the order continues, "that spirits are united, bombs are built, and those people are fostered in which have still every hope to see the life of the head of the Italian regime. All this cannot be longer tolerated.

The orders declare that if Foreign desires to continue friendly relations with Italy they must cease to interfere in the nationalist question now on.

Thus the resolution that once again he had been immensely impressed with the friendship of the Italian people for the great spirit of enterprise in all directions there.

Question Not Treated Seriously

Talk of Americanizing Canada Humbug Says British Labor Leader

London.—The talk about the "Americanization" of Canada is the veriest humbug," declared Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, M.P., recently when asked by the late Labor Government, in an interview with the Canadian Press, to comment on the statement of Premier Meighen, who said many were in Canada with the purpose of "Americanizing" the country.

Mr. Thomas remarked that one again he had been immensely impressed with the friendship of the Italian people for the great spirit of enterprise in all directions there.

LIBERAL PARTY WILL ONCE MORE ASSUME POWER

Ottawa.—Final returns received yesterday afternoon the position in the Liberal party will have 116 seats, the Conservatives 91, and the Liberal Progressives 24, and Progressives 4. The remainder will be made up of Labor and Farmers, Liberal, Independents and Independents.

The impression is that the government will remain so long as the Liberal party is able to command the confidence of the House of Commons. Premier King with 116 of the 245 seats in the House would then have a majority of one, counting on support mainly from the Liberal-Progressives and a few Progressives elected.

Talk of a Liberal-Progressive coalition is already being suggested in political circles here, and in this some attention is to be given to the fact that Mr. Meighen accepted the invitation but present developments have led the old Tory leader much to do so. Issues and questions are likely to arise in the conference and there is a fine chance for the Empire to benefit by it, he said, and this spring was a splendid time to bring it about.

At the same time there is no attempt to force emigration, he said, and the scheme will be kept entirely voluntary.

Whether he would be able to command sufficient support in the House of Commons to defeat the government on any issue, or issues presented by the Liberal-Progressive party, is a matter of conjecture at this time.

Should the Liberal-Progressive party decide to support the Government on any issue, or issues presented by the Liberal party, it is quite possible that the Government would be defeated

NO BLENDING
NO MIXING
NO ACIDS

Looking over the few LUBRICATING OIL REFINERIES on this continent, and reading of some results obtained in England with the testing of dry bearings, we read of a test where TEXACO OIL stood a pressure test for EIGHT MINUTES, where the next best oil lasted for THREE minutes. With this in mind, we sought out THE TEXAS COMPANY of America for a distributing proposition for this district, and after months of waiting, we now have it. The oil is right here for your inspection.

After a summer's use of TEXACO OIL we honestly believe that any cheap car will run over 10,000 miles without taking up a connecting rod or main bearing. WE KNOW that we can run a 3,000 RPM tractor motor for one or two seasons without taking up a connecting rod. We KNOW that TEXACO OIL is a better lubricant after three or four days run in a tractor than some high grade oils are fresh from the barrel.

We could tell you a great deal more, but space will not permit. If you want to overcome lubricating troubles—crack cylinder heads, pistons, oil pumping and all the catalogue of motor troubles, USE TEXACO. We can't compel you to buy it, but we can ask you to TRY IT.

500 ALBERTA RANGE HORSES GO TO RUSSIA

Five hundred head of horses, Alberta's share of the thousand head purchased in western Canada by the Soviet government, were loaded up Tuesday at Brooks, Bassano and Medicine Hat for shipment east. A similar number purchased in Saskatchewan will join this shipment at Moose Jaw and the whole consignment will be handed at Montreal about fourteen days for transit to Russia

Buying of these horses, most of which was carried out in the south ern range areas of the province, was in charge of J. W. Dunne, of Calmary, and the animals prior to shipment were inspected by R. J. Arkell, dominion livestock commissioner, and Dr. J. A. Sinclair, of Canmission, Ontario, who found them very satisfactory. Although it is understood that no experimentally high prices were paid, the horses disposed of are a type which is inclined to be somewhat unsaleable on the ravenous market in the west, being somewhat heavier and under weight, and rather in the south find this outlet very satisfactory. The results of this shipment to Europe, and the prospects of further orders will be watched with interest by Alberta stockmen

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OCTOBER 3RD TO 9TH — BE CAREFUL

Have your flues examined and made safe.

Have your electric wiring examined and made safe.

Have all rubbish removed from within and around your premises.

Teach yourself and children the danger of fire.

Use safety matches.

Observe good housekeeping rules

Keep your premises clean.

Tell your neighbor to do the same

Have an extinguisher or bucket of water, for fire purposes only, always handy.

Keep the gasoline you have to use in a safe closing metal can, and use it only when

Keep matches in a metal box

Watch the careless smoker and do not allow him to impose on you.

Call the Chief of Fire Department or local inspector when in doubt. (He knows)

Help the Fire Department to help your fire before it starts.

Early fall ploughing not only saves soil moisture, but enables the nitrates and other soluble salts to develop in sufficient quantities for the next season. Another important point is that it aids the germination of weed seeds which are killed by the frost before reaching any appreciable growth.

Tunney Wins From Dempsey

Gene Tunney, ex-marine and Greenwich philosopher, won the decision over champion Jack Dempsey in ten rounds tonight at Philadelphia and came within an ace of winning by a knockout in the last seconds of the encounter with a hard right to the jaw. Both judges were unanimous in declaring Tunney the winner. With the exception of a couple of rounds the contest for the world's heavy weight championship was all Tunney, who nearly knocked Dempsey out in the first round of the battle.

Nothing Impossible

Sam was an old southern darkey whose sublime faith never failed to enable him to solve all the knotty problems of life. Some one asked him one day if he believed that a man could ever be shot from a gun to the moon. He was assailed by a tenant in the fact that he was unable to examine a body ripe "How I could find that body," he said, scratching a bewildered head, "I don't know a bunch of inspiration of I could just locate it." Radio Stations Protest

Says Canadian Wave Lengths Preempted by U. S. Stations

Radio stations in the United States are pre-empting Canadian wave lengths and thereby preventing the hearing of many Canadian stations, it was declared in a protest sent to the Canadian National Railways.

This charge was made at a meeting of the National Association of Broadcasters held in New York by J. R. McKean radio director of the Canadian National Railways.

World's Largest Cable Landed

The world's largest cable, 2,000 nautical miles in length, capable of handling 3,000 words a minute between the United States and England has been landed at New York. The cable was brought ashore by the largest cable ship in the world, the Colonia, for the Western Union Telegraph and Cable company, completing a three months' task.

Take Drastic Measures

United States Mail Clerks Say Orders To Shoot To Kill

"Shoot to kill" orders have been issued to 22,500 railway mail clerks as a drastic means of protecting the precious postal treasure from bandits, the United States post office department has announced.

If this method of defensive warfare against the underworld proves inadequate, post office department authorities indicated the United States Marines might be called in again to guard the mails, as they did in 1921.

The command not only applies to railway mail clerks, but to all postal employees, and is intended as a warning to bandits who make a business of robbing mail trains. The order instructs all employees to defend mail property even at the expense of their own lives.

The recent Chicago hold-up, when $125,000 in cash and securities, together with a loss inspired the order. Postmaster General New framed the command after a conference with special experts.

Holland Made Tulip Popular

Government Had to Step Some For Bulb Growing

The tulip, beloved by the Turks the turban flower, was brought to England from Vienna in the later years of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. A Little Miss and a Big Man

Though her proximity to a life belt might seem to indicate certain fears of the broad beam of the Atlantic on the part of Miss Mary Ferguson Lafleur, aged 5, of Winnipeg, you would be wrong in supposing it, since the young lady has merely taken up this position for purposes of photography. Like many more experienced travellers, Miss Lawson chose the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland—which, of course, are included in every one like Bishop McConnell, Thirty-five coaches have passed since the first recorded persecution of the Israelites, and only twenty-five, and the 31st August, 1916. CHAPTER XIV.—(Continued).

Joanna's reply was eagerly grateful: "Yes. That is what I need to say. I want to be able to do as I please and not be criticised."

Yvonne smiled and handed the Rex from her cigaret. "That's all the talk we shall need, I think," she said. "We shall enjoy each other tremendously, I imagine. Shall we go down to the winter garden." There will be somebody besides Teddy, Inexminster will there."

Joanna was conscious of something being been said, of some conclusion reached out to her by Yvonne, which she had not fully understood. She was puzzled, and she had been entertained by some subtle challenge that masked a strategy. For an instant she was at the point of breaking away, of running away regardless of the consequences, of making new ones and a shabby old one, which had been tried down from her lateness. This impulse subsided immediately, however, she decided that after all, while she would understand Yvonne, perfectly

And after awhile, a long time after, Joanna did!

In the winter garden the group that Yvonne had left around the stone table had broken up, only Teddy Inexminster and two others remained one of these was a swarthy, dark haired, dusty young man, who had been of any age between twenty-five to forty-five. He was presented by Yvonne as "Pendleton," and Joanna thought him a very grave, and much older person. The other bachelor Inexminster, was a young fellow, scarcely more than twenty-five but could not possibly have been forty Yvonne called him Mr. Marks and Lord Teddy exclaimed when Yvonne had passed Pendleton and Mrs. Marks to Joanna "The Longest, coldest evening since—"

"Think it over, carefully, Teddy," Yvonne admonished him, "before you say it. You've only had three."

But little by little, the icy personality had Teddy had melted. He was thirsty regarding Pendleton and Uncle Uncle Marks down you see?"

"Only that both are of a mind that alcohol is better than a drink that you agree."

Yvonne interposed him and advised that the tea be served before Mrs. Marks's awaiting to be passed.

A thousand pardons, Mrs Marks," he said, "it is quite all right for me to repeat now what I let to elope from me a few minutes ago? About your being a destitute pretty girl, you know" I was telling Pendleton, Ah, that silver thing! I thought of a small tell, and what it was before I forget it"

"One thing at a time," Yvonne indicated "What were you telling Pen"

"That I'd just seen the kind of a face that no man could ever forget after he'd once had it close to him. Isn't that what I said, Pen old boy?"

"You said absolutely nothing of the kind," some of any how interrupted Pendleton gravely, assured him.

"Perhaps I didn't." Teddy admitted "But I thought it, and meant to say it. So Miss Manners will overside that I did."

Then the woman Yvonne had called Mrs. Marks interjected; "If she now much of you Teddy, she probably will be enough to remember of it but I'm actually do say, without being bothered with what you merely think"

"Don't blame her, dearest," Lord Teddy exclaimed. "No woman ever remembers anything I say to her."

"Not even Jane perhaps," Pendleton observed.

"Both you and Doris —" Teddy began, and broke off. "Pendleton and Uncle," he said again, "that brings me back to my clever thing Listen, everyone! Pendleton and Uncle Marks; whenever I come upon Pendleton here at Yvonne's I come upon Uncle Marks. Pennsark." What" It was only Lord Teddy himself was laughed, and Joanna wondered why

Caribou Highway Now Opened

Telegraph Line Has Been in This Country Since 1866

The new Caribou highway has at last been open to traffic, adding the final link in the communication of that secluded region with the outside world.

Since 1866 the Caribou has been connected with the rest of the world by telegraph, since then the mountains about head of Telegraph Creek only prospected By Dease.

The reason for opening the road was the desire to connect this with Prince Rupert hospital. The supplies of the district, especially across the Atlas Lake to supplies could be obtained in the winter, and the isolation of the people in the district was a serious matter. The road was constructed at a cost of $1,000,000 and is 300 miles long. It is a marvel of engineering, and is considered one of the most beautiful roads in the world.

St. Saviour's church is enjoying the benefit of a new marble Font, the gift of Mr and Mrs. O. J. Maggs of Winnipeg; also a new oak pulpit, the gift of Miss A. A. Aird, O.B.E. and Mr. T. Aird whose mother was the donor of one of the earliest subscriptions for the present church. It is hoped to have the pulpit in place for the Harvest Festival service next Sunday.

On Friday, September 17th, Worthy Grand Matron Sister Langlois of Calgary paid an official visit to the Queen Esther Chapter Order Eastern Star, she was accompanied by Grand Warder Sister Paige of Stettler. They were the guests of Mrs. H. R. Parker who had an afternoon tea in their honor in the evening when the work and general business of the Chapter was completed a most enjoyable social took place. Items were rendered by Mrs. L. McLean and Mr. John Watts, which were heartily encored.

D. K. Perrie, B.A., student missionary, and who has been preaching to the continuing Presbyterians at Vermilion and Beaver Lake during the past summer, has decided to continue his services during the winter months and until next fall. The Presbyterians are about to organize a congregation at Vegreville, several families having subscribed themselves for this purpose. The local congregation is worshipping in the Baptist church. The Vegreville congregation for the time being will probably be attached to Vermilion.

OBITUARY

Ethel Anne Lillian (Bertha), Wife of Harvey Shiner of Wetaskiwin, passed away at the Vermilion Municipal Hospital on Tuesday, September 7th, just one year after she went to the common hospital for cancer treatment. The deceased lady, though a sufferer for a number of years, had undergone special treatment in Edmonton and returned to her home apparently greatly improved in health, but it was only temporary as she was forced to enter the local hospital some two months ago. The funeral was held on the Thursday afternoon following with services in St. Saviour's Anglican Church, the Rev. F. J. Stevens officiating. A number of friends came to take a last farewell of Mrs. Shiner as she lay at J. Warfue's funeral home, and a large congregation assembled at the church for the service. The remains were laid to rest in the Vermilion cemetery, the pall-bearers being R. Norton, W. H. Duncan, R. A. Brand, W. R. Wicks, P. Williamson and E. Delisdale. Among the floral tributes were Wreath, Family, spray, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Brown, spray, Mrs. A. Taylor, design, Mrs. J. Hopper and Mrs. Payne, spray, Mrs. A. V. Ayre, spray, Mrs. Wicks, spray, Mr. & Mrs. Parley, spray, Mr. & Mrs. J. Gordon, spray, Mr. & Mrs. B. King and family, General sympathy has been expressed for the family in their bereavement.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to the many friends; also to Rev. F. J. Stevens, Dr. Bell and the nursing staff of the Vermilion Municipal Hospital, who by their presence, words and acts of sympathy and floral tributes so greatly assisted us in our recent bereavement.
Mrs. M. J. Burke,
Daughters and Sons.

THEN HE SOLD GOODS

The young man had been rather pleased with himself when he set out for the West. He was overjoyed at getting a job as a salesman, as he had been out of work for many months and had almost given up hope. But by the time he had been working for a week he began to see rather disgusted with his employers.

"How are you getting on?" inquired an old hand at the game, whom he met in a restaurant one evening.

"Badly," was the reply. "I've been cautioned at every place I have visited."

"That's strange" said the other man "I have been on the road forty years. I have had my samples flung into the street. I have been taken by the scruff of the neck and hurled down stairs, and I don't deny that I have been pelted in the gutter, but insulted — never."

CHAMBERLAIN WILL MEET MUSSOLINI

LONDON, Sept 29 — A meeting between Premier Mussolini of Italy, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, probably will be held tomorrow at some port on the west coast of Italy, within a reasonable distance of Rome, it was stated in official quarters today.

The subject of the meeting, which was arranged at Mussolini's invitation has not been made public

Letter To All Teachers

From the Dominion Fire Commissioner

To School Principals and Teachers in Royal Proclamation His Excellency, the Governor General of Canada, has been graciously pleased to designate the week commencing October 3rd, 1926, as Fire Prevention Week. The object of the period thus set apart for observance is to reduce the tremendous fire waste of the Dominion, especially that which is directly due to carelessness and avoidable causes. To the furtherance of this purpose it is recommended that special instruction on the subject of Fire Prevention be given by the teachers, that suitable literature be distributed to the pupils and that fire drills be held in all schools, colleges and educational institutions throughout Canada.

It is obvious that the schools of Canada provide one of the most fruitful fields for propagating the truths of Fire Prevention. If the minds of the young can be impressed with the fact that carelessness and thoughtless inattention good citizenship, fire waste in Canada will eventually disappear. The lessons learned at school will be carried home and carried out practically, with untold benefit to the whole community. Will you not, therefore, take up the matter with your pupils, and by means of lectures, essays or personal responsibility assigned will enlist the interest and co-operation of the children in the movement.

I ... not unjustifiable to assume that the teaching of our schools fails to ... [illegible] ... which we must look for the proper care and attention to the conservation of fire prevention Week 1926, awakens general interest in conditions that result in the ... fire loss in Canada of property which is more than $40,000,000 besides hundreds of lives, such will be realized [illegible] duties as ... pupils ... RED ROSE "is good COFFEE"

Immigration, Work and Prosperity

Notwithstanding that one of Canada's greatest needs is a large population, the alarming fact is that while new immigration shows a substantial increase, and it becomes apparent that the tide of settlement is setting in strongly, Canada wards an entry is railed in Labor circles and influences are at work to hamper and discriminate. Now is organized labor alone to be blamed for this, but a...ful opposition. Frequently church bodies and even the national authorities show similar attitude.

This spirit has its origin in some...finds expression in an attempt to...the Government and other agencies interested in immigration to discourage, or greatly curtail, their efforts to induce immigration to Canada. A small measure it is revealed by a campaign of the most underhanded, subtle and, not infrequently, absolutely false statements regarding Canadian conditions—most unpatriotic proceeding.

We do not think opposition is the result of ignorance or the acceptance of half-baked theories on the part of those who seek to prevent or restrict foreign emigration. Some people object to anybody being allowed to enter Canada unless he first spends the same length of time in a cage as Jacko, and worship a life same after as they themselves do. These timid souls are fearful that they may be swamped, and they insist on Canada being regarded as a special preserve for the Anglo-Saxon race, and as one Province-Boozer tells us, "The Americans" are against people from other lands. They refuse to recognize the fact that all the great national groups of today, including the British, are the result of a fusion, an assimilation, of races.

Organized labor, on the other hand, opposes immigration because the majority of Labor Union members entertain the mistaken idea that by maintaining a monopoly of labor the opportunities for employment of those already in the country are enhanced, and that higher wages will likewise prevail. The economic and industrial history of the world proves otherwise.

In the United States, Australia, and writing in the London Daily Mail declares that progress and development in Australia are being retarded and held back by the exclusive policy of the labor unions, the existing result of Australia is being about a change of heart, and the Labor Party has taken a step in the right direction on a home scale. The recent drought has once again emphasized the old lesson, and it is to be hoped that the people of Australia simple methods of cultivation by the peasants of Lombardy would produce astonishing results. But the problem of Australian irrigation is said to be like a hundred other problems there. It is easy to point out what might be done and what should be done, but much more difficult to get it done. The high cost of labor, make it impossible. As a result the farmer and his family struggle along as best they can with rude skill and appliances, but with low returns, postponed improvements, and backwardness of agricultural development.

The Labor Leader finds an explanation as threatening his employment and his income to the extent of hundreds of square miles of land more than a still greater menace lies in the retarded development of his country, but which development would bring increased employment and good wages for all. He contends that the fact that agriculture, which in Australia as in Canada will almost certainly never experience, had little or no effect upon the standard of employment and wages in the United States; rather did it maintain that standard by incessant expansion. The one thing to keep up, or augment, wages in Australia, or in Canada for that matter, would be great areas of development. Compared with what it might be the rate of present development is slow

The most prosperous period in Canada in the experience of the present generation was during those years following the introduction of an aggressive immigration policy under Clifford Sifton, when immigrants were pouring into the country. Following the depression of the after-the-war years Canada is once again experiencing better times and an increasing measure of industrial activity and prosperity, with employment plentiful and wages good, and at the same time immigration is less by than at any time since the outbreak of the war, with an increase of 85 per cent over last year.

The decision of the Labor movement, once again the eve is raised to put a stop to Canadian—as a whole are asked to...ne section of the popula tion and to purely selfish and utterly mistaken reasons, to all the grave harm is facing the public peace and prosperity. The welfare of all is at stake, while at the same time being productive of a greatly increased and more prosperous future.

Germany's Newest Card

Aerial Power Is Their Aim Says French General

Germany will return to power in the air, Gen. Girod, president of the chamber of deputies army commission, warns in an interview published in Paris, crying France to be on guard against "tremendous preparations for air supremacy now going on in Germany."

"Demilitarization on the Rhine has removed the rail menace," Gen. Girod said. "But progress and science have aided Germany to raise its hand elsewhere and to seek to recover its fortunes in the clouds. Germany is free to construct commercial planes, by reason abrogation of the larger part of the restrictions imposed by the treaty of Versailles, and it is embarked on a great aviation dream. On its air fleet is built its hope of ruining victory."

Continuing, the general said: "Germany's will to recover its place is revealed in the fact that it is increasing all Europe and soon will cover all continents with airports, commercial lines and trained pilots, connecting all nations and the great highways of the world."

Germany's principal engineers, chemists, and aeronautics are working free of all control by the Allied commission of control, he said, on...ium, Italy, and Russia. German aerial asserts, overburden the nation's...ch, Fokker, Junkers and Dornier.

From School Teacher To Great Explorer

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania studied diligently and qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save up enough money to put him through medical college. After the Civil War, he began the practice of medicine in the new oil section of Pa., and often rode horse-back thru the woods to see and relieve those who were seriously ill. He was a student of nature, knew and could easily recognize many of the medicinal plants growing in the woods. Later, he moved to Buffalo, N.Y., where he launched his favorite remedies, and, in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land. To the name of the...mne, Dr. R. V. for Vermilion District

NO BLENDING NO MIXING NO ACIDS

Looking over the few LUBRICATING OIL REFINERIES on this continent, and reading of some results obtained in England with the testing of dry bearings, we read of a test where TEXACO OIL stood a peculiar test for EIGHT MINUTES, where the next best oil lasted for THREE minutes. With this in mind, we sought out THE TEXAS COMPANY of America for a distributing proposition for this district, and after months of waiting, we now have it. The oil is right here for your inspection.

After a summer's use of TEXACO OIL, we honestly believe that any cheap car will run over 10,000 miles without adding up a connecting rod or main bearing. WE KNOW that we can run a 1,000 RPM tractor motor for over two months without adding up a connecting rod. We KNOW that TEXACO OIL is a better lubricant as at three or four days run in a tractor than some high grade oils are fresh from the barrel.

We can't tell you a great deal more but space will not permit. If you want to overcome lubrication troubles—carbon, clinging leaky pistons and pumping and all the category of motor troubles, USE TEXACO. We can't compel you to buy it but we can ask you to TRY IT

YOU HAVE TRIED THE REST—NOW USE THE BEST

ESTABLISHED 1909.
Published every Thursday Afternoon at the Office, Main St.
G. S. P. COUPER, Editor.

Vermilion, Alta., Sept. 30, 1926.

"The British Canadian" is the latest publication to arrive at our office. It is devoted to the interests of the British Empire and is the official organ of the Empire Club of Canada (Winnipeg Unit). Its object is the advancement of the interests of Canada and the United Empire. The publishers are The St. George Corporation Limited, Peshlam Chat Bldg., Winnipeg, and Percy G. Lacey is the editor, who is also the secretary of The Empire Club of Canada, (Winnipeg Unit). The Royal Society of St. George (Winnipeg Branch) and the St. George's Club, and President of the Imperial London Association.

"The British Canadian" commenced with 16 pages, and in its issue of double the size and increase the circulation to at least 10,000 at an early date, eventually dominion wide.

The futility of estimating the value of the grain crop from the great western prairies before it is garnered and threshed has never been brought home more forcibly than this season. A few weeks ago harvesting operations commenced over this vast belt of wheat growing country and almost in the same breath papers proclaimed the value of this year's crop to the farmers of the West they would have them in fact believe that some three hundred and fifty millions of dollars were securely packed away in their granaries. It is to be doubted upon at this time that date a settled opinion can be had weather have virtually stopped all farm work and it is safe to estimate that 80 per cent of the grain is still in the stook and about 50 per cent. An early summer frost or heavy rains before the turning of the first and in the building of the Ribeau canal.

On August 17th, a calm, bearing a tablet in memory of the services, and devotion and tragic death of Charles Lenox, Fourth Duke of Richmond was unveiled on a spot near the village of Richmond, several miles from the city of Ottawa. The Duke of Richmond was appointed Governor-General of the Canadas, Lower and Upper, in 1818, and took up his residence in Lower Canada in July of that year. It was during the following year, 1819, while on an official tour of inspection, the 4 poor province, and while visiting the newly surveyed lands allotted to soldier settlers among which was the settlement at Richmond named in his honor, that his death took place under tragic circumstances. An inspection of the land raised by the Rideau at a point not and aggravated by the bitter weather and rough journeying in canoes and much suffering this day attendants importuned him to rest at Richmond when that settlement had been reached. He made a determined effort to push forward however and after going a short distance was obliged to seek rest in the house of a settler where he died in great agony within a few hours.

The tablet commemorating the ... of the beginning of the Rideau canal in September 1826 under the direction of Col. John By, R. E., was unveiled on August 19, 1926. This memorial has been placed on the central pillar on the north side of the bridge spanning the canal in the heart of Ottawa. The construction of the Rideau canal was undertaken with a view to obtaining an inferior water route between Montreal and Lake Ontario, by way of the Ottawa river and it has played a leading part in the upbuilding of the city of Ottawa, and in the development of southeastern Ontario.

Article Dealing With Local High School

In view of the large number of failures at the recent provincial departmental examinations of students writing from the Vermilion high school, in common with a number of other high schools, a certain amount of criticism has been levelled against the staff. In the above connection the editor of this paper has enquired into the local situation and publishes a report covering the viewpoints on the matter as accepted by the school board. It is claimed that adverse criticism arises largely from a misunderstanding of the new system of examination that is now being put into operation, and while there may be a certain amount of fault to be found with the teachers, the students themselves are not entirely blameless, due to a lack of appreciation of the different claims they assume when entering upon the course of high school studies where they have a far greater responsibility placed upon them.

Age to the examinations for many years there has been a Grade system in which pupils were promoted by grades by obtaining a minimum of 75 per cent in each subject and an average of 60 per cent on the total. In Grade IX examinations were set by the subjects not prescribed in the course of Grade X. Under certain conditions students were promoted on the recommendation of the principal of the school. About six years ago the pass mark was raised to 50 per cent in each subject and an average of 50 per cent on the total. It was recognized that the standard was too low but the demand for teachers for the public schools was such that it was impossible to raise the pass mark. However, as the high school population of the province increased the educational schools were able to train sufficient teachers to meet the needs, and as the University has become crowded, it was then thought feasible to raise the standard. At the same time a revision of the high school course of study was undertaken. The grade system was abolished and the unit system substituted. Under the latter system there are two main courses taught, leading to University Matriculation and Normal School entrance respectively, each of the courses consisting of twenty-four units. By adding to the units required for matriculation the two subjects Art and Geography, the student is prepared for both University and Normal school. This is the policy followed in the majority of town schools in which twenty-three units may be taken in any order but for convenience in teaching they have been grouped in three years corresponding to the old classification, viz: Grades IX, X, XI. The student required for the promotion is 50 per cent in each unit of the work and promotion is made by unit only. The new system was applied in the first year students three years ago, in the first and second year students two years ago, and in the remainder of the high school last September. The general feeling has been that the course is much heavier than the old one, and based on the experience of the last three years the Inspectors of Schools, while recognizing that some students are able to complete the twenty one units or other courses in three years, states that there is no reason why students should not proceed at a slower rate if necessary, and recommends that where they are taking the combined courses they spread the work over four years.

The large occasionally comparison made with former years. There are only two ways in which comparisons can be made fairly. One is to compare what one student has done in one year with his own results in the other school would have been if operating under the old system. The other is to compare results as they are with the general percentages obtained over the province as a whole. The former of these is possible at the present time.

Last year there were in the Vermilion High School 52 first year students who wrote on 151 examinations and passed in 76 of them, or just over 50 per cent. 19 second year students wrote 142 examinations and passed in 90 of them, or over 63 per cent, while 24 students of the third year wrote 162 papers and passed in 121, or over 66 per cent. The percentage of passing for the whole school was over 62 per cent.

Had the old system been in effect the percentage of passes would have been: First year 69.5; Second year 77 per. Third year 83 per, or for the whole school 72 per.

From the above it will be seen that the better system in the next year. This is what must be expected when it is realized that the standard required to pass into high school is 21 per cent. In each subject and 5 per cent on the average. The gap between public and high is accumulated through out the province as being a big one.

An analysis of the percentages of classes is as follows:

Composition I	79 per cent
Literature I	48 per cent
Composition II	61 per cent
History I	54 per cent
French I	76 per cent
Algebra I	70 per cent
Geometry I	87 per cent
General Science	51 per cent
Literature II	90 per cent
Composition II	100 per cent
History II	50 per cent
French II	93 per cent
Algebra II	56 per cent
Physics	42 per cent
Art	93 per cent
Agriculture I —	70 per cent
Latin I —	1 student writes, failed
Literature III —	70 per cent
Composition III —	69 per cent.
History III —	75 per cent.
Geometry II	87 per cent.
Chemistry —	59 per cent.
Arithmetic —	100 per cent.
Agriculture II —	100 per cent.
Geography —	92 per cent
Latin II —	50 per cent

From this it will be seen that the successes in some classes were below what they should have been to estimate a good yearly mark, on the other hand those in some other classes were very gratifying. Compared with last year a very considerable gain has been made, and with three teachers doing the work from the first of the year a still greater mark more should be accomplished in the way of raising the standard in the Vermilion High School

DEATH OF CHAS. W. SMITH

Resided at Vermilion For Many Years

We regret to report the death at a sanatorium resident on Vermilion for many years, in the person of Charles Wesley Smith who died at Edmonton on Friday last, September 24th, from cancer of the liver. He was 59 years of age. The remains were taken east by his widow on Sunday and interment will be made at his old home, Milton, ontario. Mr and Mrs. Smith came west the month of August visiting among friends at Vermilion and the district, returning to their home in the city on August 30th. It was their intention to move out permanently and it was while they were making preparations that Mr Smith's condition became strong resulting in his death. The deceased resided for quite a number of years prior to removing to Edmonton and was held in high esteem by all. His death is generally regretted

Member Elect Thanks Electors

Edmonton, Alta.
September 14th 1926

To the Electors of Battle River Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is needless to say how gratifying to me are the results of the election in this constituency. The decision of the electorate is particularly gratifying and considerate in the face of the arguments my opponents with remedies with which they term my "original scheme," a bungle-some one for me to show to their utter falseness.

The majority, however, was possible only by the decision of the people to cast their vote despite the fact that the busy harvest season was in season for the election. To those people and especially to the speechers, canvassers and scrutineers who gave me willingly of their time and all who helped, I wish to tender my sincere thanks.

As your representative in the new Parliament, I shall at all times be glad to receive communications and will attempt to give you the very best of service in my power.

Again thanking you I am

Yours sincerely

Tablets Commemorate Important Events

Suitable Memorials Erected on Historic Sites at Richmond and in Ottawa

Among the important sites marked by the Department of the Interior on the recommendation of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada during the past season were the ceremonies connected with the early history of the city of Ottawa, which last month celebrated the hundredth anniversary of its founding as Bytown in 1826. The one commemorates the death on an early governor general and the other the turning of the first sod in the building of the Rideau canal.

On August 17th, a calm, bearing a tablet in memory of the services, and devotion and tragic death of Charles Lenox, Fourth Duke of Richmond was unveiled on a spot near the village of Richmond, several miles from the city of Ottawa. Strange Method For Promoting Longevity

Biologist Says Decapsulated Butterflies Live Longer Than Others

The strangest method ever devised for the promotion of longevity has just been perceived by the French Academy of Sciences by Father Cham boer a missionary in Madagascar, who is addicted to the most curious activities, has for many years pursued biological studies which have gained him a reputation as a scientist.

Briefly, his contention is that decapitated butterflies live longer than their fellows, who are left a Nature made them

Some fifteen years ago M Edmond Perrier reported to the Academy of Sciences his discovery that, if certain caterpillars were decapitated in such a way as to cause the minimum loss of blood they would continue the natural course of their development, and after passing through the chrysalis stage emerge as perfectly healthy but headless butterflies He found that these while to decapitated lived much longer than the others

Subsequent who have applied the phenomenon have come to the conclusion that this is simply because they lead a much less restless life A perfect butterfly quickly spends its strength in activity, whereas his head less fellows, leading much more placid lives, never use their vital forces at a slower rate, and thus attain a comparatively ripe old age

A hose race at the Fair may be well enough, but trying to beat the hose hose to the crossing is hardly a "sport"—unless the owner enjoys it.

Assisted Colonization

By Chas. W. Peterson

In a vast country like Canada, containing within its boundaries as great a wealth of natural resources, there should be only two major problems in public policy, first, to provide for the rational development of these resources by the introduction of new capital and by promoting a healthy increase in the population, and, secondly, to so direct the quest for and distribution of such new population as to insure as far as possible, that their energies shall be devoted to such occupations as will ensure a fairly balanced national production Canada's present primary need is an increased rural producing and consuming population. With this need supplied, our industrial and transportation plants would be working overtime

It is not difficult to comprehend that the date of easy accomplishment in the field of immigration are over. The days of unskilled labor are fast going The economic situation in Europe is such that people with capital are no longer available for settlement on our lands in any large numbers The social revolution in the old countries still continues. Yet there have been nothing less, has made the lot of the "under dog" in any better case than it ever was in so far as alleviation of the fear of the consequences of change and unemployment is concerned Seemingly there have been about Canada many ways up to the present notable fact that to obtain immigrants of the agriculturist type, those of foreign races and such must be more hand absolutely first-class in order to prevent urgent people the requirements It will be necessary to pursue policies vastly differ from those of the past and present

We must, more or less, forget the meaning of the term "immigration" and substitute in the significance of the word "colonization" Nothing short of a comprehensive plan involving the assisted passage of people on the land, followed by an intelligent, friendly in care at any other time since 1924 is likely to result in any considerable increase in the population of Canada. The annual congress meeting at Montreal steps will be taken by the National Association of Canadian Clubs to ask the Dominion Government to appoint a committee, representative of all the provinces, to organize the celebration of the diamond jubilee of Confederation

Canadian investors are interested to the extent of many millions of dollars in Florida real estate, would it be to the neighborhood designated by the storm zone? Is it feared that a heavy portion of the prosperity loss will fall on residents of the Dominion

Made Fastest Flight

French Air Pilot Flies Nearly 200 Miles an Hour

Adjutant Bonnet, the French aeroplane pilot, has moved faster than any other man in the world. In a Bernard monoplane, with a 450-horse power engine, he has flown at 378.4 miles an hour.

Speed records, for many reasons, are made close to the ground (writes Major Oliver Stewart) A better course is marked out with lines containing observers and electrical timing apparatus at each end. The aeroplane, rushing along ten or fifteen feet above the grass, approaches the speed course from four or five miles away, and is going "full-out" about a mile from the first butt.

So close to the ground the impression of speed is terrific. At 150 miles an hour, is emphatic. At the speed Adjutant Bonnet has attained the wind would be rustling around the edge of the screen and playing on the sides of the pilot's helmet with the force of a fresh breeze. The full-throttle roar of a 450 h.p. engine at arm's length in front of him would be drowned by the howling caused by the mad whirlwind drilling its way through the air.

If he raised a hand high above the edge of the cockpit, his arm would be thrown by the air blast. If he put his head round the side of the windscreen he would be suffocated

Finance Produces Own Dye Stuffs

Production of This Material Nearly Doubled During Past Five Years

The production of dye stuffs in France has been increased by more than since 1920 and, according to advices received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York, from the French information service, the annual report of the 1 ation for promoting this industry (Union des Fraiteurs et des Consommateurs pour le developpement de l'industrie des matieres colorantes) has been published, and discloses a gratifying state of affairs, which in 1922 totalled 1,797 tons and in 1924, 2,444 tons, as against 1,451 tons in 1923 Imports from Germany accounted for 241 tons only; whereas before the war French industry was largely dependent on that country for such products.

The output of French factories has nearly doubled during the last five years, the exact figures being 14,549 tons in 1925 as against 7,356 tons in 1920.

Disastrous Extravagance

Extravagance, Whether National or Personal Can Only End in Disaster

The "decay of commercial probity," of which the report speaks in treating largely to the habit of people living beyond what they can afford It is to be feared that this explanation is only too true. Three "reckless" attempts to live more or less luxuriously without rendering any services in return" is a noticeable feature of the age. Extravagance, whether national or personal can only end in disaster, although the country is infinitely poorer than before the war, many people are trying to maintain the same or even a higher standard of living.—London Daily Mail.

Claims for Wheat Leakages

On last year's business the Guinea Pool Elevators, Winnipeg, which looks after claims for leakages in platform cars, as well as cars shipped through the elevators, recovered approximately $22,000, for its member ship from the railways, as a result of successful claims.

Receives New Appointment

MR. ALPHONSE BRAZEAU

In recognition of his excellent work among his compatriots in western Canada and as a compliment to the French speaking element west of the Great Lakes, Mr. Alphonse Brazeau has been appointed Travelling Passenger Agent of the Canadian National Railways, with headquarters in Winnipeg, starting with detail of his special duty of caring for the passenger traffic requirements of the French Canadians of the west. For several years Mr. Brazeau has acted as a liaison officer between the company and the French Canadians and he was prominent in organizing the France-Canadian Tour from the west to Ste. Anne de Beaupre in Quebec, the largest single party to travel from western Canada to Quebec, and one of the largest individual passenger movements in the history of the railroad He also assisted to organize the west ern delegation to the Eucharistic Congress at Chicago last June and has personally conducted these pilgrimages with his characteristic ability and tact and replicas in miniature of the express engines built for broad gauge railways in Australia and they are fast and a half high and with its ten der measures 12 feet 8 inches in length. The locomotives have four coupled wheels each, being open on all sides and without roofs, he is rainy weather it is a common sight for trains to arrive with the passengers holding up umbrellas. The carriages only hold ten people each, four in the compartments. The track was originally laid to accommodate the miner on foot, but now they are provided, including the equipment of fire engines, mainly passenger coaches and forty goods wagons. About three or four thousand people crossed the lake During the summer season the ferry carries a daily average of 1,000

England has another mini railway in the shape of the Romney to Hythe line, which is now celebrating its forty-fifth birthday. It was opened in 1874, and its two engines each exhibited the size of an ordinary British carter. They would be out of date now, but will have most object lessons when placed in operation.

Thinks Canada Wonderful

Mr. Hosking has been travelling from the Lakes Ports and Pacific Coast of great interest to him, in countries where the methods and conditions are somewhat similar to his own.

Canada as Painting Up

The completion of point at the rainbow is an indication of very good feeling of general prosperity throughout the country. Based on this principle, prosperity in Canada is decidedly on the up-side according to a report just issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce. The value of shipments which come on the Canadian market during the month of August and considerably more than double the corresponding month of last year. The figures are with 1923 was $72,000,000.

Explanations and Comments

The Start From Sinai, verses 11-28 The children of Israel had been 11 months at unsightly rabbit. Now they are on orderly hunt. Each tribe has its appointed place in the march. Every thing is ready for breaking camp An indication of the illness will be a small cloud.

And it came to pass in the second year in the second month, on the twentieth day of the month, that the cloud was taken up from off the tabernacle of testimony. In the account of this cloud was, who shall say? Dr. H. Chappell Morgan notes the belief of many who in saying it is best to consider it was a supernatural manifestation, indicating the presence and guidance of God. Hereof the appearance in the guiding cloud at the crossing of the Red Sea.

Kibroth-hattaavah at Sinai, but remained five there; it must journey forth to Taber, Calvary and Olivet. From Horeb God is moving on. From this place in the procession. As His ark is carried in the midst, so God the world will be His conquest. The word of God is ever on, and His presence is your rear-guard (Isa. 52: 12)" (Dr. F. E. Meyer).

England's Small Railways

Country Can Boast of Two Smallest in World

England may not be able to boast the largest public railway in the world, but she has no hesitation in laying claim to the smallest. Incidentally, notices to that effect are posted on the five running from Hawthglass to Bowness, on the shores of Windermere, to Peel, under the shadow of Ruffell to Knightfield, seven miles, its gauge is 15 inches. The locomotives are exact

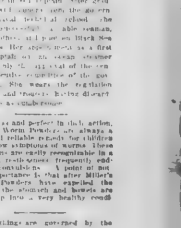
When he was satisfied of his observations, which occupied hardly more than a brief glance, Ted Tully turned closer on the crowded divan—the only the knee, which was crossed and swinging, Bade Him. He waited when he spoke, and little above a murmur

"Please," he pleaded, "don't let me pretend it's much nicer but to really. You do it splendidly but you wouldn't be human if you were a woman has had so much experience, old enough, you know, so that a man. Every boy naturally has a crush on the sun or the moon for a her, then she has to pretend that she isn't you pretend it's a star or a bird. It is and not what's in cop; books. If she didn't she'd be too forbidding as we know who is not to be liked. But she's a lovely girl make her be—she doesn't understand everything and everybody she knows. She's going to be dreamy to think he does, anyway Don't you?"

Jimm regarded him exhaustedly, frankly bursting his own examination of her a moment before. "Say," she said, "I'm not a violin playing up on him. "How you know a man with an ass's head for a sweetheart? Is it some of your fool professors out of those like that?" He reads laughter bubbled through. "I'm not a professor."

"Only a student, my bowels Jo anne," he said, finding her hand among the cushion, and taking possession of it while both of his own. "Please let me have it to be your guide and your an ambition." Wasn't he had on his mind? Wasn't he a man with a conditional pres ne, and wasn't he looking to her arm shining eyes with a deep strength in his She seemed to be in his contented almost her hand. She ten inured her knee, a little, to help him down, and her spare between them, she said, then:



"My friends," she called in upon I'm in a during mood tonight

"We seem to be taking a holiday, or some sort. When you happy to think about it, in the world of it. I mean, the best I can get out of it is that you want to be a cold and you to ask me to take kind I am ambition to make it. I'm a much for fairies like them out"

Yes, he admitted. "And I think I out almost anybody, I should imagine You wouldn't be afraid of missing anything. That's why I'd like to a kiss."

She nodded at him "I'll give you my other hand, too, and let you fill up the rest of the distance between us. The sun could tell me just how pretty you think I am, and how you're always been crazy about hair like mine and would like to run your fingers through it. I don't suppose you'd have to ask me anything more than that I'd never learn to have to do the rest of my life. Anything I'm sorry made for, comfort to have a bit and you're such lucky. Have I forgotten anything"

"Not a thing," he declared "When do we begin"

The thing they launched another buoyantly Jimm decided she was going to enjoy this fair haired, built girl young man whose chief aim in life seemed to Yvonne, was rounding neglected slave. He was amusingly hand-some, a really real to her as an open book, and she was convinced him passed her She concluded he would be madly in his sketches, but already she was becoming accustomed to older men than her "dancing boys" and lovers. John always had appeared older to her than any of if other things she knew, although he wasn't in years. She was astonished recently, at her own ability to be interesting to men who must have served many opportunities of more dazzling riches than her's.

She was still disturbed by that recent supposition of his at their end a time her half-sister in the afternoon She trembled him of it again, and declared that she wouldn't be so rude with him such a had spell for long explanation He was not absolved

"You were such a surprise," he answered last. "Then all the hand girl one meets nowadays seems to be spoiled, that is, too much of the. He had been a little bored by it. I had of the crowd that have slow down into know Fanny, but it has always struck me that the woman should show her daughter goes to the devil Really doesn't go to the devil Fanny has passed through that stage, been to him and found him too of falsehood to be amusing Now you're sure there were no shams in your fairies Are there?"

"Not that you family then aren't and," she said quietly

"Rights! There's a of respect for women. You're a flapper without a show background There's a heap of men who don't realize it. I'm one of them now, I'd put that in a book, or something So it's you'll have to figure it out for yourself. I'm not going to tell you. I thought you were to something different, and I realized think of anything but your beauty, fragile dignified, and I'm glad you're a girl. As a rule they're not so much to look at. They're the same rule Now am I forgiven"

"I never forgive a man anything she declared promptly. It means you don't love me."

"That's your difference," he drawn ered regretfully. "The kind of girl I don't always fall for. I'll always be in love with you as long as you are, is the one who always trying to forget." The was in her mind that she was composed to be a little bored with him, but she had run about something Teddy Donbleday had said to her consider ably, after dinner, that he was going to be hitting it out quite and fantastic the coming year. "No strangler, now" he had said, "but something big, and new and special" She wondered if he was not mistaken for his gun at last as Jimm Fergus

Well just carried on then when we call ourselves friends and get them on the basis of friendship," he said pensively. "We've made progress, shall be here tomorrow promptly at 10 for our first sitting."

"You will not!" Yvonne corrected him. "Mr. Maitland is to me a Mr. Maitland, and I'm to be Miss Fergus. Well see how much progress you make on him. Then you know a man with an ass's head for a sweetheart? Is it some of your fool professors out of those like that?" He reads laughter bubbled through. "I'm not a professor."

"Only a student, my bowels Jo

"Where are you going?" Jimm asked, looking up from the letter she was writing at the writing desk in the corner of the room. "Is anyone else coming?"

Yvonne replied that Ted Maitland and Bandello at least, some pretty good looking, but I suppose they would be better off without me. I'm going to the theatre. Her daughter goes to the dentist Really doesn't go to the devil Really doesn't go to the devil Really doesn't go to the devil

New Judicial District About To Be Created

Will Comprise Territory from Vegreville to Eastern Boundary of the Province—Vermilion Logical Centre for Court House and Resident Judge

Owing to the rapid settlement of the country and the extended areas of the existing judicial districts, the Standard has information to the effect that a new judicial district is under consideration to be established in the immediate future embracing territory extending from just beyond Vegreville to the west to the provincial boundary on the east. If such intentions are carried out there is little doubt but that the town of Vermilion will be selected as the judicial centre, being the most central location The new district would entail the building of a courthouse and the appointment of a resident judge

The claim of Vermilion for this distinction is to be presented to the provincial government at an early date. Delegates are being appointed from the town and board of trade and petitions have been circulated all along the line and among U. F. A. locals with this end in view The attorney general has promised to arrange for a hearing of the claims to be put forward just as soon as the petitioners are ready to present them.

In the event of Vermilion being finally selected as the centre, it is understood that Mayor Fallow, on behalf of the town, has tendered the choice building site immediately west of the town hall to the government in exchange for the present property now held by them on the point of land forming the western extension of what is known as Vermilion street, lying north of the Anglican church. This property was purchased some eighteen years ago by the Liberal government from W. H. Cameron, but has since proved to be unfavorably situated for its original purpose and has shown no appreciable improvement with age. The rise to be offered by the town leaves nothing to be desired and is one of the most central and prominent to be had. The building of a courthouse will add another splendid structure to the fine brick buildings which have gone up in this block within the past few years

Over 3,000,000 Election Vote

Conservatives Polled Highest Number

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 6 That well over three million persons voted in the general elections on Sept 17 last is shown by compilation of returns by the Canadian Press. Complete returns are still lacking from a few large ridings.

Those are Nelson Man which returned a Progressive, Athabasca Bow River and Peace River, three Alberta seats which all returned U F A candidates North Battleford and Melfort Sask which were both Liberal, Qu'Appelle Sask Liberal Prince Albert, Saskatoon Sask Progressive and Cardiac B C which elected a Liberal candidate

Unofficial compilation by the Canadian Press at midnight today from returns received by Mr Meighen and Mr Bennett indicate that the popular vote is to the 250 ridings forty-seven returned Conservative, forty-four Liberal, twenty-four Progressive, one Labor, one Independent Liberal, one Independent Conservative and one Labor Progressive.

Growth Of Wheat Pool Movement

The Canadian Wheat Pool, in less than three years, has enrolled in the largest co-operative organization of its kind in the world. The Canadian Wheat Pool unites the producers in the province of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta in a membership of 120,000 farmers who have signed contracts to deliver to the pool their entire crop of wheat for the next five years. The Canadian Wheat Pool is a business organization of the greatest magnitude, and it is operated on a strictly business basis. Its affairs are managed by a board of directors elected by the members of the pool. The pool controls the marketing of the wheat in such a manner as to obtain the best possible prices for the grain. The pool is not a charitable institution. It is not a philanthropic organization. It is not a political machine. It is a business organization, pure and simple, and it is operated on a strictly business basis.

The pool is not a new scheme. It is not an experiment. It is not a theory. It is a practical, workable plan of co-operative marketing which has been in successful operation in the province of Alberta for the past three years. In that province the pool has handled more than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat, and has returned to the producers of that province more than $80,000,000 for their wheat. The pool has been in operation in Manitoba and Saskatchewan for the past two years, and has handled more than 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, and has returned to the producers of those provinces more than $150,000,000 for their wheat. The pool has been in operation in the province of Alberta for the past four years, and has handled more than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat, and has returned to the producers of that province more than $80,000,000 for their wheat. The pool has been in operation in the province of Saskatchewan for the past two years, and has handled more than 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, and has returned to the producers of that province more than $150,000,000 for their wheat. Germany Now Thinks War is Calculating

International Strife is Insanity on a Wholesale Scale

It was the fashion, only a few years ago, to glorify war and to create in the minds of young men an impression of its necessity. Germany was particularly eagery to give its youth a strong martial spirit and to hold before them military ideals. If Strassmann speaks for his countrymen—and there is no reason to doubt that he does—the Germans have had a complete change of heart. The appalling slaughter of the war have taught them as they have taught other nations that war is too glorious, too attractive, too calculating, international strife is insanity on the wholesale scale. It is of course, natural and right that young men should go to the defence of their country when it is threatened; it is noble to lay down one's life in a just quarrel; but the glory of war can be presented as they can. If the proper state of mind is cultivated, it is the duty of every person to help to bring it to pass.

Strange New Pygmies Found

Scientists say New Guinea Bush Men Were Friendly

In dense mountain jungles never before successfully penetrated by white men, the Dutch New Guinea expedition of Dr. Franz Lorentz's ethnologists has discovered an entirely new group of pygmies. Details of the discovery have been released to the Associated Press as correspondent accompanying the expedition. The dispatch was carried by a wireless message.

Entering a country in which previous expeditions had been decimated by fevers, and hardships, the scientists, after four months of travel, came upon the strange small people living in a village perched above, besmeared in by ancient jungles, cocoons completely cut off from the rest of the Papuan world.

Matthew W. Stirbling, of Berkeley, Calif., one of the leaders of the expedition, described the bush men as unusually friendly.

The pygmies, he said, talked in guttural tones, whispers and seemed afraid of being too obtrusive. They were not timid, but quite intelligent and very courteous to visitors.

"The first thing they did was to give us all a present. The presents consisted of the small bows and arrows, arm bracelets, and necklaces of bone and boar's tusks.

"They raise tobacco, sweet potatoes, bananas and pigs. They brought us a pig and all gathered around to make a ceremony of killing it."

A Wonderful Discovery

Burns Scientists Find Group of Radio-Active Stars

Two Swiss scientists, Doctors Kol horner and Perrault, who have been living in a tent for the last month on the summit of Monch mountain, Oberland, at an altitude of 12,000 feet, making astronomical observations, have made a remarkable scientific discovery. They say they found that certain group of stars send out extraordinary rays of light whose radio active force is far greater than that of sun rays. The scientists hope to explore and employ these rays for a scientific medical purpose. Owing to the cold weather, were obliged to interrupt their investigations and have descended to Interlaken.

Farmers Have Received Patronage Refund

Saskatchewan Farmers Benefit by Pool Elevator Shipments

The distribution of $416,614 as a patronage refund to the farmers who utilized Pool Elevator facilities in Saskatchewan last crop year, will be welcome news. It represents 2 cents per bushel on all grades of wheat shipped through the 59 houses of Sask Pool Elevators Ltd., last season, and 1 cent per bushel on coarse grains. The cents per bushel will be refunded on flax seed, while shipments to pool terminals; and ½ cent per bushel on coarse grains so shipped. Last year's handling charge on wheat being 1 cents, the refund will reduce same to a two cent rate

Claimed By Ireland

British National Anthem and "Yankee Doodle" old Irish Tunes

"Yankee Doodle" is not American at all—it's Irish, according to Dr. Ernest Ian Flood, an Irish authority on musical history. He asserts that "Yankee Doodle" was originally an Irish air known as "All the Way to Galway," "God Save the King," the British national anthem, Dr. Flood says, also is an old Irish tune which originated about 1585 and has been going strong ever since.

Gave Away A Fortune

Man Who Inherited a Million Dollars Disburses Amount in Four Years

It has taken Charles Garland, inheritor of a million dollar fortune, four years of earnest effort to give it away. But he has succeeded at last. His large corps of distributors, known as trustees of the American Fund for Public Service, Inc., have officially announced their triumph and the figures show that only a paltry $1,000 un given or unpledged, is left.

The news comes as a sad blow to many radicals and intellectuals who had hoped to get through their teaching period on a part of the Garland treasure fund.

RUM RUNNING PACT BETWEEN BRITAIN AND U.S.

Washington.—The new rum smuggling agreement with Great Britain, negotiated at the time of Assistant Secretary Andrews' visit to London last summer, has been declared effective as from September 23.

The agreement was made operative through an exchange of notes between the Washington and London governments. While the text of the agreement will be held secret, it is known that it permits a modified search for operation between British and United States authorities by the operation of illicit liquor trade between British and United States territories.

Canada's Ambassador to U.S.

Matter Will be Subject of Discussion at Imperial Conference

Ottawa.—The calling to Ottawa of Canada's proposed Minister plenipotentiary at Washington to the British ambassador will probably be the subject of discussion between Premier King and the British Government when Mr. King goes to London next year. As pointed out by Premier King recently, the appointment of Canada's representative at Washington will also be made until after a discussion in regard to the duties of its new office taking place. No announcement will be made until after the Imperial Conference, but it is expected that Canada will probably be the first Dominion to appoint its diplomatic representative at Washington. It will be the first Canadian minister plenipotentiary in the United States capital, but other Dominions will be sure to follow this example after the precedent has been established by Mr. Bruce Bland and Mr. Massey as members of the Canadian delegation to the Imperial conference, but he is arranging to have London where the discussion takes place.

Date Of By-Elections

Reported Contest Will Be Held on November 22nd

Ottawa.—By-elections for the vacant seats of the new Government will likely have their dates fixed for nominations and the 22nd for polling where the seats are contested. The writs cannot be issued until about the recent election in the affected constituencies are returned, but they are all expected to be issued by that date. After that, a period of about 25 days will intervene before polling.

So far as present indications count, the ministers will not be opposed. The plan is to have all the elections on the same day.

Has Removed Civil Service From Politics

Successful Move in Manitoba Spreading to Federal Field

Winnipeg.—Efforts to remove the Civil Service from politics and to make the standard of work have been successful in Manitoba, and now are suggesting with success in the federal field, according to speakers at a session of the Citizens' Research Institute's convention here.

The reforms instituted, it was declared, are growing more and more popular with politicians, civil servants and the general public alike.

"The old idea of the old saying 'to the victor belongs the spoils,' is passing was the tone from Manitoba—the action of the first shall serve to state," declared a paper by W. J. Phipps, secretary of the Canadian Civil Service Commission.

J. W. Fleming, civil Service Commissioner for Manitoba, explained the general set-up and methods in the province. Manitoba, he said, has had a civil service board since 1912, and has made many changes in the personnel and methods during the years. The board now has charge of the appointment of all civil servants, the classification of positions, the holding of competitive examinations, the granting of increases in salary, the granting of leaves of absence, the promotion of employees, the transfer of employees from one department to another, the discipline of employees, the dismissal of employees, the retirement of employees, the superannuation of employees, the pensioning of employees, the gratuities to employees, the compensation for injuries to employees, the insurance of employees, the welfare of employees, the health of employees, the safety of employees, the working conditions of employees, the hours of labor of employees, the wages of employees, the salaries of employees, the bonuses of employees, the commissions of employees, the fees of employees, the expenses of employees, the allowances of employees, the benefits of employees, the privileges of employees, the rights of employees, the duties of employees, the obligations of employees, the responsibilities of employees, the liabilities of employees, the penalties of employees, the fines of employees, the forfeitures of employees, the suspensions of employees, the dismissals of employees, the resignations of employees, the retirements of employees, the superannuations of employees, the pensions of employees, the gratuities of employees, the compensations for injuries of employees, the insurances of employees, the welfares of employees, the healths of employees, the safeties

TEXACO MOTOR OIL

for Vermilion District

NO MIXING
NO ACIDS

Looking over the few LUBRICATING OIL REFINERIES on this continent, and reading of some results obtained in England with the testing of dry bearings, we read of a test where TEXACO OIL stood a peculiar test for EIGHT MINUTES, where the next best oil lasted for THREE minutes. With this in mind, we sought out THE TEXAS COMPANY of America for a distributing proposition for this district, and after months of waiting, we now have it. The oil is right here for your inspection

After a comparative use of TEXACO OIL, we honestly believe that any cheap car will run over 10,000 with a Winner taking up a contracting rod or main bearing. WE KNOW that we can run a 1,500 R.P.M. tractor motor 'on one spot' for 24 hours without taking up a connecting rod. We KNOW that TEXACO OIL is a better lubricant after three or four days run in a tractor than some high grade oils are fresh from the factory.

We cannot tell you a lot of short hours it takes will not permit. If you want to overcome lubricating troubles, carbon dilution, back pressure and pumping and all the nuisance of motor troubles, USE TEXACO. We can't compel you to buy it but we can ask you to TRY IT.

THE STORAGE OF VEGETABLES FOR WINTER USE

(Experimental Farms Note)

Each fall and winter a greater number of requests are received at the Seed Experimental Station for information regarding the storage of vegetables for use during the winter months.

The storage pit is home-made and out or cellar underneath the dwelling where home conditions as high privacy vegetables may be stored. If a farmer lo in the cellar it is advisable to put ition off a store room to avoid or revolve heat about the vegetables A single thickness of lumber is sufficient for the partition. By opening a door into the furnace room in winter, moisture may be raised during cold periods. When merely an earth pit is under-neath the dwelling the temperature may be kept sufficiently high to prevent frost from during severe weather by the use of a heater or a similar hot-air coal stove. For most vegetables a temperature ranging from 34 to 38 degrees F is most favorable. Root crops such as carrots, parsnips, beets and turnips keep best when packed in moist sand. Cabbage and cauliflower require a circulation of air and are best piled not too deeply on slatted shelves so as to permit of this. Small numbers may be suspended from the rafting by the roots. Celery is conveniently kept by placing in upright boxes and the roots cover ed with sand and kept moist. Onions should be thoroughly dried in the fall to be put in strong and then tied up in bunches and hung up where the air can circulate. Pumpkins and squash demand a high temperature (40-45°) and dry atmosphere with free circulation of air and are usually difficult to store where other vegetables are kept. Potatoes are one of the easiest vegetables to store and are piled in bulk in the enclosure at sufficient previous spouting and the storing on wholesale scale where there is very little waste. Frost is not injurious provided the temperature is kept uniform preferably around 38 degrees F.

FALL MANAGEMENT AND WINTER EGGS

(Experimental Farms Note)

The early fall is the best time to thoroughly clean and disinfect the hen house. Earth floors should be levelled and fresh earth added if necessary. All necessary repairs to the house are best made before the cold weather sets in. Cracks should be filled in, also loosened for the winter. If the house is not equipped with a dry mash hopper and bin for hard grain, the fall is a good time to install them. A dry mash hopper is an essential in feeding pullets for egg production and the small bin for hard grain in the house saves labour in winter since it is not necessary to feed older birds the same as pullets during winter it is a good plan to partition the house in order to provide separate pens.

During September and October, pullets should be fed with a view to hastening them for winter egg production. Nothing does more stimulating feed with a wet mashes and animal protein in the form of table refuse, buttermilk and milk can be fed home or pasture. Hard grain fed morning, and the same a dry mash made up of a combination of two or three meals kept before them continuously in a self-feeding hopper together with a wet mash fed only will promote rapid growth and round the pullets into laying condition. Ten to twelve per cent of animal matter may be added to the dry mash. Meat scraps and table refuse can be dampened and fed with the wet mash. A ration such as the following can be continued after the pullets are housed for the winter. The hens grain should be fed in a litter to scratch during the winter. It is a good plan to feed hard grain sparingly in the morning and give a full feed in the evening. Green feed such as clover, roots, mangels and sprouted oats are of great value as winter feed. Green feed in some form is absolutely necessary when the pullets are first housed. The birds should be carefully watched and if any signs of disease appear, Epsom salts should be given either in the water or wet mash. Birds showing signs of disease should be removed from the pen to specially arranged pens and separately treated. Regularity in feeding and careful attention to details in the care of the birds are essentials in successful production

Vermilion, Alta., Oct. 7, 1926.

A great future lies ahead of this portion of Alberta which will witness a wonderful development during the next few years. The British Isles have practically settled all their holdings to the north and east of the town during their operations conducted from the Vermilion office last year and this; added to this one hundred Hebridean families have also been located on choice areas of farm lands also lying through the same territory and the large tract of country between Vermilion and Wainwright to the south is the latest to receive attention There is stated to be available agricultural lands in this tract two thousand and fifty families and settlement of these is to receive first attention from the provincial government in the policy they are now adopting to bring in suitable settlers. The town of Vermilion has before it a great future and consequently that no surprise not only the most optimistic but even the non-progressive element as well

WHAT SCHOOL FAIRS ARE ACCOMPLISHING.

(Family Herald and Weekly Star)

One of the remarkable developments of the past twenty years has been the school fair and the organization of boys and girls into clubs for various farm projects. When the first school fair was held in Ontario in 1908 it was hardly foreseen that the movement would extend to the country schools in the province and that other provinces should take up the scheme so enthusiastically. It a reason to sought for this success it is to be found partly in the earnest endeavors of the teachers and of the agricultural representatives to promote the best interests of the children. The great impulse however has been from the pupils themselves, who were ready to take up a task that gave them an opportunity for what educationists call self-expression. Test Looks have not the same attraction as the animals and growing crops of the farm. Give the children of a call or a plot or possess the spirit of achievement is stirred in the child. He begins to plan, to seek information and to apply himself on his own account, one of the best means of training for his later life. The school fair, the pig clubs, the acre profit competitions and other activities are all deserving of support from the parents. Many a farmer mind will be given a turn toward practical farming through these early efforts

DEATHS.

Mrs. May Louis Sunderland

Mrs. May Louis Sunderland, late of Dewberry district, passed away at the Lake Manitoba Hospital on Tuesday, October 5th, in the age of fifty-six years. The funeral will be held from her late residence after the arrival of friends from the United States, and burial will take place at Dewberry cemetery.

Charles Reyerdt

Charles Reyerdt, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed pioneer residents of the south district, died at his home on Tuesday, October 5th, at the age of seventy-three years. The deceased had lived here for very seventeen years and always enjoyed good health and was actively engaged in his regular work up to a little over a week ago. Just prior to that he was in town. Funeral services will be held from his late home on the Wainwright trail Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev F J Stevens and interment will be made in the Vermilion cemetery.

IRRIGATION DEVELOPMENT IN ALBERTA
Irrigable Area Under Schemes in Operation Totals 1,293,120 Acres—Location of Projects.

Irrigation on modern lines in Alberta dates back to 1891 when considerable tracts of land were reclaimed by the use of the waters from Bow Creek. In the following year more extensive developments were undertaken and since then there has been a gradual increase in the number of irrigated farms, so that at present the irrigable area under the schemes in operation totals 1,222,120 acres.

The first attempt at irrigation in Alberta was made on Fish creek, about eight miles southeast of the city of Calgary, in 1879. Other attempts were subsequently made but none of the systems constructed at that time seems to have been successful. In 1891 however, Mr. John Quirk, by means of his scheme on the south bank of Sheep creek demonstrated the advantages of irrigation, with the result that a number of schemes were constructed to supply water from that stream.

Work on a larger scale was commenced in 1892 by the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company and so pronounced that the present canal system, now owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway as its section, is serving farmers on some 80,000 acres of land in the Bassano, Raymond, and Lethbridge districts.

By virtue of powers and regional boards created by the irrigation law the Department of the Interior has since 1894 carried out extensive surveys which have resulted in the construction of a number of large projects. In addition to the large projects there are 196 small individual schemes within the province, for which water has been appropriated. Of the latter irrigable area in three-quarter scheme is about seven acres.

Following the success attained by the Bassano system, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1904 commenced construction on what is now known as the Western Section. Water was first delivered to some of the settlers in 1906 and construction was completed in 1910. Practically all of the lands under this project have been disposed of and are being farm ed. Altogether eighteen miles of main canal and 1,351 miles of secondary canals and distributaries have been constructed by the company.

In 1911 the company started the construction of what is known as its Eastern Section. This project is separated from the Western Section at its nearest point by some twenty miles of non-irrigable land.

The lands are fairly well settled and there are already many prosperous farms with substantial buildings and considerable stock. Water is diverted from the line river by means of a hollow Ambursen dam 55 feet in height and 720 feet in length flanked by an earth fill 7,200 feet in length at the east end. Altogether five miles of main canal and 2,195 miles of secondary canals and distributaries have been built

TREATMENT OF BROKEN MARES DURING WINTER

(Experimental Farms Note)

Regular exercise, well-cured and good quality feeds, and the feeding of succulents bulks are the three great aims in the management of brood mares as now fashioned. Experimental Farms Station, Lacombe, Alta. Certainly it is the practice to work all brood mares regularly except when they are nursing young foals. Care is taken that such mares be in the hands of careful teamsters and that they are not subjected to undue strain from bolting or backing heavy loads. Well exercised, though not upland hay is preferred with some change of feeds. Where it is necessary to use oat straw feed it should be well cured and in good quality. Good hay is preferred over grain feed on account of the latter's tendency to cause colic. Succulents are available, it should be included with the regular feeds. Bran added upon the Saturday night which will have a cooling effect on the system over the week end. Do not allow the mare to get too fat. Potassium iodide seems to have an almost uncanny beneficial effect on the foal crop both from the standpoint of general health and vigor, and also in the prevention of joint ill It is the practice to feed this drug one half teaspoonful weekly, or one teaspoon ful every two weeks in the drinking water or feed, or in ill- weekly bran mash, sufficient is most convenient for the feeder. Small doses of this salt for the regular working mares in harness, they should be allowed to run out in the open with a good box shed for shelter from extreme wea ther or storms. Feed good quality roughage, supply plenty of fresh water with salt removed by tank heater; administer potassium iodide in ammonia as above stated and provide sufficient exercise and bran to keep the mares in a good thrifty condition

Hurricane Gives Warning

Barometer Falls and Death-Like Stillness Precedes Storm

Twenty years ago, a storm similar to the recent one that devastated the Florida and Gulf coasts swept down on Pensacola and Mobile with considerable damage not only to those two cities but to the towns and villages for miles around, writes William J. Carr, in the New York Evening World. In such a hurricane there is usually a warning of the impending disaster. Down goes the barometer quite lowever for a certain area and a tropical cyclone, or fifty miles wide. The low pressure causes a perfect vacuum for the winds to rush in from all points of the compass. Air from the areas surrounding the path of the storm rushes in with terrific force, and all the while there is a death-like stillness in the air.

Joint Stiffness Goes, Swellings Disappear, Pain Is Subdued

No Liniment Gives Such Universal Satisfaction As

NERVILINE

It is the real genius or the power of Nerviline that it can be confidently used for nearly every ailment that requires a liniment. Rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, sprains, bruises, cuts, burns, scalds, sore throat, chest colds, pleurisy, stiff joints, backache, earache, toothache, and all pain yield promptly to Nerviline. Its penetrating power is simply wonderful. Nerviline is the best family liniment, because it is the most powerful, the most economical, and the most reliable. Get a 25 cents trial bottle to-day.

No Old Time Salves

Don't use the old-time remedies, such as mustard, camphor or the like, in which the strength is largely lost. Nerviline is so much stronger and more powerful that a little goes a long way. With the passing of salts, liniments have become a new style of medicine and the old and the old-fashioned salts is now only a character of history.

Relieves Catarrh Almost Instantly!

Nasal catarrh clogged up the nose, makes breathing difficult, causes headache, dropping in the throat, sore throat, and often affects the hearing. Nerviline relieves catarrh almost instantly. Just put a few drops of Nerviline in a bowl of hot water, and inhale the steam through the nose. Nerviline kills the germs that cause catarrh, and soothes the inflamed membranes. Nerviline is the best catarrh remedy because it is the most powerful. Get a 25 cents trial bottle to-day.

The Commanding Position Of Our Agriculture

By C. W. Peterson

The average person readily gives an intellectual assent to the statement that agriculture is our basic industry and the "backbone of the nation," but usually without any adequate conception of the fundamental facts of the case. It is a mere figure of speech, it is, therefore, difficult to consider to what extent agriculture has been responsible for Canada's material progress. Farmers per cent of our net production in the last census year was agricultural; thirty three per cent was manufacturing; and our fisheries, mines, construction, etc., account for the remaining twenty-six per cent. The eight billions of total agricultural capital in Canada represents 56 per cent of her total available wealth; it has real private accounts for 52 per cent, our railway plants, 10 per cent forests, 5½ per cent, mines, 2½ per cent and manufacturing equipment 2½ per cent.

It will thus be clear that Canada's agriculture figures largely in her economic life and she pursues as the natural group of her economic resources, and especially as a commanding influence in the credit and business conditions of the country. Our capital of all descriptions might earn 6 per our railways retain good on the farm. If anywhere could go wrong, was perhaps in carrying commodities of a kind back to the farm and the abandonment of marketing and production. Fortunately, not here beside the nation, it appears not such a small the per cent. agriculture of total capital, but the distribution and transportation of such commodities. When be load enough to enlarge upon the importance of economic importance of agriculture in a country like Canada. It is perhaps well within the mark to say that at least one per cent of Canada's total population, in every walk of life, depend absolutely on her agriculture, directly or indirectly.

These are imposing figures and should be of great importance to us on the possible performance of Canadian agriculture were we in the happy position of having a large area in reserve of our agricultural area under a producing basis. If, for instance, we had a million or two more acres of our arable lands, instead of only one-sixth, granting a fully balanced production, the problem of marketing would vanish, never night. The time is ripe for bringing such a situation about. We have the indisposed natural resources, the markets are there, we only need the magnet to draw settlers and capital and labor is purely a matter of intelligent, business organization

Well-Known Home Builder Quickly Restored To Health

Victim of Nervous Indigestion, Loss of Sleep and Intolerable Pain, Father of 9 Children, Finds Long-Sought Relief. Strength Restored. Praises Tanlac.

Joseph A. Brunet, a well-known Montreal building contractor, 2035 Ste. Catherine St. East, says he knows, now, the splendid health of the strong man who will break under the strain of modern living.

"I was suffering untold agonies when I began taking Tanlac. My strength had vanished, I couldn't work efficiently, I couldn't enjoy life as other men did. I had lost weight and was wrecked by habitual pain.

"I was completely discouraged when Tanlac was recommended to me and I took it. I recommend it to anyone who is ailing.

"This tonic worked wonders with me. Quickly my old strength returned and I began to have a great appetite and ate everything without a sign of pain. Once more I have what it was to have a good night's sleep. Tanlac has built up on my feet, given me strength and gain me better health than I've had in years."

Tanlac usually benefits pain. Even when it does not relieve it entirely, in famished bodies it relieves the system of poison caused by constipation, biliousness and sluggish liver. It is nature's own remedy. Made from roots, barks and herbs, according to the famous Tanlac formula.

Buy Tanlac from your druggist today. Ask for booklet telling about it. Begin taking Tanlac. The first bottle usually brings results that will surprise you. Adv. Jour. dune 11—Jan

Canada Takes No Grievance To Imperial Conference

Premier Mackenzie King Will Carry Message Of Good Will And Loyalty

QUEBEC, Oct. 11. — Canada takes no grievance to the Imperial conference, said Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King to the crowd gathered on the wharf here to bid him goodbye when he sailed Saturday night for England. Canada was to be represented at the conference as a self governing nation within the British commonwealth, Mr. King told the Liberals of the district who gave a luncheon in honor of himself and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice who accompanied Mr. King overseas.

The Prime Minister was accompanied to Quebec by Hon. J. A. Robb minister of finance, who will be acting premier in his absence, Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of railways, Senator Lindsmand, as well as members of the official party

May Meet King George

"I am sure we will express your wishes," Mr. King said, speaking at the docks, "when we extend the good will and heartiest greetings of the people of this dominion to the people of Great Britain and the other dominions. It was the custom at Imperial conferences for prime ministers of the dominions to meet His Majesty the King. "I think I will express your wish, should that privilege be extended to me, if I to H His Majesty that

BRITISH LABOR STEERS CLEAR OF COMMUNISM

MARIAETE, Eng., Oct 11—An attempt to re-open the question of an affiliation between the Communist party and the Labor party was decisively defeated soon after the opening of the Labor party's twenty-sixth annual conference here today. The proposal was defeated on a card vote by 2,706,000 to 319,000 This debate was marked by heated words and the first call was received with cheers

ISLAND HILL THANKSGIVING

The community at the Island Hill district held their annual thanksgiving and harvest home service in the school house on Sunday (which is the holidays are observed). The house was decorated with splendid samples of the grain and vegetables grown at the district and visitors from all over the district, people from all parts around the district were present, and samples of wheat, carrots, cabbages, beets and turnips with onions as to. With such evidence of the possibilities of the district the people have no reason to be dissatisfied with their lot in having settled in that district.

The service was conducted by Rev. J. W. Bell assisted by Rev. Mr. Joyce of the First United Church on Vermilion. Mr. Bell has been conducting services regularly during the summer and will do so till the weather prevents it desirable to discontinue for the winter. Rev Mr Kerr gave a very fine address on the work of the United Church throughout the dominion, and made an appeal to the people to do their best to sustain so as not only to build up a good Canadianism but also a real christianity among especially our new Canadians.

The building was well filled, indeed the extra seats, showing the interest the people take in their regular services. Mention should also be made of the valuable and faithful services of Miss Searle, who regularly presides at the

The Evolution Of An Empire

The territories in the Pacific Ocean owned by Japan are of little value to her as colonies, but they are of great importance to her as outposts. Japan has always been a country of limited area, and has always had a large population. Her people have always been forced to emigrate in order to find room to live. Wherever they have gone they have carried their own customs with them. Wherever they have settled they have established communities which have remained Japanese in spite of the fact that they were under the flag of another country. for Vermilion District

NO CLOGGING
NO KNOCKS
NO ACIDS

Looking over the few LUBRICATING OIL REFINERIES on this continent, and reading of some results obtained in England with the testing of dry bearings, we read of a test where TEXACO OIL stood a peculiar test for EIGHT MINUTES, where the next best oil lasted for THREE minutes. With this in mind, we sought out THE TEXAS COMPANY of America for a distributing proposition for this district, and after months of waiting, we now have it. The oil is right here for your inspection.

After a number of years of TEXACO OIL we honestly believe that any cheap car will run over 10,000 miles without taking up a connecting rod or main bearing. WE KNOW that we can run a 1,500 RPM tractor motor for one or two seasons without taking up a connecting rod. We KNOW that TEXACO OIL is a better lub. oil after the motor is begin run in a tractor than some high grade oils are fresh from the barrel!

We could tell you a great deal more, but space will not permit. If you want to overcome lubricating trouble—carbon difficulties, leaky pistons, oil pumping and all the category of motor troubles, USE TEXACO. We can't compel you to buy it, but we can ask you to TRY IT!

Co-operation The Keynote Of New Motor League

Automobile owners of Alberta are now provided with effective and practicable means of furthering their own interests, obtaining protection in the way of legislation, advancing the cause of better roads and boosting up a touring service organization which will offer the same facilities that only commercial enterprise is able to provide at greatly reduced cost.

This new organization is known as the Alberta Motor League and Good Roads association. Its keynote is co-operation. Its benefits and privileges will extend to every part of the province. Its members will be affiliated with the united motor leagues of all the provinces of Canada and with the various automobile associations of the United States.

The Alberta Motor League was finally launched into active organization work at a meeting held in Edmonton recently. Representatives were present from many parts of the province, and all expressed the utmost enthusiasm in promoting the interests of such a unusual service organization. Some months previously, the charter for an association of this nature was obtained by automobile club officers of Edmonton and Calgary and as a result of the recent meeting the league will be formed to be an important factor in the life of the province.

Foremost in the plans of the central union will be the furthering of better highway work in the province. Legislation affecting the interests of auto mobile owners will also be looked after. Emblems will be supplied all members and as rapidly as possible steps will be taken to supply camp maps and touring information report on which a magazine publication is

ALL IS RIGHT WITH CANADA.

President King on the eve of his departure, in company with Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, to attend the imperial conference in England, stated that Canada was making no grievance to that gathering. Canada was to be represented at the conference as a self-governing nation within the British Commonwealth. His concluding remarks on the attitude of the people of this country were particularly appropriate and voiced the sentiment of all Canadians in their loyalty to King and Country.

A MUCH NEEDED ORGANIZATION.

The new Alberta Motor League and Good Roads Association just organized will have plenty of scope for its activities. Its aims and objects, as stated in the article appearing in another column, will be the furthering of better highway work in the province.

VERMILION MINUTES

Regular meeting of the council of Vermilion No. 483, was held in the municipal office, Vermilion, at 7:30 p.m. All the councillors were present and the Reeve in the chair.

Minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

The secretary was instructed to write the municipal hands reserved.

The following compensation for land taken for roadways was authorized: Thos. Bauer, N.W. 1-50-5-4, $10 per acre; Hudson's Bay Co., S.E. 8-50-4, $15 per acre.

The following compensation was offered. C. P. R. Co., N.E. 23-49-4, $10 per acre; N½ and S.E.¼ 7-51-5-4, $10 per acre, and S.W. 19-51-7-4, $10 per acre.

A draft of the proposed new stock by-law was read and it was decided to ask that it be amended so as to allow resident ratepayers the same privileges as owners.

A resolution to exempt municipal property in villages, towns and cities was passed for presentation to the municipal convention.

Cavesl charges were fixed at $2.50 per parcel.

Successful Missionary Night At The United Church

Last Friday evening the auditorium of Vermilion United church was filled with a fine audience to witness what the missionary sketches portrayed by the members of the Women's Missionary Society and their assistants in among the younger people of the congregation.

The first part of the program consisted of a sketch entitled "How Not to Do It," representing a meeting of a missionary society. Its ninth point was quaintness kept the audience in smiles and laughter from beginning to end while at the same time the underlying satire brought home a wholesome lesson never entirely unheeded in any missionary meeting.

The second sketch, entitled "Tired out Missions," touched a tender spot in the hearts of all, being however, depicted in a human reality and incidents because of its moving appeal to the better side of human nature. It would be invidious to select any of the characters for special mention in a program in which each and all acquitted themselves with merited distinction. The whole program was excellent in balance and sympathy of interpretation and the Women's Missionary Society are to be heartily congratulated on the success of the undertaking. During the evening Mr. J. D. Stephens spoke effectively on the work of the junior and senior Mission Bands and Rev. M. S. Kerr outlined the aims and objects of the Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. Heckbert, in the course of the evening, rendered a delightful solo while Mesdames Lane and McNeil sang very sweetly a missionary duet. At the close of the proceedings a free will offering was taken up on behalf of the women's missionary budget. This amounted to the sum of $35. The ladies wish to thank all who helped to make the occasion such a success and also especially to repeat thanks to Mr Geo. McLean for his valuable assistance, to Mrs. Geo. Law, the Rev. M. S. Kerr and to the editor of this paper for sympathetic and kindly cooperation

Threshing is proceeding around Saskatoon. Seventy-five per cent of the wheat is threshed in a district comprising twenty elevator stations east and west

W.C.T.U. FROWNS ON ALL GAMBLING EVEN FOR CHARITY FUNDS

Red Deer Convention Passes Many Resolutions

Several important resolutions were passed at the Provincial W. C. T. U. annual convention held last week in Red Deer.

One recommended the reading of the bible without comment in the public schools, another will request the provincial government to urge the Dominion house to pass legislation making the registration of unmarried couples as man and wife a criminal offense.

Frowns on Gambling

The board of moving picture censors received commendation in another resolution, for work done through out the year in suppressing pictures of doubtful character

The convention went on record as unalterably opposed to all forms of gambling, whether for private or for charitable purposes.

Other resolutions included the decision of the Union to study the peace movement and to ask for the discontinuance of the officers' training corps in the schools and cadet training and the re-affirmation of the W.C.T.U. policy in favor of total prohibition.

Wellsdale Busy Moving Buildings

New Town Characterized by Busy Activities—Steel Expected This Month

(Publicity Department, Board of Trade)

The new town at Wellsdale is the scene of great activity these days as everyone is making preparations to move to the townsite. Despite the disagreeable weather it is expected that all will be settled on their lots within a week or ten days.

An elaborate Roman Catholic church is being built in the town of Dame of Vermilion is the contractor.

J. Mackinnon is building a nice residence and is debating his finally to reside here.

Railway Ave. has been graded by the townspeople for the benefit of patrons; the merchants have also had a town well bored and were fortunate in getting a good supply of water at a depth of only 10 feet.

The Creamery of P. Burns Co., which is locating here, is expected to start building soon.

The four elevator sites have all been taken and the companies, who are now working at Marwayne and Lashburn, are starting construction here.

The townspeople are now enjoying the conveniences of the Post Office which has been moved to town.

There has been evidences quite recently of the presence of the Ku Klux Klan in our vicinity; we feel quite sure now that hereafter, peace will reign in our midst.

The steel, which is at present waiting on the completion of the Vermilion River bridge, is expected to reach here within the month. Its arrival will be greatly welcomed by the entire settlement, which has waited so long for its coming.

SILVER NUGGETS FOUND AT COLD LAKE

J. K. Johnson, Fish Inspector, and R. W. Smith of Cold Lake brought back large silver nuggets from a prospecting tour of several days on the other side of Cold Lake. In 1916 a party of adventurers from the south staked claims there. M. Nykos still advises around Cold Lake say that there is gold and silver in the hills and north of the lake. The nuggets brought in by J. K. Johnson contain 75 per cent silver. St. Paul Journal.

Thanksgiving And Armistice Day On November 8

Special Observance For Actual Day of Ending of Hostilities

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—Thanksgiving and Armistice day will be observed on Monday, November 8. The recent gazette fixes this joint celebration on the Monday of the week in which November 11 occurs.

By a special observance has been suggested for the actual day of armistice. Hon. James A. Robb, acting Prime minister, stated today that in accordance with the arrangements for Armistice day, authorized by his majesty the king, the people of Canada are invited to mark the occasion by two minutes of silence at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, November 11. This is a special observance suggested by H. M. the King and in addition to the regular holiday re-enacted by the parliament of Canada for the Monday previous.

"I COULD DIE DOING THIS"; LAST REMARK

BLACKBURN, England, Oct. 20.—"I could die doing this" exclaimed Joe J. Tomlin on diving for dead men at a Charlestown with his flames. In the minute around he collapsed and died within five minutes, owing failure.

Wet Majority Piles Up

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 20. The people of Norway have voted against the continuation of prohibition. Up to a late hour last night the vote in the capital had been cast in favor of the measure by a majority of 2,000. Returns from the country districts are coming in slowly, but the majority in favor of the measure is expected to be increased to 10,000.

"ALL BLACKS" PLEASED WITH NATIONAL SERVICE

When the New Zealand Rugby Football Club, better known as the "All Blacks," crossed Canada on their way to play a series of games and best matches against the best clubs of England are. When they chose the Dominion Their enthusiasm with Canadian sports provided for all travels on Canadian National railways expressed in the following letter written on board one of the boats used by the "All Blacks" by G. H. Brooks, financial manager of the team.

May we take this opportunity of thanking you for your splendid arrangements for the comfort and convenience of the wonderful New Zealand "All Black" Rugby touring team that recently had the privilege of crossing Canada on your railways.

We wonder if you could impress upon your staff the appreciation in which they are held and shall endeavor to do all we can to recommend to all our friends in New Zealand to go on tour through that the Canadian National Railways stands for service. Efficiency and Personal Enthusiasm on the part of all the officials. Again thanking you for all that you have done for us and sending our greetings on behalf of New Zealand. Etc

The Grandeur of Work

Some very significant statements appearing recently in the newspapers and magazines are worthy of repetition as pointing a moral to all individuals, communities and nations.

Several of the articles comment on the rapid and strong "comeback" started by Germany. Following the closing of the peace treaty the German people turned themselves bodily to the work of rehabilitation in a business-like and whole-hearted way. Work is the only thing that will do it. Work is the only thing that will do it. Work is the only thing that will do it

RED CROSS TAG DAY

Saturday, October 30th will be the annual tag day for the purpose of raising funds for the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross. The branch is in need of financial assistance and with the approach of winter demands will be made upon its meagre resources and which must be replenished very generously in order that these demands may be adequately met. The branch is doing a great deal of work in the way of distributing clothes and supplies and relieving to needy families, but its good offices are limited because of lack of funds. This lack may work a great hardship when, if resources were on hand relief would be quickly granted. The executive are therefore appealing to the real Reds of the town and district of Vermilion to be most generous in their offerings on the 30th. There is no worthier cause and even a contribution is made the donor may feel assured that it will mean a blessing to some child or stricken mother.

There is a membership fee of $1.00 to the Red Cross. Everybody is town should be a member of the branch send along your dollar to the secretary-treasurer, Mrs H. P Long, and help join in the grand name of a leading relief to suffering women and children.

MRS. GEO. L. HUDSON, who will sing at the Columbia Theatre on Nov. 1

Fine Programme Arranged For Band Concert

The concert to be given by the Vermilion Citizen's Band on Monday evening, November 1st, promises to be a real musical treat, no effort has been spared by the director, Wm. H. Elford, to make the occasion of outstanding musical event.

The band has been through a period of strenuous rehearsal, and a most ambitious programme has been prepared. Among the band selections to be played are Hermann's stirring overture "Le Timdeme," and Bowman's famous "Southern Melodies"—in both of which the Band will have an opportunity to display the progress that has been made since its initial appearance in concert work last fall.

The programme will be varied by vocal solos by Mrs. C. L. Hudson and Frederick J. Stevens, and violin selections by Frans Curtis.

Mrs. Hudson's superb artistry is well known to Vermilionites, and her reappearance on a local platform after too long an absence will be eagerly looked forward to.

The tenor soloist, Frederick J. Stevens, is a newcomer to the musical talent of Vermilion. Those who have been privileged to hear him record his exceptional ability both as a vocalist and violinist will be a valuable asset to the town's musical activities.

Frans Curtis, the gifted violinist, has already established an enviable record for himself by his masterful interpretations, and local audiences will have learned to expect much from this artist.

The programme is timed to commence at 8:30 p.m. and reserved seats may be obtained at Long's Drug Store.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, Saturday, October 16, 1926

Wheat Pool Final Payment

Alberta members of the wheat pool have been paid their final payment during the past week. This brings the total payment to them on the 1925 wheat crop to $1.43½ basis, basis Vancouver, allowing for all deductions for pool purposes. The Alberta pool handled more than 45,000,000 bushels of the 1925 crop, compared with 20,000,000 bushels of the 1924 crop.

Homestead Areas Filed On

Nearly 200,000 acres of homestead land have been taken up by new settlers in the province under areas reserved by the Edmonton agency in the nine months since the beginning of the year. The total filings were 1,249, including soldiers grants, as compared with 731 filings for the same period in the previous year.

Completing Graveled Highways

A completed graveled highway from Edmonton to the International boundary by the end of 1927 is a possibility, according to the program of the provincial highway department. The completion of the graveled highway from Edmonton to Calgary will be carried out next summer, and the completion of the road south from Calgary to the boundary, some of which has already been graveled will be made next year too, if possible.

School Fairs in Alberta

More school fairs will be held in Alberta next year, it was announced at a conference of government officials, fair directors and agricultural school principals, which was held in the provincial buildings. Thursday. The plan is to be developed and enlarged considerably, and it is expected that 100 events will be on the list for 1927, an increase of 15 over the present number. Great interest has been taken in the school fairs this year, it was reported, notwithstanding the fact that bad weather kept down the attendance somewhat.

Good Price for Land

Edith Harris sold a fifty acre strip of land in section 21 south of Wetaskiwin, Alberta, to Bert Sims for $75 per acre this week. The land is unimproved and in good shape for crop next spring. This land was purchased by Harris three years ago for $25 per acre and has paid for itself this year almost in that time.

Big Mortgage Man's Convention

More than 100 financial men from across Canada, representing financial assets totalling more than two billions of dollars, met recently in Edmonton in convention, this being the 14th annual meeting of the Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association.

Alberta's Sale of Bonds

Sale of Edmonton south of Alberta bonds to a New York firm was consummated recently by Premier Brownlee and Provincial Treasurer R. G. Reid, at a price of 97.75 yielding an interest rate of 4.56% per cent., which is, according to the present condition of the bond market, was deemed to be an exceptionally good price.

More British Boys Coming

Increased interest has been taken in Canada by British boys in the agricultural colleges of the province, inasmuch as Principal Hoadley, that more of them are coming this year. It is expected that between 65 and 75 of the boys will be distributed among the three agricultural schools at Olds, Claresholm and Raymond this year. Twenty of these boys are now on the way and the balance will follow shortly. The responsibility for the training of these boys in farm duties during their first months' training will be taken over by the Canadian Government Department of Immigration and Colonization, the boys having been done hitherto by the Provincial government. The boys come to Canada under the assisted passage scheme of the British Government, and the province undertakes to train them at the schools of agriculture. In addition to their training the Canadian government, the Provincial Government is arranging to have the boys spend a week on some farms in the vicinity of the schools during their course so train-

Many Pupils For Agricultural Schools

More than 500 students for the Agricultural Schools of the province are now in sight including the British boys who will go into training here the coming winter. The schools open at the end of October, and Raymond school, which has been closed for some years, will re-open this fall also.

To Extend Family Settlement Plan

Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration, To Seek New Agreement

WINNIPEG, Oct. 20.—The Ottawa correspondent of the Manitoba Free Press says: "Hon. Robert Forke, minister of immigration, announced today that his department would seek to extend the family scheme to settlement when the present agreement covering 3,000 families has been completed.

"Already in two years nearly 2,000 families have been brought out and more than 200 families, he announced, have been approved for settlement and would come out in 1927. It now appears as if the full 3,000 would be brought out next year, when, as Mr. Forke announced today, a new agreement will be sought.

"In my opinion," said Mr Forke, "it is the best work we are doing. We are not yet in sight of the return flow point. We still have plenty of land in the soldier settlement area and in districts where we cannot supply land the Hudson's Bay Company and other private companies are co-operating in a very satisfactory manner."

VALUE OF A LAUGH

A laugh is just a little sunshine,
It freshens all the day.
It flips the pearls of life with light,
And drives the clouds away.
The soul grows glad that hears it,
And feels its courage strong
A laugh is just like sunshine
For helping folks along.

The Opportune Moment For Immigration Effort

By C. W. Peterson

It is clear as daylight that the psychological moment for a country to launch a comprehensive colonization campaign is when her agriculture has definitely entered the upward swing. Western history and the experience of those who have been in close touch with colonization work there, point unmistakably to the fact that failure on the land is the greatest obstacle to the efforts of the various agencies devoting time and money to furthering immigration into Canada. It is also a trite saying, but in strict accordance with the truth, that the successful settler is our most effective colonization agent. Inasmuch as every upholder both of the immigration and land policy of Canada can speak with confidence of the field with a view to effort in largely augment her producing population and with the added assurance that in no period of her history was the opportunities more favorable for getting the fullest possible value for her expenditure in that object.

The time is favorable for a great forward tasking colonization and agricultural development policy, because agriculture is undoubtedly now in the process of evolving an era of greater prosperity. It is estimated that the world area of 12 million square miles of arable land and that it takes 2 acres of land to provide each head of population. This would provide no less than two billion people. It is estimated that at the present rate of increase the earth's would be reached well within a century, so that had no land been would witness the strange sight of mankind for bare existence on whole acre of land in part of existing crop failure. Of course, such a calamity will be averted. The present world wide shortage in fats rate is mainly a protective.

Agriculture the world over has declined throughout the trade, owing to directive agency of the law of supply and demand. The farmers have, in consequence, to take her, her security cadre suffered through demoralized prices due to an oversupply of agricultural products. But the situation is now upon us—the pendulum is swinging the other way, and we have definitely entered an era when food prices of all kinds will command a premium in the world's markets. It should be cleared to argue that in the face of constantly rising commodity prices, which will be maintained through the organization of industrial labor prices of the basic necessities of life should decrease. I repeat that agricultural returns for the coming half century will rise to an increasing by satisfactory level. This tendency is well on the way even now.

This prediction is not visionary It has a definite, historical background which, briefly, Canada's great staple exports, more or less, the controlling factor in all agricultural prices The cost of production of every staple that has prevailed until the last couple of years cannot be regarded as to 1913 as a model. Canada now enjoys a virtual monopoly of the sole remaining world-shaped hard wheat zone for wheat should, and previously did will, command a considerable premium in the world's market. Europe can produce only a limited quantity of imported wheat annually She now produces 80 per cent of the entire wheat supply, and 20 per cent of the bushels. She imports only about 20 per cent consequently, the European crop that usually is the controlling factor in world wheat prices. Because for every bushel of overseas wheat that reaches the world's bargain counter two bushels of European wheat must be sacrificed, and there is a very distinct limit to the ability of the European peasant to sell his products because of his low standard of living. It will do and prices will go up table from the economists of the wheat situation there is nothing in history to warrant the belief that prices will not remain permanently on the satisfactory basis of the last two years, which will ensure reasonable agricultural prosperity to Canada for years to come.

Germany Will Participate

Germany will participate and have official representation in the world's poultry congress, which will be held in Ottawa in 1927. This information has been related to the local committee by Edward Dewes, congress president.

Is Good Quarry Manager

British Woman Says It Is Very Fascinating Occupation

Mrs. Anne Greaves is Britain's only woman quarry manager.

"It may seem that quarrying is a strange business for a woman, but why shouldn't women run quarries?" asked Mrs. Greaves. "Of course I have a foreman and plenty of men workers to assist me, but I go into the quarries myself and inspect the seams and direct the methods to be used in getting out the road and gravel. Stone has become so expensive that I have developed a plant which makes artificial stone and is doing a good business. I find quarrying is a very fascinating occupation.

Prussians Eating Horse Meat

Not From Choice But Economic Conditions Make It Necessary

More than an ounce is held a week Prussia today than at any other time in history, not excluding the war period when horse was a delicacy and the ration was little other meat available.

The Ministry of Agriculture reports that the increased consumption is not due to a great relish for horse steaks, but to official measures to combat famine. The consumption of horse flesh increased 20 per cent this year over the corresponding period in 1925

A Youthful Cabinet

Premier One is Youngest of Any Since Confederation

An Ottawa writer asserts that the King cabinet is the youngest Canadian cabinet since Confederation. That is, the ages of its eighteen members average less than those of any other. The average is 53 years, the age of the premier, Mr. Bolde is the oldest minister and he is no patriarch, being only 57. The baby of the cabinet is Lucien Cannon, Mr. Cannon is three years older than Sir Wilfred Laurier was when he entered the Mackenzie cabinet in 1877, and six years older than Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper was when he entered the Macdonald cabinet in 1888.

JOSHUA, ISRAEL'S NEW LEADER

Golden Text: Be strong and of good courage; . . . for Jehovah thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest. Joshua, 1:9.

Lesson: Joshua, 2:1-16:20, Joshua, 1:1-9.

Devotional Reading: Proverbs, 2:1-8.

Explanations and Comments

Joshua, appointed the successor of Moses: Numbers 27:18-20 Every prophet had an authority, and Joshua had been the attendant of Moses. We have it shown that by Ex. 17:8-16; 18:9; 24:13; 32:17; 33:11; Num. 11:28, 13:16; 14:6-9; 27:18; 31:7; Dt. 1:38, 3:28; 31:3. As Moses was one of the spies sent into Canaan from Kadesh thirty eight years before this, he must have been at least sixty years old when Moses died. He was a real military leader, just the man that was needed to direct the fighting in their occupation of Canaan, and also Moses was about to turn over his command to Joshua as his successor. The Lord's spirit, manifested to carry on what was to be done in Canaan, and was still in Moses, was now transferred that the name "Joshua" is but the later form of the name "Jesus."

When a man and woman have the spirit, they can work on the job. We can get on Jehovah's day God can get on with our inspiration. A man with one talent and the Spirit can accomplish more than a man with ten talents without it. A frail wire, pervaded by electricity, can do more than massive cables without it. And yet we go on multiplying our wires and our talents, and we call the pile up organizations, and neglect the Spirit. That is the great mistake of the day. For it is the prime necessity of a new revival and effectual life." (Dr. J. H. Jowett)

Bladder Weakness Remedied by Gin Pills

Buffalo man recommends them for kidney and bladder trouble

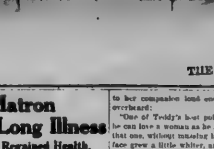
Gin Pills bring you quick relief from urinary and bladder troubles. They soothe the kidneys and bladder and get rid of that burning sensation; the frequent desire to urinate is overcome; brick dust deposits disappear. You can again enjoy comfort by day and sound sleep by night. Thousands of people are relieved of bladder and kidney troubles every year. Read what George F. Dunbar, Buffalo, N.Y., says of Gin Pills:

"I suffered from bladder weakness and frequent urination. I had tried many remedies but got no relief. Then I got a box of Gin Pills. I did so, and after ten or half a box I was entirely relieved. I now recommend these pills to everyone suffering from kidney and bladder disorders."

If you have headaches, backache, sore neck, pain in the kidneys, dizziness, frequent urination or swollen joints, Gin Pills will correct them. 50c a box at all druggists. The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Canada.

Popular Montreal Matron Recovers From Long Illness

Montreal Woman Tells How She Regained Health. Trouble Caused by Nervousness and Stomach Disorders Quickly Relieved. Says Tanlac Deserves All Credit



Thousands of men and women suffering from a generally rundown condition, will get a new ray of hope and cheer from the experience of Mme. Joseph Letort, 446 Chambly Street, Montreal, whose quick recovery from a long, wearying illness aroused her closest friends. If you never feel quite up to the mark, if you are fagged out, you'll be glad to hear about Tanlac and what it did for Mme Letort Here's her story:

"About two months ago, I realized that my condition was far from good. I had spells in which I would tremble all over, and I would feel so weak I could hardly stand. I suffered from nervous headaches and would be very sick at my stomach. I was very nervous and unable to sleep

"I was advised to take Tanlac and the first bottle brought such great relief that I kept on taking it. I am now on my fourth bottle and feel like my old self once more. My nervousness and headaches have disappeared, my stomach is better than it has been in the morning feel rested and refreshed. I can eat any meals I like and get up about the housework with vim, and energy. Because Tanlac has done so much for me, I take pleasure in recommending it to all."

Mme. Letort is only one of thousands who have found happy relief from pain and gained new strength by taking Tanlac. Why not heed their advice. Keep well, keep youth and health—take Tanlac. Get your first bottle of Tanlac from your druggist today and see how much it will help you.

CHAPTER XVII

John

To make Joanna's appearance a dramatic entrance nicely stage managed, evidently was an impromptu passion of Yvonne's. Joanna had expected nothing of the kind. She walked, unsuspecting, in her white and gold best dair Yvonne had said "Give them time to decide who to be for," and who. Then the few in whom you will be most interested will take form in time.

When a maid, hurriedly posted to catch Yvonne's signal, informed Joanna that she was expected, and hurried down the stairs from the upper floor and onto the balcony, from which the grand staircase descended, she was still framed in the doorway when she realized that the people in the great room below were looking for her. Joanna, their faces uplifted.

She caught her breath. A hand descended on her throat. She would have drawn back, but instantly realized that she was "on into Yvonne's caught her glance and with a nod reassured her.

The exhilaration leaped through her stilled pulses. The carnival spirit of the scene seemed to envelop and encompass her. A new ecstasy of happiness quickened at her finger tips in her toes and into the vibrant warmth of her. This was life to be desiring, symbol of the potentialities for ideal of which her life was to be forever shaped. These people, people of her own world, were waiting down there to welcome her among them. Her eyes found Yvonne's and clung to them.

The people in the great room below were walking to her. Joanna held Yvonne's gaze.

"Now!" she thought. It all as if she had been born to masquerade. Having worth unlimited. It was not Bodkin's habit to exhibit over a woman, even of her profession. Indeed he was a man of such powerful virtues that even what would have stigmatized as vices in others were overlooked in him. He

CANADA ADDS NEW GRAIN PORT

Alberta Wheat Loaded at Prince Rupert for Markets of the World

PRINCE RUPERT, Oct. 21.—Canada today added a new and important grain port to her maritime facilities when at the rate of 50,000 bushels per hour the Dominion Government Elevator recently completed here began loading with Alberta wheat the S. S. Aden Mara, the first ship to have this port carrying grain to the markets of the world.

The Aden Mara will take 9,000 tons of grain to Europe by way of the Panama Canal and as she proceeded to her wharf at the elevator, another Japanese steamship, the S.S. Tatsuta Maru entered the Prince Rupert drydock and ship-building plant to be fitted for immediate grain service from the port.

The Alberta Grain Pool has the new elevator under lease and has arranged for a continuous supply of ocean tonnage, the Canadian National Railways handling solid grain trains from the Province each day to keep the million and a quarter bushel grain handling plant running to capacity. Although the initial shipments are going to Europe the entrance of Japanese shipping interests into the commerce of the port marks the beginning of a large interchange of traffic with the Orient and Swedish tonnage to ply through the Panama canal to Europe is now on its way here.

The City Council and the Board of Trade tonight (Thursday) entertained the captains and officers of the two Japanese vessels at a banquet and the Japanese Society is also acting as host. Capt. Hosho emphasized the geographical advantage that Prince Rupert enjoyed in being four hundred and fifty miles nearer the Orient than any other North American port, a saving of three or four days' time on a round trip. He had found satisfaction in the port entry and aids and the repair sanitation and dockage facilities all that could be desired. He congratulated the Dominion upon the creation within the span of a few years of so complete an organization

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL NOTES

Although Registration Day proper was not until Wednesday, October 27th, some thirty-five students had registered by Tuesday evening. Many of these, taking advantage of the Rawlinson, came across country by car.

It is expected that, by the end of the week, nearly all of the students who intend taking the winter's course will have arrived. The attendance will be the largest in the history of the school—in fact when papers were filed for the future work of this institution

Additions in Home Economics:
Miss M. Bell
Assistant in Agriculture:
Mr. J. Hopkins

Mr. L. H. Foster, of Edmonton, will succeed Mr. F. W. Cormack as Dairy Instructor Mr Cormack intends remaining on his farm for the winter

Dates for social functions have been planned for the balance of the year, as follows:

In the matter of accommodation for resident students, there seems to exist some misunderstanding as to just what amount of space may reasonably be expected by each boy. The reason for which the student pays is in need of a study room as well as a bedroom. It usually is only when they find the latter are not provided that they make any complaint. Even for study purposes, however, the accommodation is by no means ideal. The Principal has in mind the erection of a new building, to contain a study room for each student, and a number of bedrooms, but this will not be possible for some time to come. In the meantime, the Principal is doing his best to make the best of the present conditions.

As soon as time permits, a number of new buildings will be erected. These will contain a dining room, kitchen, and a number of bedrooms. The Principal is doing his best to make the best of the present conditions.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL NOTES

Although Registration Day proper was not until Wednesday, October 27th, some thirty-five students had registered by Tuesday evening. Many of these, taking advantage of the Rawlinson, came across country by car.

It is expected that, by the end of the week, nearly all of the students who intend taking the winter's course will have arrived. The attendance will be the largest in the history of the school—in fact when papers were filed for the future work of this institution

Additions in Home Economics:
Miss M. Bell
Assistant in Agriculture:
Mr. J. Hopkins

Mr. L. H. Foster, of Edmonton, will succeed Mr. F. W. Cormack as Dairy Instructor Mr Cormack intends remaining on his farm for the winter

Dates for social functions have been planned for the balance of the year, as follows:
November 5th: Staff Reception to Students.
November 19th: Complimentary dance on the part of the Staff and Students to the resident of Vermilion and district.
December 22nd: Closing Dance.
Further announcement with regard to the dance on November 19th will be made later.

INCREDIBLE VALUE

Reports from all points of the compass indicate that the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is the biggest value in agricultural journals in the country this year. In spite of the country-wide agricultural depression, the Family Herald and Weekly Star has maintained its position as the leading agricultural weekly in the country. It has a circulation of over 100,000 copies per week, and is published in both English and French. It is the only agricultural weekly in the country that has a circulation of over 100,000 copies per week. Edison Changes His Attitude

Says He Now Believes in Life After Death

Thomas A. Edison, after varying degrees of skepticism on the question of immortality of the soul, has made known his belief that the evidence is in favor of life after death.

In an interview published in the November Forum, the inventor admits to new reasons for trouble in the psychic realm, and believes that a group of scientific minds can obtain where the observations far more accurate than at any time since the advent of modern astronomical methods.

For the next few months the scientists will concentrate their attention on the so-called "canals" of Mars, about which the dispute over human habitation is revived. One school of scientific thought contends that these geometric lines on Mars plausibly could be canals built to obtain water from the polar regions to irrigate an arid planet. Those who discard this theory declare that the "canals" are merely an optical illusion.

A model town is developing up in Manitoba at Fort Alexander, where work on the new mill of the Manitoba Pulp and Paper Company is being pushed to completion. It is expected that the mill will commence production in November.

A town is being built to house the mill employees and accommodation is also being provided for light, water and sewage systems have been installed and the town laid out on the most modern lines. In addition to houses, the company has built office buildings, stores and a motion picture theatre.

First Twopenny Post Lacking in Dignity

Not Considered Good Form to Use it For Private Letters

Protests at the humiliation of having trade advertisements stamped by the Post Office on correspondence may now recall the days when postal communication of any kind was considered a little lacking in dignity. According to Louise Courtney in her reminiscences she says that "when the London twopenny post was first established it was not thought to make use of it for private letters. I remember my father's astonishment when a stupid footman popped a letter to Sir Robert Peel instead of sending it by a private 'fly' or even on less importance," he said, "to send a letter to a man like Sir Robert Peel by post." Invitations and their answers were always sent by hand."—Manchester Guardian

Mountain Peak Easily Reached

People of Vienna Use Suggestion Railway to Avoid Long Climb

The fortunate people of Vienna are now able to enjoy the delights of mountain air on a peak 3,000 feet above sea level within little more than two hours' journey from the city, one of the lands of the Alps, and at holiday times the call of the mountains is strong among the city folk. The Rax Alpe, a journey of 110 minutes from Vienna by train, has 146 paths to its summit known by the feet of countless travellers.

The trouble is that the climb takes the average person in the ordinary way, but to get over this difficulty a suspension railway has been built up the mountain side. So supposed that opinion after spending a month in the interior of the province exploring and taking motion pictures to bolster some of their bills in the legislature.

The Planet Mars

Scientists Will Endeavor to Discover if Planet is Inhabited

Observations now are under way at the Greenwich Observatory which may definitely prove or explode the theory of human habitation on Mars. Not since 1856 has the planet been in a position so favorable for scientific study.

Although Mars is 6,000,000 miles farther from the earth than it was two years ago, the fact that it will be visible 32 degrees higher in the sky, where the atmospheric handicap is thinner and consequently clearer, will make the observations far more accurate than at any time since the advent of modern astronomical methods.

For the next few months the scientists will concentrate their attention on the so-called "canals" of Mars, about which the dispute over human habitation is revived. One school of scientific thought contends that these geometric lines on Mars plausibly could be canals built to obtain water from the polar regions to irrigate an arid planet. Those who discard this theory declare that the "canals" are merely an optical illusion.

The Community of a "Cop"

Police forces are much in the article of public criticism, rather quick by they become noted for their failings or their virtues. In the lives of the man whose beat they walk they become something of an Nemesis. They fall sometimes to discern the human realities of the policeman as beneath the stern mask of the disciplinarian; qualities that have made the Metropolitan "cop" a British by-word, the New York "Coppers" for their quick good humor, or the Paris gendarme for their tact.

Incongruously, there has been more than one "down and outer" who has found in the London police, his human side to be observed almost any day standing at the entrance of the Canadian Pacific Railway offices, Charing Cross. Nearby he is a member of a smaller constabulary in Montreal—the Canadian Pacific Police—whose services endeared they exceed their daily duties. From the great risks of humanity of cosmopolitan Euston Station, to the quiet Home Counties, not a small part is of immigrant children. They rush the check room and the information office on to the town. Sometimes they have little money and what they have is soon spent. Meanwhile the policeman on the beat, and station will go to almost any lengths and incur the most fatuous of expenditure on relief, to preserve this previous asset intact during the hours of comparative stress, in the hope of the unemployed population being ultimately absorbed in agricultural districts.

The colonization problem in Canada is not in any sense a close parallel with the Irish Free State case of occupation, but a direct financial interest in its effective solution. If everything goes well the country would presently study the effect of an increased producing population upon its own fortunes, we would speedily realize a favorable mass opinion on this subject.

Performed During Fast

Man Climbed Highest Mountain in Scotland on a Motorcycle

Up Ben-Nevis, Scotland's highest mountain which has an altitude of 4,406 feet, on a motorcycle, was the feat performed during fast recently accomplished by two men. In order to prove the practicability of the ascent by cyclist obtained written credentials from climbers who have previously performed itself a good hill-climber, and here its burden to the mountain top in a record time. Considering the fact that the accomplishment may be had when it is mentioned that the bridle path to the top is in a bad state of repair, and great difficulty was encountered when the washed-down gravel beds, which have been deposited on the path, were crossed. When the base was reached it was found that the gear brake had been practically worn through.

Heavy Postage on Parcel

Carried by U.S. Air Mail Had $150 in Stamps

What is believed to be a new record for high postage paid on a single parcel was established at Philadelphia when a package was sent from there to San Francisco by air mail carrying $150 in stamps.

Postal regulations prohibited clerks from divulging description of the package, its contents, or recipient, but the parcel was neatly covered with $1 stamps. The total postage necessary for the enclosure is $4 a pound.

The package went to New York and then by boat westward.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

A Business Governor

Lord Willingdon Will Keep Office Work Separate From Vice-Regal Life

Lord Willingdon, the new governor-general of Canada, has announced that he will be at his office at the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa daily at eleven o'clock to transact official business.

The significance of this announcement lies in its novelty so far as the Ottawa observers of the comings and goings of the governors most their opportunities but little. They have been in the habit of looking on official documents sent to Rideau Hall, the official residence. That practice entailed some loss of time and a observance word when speed was a factor.

Lord Willingdon's departure from the accepted routine augurs well for the person to inject business methods into an office which many people regard as more ornamental than useful. There is nevertheless, quite a lot of work devolving upon the governor-general in connection with affairs of state. His signature to documents is essential. According to the new regime, no official will be permitted to transact with him who knows where to find him. He does not mean to be "dictated to" by those who would like to make decisions of the details of his office. That is the way most efficient executives do things. It is a good sign.

THE EVILS OF STRONG DRINK (WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY)

Golden Text: At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder. Proverbs 23:32.

Lesson: Proverbs, 23:29-35.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 5:1-6, 10-12

Explanation and Comments

A Picture of a Drunkard, verses 29, 30. In a series of questions the writer of the verses gives us a vivid picture of a drunkard. "Who hath (or) Who hath Alas!" He knew literally all for the words translated woe or sorrow are interjections. Woe and sorrow come — everyone knows, or will, before long, find out, also them for himself. Who hath contentions? Who hath complaints? (remainder embroils men in quarrels and strife. Who hath wounds without cause? Drunken men come to blows over nothing, often knowing why or wherefore. Who hath redness of eyes? Bleared eyes are one of the conspicuous signs of the drunkard.

They that tarry long answers his own questions; "They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek out mixed wine." Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise." Wine, in wine, meeting to test its qualities." (The Septuagint.)

"Whether or not the world would be vastly benefited by the total and final abolition of all intoxicating drinks seems to me not an open question. Three times I am satisfied I can affirm it with the best of them, and I do from the bottom of my heart."—(Abraham Lincoln).

Introduces New Sport

Diver Succeeds in Travelling Five Miles Under Water

Just to show that swimming the English Channel is not the only sport, Miss Evelyn Norfolk diver, walked across the bottom of Hampton Roads from Old Point Comfort, Virginia, to the Norfolk naval base, a distance of about five miles. He completed the unprecedented jaunt in two hours and forty one minutes.

Except for weakness in the legs and a numb feeling in the head and shoulders, Evelyn appeared none the worse for his feat.

Seated in a huge diving suit with leaden shoes aiding and carrying eight additional pounds of lead strapped around his body to hold himself down in heavy pressure depths, Evelyn slid into the water at 10.40 a.m., and despite many obstacles including an old ship anchor in which he became entangled, forged ahead and completed his trip at 1:25 p.m. A launch with an air pump accompanied him.

The majority of the men were, only fairly Especially those, who knew and had personal acquaintance with Joanna's self-reliant ways, and who assumed that she would run common adoption of one phrase, "I wish my wife were like you, now!" Those in general who had not been privileged to see that he was an attorney representing "some of our very large industrial" enough to be considered a magic in a state that competed with the one she had left, in Pendleton, and who had been both a opponent and a friend of Joanna's father.

As he brushed his response to her banquet and reunion youth, Pendleton Dillon, a man of about his own age, probably was forty-two look of thirty, and who seemed, in contrast with his own prosperous appearance, to be but very happy. Joanna was always followed by him loved Joanna thought she would like Mr. Dillon's wife very much, and that Mrs. Pendleton, she gave him an unspecified acknowledgment of his "if my wife were like you, I'd have been really so enjoy being in love."

"Haven't you ever talked that over with anyone? Just for example, Mrs. Mackie?"

Offense relaxed in his face himself stole; but the effect of his was laughing up at him so brightly that he was indulging.

"It is true, little boy, we seem usually to meet me for tea, he pressed "that's none-sith reason that we have confidences to exchange. Perhaps forget everyone else, for the minute you have given me."

Joanna's face told him what he left him with a parting rally. A man later she timidly touched Mrs. Pendleton on the arm. "You don't mind, will you," she asked Pendleton's wife "If I say that I want to know you better?" Mrs. Dillon's face Mr. Pendleton and I were good

"I wanted to, Jo," he said simply, "particularly because a he has been hard for me to put off telling you how sorry I am for the thing. I thought when I heard, of the unnatural thing that happened to you I should have known better, but I just couldn't believe it would have come before tonight; but you wouldn't let me, you know, and now, of course, I know why I thought a thing like that. Joanna, you're quite sure of you, that I would not be alone here?"

"You're going to be all right," Joanna complained. "Won't you kiss me, first. You haven't had to me, John, for a long time now, day and days if seems. And I don't want to be fooled on tonight."

Perhaps he would but realized her, if he could. Further he would be low indeed who could have withstood the appeal of the almost child in her plaintive plea to be honored and fondled. Joshy gathered her to him and held her there, her head pressed against his breast—her old trick when sometimes a touch a protector.

Suddenly he put her away from him, and, with his hands on her shoulders, looked over his shoulder. When she saw how white his face was she understood that he had heard, while they were locked in each other's arms.

"Joanna's Dad, as I guessed, "you have tried to conceal it from me, but I have tried to see it differently, but that's the way it is. When I came here, tonight, I thought we would have our hours together. I didn't know I was to be an awful like this! And that you, Joanna, should be the one to have in the very midst of the act of doing you like that this you so well."

"Then you don't like me happiness?" Joanna said, with a little sob in her voice.

"I haven't said anything of that meaning," John declared. "I want to politics of it. In the world so much a matter of politics that it is impossible to avoid it. OPERATION LEFT HER VERY WEAK

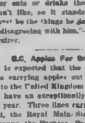
Letter Tells of Wonderful Relief After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Cornish, Ontario.—"After a severe operation and a three weeks' stay in a hospital I returned home so weak that I was unable to move a chair. For four years almost constantly I suffered untold misery until I thought that there could not be any help for me. I had such severe pains in my back I could hardly stand upon my feet. One day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and as my nerves and joy the pains in my side left me completely and I am able to do all my work without help. I am a farmer's wife, so you see I can't be idle long. In all, I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of the Compound Tablets, two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and have also used the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. L. LAMBSHEAD, Box 104, Cornish, Ontario.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS AN EXCELLENT REMEDY

For Any of the Many Minor Ailments of Infants and Young Children

No mother can expect that her child will escape the ailments to which baby flesh and childhood are subject but she can feel sure that Baby's Own Tablets will relieve them promptly and safely, and so make baby's battles for health easy ones.

Nearly all the minor ailments which baby suffers from are caused by disorders of the stomach and bowels, and these the Tablets will speedily relieve. Among the common minor ailments which they will relieve are colic, constipation, indigestion, simple fevers, colds, sore throat, and simple diarrhoea. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Was Postponed Flight

Port Yarmouth, the French settlement on the Bay of Fundy, which was founded in 1604 by Champlain, is to be a Harvard monument for all time to the first settlement on the North American continent. Plans for the commemoration of this city, in whose streets it has been for generations unsafe to walk on account of the pigs that roam at will, are being made by the Province of Nova Scotia in co-operation with the Dominion Government. The Lieutenant-Governor of the province will be chairman of the committee in charge of the celebration.

Stories About Famous People

London Theatre Manager Has Entertaining Book of Anecdotes

In an entertaining book of reminiscences Sir Squire Bancroft, the London theatre manager, tells a quantity of good anecdotes about famous people he has known.

One, which we think has been printed before, is that which Browning, the poet, had him at Longfellow.

The two poets were once dining opposite the London streets, in a hansom cab when a heavy shower set down upon them. Longfellow insisted upon, forsaking the cab, in order that he may be the read of the storm, and the driver might protect himself from the rain which he did. That is precisely what you might expect Longfellow to do—a kind hearted gentle gentleman if ever one lived.

Another entertaining story he has that the famous actor-manager Sir Henry Irving was once entertaining at dinner Sir Philip He was always eager to hear what anyone called this "Arthur" of the Masters. He was one evening, when Irving was in one of his best moods, and Sir Philip, who was a bit bashful, would not venture to ask May he, I wonder, would recount his tale to-day?

The third actor in the party was Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, as a result of the conversation, stopped the flow of Irving's reminiscences by asking him to tell Burwin's story. Irving, who was always ready to tell a story, complied, and told it with great gusto.

Burwin, it appears, was a Scotsman, and he had a habit of saying "Ah, mon!" at the end of every sentence. Irving told the story in the broadest Scots dialect, and it was a masterpiece of its kind. Sir Wilfrid, who was born and bred in Quebec, and who knows no Scots, was convulsed with laughter, and Irving, who had not intended to tell the story, was delighted with the success it had achieved.

An Ancient Piano

One of First to Reach America Exhibited at Mississippi Fair

The Mississippi State Fair at Jackson contained not from it but a hundred-year-old horrible discovery. It was a piano said to be one of the first ever to reach the New World, still in a condition reminiscent of the Mississippi flood.

The instrument is the property of Mrs. Cunningham of Taylor, who was quoted in from Miss Rena Lee, a descendant of this city, in whose family it has been for generations. Miss Lee's great-grandfather, Jesse Lee, a Methodist minister, brought the piano to Mount Lebanon from Georgetown, South Carolina, in the year 1800. Mrs. Cunningham, who is also a descendant of the Lee family, is the present owner.

The piano is still in a fair state of preservation, though the ivory keys are missing. Its case is of mahogany, and the legs are carved in the shape of lions' claws.

Little Helps For This Week

Catarrh and Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome

If you have catarrh and are troubled with deafness, ringing noises in the head, dizziness, or a stuffy feeling in the head, you should know that these are a source of daily discomfort and that there is a way to relief.

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane and the inflammation is caused by germs. Hyomei is a germicide and when breathed through the mouth kills the germs in the air passages and relieves the inflammation.

Hyomei is breathed through a pocket inhaler which comes with every outfit. Just a few breaths of Hyomei and you feel its soothing, healing influence. Hyomei is guaranteed to relieve Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Neuritis, Neuralgia, Headache, Pain, Toothache, Lumbago

Vermilion, Alta., Oct. 28, 1926.

With the exception of a sharp warm shower of rain Sunday evening, the weather for the last week has been fine. Threshing is now in the last stages and several outfits have pulled in. The land is in excellent shape for plowing and most of the farmers are making good headway in the stubble fields.

LEAVE PROPERTY ALONE.

The standard wishes to throw out a friendly word of warning regarding the celebration of Hallowe'en. No one desires a repetition of the wanton acts of last year which resulted in the destruction of considerable property; besides the town is guarding against its possibility by the swearing in of a number of plain clothes men who will be vested with the full powers of a police constable in the enforcement of law and order. If parades are contemplated let them be of a fun-making nature, and above all things leave other people's property alone. There is enough scope for all in innocent amusements

A GREAT CAUSE AND A GREAT NEED.

A special appeal is made this week by the Red Cross for funds to carry on their noble work in the interests of humanity. Only once a year is a day set to raise funds locally for the Red Cross and on Saturday, as has been previously announced, willing workers in the cause will be seen to solicit contributions from each and all. It is not the intention to solicit on the worthiness of the cause or its monetary needs in furthering its great work of this is the relief of pain and suffering suffice to ask that this annual appeal be met with a liberal response

INCREASE PAYMENT FOR BEETS

The announcement by the Raymond Sugar factory management that the guaranteed price for sugar beets would be raised $1.00 per ton to $7.00 ton, for next year's crop, is expected to act as a stimulus for an increased acreage in the beets next year in the irrigated district

BRITISH BOYS AT VERMILION SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

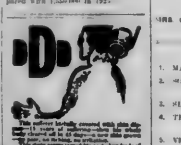
It was announced last week that the Irish Immigration Board has completed plans for training British boys at three of the agricultural schools in Alberta, would be established this year and that from 50 to 70 of the boys would be placed in training at the schools at Olds, Claresholm and Raymond. Although the Raymond school is being reopened this year for the first time since 1922, none of the British boys will go there but they will be distributed over the schools at Vermilion with a and Claresholm. The Raymond school was included in error in this connection

HEAVY YIELDS OF GRAIN

Some heavy yields of grain are being reported throughout the province. At Claresholm it is reported by the Lethbridge Herald that G. A. Walker, M.L.A., has threshed 25 bushels an acre from 16 acres of wheat. A field of 42½ bushels is reported from 155 acres on the Thompson Co farm at Spring Coulee, this being second pre-emption Marquis. Turkey Red winter wheat on the farm of Armour and Prindle, in the Ready-made Irrigated district near Lethbridge, yielded 72 bushels to the acre. One irrigated farm near Taber reported 51 bushels to the acre. At Champion, a field of 47½ bushels on one farm was reported with 100 bushels of oats to the acre

INCREASED WOOL CONSIGNMENTS

According to an announcement by the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers of Toronto, there will be a considerable increase in the wool clip handled by the co-operative from the province of Alberta this year. The estimate is 1,500,000 lbs. as compared to the co-operative for this year, compared with 1,250,000 in 1925.



This advertisement is placed with this illustration in the hope that it will be clipped out and mailed to us. Then we will send you, free of charge, a booklet telling you how to make money raising rabbits on the backyard plan. Address your letter to the Secretary of the Rabbit Association of Canada.

URGES ALBERTA'S CLAIM

Premier Brownlee has since more urged Alberta's claim to the appointment or a representative of this province on the Vancouver harbor commission, when the re-organization of that body takes place. The Premier has taken the matter up with the Dominion government

Last Friday the Masonic district of the grand lodge of Alberta held their annual meeting at Vermilion, when over one hundred brethren attended from Edmonton, Fort Saskatchewan, Lamont, St. Paul, Elkhorn, Mannville, Vermilion and St. John's, Vegreville, Mayor Hobbs along with local brethren met the visitors by train at the station on behalf of the town. Past Grand Master S. Y. Taylor of Calgary represented the grand lodge, and was accompanied by the following: Dist. Dep. Grand Masters Geo. Stewart, Vermilion; Milner, Edmonton, McGregor, Elkhorn, and J. S. Reid, Vegreville. Grand Tyler P. Fielding was also present. R. W. Bro Stewart was in charge of the gavel. The afternoon session was given over to examination work and questions and the evening to election of next year's district deputy grand master and address by Past Grand Master Taylor and D.D.G.M. Stewart, winding up with a sumptuous banquet.

Eleventh Crop Report

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton. October 23rd, 1926.

The occurrence of adverse weather conditions, bringing heavy rains and snow throughout the province, during September and early October, which brought harvesting operations practically to a standstill, made it difficult for the Department to issue definite reports. Now that conditions are more favorable, and the province has experienced a spell of good weather in which threshing has been rapidly carried forward, the Department feels it is possible to issue a statement with some definiteness as to yields and general crop results.

The outstanding feature of this report will be the definite statement that the unfortunate weather recently experienced has not had the disastrous effect which might have been expected on the wheat crop. In fact, it may be said that once more Alberta grain has demonstrated its capacity for weathering adverse conditions while in the stook

The prospect is that Alberta will yet realize its earlier expectations of surveying the second largest crop of wheat. While there has been some reduction in yields by adverse weather conditions, the real damage has been to quality, which has been lowered from one to three grades. The heavy unseasonable precipitation followed by frost not naturally has had this effect. The damage from sprouting has not been as large as reported earlier.

With respect to yields, it is now possible to make a somewhat definite statement, although obviously any statement made now is subject to revision when all returns have been received. However, sufficient returns are now in, which, together with the general information available to the Department, establishes that the province has harvested a greater crop of wheat than last year. The Department expects the average yield throughout the province will be in the neighborhood of 19 bushels an acre. It is even possible that the average will be shown to be slightly higher than this when all returns are in. On a total acreage of 6,375,000 acres, the province would therefore have a total yield of wheat of 119,225,000 bushels. The largest crop produced in the province was in 1923 when 114,000,000 bushels were produced.

In the few districts in the province where the crop has been light, the yield will average as low as seven bushels to the acre, while in others at least two crop districts will average around thirty, while the Grande Prairie country (one) early returns shows evidence of having harvested the heaviest crop in its history, with yields averaging somewhere between thirty individual yields of wheat are being reported and returns show that thirty and forty bushel yields are not uncommon in many parts of the province.

The province's crop of threshed oats will be very light, this crop having suffered severely from the adverse conditions. A shortage of seed oats is therefore anticipated for next year. This will be reflected, consequently there should be an abundance of feed throughout the province.

In the south the corn crop has not been up to expectations. The sugar beet crop promises well, and will yield a heavier return to the farmer than the previous season.

There has been considerable new breaking this year and more fall plowing than usual. A fairly large increase in winter wheat acreage is indicated. With the abundance of fall moisture, and the opportunity afforded by the present fine weather for fall plowing, the prospects are encouraging for next season.

Live stock conditions. It is reasonable to state that, in view of the anticipated higher prices for grain, and in view of increase in dairy products and other branches of agriculture, the general returns from agriculture will be higher than in previous years.

A National Literature

Greatness in a nation is to be found in something more than its might as a military or naval power or in its vast possessions or financial strength. Industrial development, its world-wide trade and commerce. True greatness is to be found in something more than even the health and physical fitness of its people. Its greatness depends upon their possession of that quality which we call character. Real greatness in a nation is to be found in things of a less tangible nature as revealed in the sentiment, the spirit, the inherent character of the people. In these are to be found the spirit of a nation.

The expression of character or a people the soul of a nation is reflected in its literature. Its poetry of prose, its attitude towards religious questions and its standards in art are all substantial and artificial.

The greatness of Britain is seen as truly in the works of Shakespeare, Milton, Burns, Tennyson, Scott and Burns as it is in the deeds of John Cabot, John Frobisher, Wellington, Nelson and Clive. Indeed, it has been said that the intellectual strength of a nation is the inspiration of its material greatness.

Canada's literature is not yet what it should be. It has a noticeably deficiency in the number of its writers of fiction. Its poetry is not comparable with that of the old land. Its literature is not yet what it should be. Its literature is largely a reflection of the spirit of the people. It is a banner under which Britishers are marshalled in the battle of life. It is a means of spreading the ideals of the nation. It is a medium for the expression of the people's aspirations, ideals and standards. It is a means of recording the valuable achievements of their warriors and statesmen, their poets and authors, their orators and artists and their work. It is a means of preserving the traditions of the past and of handing down the cherished ideals of the present to the future.

Canada's literature is largely to be found in the form of its newspapers and periodicals. Its literature is largely ephemeral in character. Its literature is largely confined to the reading of the people. Its literature is largely confined to the reading of the people. Its literature is largely confined to the reading of the people.

Canada's literature is largely to be found in the form of its newspapers and periodicals. Its literature is largely ephemeral in character

LOCATES SITE OF OLD WESTERN FORT

ELK POINT, Alta., Oct. 28—A professor from the University of Alberta has now last week and located the site of Fort Heely about a quarter miles south-east of here. Fort Heely was built in 1682 by the Hudson's Bay Company. There is little to be seen on the spot except a slight depression where the stockade stood, and a pile of stone and clay which was the chimney. It is intimated that a monument would be erected to mark the spot. The Fort was abandoned 161 years ago.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS ON BEHALF OF RED CROSS

The Red Cross Executive Committee wishes to thank Mr. Cooper in most kindly published in his list of bottles referring to Tag Day which yield of our society, $17.50 following girls: Misses Ferguson, Dahley, Eagles, Hodgins, Lucas, Cameron, Pearkman, Elvanne Wells, Florence Craddock, Eileen Baker, Margaret McKenzie, Helen Baker, Rose Stephens, Jean Baker, Ruth Carlene McIntosh, Nan McConnell, Connie Cash, Corinne Gibbs, Mary Monson, Charlotte Elliott and Miss J. W. Johnson, also all those who helped to make it possible to realize the above substantial amount.

Ethel P. Long, Sec'y. Treas.

Through carelessness with bottle and lack on the part of those privileged to use their ability in an emergency as farmer on the district recently ... tained a heavy loss. As W. Jackson was threshing the last load of wheat on the farm of J. H. Towell machine, of town, the straw stack took fire, owing to matches going through the separator. Could help have been secured when the fire started, the loss would have been comparatively light. A few days later—threshing operations had stopped by rain—help was secured and the grain moved. It is found to be no hands burned nor smoked as to render it almost a total loss. Contributed by A Sympathizer.

Enrollment At S. of A. Large

The School of Agriculture, Vermilion enrolled an even 90 students on the first day of registration. These boys and girls, ranging in age from 16 to 27 come from widely scattered districts, being north of the Wainwright (via Hardisty) line. There are no less as many more students registered, but they are prevented from attending on account of harvest conditions this fall. Special arrangements are being made by the staff so that students coming in late may readily catch up with the class. Applications are being received every day from both boys and girls, who are finishing up fall work.

The Government reserved the top floor of the Imperial Block as a dormitory for girls, but this has been filled to overflowing and a second large house has been secured in which the girls are under the care of the Domestic Science teachers, but all eat in the same dining room. Needless to say, this adds much to the comfort and enjoyment of the girls taking the Domestic Science course.

The School is enjoying the largest enrollment in its history, and, when all have arrived, will likely be very full. There is, however, still room for those who may finish fall work within the next ten days.

District Girls Win Honors

Annie sanderson or Islay has been awarded the Bronze Medal in the Vermilion Inspectorate for the position in the highest marks in the June Public school leaving examinations conducted by His Excellency, Lord Byng of Vimy, governor general of Canada. The medal was won on the district published honor is 12 years old in Mainwright Inspectorate. The Bronze Medal was won by Marjorie Dale of Islay. I guess at Tofield who was a pupil at Battle Creek school. To both these young students, the wonderful record of heartiest congratulations on their outstanding success.

Reginald Frank Stone

St. Catharines, Ont.—During my first expectant period I was in very poor health, was very nervous, suffering from morning sickness, bad backache and abdominal pains. I was as miserable as could be. Then a friend I learned of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and after I began taking it I got along fine; I relieved me of the morning sickness, pains and distress during my last labor and was able to be up and around strong. Was able to do my own work the remainder of the time. I experienced very little suffering and have a fine healthy baby, who has never had a day's sickness except slight colds. I feel very glad to know of a medicine so valuable as the "Prescription" proved to be.—Mrs. Reginald Stone, 61 Highgate Ave. All dealers.

Stronger Material For Paper Money

United States To Use a Mixture of Cotton and Making Dollar Bills

The American dollar is to be made more durable—and cotton is the secret.

The rapidity with which worn out paper money came back worried the United States treasury. It used to cost about $4,000,000 a year for replacement alone.

So the Bureau of Standards was put on to the problem. It was discovered that the relative weakness of the bills was due to the ink. Since then a portion of the paper Mixed with about 25 per cent of cotton fibre, the bills will last much longer, according to the experts who conducted the tests.

The new $1 bill will not only be handsomer, but more useful

Premiers Will Act For Talking Films

Have Privilege Of Censoring Same If Not Satisfactory

The Dominion premiers are following the example of the British cabinet in consenting to act for the films, and steps are now being considered for each of the overseas premiers to be filmed by the new talking film process. Each of these will make a ten minute speech on Imperial questions, and when these pictures are shown on the screen, the speakers will be delivered simultaneously, both talking and sound recorded on the same film. The premiers have the right of censoring these films: if they feel they do not do them justice.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS ARE OF GREAT VALUE

To All Mothers Having Young Children in the Home

No other medicine is of such aid to mothers of young children as is Baby's own Tablets. The Tablets are the very best medicine a mother can give her little ones during the drawn-out teething time because they regulate the stomach and bowels and therefore relieve constipation and indigestion, prevent colic and diarrhoea and banish sour colds and simple fevers.

Concerning Baby's Own Tablets, Mrs. John A. Patterson, Keatch Vill, P.E.I., says: "I have six children, and all the medicine they ever get is Baby's Own Tablets. I would say nothing else for them and can strongly recommend the Tablets to all others."

Baby's own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What Use Lead Pencil

Ballots Used In Elections Not Good If Marked in Ink

A Montreal Judge in an election recount rejected a number of ballots because they were marked in ink. He did so in accordance with the law, no doubt, which provides a pencil and requires that it be used in marking the ballots.

There are those who see but little sense in such provision, especially in these days when so many people carry fountain pens; but the law had a purpose, no doubt, in making it, and when the law requires that ballots be marked by pencil, and provides the pencil, it should not be considered a great hardship to follow the rules.

Take Of Heroine

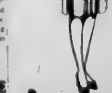
Radio Operator and Engineers and Fireman Stay Winding Ship and Perish

Tales of heroism on the part of the engineers and firemen and the radio operator are related by the twelve survivors of the crew of 35 of the British freighter Eastrey, which went down off Bermuda in the recent hurricane.

The radio operator, R. James, was in his post, repeating his wireless call of distress and went down with his ship. Likewise, the engineers and firemen refused to make an attempt to enter the single remaining lifeboat and went to the bottom with the craft.

The survivors praised the ship-master, John Patterson, Keatch Vill, P.E.I., says: "I have six children, and all the medicine they ever get is Baby's Own Tablets. I would say nothing else for them and can strongly recommend the Tablets to all others."

Baby's own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.



The Two-piece Frock Holds Its Own

Superbly simple, as are all of the sports frocks—and becomingly youthful. A charming version of the two-piece mode, developed in striped velvet and the outstanding fabric of the season. The student collar—the contrasting cover of covered buttons that fasten with loops, and two cunningly placed pockets are details that make this model one of the most correct for sports, but smart and appropriate for street or afternoon wear. The effect is joined to a body lining and boasts inverted pleats in the centre front and side seams. The Simplex No. 1411, in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. A Permanent Agriculture

By C. W. Peterson

Canada faces a great social problem, namely, to make country life much more attractive than it has been in the past. Great progress has been made in that direction during the past decade. The motor car, good roads, the rural telephone and the radio—radio—all have made conspicuous contributions. The farmers through their co-operative institutions and by their own, unaided efforts, have taken mighty strides towards increased, rural prosperity and contentment. The urban people of Canada should, however, assiduously cultivate "agricultural mindedness" and feel a sincere sympathetic towards the efforts of the countryside to live the fuller life. That way only lies the path leading to a permanent agriculture. At present rural life is two generations behind the urban community in living conditions and the spectacular drift to the cities constitutes a demonstration against present inferior conditions of farm life compared with urban existence.

The sarcastic railing about the "back-to-the-land" farmer "back-to-the-buggy" should cease. We should, on the contrary, rejoice over every new farm unit and be thankful for every additional farm home getting away from the agricultural slum status through the agencies of transport and taxation. Unfriendly criticism of this nature has its moral effect upon the unemployable and does its part in encouraging the drift from country to town, inevitably followed by seasonal unemployment with its demoralizing effects on a lower wage scale and the further expatriation of our splendid, young manhood, material for the finest and considerable hardness of the unproductive period and the cost of education.

Better farming, better stock-feeding, and often impatient, attitude of town towards countryside cannot fail to further improve the notorious, political drift away from rural problems and towards centralization upon the many complexities of urban life. Instead to the complex civilization of modern times, even if you never cared much about listening to it. Do not to make my point. The rather I want is one that can't be bought. You can't give it to me like you would a birthday present. But you can see from yours."

She looked at him from widened eyes. His words set her own calm She was not hurt, a She had been this night at Mrs. Juliana when John replied her. He was not doing that sort of thing again. Now he was quiet to, suddenly taking himself out of her life, or rather thrusting her out of his

A wild impulse to run up-stairs mimic herself in a check and run into the street with his thrilled her for a moment and then lapsed into the dead weight within her.

"But John," she said, "I love you I was always. Should you? Who must you have such a thing to me? You must you choose me, not as much as I changed me?" It interrupted her.

"That's just it. It wasn't change. I was the only honorable way out of a mixed and puzzled job. This sort of thing was not for any one to play at in the end. It is not the background for a girl, no matter how good she is and I believe she is. I still believe she is good. You will stay good in a long as you can. I shall always have always loved you

"But you want me coming back you won't accept things as they are and come back to me?" she asked.

"If you still want me, when I have made my own way, and have money of my own, I will be wanting you," he said, slowly. She seemed to realize and understood what he really meant. "You mean," she said, "that you will wait me though, even, as you say, no matter what I shall have become, by then? Isn't that it? He would've and he nodded.

"Was it because you think that I should be drab and a till joy and go into a shell and hide myself when some prudish chaperone is satisfied that I have enough clothes inside of me and enough false shyness inside of me to make it out, for her to take me out for a walk to a church yard, that you spent more than an hour shut away in here with Yvonne." She doesn't walk about with her eyes on the ground and her mind on the purities of the ill- didn't you suffer all alone with her—"

"Are there talking of you," he replied, shortly

"Yes," she retorted, her eyes narrowed a bit, "there's a lot of it. I've roamed me into the winter garden just a little while ago, and up to the whole time talking of his wife." She knew that she was being utterly foolish and childish, and irrelevant. But, still, she wanted John explained. For some reason he thought it necessary to explain

"Then I told her I was going and wanted to say goodnight, as I should, she brought me in here. Before I realized it I got to telling her how much I do love you, and why I can't have you. That was all.—She told me, of course, that I was a fool. She is one who would think so."

"And so am I John," Joanna told him, quickly.

Kenilworth opened the door. When he saw that Joan was there, still there, he would have gone away and closed the door behind him. Joanna called him back.

"Mr. Wilmore is just leaving," she explained, eyeing John, coolly. "And I don't want to go and dance and have fun. I want you to stay in here and talk to me."

It would have been an awkward moment if Roddy had been one ever to be at a loss to meet any situation. His boldness seldom failed. He glanced her and said good night to the younger man with an ease that cleared the atmosphere. He and John danced and Joanna did not get up from the couch. She held out her hand to him and when he drew her to the piano at her fingers about his and held them for a moment There were no words between them.

Roddy went over and gently closed the door, which John had left open and, as he turned over across the room, he had dropped onto her arm. She had drawn her knees under her. As Roddy sat down he saw the slow smile of pride that was in her face, weighted at either end with two precious bits of magic. And he knew that one end of the scale was slowly dropping. He wondered which end would be the heaviest.

Without a word, Joanna rose. Her lithe figure on the couch straightened and rose. Roddy knew how the senile had changed in Joanna. Her poise was now, and almost regal. There was something in her face that was startling else defiant and dangerous in her

"It wonder," she asked him, staring him with a challenge, "whether that is what he had not caught before. "If you would think me very silly if I should say that I am sorry, now that he is gone?"

His answers was the obvious one. And it was obvious. Also, that he would be a fool to show it. The would have had her yet to his fears for her and to his fears that she would be some other kind of fool. She realized that it would all be useless She would never be content with less than everything, either out of the world she had suddenly become or

NOVEMBER 1

THE FALL OF JERICHO

(Golden Text: This is the victory that hath overcome the world, even our faith. 1 John 5:4.

Lesson: Joshua, 6:12-20

Devotional Reading: Psalm. 66:1-9.

Explanations and Comments

I. Directions for the Capture of Jericho (vv. 1-5). Now Jericho was strictly shut up because of the children of Israel; none went out, and none came in. The Israelites had crossed the Jordan bearing at the head of the marching hosts the ark, the symbol of their religion, and their coming had struck terror into the hearts of the people of Jericho. The latter received strange directions as to the silent conquering of the city. "Ye must not cry-o," Joshua commanded the people, "nor let your voice be heard, neither shall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you shout; then shall ye shout." The hardship was not in marching around the city, but in the doing it day after day without result. Yet the consecutive days of marching were the preparation for the seventh day with its shouts of victory. To many people their faith is after every such test is steadfast. Thirty-ten per cent of all the attendance are liable to be place on Monday. May we not infer this to be because the discouraged begin cannot face another week life all those that have proceeded it? Are not the previous weeks are a preparation, a discipline, for "the good success" that will be theirs who persevere in the life wherein God has placed them

II. Marching (vv. 6-14). Jericho was built on a hill, and was surrounded by a double wall. The outer wall was about six feet thick, and the inner wall twelve feet thick. Houses were built on the wall, and the space between the walls was filled with houses. The city was thus a fortress of great strength. The Israelites had no weapons of war, but they had the ark of God, and the trumpets of rams' horns. The ark was carried by the priests, and the trumpets were blown by seven priests. The armed men marched before the ark, and the rear guard followed after the ark. The whole army marched around the city once each day for six days, and on the seventh day they marched around it seven times

TEXACO
MOTOR OIL

Take a tabeful of Texaco Motor Oil and let it stand in a glass of crushed ice and salt for twenty minutes. The temperature will go down to about zero. Invert the tube. See how freely Texaco flows at this cold temperature.

THE FIRST TEN SECONDS CAUSE MORE ENGINE WEAR THAN MANY MILES.

The first few hundred revolutions of your engine on a cold day are a critical test of your motor oil.

The first few seconds of speedy skidding while warming up the engine and oil may cause more wear than many miles of driving.

If the oil does not circulate freely and instantly, the metal to metal contacts have a rapidly destructive effect. It is unwise and expensive to use an oil that will not stand the cold.

TEXACO MOTOR OIL flows readily, doing its duty at the first turn of the motor regardless of temperature, preventing this cause of any wear

BIRDS OF WESTERN CANADA

A volume of unusual public interest has just been issued by the Victoria Memorial Museum. This is a copiously illustrated work on the "Birds of Western Canada," by P. A. Taverner, ornithologist of the museum staff. It contains 330 pages of text matter, 315 text figures and 84 coloured plates, and is larger and fuller than "The Birds of Eastern Canada," published a few years ago. It contains full descriptive matter for distinguishing the different species of birds, notes on the nesting habits and distribution, and in many cases with interesting and vivid description setting forth the life histories and habits of the feathered creatures. The numerous illustrations are of the kind that illustrate, and many of the coloured plates are excellent reproductions of what in their class may be considered real works of art.

This volume should be in every school room of Western Canada. It is one that no student of natural history or bird lover in Canada can afford to be without. It is sold in boy by paper covers at seventy-five cents, and can be had on application to the Director, Victoria Memorial Museum, Ottawa.

A BRIGHT BOY

One of the big auto tire companies of the States recently offered a prize 4-year college scholarship for the best essay on the importance of good roads. And, believe it or not, the winner, 16-year-old John Texaberis, of Honolulu, Hawaii. We believe most every one will be glad of a chance to read what John wrote. He says the two chief points in his essay:

"The farmer is the basic member of society. He feeds the world. Upon his prosperity depends the prosperity of the country. The bakery makes the bread the farmer grows. Without the wheat; your factories make no cans, but it requires the farmers to sell them. Hence the good roads lead from the farm to the railroad station, from station to factory, and from the factory back to the station and the homes everywhere. Highways make possible the interchange of products. They are the links in the great commercial chain. Without them we are isolated communities; with them, we form a nation."

Gave Program Of Uniform Excellence

The concert given by the Vermilion Citizen's Band at the Columbia Theatre last Monday evening provided an appreciative audience with a musical programme of uniform excellence. This was the first concert put on by the Band for which admission was charged and the enviable reputation gained by the Band was shown by the large house which greeted them on Monday evening.

The Band never played better than it did this evening. As a musical aggregation it is attaining a standing worth while. Among the more ambitious numbers Herman's Overture, "Le Diademe," and "A Hunting Scene" by P. Bucalossi, were exceedingly well rendered. In fact every number given by the Band gave pleasure.

Mrs. G. L. Hudson, soprano vocalist, who is well known to the people of Vermilion, sang in her usual delightful manner. Her voice was heard to splendid advantage in her first number, "Time Was I Roved the Mountains," by Herman Lohr, and she gave a beautiful interpretation of this solo. Musical shading made of the captivating success given by Mrs. Hudson which quite caught the fancy of the audience.

The other vocalist on the programme, Mr. Frederick J. Steggen, who is comparatively a newcomer in Vermilion, possesses a well-modulated tenor voice at most pleasing quality. The finished and artistic manner in which the solos were rendered was most satisfying.

Mr. Franz Ugrits gave two violin solos in his usual capable and brilliant manner. The "Faust Fantasia" displayed fascinating technique and the necessary exhibition of power required by the composition.

It is worthy of mention that this programme was not too long as many of such programmes are. It was just the right length and judging by the comments of various persons after, was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Mr. W. R. Elford, conductor of the Band is to be commended on the musical progress which the Band is making.

St. Saviour's Consecrated

Bishop Gray of Edmonton Conducted the Special Services

Special services were conducted at St. Saviour's Anglican church on Sunday last by the Bishop of Edmonton. In the morning the church was consecrated, being free of all debt, and in the evening the Bishop confirmed a class of candidates prepared by the rector, Rev. F. J. Stevens, who assumed charge of this field in April last. Large congregations attended both services, the sacred edifice being filled to the doors.

It was the day to which the congregation and friends of the church had looked forward to with longing eyes, and one which will always be looked back to with joy and gratitude, for the heavy debt carried by the parish ever since the building of the church had been removed. This end was only consummated through the earnest, painstaking and often times self-sacrificing efforts of the congregation, both past and present. The thanks of all interested is not only due to its present wardens and vestry but also to the incumbents, wardens and vestries of the past, who through their efforts, with the co-operation of the congregation here, little by little, perhaps slowly but none the less surely, pulled the debt down to the present happy status.

The church is completely furnished—its new curtains added a bright and colourful color, also the new marble font—the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Meers—who have ever been friends of the church. The font is to be mounted on an oak base which Mr. Payne has kindly consented to do. The new oak pulpit just erected with its beautiful brass desk, all given to the glory of God and in memory of the late Mrs. Ard by Miss Ard, O.B.E and her brothers in loving memory of their step-mother. To the same family is owed much of the early past finances of the church building and many will remember the time when Mr. Ard, Jr. lived in the district. The beautiful altar was given by Mr. and Mrs. Bateman. To all other friends the Church owes its grateful thanks.

It is some twenty years ago that the first Anglican services were conducted at Vermilion by the Bishop of Saskatchewan, then Archdeacon Lloyd and part of the time has just been handed over to Bishop Gray of Edmonton

Invents Flying Apparatus

Australian Says Perfected Machine Will Cost $300

Wings 9-12 soon adorn the least capable of men, says M. Lutech, an Australian inventor. It is credited with building an apparatus to be worn by the individual which will enable every one to do a certain amount of flying in comfort and safety.

The machine consists of a pair of wings moved by an improved motor which, although extremely light in weight, supplies a surprising amount of power. The first model weighed eighty pounds, and lifted the inventor clear of the ground and enabled him to move, swiftly in any direction.

M. Lutech says his invention, when perfected can be turned out at about $300.

2 Years' Backache Subdued by "Nerviline"

Backache was the bane of my life, and for two years I was at times as helpless as a child," writes E. S Simons, from Arva, Ont., to Wilkie to Smith Bros' Drug Store. I heard of Nerviline like it is a wonderful liniment, and I don't exaggerate. Thanks to Nerviline, two years' backache was subdued and I could go about my work.

All those who suffer from weak, aching backs, those whose muscles are sore, stiff or strained, should try Nerviline, the liniment that never fails. 25 cts. at dealers.

Ultra Violet Rays Beneficial

Children Thrive In Room Fitted With Special Glass

Interesting data are recorded in a one month's experiment at a school in Scandinavia with special window glass which admits the ultra violet rays, which are unable to penetrate ordinary window glass. Boys in the room with the special glass gained more than twice as much in height in comparison with those in rooms where the ordinary glass was used.

RHEUMATIC PAIN AND THIN BLOOD

Liniments of No Avail — The Trouble Must Be Treated Through the Blood

The most severe rheumatic sufferer can hope for no rubbing something on the swollen, aching joints is a little relief and all the while the trouble is becoming more firmly rooted. It is now known that rheumatism is caused in the blood and that as long as the trouble remains in the blood benefit will be temporary, and when the blood is built up and made rich and red the rheumatic pains of the dreaded trouble disappear. Mr. Robt. A Smith, Western Point Nfld., says: "About two years ago I was attacked with rheumatism. At first I thought that I could rub it away, and had to go to bed under the doctor's care. It is needless to say that I endured a great deal of suffering. The doctor's medicine did not seem to reach the trouble, so when I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I did so, and after taking the first few boxes would I was able to get out, and I continued taking the pills until I was able to work, and I have not been troubled with rheumatism since. In other respects also I derived great benefit from taking the pills and I think them a wonderful medicine."

In Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Can Create Artificial Fogs

German Chemists Are Said To Have Discovered Method

A method of causing sudden artificial fogs on a large scale has been discovered by German chemists it is said that the introduction of this new weapon may have far-reaching effects on naval and land warfare, and enable Germany to be unequalled in her ships or troops to be withdrawn under cover of mist when an attack is launched. It is reported further that experiments made by the German army are equally promising, the fog created being so dense that it was impossible to see more than two yards ahead.

Process Perfected That Makes All Blood Suitable For Transfusions

The time is not far away when blood suitable for use in transfusions can be obtained in bottles at a drug store, Dr J. L. Yates, Milwaukee Wis., declared at the convention of the Interstate Post Graduate Medical Assembly in Cleveland.

Often when a human's time balances the life of a patient needing a blood transfusion a "donor" with right kind of blood cannot be found, Dr. Yates pointed out. Scientists in Prague, Bohemia, Dr Yates said, have perfected a mechanical washing process of blood serums which is so profound that it will render suitable even the blood of goats and sheep, which if injected in its natural state, would bring almost instant death.

The process deemed practicable that this process will make it possible to have at a drug store blood bottled up without its "identity" and ready to match for transfusion

Have Not Solved Mystery

Doctors Unable As Yet To Find Definite Cure For Cancer

The assembly of medical men from many countries who, in America, have been exchanging knowledge, experiences, and hopes with regard to the study of cancer, is to leave us, apparently, without any complete understanding of the disease, and therefore without any definite cure for it. In an agreed statement—the first, probably, to which a hundred doctors have ever subscribed—the congress has asserted its definitely that cancer is not hereditary, neither is it infectious nor contagious. So far as its treatment is concerned we are told only what we know already—that radiology and surgery alone can deal with it, and that only if it is taken at an early stage—but the fact that our ignorance is being brought within narrower limits is in itself hopeful. It narrows the field of research, and thereby it brings us nearer to definite knowledge.

A Man Of Mystery

Has Spent Over Half Century in Wisconsin State Prison

Old Bill Maxwell has reached the ripe fifty-fourth year at the state prison at Waupun, Wisconsin. He is 54 years old, and is spending the last days in the infirmary awaiting death

Maxwell is a man of mystery and has never spoken, though spoken to. More than half a century ago he killed a man over a woman and a sheriff saved him from being lynched by a crowd that had strung him in the trees. Then he has refused to ask for a pardon or even expressed a wish that he might die in prison. He has been the outside world for more than half a century, has never seen a person but a guard or a movie and has never attended chapel.

The cold, catarrh and snuffling frequently of little cold from a thousand germs. Nothing else will relieve it so quickly and surely as the warm wood treatment. Simply clogged nostrils quickly open, the stuffy head clears, the ringing ears and buzzing noises become friendly as nature directs the blood to the parts where it is needed to throw off the cold. Sufferers from chronic catarrh, deafness, hay fever, asthma, bronchitis, and other nose, throat and lung troubles are finding relief in this way.

Simply send a postcard to Booth's Limited, 140 Booth Building, Ottawa, Ont., and ask for a free copy of the booklet telling how to use the warm wood treatment. Do it now.

Confidence in Alberta's Future

Recent Bond Sale Put Through On Very Favorable Terms

The Alberta Government has reason to be very much pleased with the bond sale that has just been put through. Issues to the extent of $6,000,000 have been disposed of. The money is obtainable on an interest basis of 5 1/2 per cent. These terms are almost as favorable as those which recently and successfully floated Saskatchewan issues. When it is considered what a difference there is between 5 1/2 and 6 per cent, which is the rate at which Alberta has had to borrow in the past, the significance of the sale will be appreciated. It was the first time in a number of years that the province has been able to secure money at 5 1/2 per cent.

RAPID TRANSIT IS PROPOSED BY AIR ROUTES

London.—From London to Canada in two and a half days, to India in five days, to Cape Town in six days, to Australia in 11 days and to New Zealand in 12 days. These were the possibilities of the air which Sir Samuel Hoare, British air minister, submitted to the Imperial Conference. "There is today no technical or operational reason," Sir Samuel declared, "why by airplane, London should not be brought within a fortnight of the farthest cities and dominions of the Empire." Sir Samuel devoted himself to civil aviation and proposed the organization of long distance Empire air routes beginning in the Far East and from Australia to Cape Town on the mosaic plan. "We must," he said, "each of us insert our particular stone in the design."

His proposal, Sir Samuel said, involved no subsidy. It involved nothing more than co-operation between governments and another, and between military and service flying. Sir Samuel proposed that the Dominions and Dependencies should raise and maintain landing grounds in good order. He held that the airship would carry out the long distance work on the seas of the future and indicated that two airships were now being built in England which, with a normal load of freight and passengers, would be able to fly without refuelling in good weather a distance of 5,000 miles. There would be promenade decks outside the cabins, and ample smoking and dining rooms.

The airplane and airship were really complementary to each other, the chief later said. It was necessary to safeguard both alike the lives of long distance flying, the airplane being invaluable for short stage traffic and particularly suited for general work, the airship program was still in the experimental stage.

Two Thousand Buffalo Will Be Slaughtered

Necessary to Reduce Herd at Wainwright National Park

Ottawa.—Two thousand buffalo now in Wainwright National Park are to be killed by orders of the department of the interior. In the three years since the buffalo population of the park has increased so rapidly that it has been found necessary to cut down the herd to normal proportions and slaughter some of the animals, and shipping others to the Wood Buffalo park where they are to be free from disease.

In Wainwright park there is only room for about 3,000 head. In 1923 some 2,000 were killed. In 1925, about 2,000 were shipped to the park, areas in Northern Alberta. This year the park authorities were confronted with the problem of disposing of nearly 12,000 head of buffalo During the summer 2,000 were killed and about 2,000 are to be killed. It is understood that tenders are being called for slaughtering purposes.

The slaughtering of 2,000 buffalo will mean that Canadian packers will have the chance of handling 2,000 buffalo carcasses. The Government does not interfere with distribution and in 1924 it was a popular dish as far East as Montreal.

Greeks Object To Re-Opening Schools

Recent Order Which Makes Teaching of Native Compulsory

London A Reuter despatch from Athens states that travellers arrived in some days last week in Athens from Smyrna that the Islander drew stones and shrapnel exploded at Italian sailors also landed from a destroyer in an effort to compel the Greek inhabitants to re-open their schools The school boys have refused to obey an order making the teaching of Italian compulsory. No casualties were reported and the affair will probably end in the withdrawal of the Italian detachments.

The establishing of Greek Italian will mean that Canadian sugar men will have the chance of handling Italian cane. The Government does not interfere with distribution and in 1924 it was a popular dish as far East as Montreal.

Will Unite East And West

Premier Gardiner of Saskatchewan Has Faith in Future of the H. B. Road

Saskatoon.—Discussing the effect of the completion of the Hudson's Bay Road, at the banquet tendered by the board of trade here, Premier Gardiner said in part: "To Saskatchewan completion of the Hudson's Bay road means the opening up of that great strip of productive territory between Saskatchewan and Churchill rivers. It means the cutting of the distance to Liverpool by a thousand miles during four or five months of the year and provides a fourth outlet for the growing production of Western Canada just as the opening up of the prairie areas of the West added to the national prosperity, so will it increase through the building of the Hudson's Bay Road. To Canada it promises assistance in the solution of the problems of the Maritimes, which are the most discussing questions confronting Confederation today. The Maritimes, with their coal, iron and timber, can develop a manufacturing industry based upon the existence of these two products as one area, which will give new life and hope to the people of that area, because the Hudson's Bay route and storage at the Bay will place them at the front door to the Western markets, making it possible for them to compete with the central part of Canada and the United States on equal terms. In addition to carrying the breadstuffs from the Rockies to the shores of Ungava Bay, this road should unite East and West as no other transportation or communication has done. It is the logical national aspiration in Canada

The national characteristics of the British race will cause their ideals to disappear in the interests of Empire when the first weapon of operation is used. Had this age-old principle been observed in the days of the Napoleonic wars the history of the world would have been very different. In the three years following the close of the Napoleonic wars Britain had 200,000 men under arms. Today Britain has a standing army of 200,000 men, whose greatest task is to keep the peace of the world. Had Britain been prepared in the days of Napoleon, the Napoleonic wars would have been over in a few months, and the history of the world would have been very different. SASK. CABINET IS REDUCED TO SEVEN MINISTERS

Saskatoon. Re arrangements in the Saskatchewan Government as the result of the resignation of Hon. A. P. McNab as Minister of Public Works were announced here by Premier J. G. Gardiner. No new minister has been appointed and the portfolio have been reduced from eight to se en Mr Gardiner was one of the speakers later in the evening at a Hudson's Bay Rail way banquet staged by the Saskatoon Board of Trade.

Relinquishing the portfolio of minister of highways, Mr Gardiner takes over the railway, labor and also becomes provincial treasurer. Hon. W. J. Patterson drops the treasurership and takes over highways and also retains his post as minister of telephones

The portfolio of public works is undertaken by Mr. McMillan who was the charge of Hon. J. M. Uhrig who also retains his previous portfolio as minister of health. Mr. Uhrig, however, gives up his post as provincial secretary to Hon. T. C. Davis the latter, adding this to his present duties as minister of municipal affairs and minister in charge of the interest of labor.

Hon J G Gardiner, premier of Saskatchewan, was the chief guest of honor at the banquet With him were associated Hon. Jacob Bakken, member of Manitoba, while Hon W. R. Motherwell, fed-ral minister of agriculture, Hon J A. Stevenson and Hon. J. G. Turiff, M.P. for Assiniboia were also present. Hon. A. P. McNab, minister of public works, Hon T. C. Davis, minister of municipal affairs, H. H. McIntosh, M.P., Fred Johnston, M.P., Malcolm McLean, M.P., and Hon. Dr. Uhrig, members of the cabinet were also present as the chief guest table.

Civic chiefs, representatives of municipal councils and boards of trade from nearby cities and towns were present to assist in celebrating the first train to enter Saskatoon from the north, with the exception of the boys' outing to Pas and Nelson

Premier Gardiner was the speaker to give the principal address. Saskatchewan, he said, was developing rapidly and was now in a position to take care of its own affairs. The province was not dependent on any other province for its existence. Saskatchewan was a self-contained province and could live within itself. Saskatchewan was a self-contained province and could live within itself. Saskatchewan was a self-contained province and could live within itself

New Anglo-Turkish Pact

Will Help in Fighting Soviet Propaganda in Near East

Negotiations are proceeding for an Anglo-Turkish pact which, while stabilizing the position of the Angora government, will solve many of Great Britain's difficulties in the near east. Turkish fisheries are in a bad way and will become features of the proposed agreement in a substantial loan to Turkey by British banks.

Turkey also is in favor of France transferring the Syrian mandate to the League of Nations, and by Isaac Pildash Bey, the representative of the ruling nationalist party, will gain the help of Turkey if Britain lends support elsewhere.

Ismet Inonu would gain the help of Turkey if Britain lends support elsewhere.

Do Not Recommend Increase

Conciliation Board Not in Favor of Granting Wage Increase to Railwaymen

Recommending that there be no increase in wages of fifteen thousand conductors, trainmen and yardmen of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways, the board of conciliation, appointed July 28, last, to investigate the wage dispute between these employees and the companies, has filed its report with the minister of labour.

This report is signed by Mr. Justice Hugh T. Kelly, of Toronto, chairman of the board, and by Isaac Pitblado, K.C., the representative of the railway companies.

The majority report bearing the signature of David Campbell of Winnipeg, representative of the employees, is understood to advocate that the increase of six per cent awarded by the United States Labor board to railroad employees in the United States be granted to Canadian employees.

It is expected that the chairman, Mr. Justice Kelly, will file separately his report in which he will express the opinion that the railway employees were never fully compensated for the wage which was taken from them during the war.

Mr. Campbell claims it was officially admitted by Sir Henry Drayton, minister of trade and commerce, that the cost of living moves approximately with the wage index figures in the United States Labor bulletin.

It is understood that the majority report also asks the chairman to have the minister of railways emphasize very strongly to the railway companies the necessity of co-operating with the railway employees in every way possible.

Magical Results Come When You Apply

NERVILINE

It Acts Quickly

Mr. W. T. Greenway, formerly engineer with Gillis Lumber Company, has written: For twenty years we have used Nerviline, and would not be without it. Whether it be pain in the back, rheumatic twinges, toothache, cramps and disordered stomach, we find preparation is the best and quickest relief we have ever used. Nerviline is the best liniment we have ever handled in Canada or the United States, and we have used them all. Nerviline is a household word with us. Nerviline is a powerful, penetrating pain killer, whereas other liniments rub on Nerviline, and you will get prompt results. 35c at all dealers.

Banded Duck is Shot

A banded female mallard duck has been shot at Oak Lake, Man., by Walter Dupont. How the bird came on the duck's leg bore a number 2-wed(9, and the legend that the mechanical expression must be credited there is no information as to whether the bird was banded in Canada or the United States, but Bill Adams and Washington, D.C., will be notified of the bird's death.

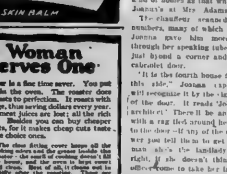
Montreal Mother Finds Health in Tanlac

Lost Appetite and Weight, Couldn't Sleep, Suffered Terribly from Digestive Troubles, Famous Remedy Relieves and Rebuilds Her as It Has Thousands of Others



If you feed your health slipping from you; if indigestion, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of weight and appetite and failing strength are sapping your vitality and making you miserable, profit by the remarkable experience of Mrs. Emery Brassard, business woman and mother of eight children, whose address is St. Andre and Beaubien, Montreal.

She says: "For the past two years I had been a nervous wreck. I was unable to attend to my business and household duties properly. The odor of food sickened me. I would frequently have pains in my side as though a knife were going through me.

"I couldn't sleep and lost weight and strength, while my complexion became sallow. Reading how Tanlac had relieved others, I tried it. After taking three bottles, I feel as fit as I ever was. I have gained twelve pounds.

"I cannot express how grateful I am to Tanlac, and gladly recommend it to anyone who needs a tonic as I did."

Thousands of fortunate men and women are now enjoying good health and strength through Tanlac, the safe, effective remedy, made from herbs, roots and barks. Don't wait until good health leaves you, to try this medicine. Ask your druggist for Tanlac today!

GOVERNMENT TO OPERATE E. C. AND B. C.

In an official statement issued this week, Premier Brownlee of Alberta, announces that the Government will take over and operate the Edmonton, Dunvegan and B. C. Railway, into the Peace River country, commencing November 15, under the agreement under which the C. N. R. has been operating the road expires on November 15, under the months' notice given by the Government last August.

The announcement is made at the same time that a traffic agreement has been signed by the Government with the Canadian National Railways, whereby the C. N. R. will handle all traffic from the E. D. and B. C. and for that line, under which agreement the present freight rates now enjoyed by the residents along the line will be continued. The agreement also provides for the use of the Canadian National railway depot and terminals for the trains of both the E. D. and B. C. and the A. and G. W. lines. John Callaghan, Deputy Minister of Rail ways, is named general manager of the road.

Under the new conditions, the Al berta Government is the sole owner and operator of the E. D. and B. C. and is in a position at any time to enter negotiations for an outright sale of the road, should it decide to do so. The latest offer of the C. P. R. for a further lease of the line, made only this week, which was $60,000 better than the last previous offer, was rejected by the Government, which was opposed to tying the line up in any further agreement, preferring to remain in a position to be free to negotiate for the sale of the road if thought desirable. The premier states in his official announcement that the Government has confidence in the railway department's ability to operate the road at an operative profit.

HOW TO KILL AND PREPARE POULTRY FOR THE HOME MARKET

Fasting

The birds should be fasted 24 hours before killing This prevents food re maining in the crop and intestines, which would decompose and spoil the flavor of the meat Several hours after the last feed allow the birds all the water they can drink. They should then have a complete fast until killed

Bleeding

Fasten a piece of clothesline or stout cord to the ceiling of the killing room and attach to the end a piece of iron. When ready for killing, the birds may be hung on this line by simply giving one wrap around the legs, pass the head and neck down to be drop. Hang in this way it is impossible for the birds to become be spattered with blood, and allow it to freely bled while hung. With the left hand grasp the bird by the neck near the head and with the right hand insert the knife as far back in the mouth as possible, then draw it forward with the cutting edge against the side of the head. Severe both veins and repeat the operation on the other side of the mouth. When care is exercised the arteries will be severed at the junction of the upper and lower jaw. Next pierce the brain by passing the knife through the roof of the mouth towards the top of the head and give it a half turn. Both arteries must be severed in order to insure complete bleeding, and complete bleeding is the only means to prevent the flesh from turning red.

The successful piercing of the brain is characterized by a flutter through out the body. To check the blood stretch a wire tightly across the top of a tomato can and to the centre of your wire attach a two inch wire hook which is to be bended into the mouth of the bird, allowing the can to be then suspended below the bird

Plucking

Plucking should commence as soon as the killing operation is completed. Remove tail and wing feathers as well as the short feather. Then take the bird down and pull out all the pin feathers. After this is done the bird should be laid out singly on a board in a cool place, leaving there over overnight This is done so as to rel ax the animal heat out of birds before they are packed in boxes After this is done the birds are ready to be packed in boxes or barrels for shipping

Golden Wedding Celebration at Tolland

A large company of friends in the Tolland district met in the school house on Tuesday evening, Nov. 2nd to pay honor and respect to Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Webber, who had attained their fiftieth anniversary of married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Webber came west to Alberta in 1909 and have made their home in the district for 17 years. Mr. Webber has carried on business as a general storekeeper and supplies his goods at town prices; buys in butter and eggs from the farmers. Attached to the store is the post office. Mr. Webber is also the mail carrier to and from Vermilion, so he has a busy life. He was born on January 28th, 1855 in Rashani township, Hastings county, Ontario, and was married in Hamilton Nov. 2nd, 1876, to Francis A. Mc Elcheran, by the Rev. Mr. Stewart.

The following are the names of the family born of the marriage: Carrie A Webber, died at the age of fifteen years; Ethelgee E Webber, residing at home; William A Webber, died June 1917, leaving a widow and two sons who are also residing at home in Tolland; Roy H. Webber, married and residing in Toronto, have had four children—two died in infancy, Blanch, at birth, and Bibbs at the age of three months—and two are living: Mrs. A Trevithick (nee Hazel), who has one daughter and resides in the district.

About fifty guests sat down to tables beautifully decorated with flowers and plants; the room also presented a festive appearance. A bountiful supply of all kinds of food and fruit was purveyed and spread by Mrs. Webber and family. After the company had done ample justice to a splendid repast Mr. Marchbon, the minister of the Kinnaird mission field, rose and said he had a sacred and pleasant duty to perform.

"It is with great pleasure," he said "that we, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Webber, have met to-day to tender our congratulations on the attainment of their fiftieth year of married life, and their golden wedding, which we are celebrating in their home (cheers) Mr. and Mrs. Webber have laboured many years among us and created a place of no mean order in our midst. They have set themselves by their exemplary character to be an influence in the district. Punctual to business, obliging in manners, they have wormed around them the good will of the people At church service they have been always except when illness prevented them being there; Sunday School had a large share of their appreciation, for they do enjoy the courts of God's House."

The minister then presented them in the name of the company, with an assorted purse of bills and pieces of gold. Mr. and Mrs. Webber were also the recipients of a bouquet of beautiful flowers along with pieces of gold from Mr & Mrs A Trevithick and family) gold pieces from Ethelgee Webber, five tube radio from Mr & Mrs. Roy Webber and family, a valuable present from Mrs William Webber and family, and other valuable gifts of silverware from other friends of the company

Married

(Times-Journal, Fort William, Ont.)

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Knowles, Wednesday evening, Nov. 3 at 8:30, when their youngest sister, Alma Rose Gray, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Gray, of Edmonton, became the bride of Gordon Young MacPhee, of Camrose, Alta., eldest son of Duncan MacPhee, of Vermilion, Alta.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Malcolm McKellar, entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Alice Haddeid, L.L.C.M. Rev W. J. Preston of Wesley United church, officiated. The bride was dainty in a French hand-made model of pearl georgette combined with points of French thread lace finished with bow blue velvet streamers and wore silver brocade and silver slippers, and carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley

Mrs. Knowles wore a becoming frock of Tetlan gold flat crepe with panels of rose. Mrs. Malcolm McKellar, sister of the bride, was gowned in a crushed rose flat crepe costume with French hand-embroidery and wore a corsage of sweetheart roses. Mrs. Homer Tedford, cousin of the bride, chose a Parisian model of cocoa brown flat crepe with georgette trimmings in contrasting shade, and ribbon ornament Mrs. D. D. Jenkins, cousin of the bride, wore a wood brown canton bolero style open the over a front of flowered crepe.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Robert Strain sang very sweetly "At Dawning" Charles Cadman, and later in the evening piano duets were rendered by Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Humble

A buffet lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Malcolm McKellar, Mrs. R.D. Jenkins pouring tea; Miss Beade Bowie, Miss Myrtle Bowie and Miss Margaret Robinson of Port Arthur, as servitors. A beautiful four-storey wedding cake, a gift from Mrs. Malcolm McKellar, centred the table, which was decorated with roses in four silver bud vases resting on Indian lace doilies at the four corners and streamers of ribbon from the table to the chandelier.

The groom's gift to the bride was a rubberized cheque to the soloist a pierced silver bon bon dish and the pianist, a novelty sterling bracelet.

The guests numbered about forty, including Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McKellar, of Meaford, Man.; and Mrs. Homer Tedford, at Winnipeg

The bride's going away costume was a Spanish raisin needle point coat with fur trimmings, opening over a satin dress to match and a tight fitting sateloue hat in contrasting shades

Several telegrams of congratulations were received, among them one from Maurice Gray, brother of the bride, and Alex. Taylor school, Edmonton, of which the bride was a member.

In one of his famous satires Swift makes the king of Brobdingnag give utterance to the opinion that whoever could make two ears of corn or two blades of grass to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before would deserve better of mankind and do more essential service to his country than the whole race of politicians put together.

In April a meeting was held in London, England, to do honor to a man who, at the ripe old age of 77 years, Mr. Barbara deemed himself entitled to the honor of the remark a thousand times before, "Applause is sweet, but it is not the breath of life." Battle with a stone, which he endured for many years, and which finally killed him, he considered a mere trifle when compared with the sufferings of those who endured a larger child per acre under a taller flour and planted in less time and this a notable change in the world. It is now some two thousand years since Virgil, and from the time he left off about twenty-five years ago, there is now harvested around our habitation about twelve thousands in quarters, and twenty-four millions of dollars to Canada. Where the life of the people?

Western Canada can also boast of its experimenters through whose efforts world fodder of a much better quality has been made to grow where only one grew before. The name of Seager Wheeler is a household word in the prairie provinces. It has been said of Wheeler that he is the man who made the wheat belt possible. Be that as it may, he has done much to make it safe. Hundreds of thousands of acres have been reclaimed to the growing of wheat as the result of his experiments with rust resisting varieties. Wheeler has also been a pioneer in the growing of alfalfa and other forage crops. He has demonstrated that western Canada can grow timothy and clover as well as any country in the world. He has established orchards in the Peace River district which have withstood the rigors of winters when the mercury has registered 60 degrees below zero. He has proved that western Canada can grow sugar beets of a high quality. He has demonstrated that western Canada can grow corn for husking purposes. He has proved that western Canada can grow alfalfa seed, which eliminates weeds from his fields and homes his cattle in clean and sanitary buildings. He has proved that western Canada can grow to the quality of No. 1 Northern hard wheat. He has proved that western Canada can grow all the vegetable varieties in their greatest perfection. He has proved that western Canada can grow all the fruits adapted to the temperate zone. He has proved that western Canada can grow sheep and cattle and horses and hogs in numbers and of a quality unsurpassed anywhere in the world. He has proved that western Canada can grow poultry in numbers and of a quality unsurpassed anywhere in the world. He has proved that western Canada can grow honey in numbers and of a quality unsurpassed anywhere in the world. He has proved that western Canada can grow all the products of the farm, the garden, the orchard, the dairy, the poultry yard, the bee hive, the pasture field, the forage crop, the root crop, the Rev. Chas. Bishop, new pastor of the United Church, Provost, spent Wednesday in town, leaving for home today.

The November meeting of the Vermilion Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. F. Baker. Mr. Hopkins of the School of Agriculture gave a highly interesting talk on "The care of Bulbs" which was thoroughly enjoyed and much appreciated by all present. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sample, on Dec. 1st. The election of officers will take place, and every lady who is interested in institute work is cordially invited to be present.

A picture, well known to Vermilionites, was seen in the Saturday Journal, when the portrait of Stanley F McCloskey (formerly Scoutmaster of the 1st Vermilion Troop, appeared with the following remarks. "S. F. McCloskey, scoutmaster of the 57th Edmonton troop of Boy Scouts, who re-organized the St. Peter's troop this year, and 'scouting' has been going ahead in leaps and bounds since that time. Besides conducting the regular weekly meetings, he also devotes a great deal of time to outdoor sports, treasure hunts, hikes, etc. on Saturday afternoons. The boys fully realize that they have an outstanding leader, and are doing their utmost to make his work as easy and pleasant as possible." The 57th Edmonton troop recently staged a very successful concert under the direction of Mr Mc-Closkey.

Away

I cannot say, and I will not say
That he is dead. He is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.
And you—oh you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return
Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There, as the love of Here
Think of him still as the same, I say,
He is not dead—he is just away

MINISTER OUTLINES HIGH SCHOOL PLAN

Groupings Together of Districts to Solve Problem in Alberta

At an address at the annual meeting of the Trustees' association of the inspectoral district of Vermilion held here Wednesday of last week the Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education, stressed the importance of every child in the province at least acquiring grade eight education. That was the great purpose of his department, thus giving every child an equal footing for the strenuous tasks that laid before them. Protests against the high cost of secondary education had been voiced. He thought a course at the high school desirable to every young man and every young woman. It afforded them a splendid mental training which would stand them good no matter what career they decided to follow after. He thought there was a great deal in the course provided which would be of benefit to those who selected even farming as farm life no doubt awaited. It should make them better farmers or better wives for the farmer.

The cost of secondary or provincial a secondary education was, however, a big problem, said Mr. Baker. Various suggestions from them from time to time had forward. The government would be quite agreeable to carry the cost only they all required money, and money paid out by the government meant that the people would have to pay more taxes. He thought, however, that a fairly accurate solution had been found in the rural high school scheme which the department was now urging upon the province. This was where four or five districts would be combined to form a high school area, differing from the one-roll district as lately only in the respect that it made no provision for transportation. He felt that under this system the children of the country districts would have high school facilities at home instead of necessitating their being sent to the adjoining towns or villages for this work. He saw in the scheme great possibilities for the children of the rural areas who hereto fore have been somewhat handicapped along these lines.

Answers Questions

The minister at the conclusion of his address was called upon to answer a variety of questions affecting school matters in general and which he answered with much acceptance to the gathering. A vote of thanks was tendered the minister by the convention.

H. R Parker, inspector of the district, also addressed the convention to which he outlined the basis of school inspection. He difficulties sometimes met and gave practical suggestions as to improvements that might be made in the methods of teaching, the school courses and so on.

The convention was a very regu-

An Age of Opportunity

Occasionally young people of today are heard deploring that they are going to be born in a time when there are not the same opportunities as existed in the pioneering days, when a man could make a big place for himself in the world by the sheer force of his own energy and initiative. Such people are apt to think that the only way to succeed nowadays is to work for a few years in a big business, save enough money to establish for themselves, and then accumulate fortunes by the same slow and tedious process that all the successful men of the past have followed.

[illegible] would bloom were there a [illegible] and [illegible] to be realized. To mention but one, the [illegible] of the telephone and telegraph systems of the country, which has grown to its present gigantic proportions within the short space of a few years. Just a moment, you say, that is a business which you personally could not have started. Perhaps not, but somebody with the requisite amount of capital started it, and [illegible] dollars. Today its paid-up capital stock has a market value of over [illegible] million dollars. The shares sold in 1905 have grown to a total of [illegible] times the original number of blocks, and the dividends have increased from [illegible] per cent. in 1905 to [illegible] per cent. in 1925. The company has paid out [illegible] dollars, representing [illegible] of the money originally invested. What a romance in business in this single instance!

In the same manner, within the course of time, has practically every one of the leading [illegible] of modern civilization had their beginning. Each one of them has contributed enormously to the progress of the world, and to the welfare of its people. Each one of them has given employment to hundreds and thousands of workers, and has created opportunities for the establishment of many other enterprises. Each one of them has added to the sum of human happiness and comfort. Each one of them has helped to make the world a better place to live in. And each one of them has been established by the efforts of individuals who started in a small way, and who had to overcome many difficulties before they succeeded in making their enterprises a success.

Not only so, but the world today is ripe for the reception of new ideas and inventions, and the man with an innovation or a new article to sell has a better chance to demonstrate his value, where, in former years he had to do battle against prejudice and an ultra-conservatism which found expression in open and bitter opposition.

Whether one has long acres or a city lot, whether one has a large amount of money or little or none, there is opportunity for everybody. Never before was there such a chance for young men with ambition, perseverance and energy to make good, and if he fails the fault lies largely with himself or the impression of his ideas, and not in the reception accorded him by an eager and prosperous world. He is now denied his opportunity to make good; the great difficulty is that so many do not see or realize, fail to grasp the opportunity as it lies to hand.

There are still undeveloped fields of endeavor awaiting ambitious youth just as great as those which the pioneers of the United States found when they settled the shores of the Atlantic seaboard, or in Canada in the years when the Fathers of Confederation dreamed their practical dreams of a dominion stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and the pioneers first began the task of developing the heart of the West.

TEXACO
MOTOR OIL

Take a tubeful of Texaco Motor Oil and let it stand in a glass of crushed ice and salt for twenty minutes. The temperature will go down to about zero. Invert the tube. See how freely Texaco flows at this cold temperature.

THE FIRST TEN SECONDS CAUSE MORE ENGINE WEAR THAN MANY MILES.

The first ten hundred revolutions of your engine on a cold day are a critical test of your motor oil!

The first ten seconds of speedy lifting while warming up the engine—and oil may cause more wear than many miles of driving.

If the oil does not circulate freely and instantly, the metal particles remain to cause a rapidly destructive effect. It is unwise and extravagant to use an oil that will not stand the cold.

TEXACO MOTOR OIL flows readily, during the delay at the first turn of the motor, regardless of temperature, preventing this unnecessary wear

RESULTS OF TEST BORE No. 2.

Some good results have been obtained from the development of the new wheat Red Bobs No. 222, which was developed at the University of Alberta. The following shows the results of various varieties at Edmonton, the first column of figures being the growth period in days, the second column the height of the plants in inches, and the third the yield per acre in bushels:

Marquis	—	113	60.1
Renfrew	—	118	61.3
Red Bobs 222	—	109	59.7
Ruby	—	104	39.7

The St. Walburg Times is being moved to Turtleford and consolidated with the Record print of that town. The move has been made on account of the Times not paying its way, running at a loss for past year, and the Record has undertaken the same experience. By the combination the promoters are hoping to make it a paying proposition and intend to give it a couple of years' trial.

ed, the parade passed, and we are left alone with our thoughts of those that are gone never to return. It is then the steady courage of those who are left shows itself and we quietly lift our load and press on, carrying the burden that others dropped when they laid down their lives on the altar of duelity. And may they be utterly forgotten who shirk the task that out upon them in closing it left us a message of thankfulness that peace had returned, that the hatefulness of war had departed, and of a greater determination to press forward to a newer understanding of our personal duties in helping to create a greater peace, a greater dependence on God, and a greater spirit of tolerance and friendly assistance to men.

At the evening performance the Vermilion Citizens' Band again rendered a series of selections which may be compared favorably with the music of any band in the Province. The Band is a credit to the town of Vermilion, would be to any city, and the leader, Mr. Wm. B. Elford, is to be has been offered up in thankfulness for the signing of peace. And in our own community, as in nearly every town and village in the civilized world, meetings of commemoration have been held

We in Vermilion are most fortunate that there are in our midst men and women of such outstanding ability that we may hold our memorial service entirely within our own ranks At the afternoon service Rev. F. J. Stevens spoke quietly and effectively a message that reached the hearts of all. Speaking not of mouthy patriotism, nor yet of blatant militarism, he stressed the thought uppermost in the mind of everyone present, that of quiet sturdy readiness to shoulder our loads not only in times of war, when the bands are playing and we move and act with feverish intensity, thinking not of the possible end awaiting us, but also in the period of desperation afterward, when the drums have ceased

Armistice Service Evening Concert

The parade has passed, the clarion call of the bugle is silenced and the muffled note of the drum is stilled. Once more the Roll Call has been read and the Last Post sounded in loving memory of those who have not returned, and again we give prayer and thanksgiving for the signing of peace. And in our own community, as in nearly every town and village in the civilized world, meetings of commemoration have been held

We in Vermilion are most fortunate that there are in our midst men and women of such outstanding ability that we may hold our memorial service entirely within our own ranks At the afternoon service Rev. F. J. Stevens spoke quietly and effectively a message that reached the hearts of all. Speaking not of mouthy patriotism, nor yet of blatant militarism, he stressed the thought uppermost in the mind of everyone present, that of quiet sturdy readiness to shoulder our loads not only in times of war, when the bands are playing and we move and act with feverish intensity, thinking not of the possible end awaiting us, but also in the period of desperation afterward, when the drums have ceased

Trustees Favor High School Areas

At the conference of urban trustees held at Vegreville on November 5th, a resolution was passed, declaring for adequate facilities for secondary education for rural pupils to take the form of the establishment of large high school districts. Representatives were in attendance from Fort Saskatchewan, Lamont, Vegreville, Innisfree, Mannville, Vermilion and Lloydminster. The Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education, and G. W. Gorman, chief school inspector, were interested visitors.

J. W. G. Morrison of Vermilion was unanimously selected as permanent chairman with H. Hanley of Lloydminster as secretary.

One of the most important matters discussed by the conference centres up under the heading "Secondary Education—its cost—its present standing—its future solution." M. Lachbrook, M. P. who opened the discussion referred to the rapid increase of high school pupils and the difficulty of making headway educationally under existing conditions. A. L. Horton suggested that in order to solve the problem of secondary education, large high school districts should be formed, including town districts and the whole or parts of municipal districts adjacent to the towns and that these be entirely separate and distinct from public school districts as already in operation. The high schools would be built in the town on which the high school districts centre; their pupils would also be by government grants and rural taxation, properly distributed, as might be necessary. A. E. Matheson, M.L.A. favoured larger areas being included in high school districts than those contained by Mr. Horton.

The remarks of J. W. G. Morrison of Vermilion were received with much interest, as few men in public life have given such attention to educational matters as the chairman of the Vermilion school board. He advocated the larger areas as suggested by Mr. Matheson, favoring rather those advocated by Mr. Horton, where the community life remains undisturbed and our own children are educated in our own schools. The cost of education, said Mr. Morrison, has risen considerably during the past few years the reasons being the larger number of pupils, the higher salaries paid teachers and the larger buildings required. H. P. Long of Vermilion was also in favor of the idea of high school districts, and had proposed it along similar lines at one time to the Teachers' Association.

The Hon. Perren Baker was next introduced and on the matter of high school districts arranged as suggested. He stated that the government is fully sensible to public requirements and willing to consider any reasonable proposals looking towards public but through no defects or otherwise.

The following resolution was passed by the conference and will be forwarded on to the Minister of Education and also laid before the Alberta School Trustees' Association

"That this Trustees' Conference held at Vegreville on the 5th day of November, 1926, recommends strongly to the Minister of Education that prompt measures be instituted by his Department to ascertain the feasibility, or otherwise, of the formation of high school districts throughout the province with a view to securing the greatest possible benefit to rural districts with respect to secondary education and vocational training, this conference being of the opinion that high school and vocational education is run conducted with greater efficiency and less cost in large schools with an adequate staff of teachers than is possible in our schools as at present constituted

"That this conference realizes that secondary education is now at a critical stage in the province of Alberta, owing to a surplus of pupils in village town and city high schools and respectfully suggests that the Minister of Education take this matter under advisement"

W. J. Elliott, principal of the Vermilion School of Agriculture, then spoke on school fairs outlining the aims of the department in connection with school fairs. He also dwelt on work being done by the Schools of Agriculture in furnishing a practical education to boys and girls

Votes of thanks were then tendered to the speakers, to the Vegreville school boards to Principals Hayhurst and McCrea, for their assistance in arranging for the conference and to Mr. Morrison and Mr Hunley for their efficient services as chairman and secretary.

ALBERTA STEER IS CHAMPION

An Alberta steer, a white Shorthorn bred by A. S. Mevenault of Champion won the grand championship in steers at the Toronto Royal Show last week. The steer was shown by the University of Alberta. It captured three championships in the respective classes in Hereford, Angus and Shorthorn steers, securing the grand championship with the Shorthorn

SUGAR FACTORY FINISHES SEASON

The sugar factory at Raymond has finished business for this season, with a total delivery of about 34,000 tons of beets. About $150,000 has been paid out to the farmers for beets. A boost 100,000 bags of sugar have been made, with 12,000 tons of pulp available for stock feeding

Mr. Dairyman!

More Milk from the Same Feed

...DR. HESS IMPROVED STOCK TONIC was recently tested out with a high grade dairy herd. Results tell the story!

The herd produced 9 gallons more milk per-cow-per-month! While the butter-fat content showed a gain of four-tenths per cent!

—with the same feed, same care, same attention while feeding the Tonic as before.

This test proves what Dr. Hess Improved Stock Tonic is worth to the dairyman. In actual gain in milk. In dollars and cents!

Here's Why

Dr. Hess Improved Stock Tonic keeps cows at their maximum milk production. It improves the appetite, aids digestion and elimination—supplies those minerals so essential to cows in milk.

St. Saviour's S.S. Concert

BY "DRAMATICUS"

It pays to advertise. This is trite but true, which is also trite and true. The afraid that the advertising department of the above concert and entertainment fell down on its job, and many missed a very enjoyable evening on Friday and afternoon on Saturday.

The program consisted of the fairy play "Lucy Locket," an illustrated song, and the drama of "Ah Babe."

The story of "Lucy Locket" you doubtless remember but if you don't I may say that the plot of the play may be summed up in the following words: Lucy Locket (Miss Doris Gilbert) lost her pocket (very careless of her, I thought) and Kitty Fisher (Miss Ada Caldwell) found it." But, then, you, that's not all the plot. Kitty did not find it all by herself — no — she called in first of all Bob (D. Reine combe) who offered her, in song, all sorts of treasures from his own pocket to replace her loss. Then she called in in rapid succession the Fairy of the Pocket (Miss Grace Cooper) who was succeeded by her, in turn, by the Fairy of the Scissors (Miss Betty Caldwell), the Fairy of the Cotton (Miss Marjorie Haigh), and the Fairy of the Needle (Miss Millie Smith); to say nothing of a whole bunch of school children (Ah! But Wait, Lois Wilson, Charlie Duncan, Millie Wener, Leone Wiebe, Eleanor Walsh, Phyllis Curry, Maud Smith) All this bunch, being organized under the expert supervisalonage of the fairy of the pocket, eventually discovered that the pocket had been "borrowed" by a gang of thugs—hog parden, Elven (Ian Dunaway, Billy Dwyer, George Foudas, Percy Cooper, Teddy Pajens and Jacky Dupuy, the villains!!) The fairies, having rounded up the outlaws—I mean—Elves, within a magic circle, proceeded to put them through the third degree and snipped them with the scissors, prodded them with the needle and entangled them in the cotton. They apparently did not have the goods on them but KitE eventually discovered the pocket hidden in the bandits' private cache and restored it to Lucy. On restoration it being found that there is nothing in the pocket, the Fairy of the Pocket lets a kiss fall with the promise that as long as Lucy uses the contents of the pocket (presumably the kiss also) I hope she will remember to do (except when she meets me) wisely, but not too much.

It would be invidious for the present actions write to single out any of the cast for special praise or blame for it must be from that the performance of the will Elves was somewhat handicapped by the fact that two of their leaders were absent on account of unforseen circumstances. Also much credit is due to the fairy of the Needle who only took over the part two days before the performance owing to the regrettable withdrawal of the original holder of the part.

The show-ers from the original cast are in no way blameable either to the

Crow Contest

In the annual contest of the municipal branch of the Department of Agriculture for destruction of crows and magpies, a total of 44,702 crows and magpies were destroyed. 44,722 crows and magpies feet were brought in, and 206,811 gophers destroyed. Calgary ran riot was the club competition with 10,786 points, and H. A. Simpson of the Calgary gun club won No. 2 competition with 8,177 points. In No. 3 contest, Olds school district ranch first and Elnora school second. The individual contest among pupils was won by Chas. Kohut of Didsbury school, with Ralph Maybank of Olds second.

Dairy Short Course Nov. 29

A three weeks' creamery course is now being offered jointly by the University and the Department of Agriculture, to commence Monday next the November 29, in the Department of Dairying, South Laboratory Building, University of Alberta. The course is planned primarily for men with some practical experience in creamery work. There will be no tuition fee. Arrangement may be made for room and board at the time of registration.

SUDDEN DEATH

MANVILLE — A. Harvey Lovelock, one of the old timers of this district, passed away very suddenly on Thursday Mr Lovelock was for many years engaged in ranching and later disposed of his holdings and moved into town. The funeral was taken by Rev. Thos Hart, and tribute to the deceased was paid by a large number of old time residents of Manville

Rev. Thos Hart was inducted into the pastorate of the Manville United church on Thursday evening, Nov. 18. The impressive service was directed by Rev. M. S. Kerr of Vermilion, assisted by Rev. Norman McLeod of Lavoy and Rev. Miller of Innisfree. Rev. A. R. Nash of the Manville Methodist church welcomed the new pastor to his field. Wh h the ceremony had been completed two addresses were rendered by Mrs. J. J. Jones and Jessie N. McKinnon, after which refreshments were served and a hearty get-together hour spent

VETERAN BURIED

MANVILLE — The funeral of the late John Ulves was held on Monday, November 17. In the absence of relatives, funeral arrangements were made by the local committee of the Canadian Legion. Deceased had been a member of the 218th and 19th battalion.

Of the musical items in the program we can say without fear of contradiction that they were really artistic numbers, which we hope to see repeated at some early convenient opportunity. Under the existing conditions, the personnel of which we in this case being due to the [illegible] absence of the stage regulars, we might be led to feel that the bad timing did not mar the very artistic delineation in dance by the ubiquitous (Miss Ruby Sharp) and the sub-lime (Miss Grace Mingst) of the song "Rendezvous" (sung by Rev. F. J. Steeves). This number was encored heartily and deservedly

The terrific drama of Ah Babe closed the program. You all know the story—no need for me to dwell on the thrill and tragedy of the theme. The cast was as follows:

Ah Babe	Violet Tatham
Mrs. Ah [illegible]	Amelia Morrison Cassin
Mrs Cassim	Winnifred Gilbert
Morgiana	Kathleen Hall
Abdallah	Hugh Duncan

Costa Hassan Gilbert Brimacombe. Abu Fleiligeh Fred Brimacombe. Altogether a most enjoyable afternoon and evening.

The management wishes to express through our critic their thanks to the ladies and gentlemen who gave their help in erecting and moving stage and scenery and dressing and "making up" of the very mobile artists. Also to Mr. W. E. Cash, Mr. J. Wyeing and others for loan of lumber and furniture etc

Taxation In Canada

During the war Canada, like all other nations, was forced to devise and impose new forms of taxation in order to raise the large sums of money required to enable the Dominion to operate efficiently and successfully during the abnormal conditions. The heavy expenditures for ships, munitions and supplies of all kinds, a large military force mobilized and equipped, and since the Armistice an enormous debt accumulated, had to be largely met by taxation for purposes and conditions which will continue to be necessary. Canada, therefore, must have revenue to carry on these purposes.

But the question is, how can the necessary revenue be raised with the least hardship to the people, and with the least interference with the natural industries, and of course the least expense in collection? Of course, we must have direct taxation, but the amount required should be small, and on top of Dominion taxation there is the enormous mass of taxation by Provincial and municipal governments.

The effect of taxation, to a greater or less extent in the United States because the country is so much larger, the industries wherever the United States operates are more diversified, and the people are more accustomed to paying taxes, is equally amazing. Great wealth in the way of supplying food to the Allied Countries which had caused many industrial firms from works of peace pursuits to turn to the requirements of war.

Immediately the war ceased, these firms found themselves with huge plants, and no demand for their products. Some manufacturers, as a matter of necessity, have commenced to make commodities, as formerly, but the bulk of the people, and the Dominion Government as regards post-war taxation, are confronted with a serious problem. The consumption of all taxes means the consumption of the people's money, and the people have only so much money to spend. Therefore, the willingness of both foreign and domestic trade, whether in the United States or Canada, to purchase commodities, is in exact proportion to the amount of money which is left in the pockets of the people after the payment of taxes. Therefore, the question of taxation is the question of the development of business, industry, commerce and of the natural resources of the country.

The solution of this problem the Dominion Government is directing its attention and, fortunately for the people as a whole, are taking a very keen and increasing interest in it. The interest is made manifest in the discussions which took place at the recent conference of the Canadian Board of Trade, in the publications of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in the Commission which recently inaugurated by the Retail Trade Bureau of Canada, and by the Provincial Boards of Agriculture, people realizing the gravity of issues.

We all owe a debt of gratitude to our public men for the important research work which should be adopted. All recommendations should admit of action. The elimination of partisanship and politics from the business of government is indeed a splendid one, and a most essential factor of national prosperity. The Canadian Board of Trade, in dealing with all which will make for lower taxation, but they differ when it comes to the question of to which class should now be entirely eliminated. There are two sides to the question, and it is only by a careful study of both sides that a correct conclusion can be arrived at. Both sides should be carefully considered and will make a valuable contribution to the solution of the problem.

The present difficulty in fact is that a step has been taken in the direction of direct taxation, and it will be followed by a further step, and so on, until the whole of the people's money will be taken in direct taxation. Of course, this is not the intention of the Dominion Government, but the Finance Minister has announced his intention of increasing the direct taxation on incomes, and the Provincial Governments are proposing to increase the taxation on real estate. The Provincial Governments and municipalities are entirely dependent upon the Dominion Government for their revenue, and

"Canada's Part in the Great War"

FIRST PRIZE ESSAY
1st Division Canadian Legion B.E.S.L. Essay Competition, 1926

When the news that Great Britain was at war was flashed around the Empire, offers were eagerly made by the overseas Dominion. A wave of loyalty swept Canada from ocean to ocean. Not for the love of battle, not for the lust of conquest, not for the greed of possessions, but the cause of honour, to maintain solemn pledges and to uphold the principals of liberty the Canadians entered the war.

Under the command of Generals Alderson and Byng, and also Sir Arthur Currie, Canada's heroes won countless honors. In the trenches of Flanders and France the Canadians won undying glory for themselves and for the Dominion.

At the battles of Peuthert and Givenchy, St. Eloi and Sanctuary Wood as well as Somme, Vimy Ridge and Amiens, great heroism was shown by Canadians However the greatest courage of Canada's men was tried at the battle of Ypres, a German attempt to break through and capture Calais and other channel ports. Here great calmness and endurance was shown by Canadians who were the first victims of the new deadly poison chlorine gas. Ypres is a word that carries its record of deathless heroism, its sad symbolism of sacrifice, and its glorious tradition of victory to all corners of the earth.

The people of Canada gladly made sacrifices to support her brave men who had gone overseas to fight their battles. Five times the government appealed to the people in national loans and as often met with a generous response. In all the people loaned to the government $450,000,000. The people willingly submitted to war taxes on railway and amusement tickets, telegrams, money orders, cheques and post. Pictures were given over for the movement of soldiers and other ammunition. The Canadian Red Cross Society gave aid to the sick and wounded soldiers. The Y.M.C.A. through its military branch carried on canteen work among the Canadian troops in both Canada and France.

Canada is justly proud of the heroes on the walls of churches, schools and other public buildings have honor rolls and Ladore which tell of the men who gave their all for Canada. For centuries to come the memory of her brave sons shall linger in the hearts of men and women as an inspiration to [illegible]

Eradicate Diphtheria

Diphtheria is essentially a child disease associated with comparatively little risk to adults. Formerly, in epidemic form, it took a heavy toll during early childhood and to a less extent in early adult life. It is always a serious disease, and not uncommonly a fatal one. It principally attacks children of pre-school age, malnourished children, and those who are recovering from measles, whooping cough, or scarlet fever. Other predisposing factors are exposure to cold, fatigue, and overcrowding. Children who have had tonsilitis or adenoids are also more susceptible to diphtheria than others.

The disease is caused by a germ which grows in the throat and nose, and which produces a poison or toxin which is absorbed into the blood stream. The germ itself does not usually cause much damage, but the poison which it produces is very harmful to the heart, kidneys, and nervous system. The germ grows in the throat and nose, and is coughed or sneezed out in the form of droplets of moisture. These droplets may be breathed in by other persons, or may settle on articles of food, or on articles which are handled by other persons. Thus the disease is spread from one person to another.

The germ usually grows in the throat and nose for from two to four days before the symptoms appear. The symptoms usually appear suddenly, with a sore throat, fever, and general illness. The throat becomes red and inflamed, and a membrane appears on the tonsils, which may spread to the back of the throat, the nose, or the voice box. The glands in the neck become swollen and tender, and the child may vomit. The membrane is tough and leathery, and if it is disturbed it may bleed. The child may have difficulty in breathing and swallowing, and may become very ill. The disease may last for several weeks, and the child may be left with a weak heart or other complications.

The best way to prevent diphtheria is to have the child immunized with toxin-antitoxin. This is a mixture of the toxin and antitoxin, which gives the child a mild attack of the disease, and then builds up immunity in the blood. The immunity lasts for several years, and the child is protected from the disease. The immunization is given in three doses, at intervals of one week. It is not painful, and the child does not have to stay in bed. The immunization is given by the doctor, and is free of charge.

If a child has been exposed to diphtheria, the doctor may give a dose of antitoxin to prevent the disease. This is a temporary measure, and the child should be immunized as soon as possible.

If a child has diphtheria, the doctor will give a large dose of antitoxin, and will also give antibiotics. The child must be kept in bed for at least two weeks, and must be carefully watched for complications. The child should not be allowed to go to school until the doctor says it is safe.

The best way to control diphtheria is to immunize all children. This is the only way to prevent the disease. If you have not had your children immunized, you should do so at once. It is a simple and safe procedure, and it will save your children from a dangerous disease.

BIG YIELD OF POTATOES

A most remarkable record of potato production has been reported from a plot of little more than half an acre on the farm of Mr. Graydill, just a mile west of Commerce near Lethbridge. These were Gold Coin potatoes and non-irrigated, and the small plot yielded 12 tons and 300 pounds. One potato weighed 43 ozs. or three pounds 15 ozs., and there were over 200 potatoes which weighed between two and three pounds each.

64,000 AUTOS IN PROVINCE

The lecture by Bishop Lucas of Macdonald River, given at the evening service in St. Saviour's Church Sunday, proved highly interesting and was followed with rapt attention by a well-filled church. The discourse covered the missionary work being done among the Indians and Eskimos in that vast field and was illustrated by lantern slides. The missions were shown right up to Herschell and Coronation Gulf within the arctic circle. The large number of natives Christianized was a revelation as was also the great extent of the work being carried on. Bishop Lucas spent 25 years in the Mackenzie diocese and was consecrated bishop in 1912. He has been elected to leave that field owing to his wife's health and is at present acting as assistant to the Bishop of Saskatchewan.

Last Friday evening, the girls of the dance at the School of Agriculture, the car of one of the boys ran into an engine at the mill crossing. ACT 2.—SCENE: The Same. LATE AFTERNOON
ACT 3.—SCENE: The Same. EVENING.

SYNOPSIS:

Dr. Bellows, widow bobby is a steam bath, has written to an old sweetheart, Amelia Tobin, asking her to marry him. He has a daughter, Florence, for whom he plans to provide a husband, the nephew of an old friend, Simeon Singleton. This nephew, Algernon Clawhammer, being rich, Dr. Bellows gets a butler in order to make an impression. However, he hears that part of Simeon's letter which gives the nephew's name. The butler, Augustus May, arriving first, he is taken for the nephew who, when he arrives, is trotted as a butler causing a moderate mix-up. Mrs. MacHornon, a widow, has designs on Dr. Bellows; she has a daughter Dolly. The maid, Maggie Brady, is taken for the mistress, Florence Bellows, by both the butler, Augustus May, and by the nephew, Algernon, which complicates matters. Amelia Tobin is impossible, so Dolly and George (Amelia's son), who are both bored with widowed mothers, put their heads together to help things out. How everything eventually gets straightened out the play will show.

Annual Meeting Vermilion Agricultural Society

William Telford will guide the destiny of the Vermilion Agricultural Society again as its president for the year in 1927 in succession to A. W. Ebbett who held that office during the year now about to close. Mr. Telford's election came at the close of the annual meeting held on Saturday last in the Bronconnier Hall, at which a large number of the members were present. After the president the selection rested on the retiring president, and for second vice, W. M. Steele was chosen. The directors elected were as follows: A. H. Green, James Barr, W. F. Daley, J. C. Cross, J. W. G. Morden, W. H. Duncan, N. McClellan, W. D. Williams, J. J. Duncan, W. L. Hobbins, A. B. Sharpe, N. Meinnes, H. Hedeine, J. C. Turber, W. F. Bell and J. F. Andrews.

The report of the directors for 1926 was published and upon motion the same was received and a vote of thanks passed to the retiring officers and directors for their services during the year, which was acknowledged in be a fairly successful one for the year. The financial statement was read by the secretary-treasurer, W. E. Sutton. The report showed the total receipts to have been $11,149.90, with a cash balance on hand of over $2500.00. The total amount paid in prizes was over $4,300.00. The gate receipts were about $1150.00. The report was received and placed on file. Messrs. Telford and Steele were appointed delegates to the Western Canada Fairs Association which meets early next year at Brandon, and W. F. Daley a delegate to the Alberta Fairs Association which meets at Calgary shortly after the other.

It was decided to hold a poultry show and seed fair about the 15th of February, the definite date to be announced later. A committee was appointed to take charge of the show and have a prize list issued as soon as possible. At a meeting subsequently of the directors, W. E. Sutton was appointed secretary treasurer.

The membership of the Society now numbers over 150

"Whose Little Bride Are You?"

"that cave aside" and follow the crowd to the Columbia Theatre on Monday evening next, Dec. 6th, for the biggest laugh of your life "Whose Little Bride Are You?" presented by St. Saviour's dramatic club. Two and a half hours of solid amusement are given in this three-act comedy farce, presented by a club that is noted for the excellence of its presentations, so reserve your seat now at Long's Drug Store. Bring the children, they will enjoy it too and there are three front rows reserved for them

In addition to those of the cast mentioned last week, Miss Vonda Wilson of Edmonton will charm you with her interpretation of the part of Florence Bellows, daughter of the amorous Dr. Miss Doris Tatham adds zest to the play in the role of Maggie Brady, while Miss Marian Kenneth will both surprise and entertain you as "Dolly" the "cold little girl."

Stanley Riggs as Simeon Singleton proves himself a rare companion to Dan Taylor as the doctor, while F. C. Redmond as Augustus May, and Ken. MacLean as George Tobin fill their parts with great acceptance. The program with a complete cast page and cuts is published next week in this issue. Read it, then you will agree that "Whose Little Bride Are You?" does indeed give every indication of proving "the laugh of the season."

Wheat Pool News Notes

The Alberta Wheat Pool has now a membership of thirty-eight thousand and fifty Alberta farmers, the home and contracts were received last week

W. J. Jackman, Alberta Wheat Pool director, now in the Argentine repeating, is expected home about Dec. 15th. He is studying conditions there as to half of the Canadian Pool. Argentine markets its wheat in the old "dumping" style, only many times worse than Canadian farmers ever practised. A few big firms buy practically all the Argentine wheat for export and they see to it that prices are decidedly low when the farmer has to sell

The Alberta Wheat Pool directors will conduct a series of meeting throughout the district during the month of December and January, in accordance with the terms of their contract. Failure to comply will cause down at power plant

Conserve Seed Oats

All possible steps are being taken by the provincial and dominion seed branches to conserve the supply of seed oats in the provinces, due to the shortage which exists. The elevator companies are responding to the request that they store whatever seed oats are available, and it is hoped that if all elevator companies do this, rather than ship the oats out of the province, the situation can be taken care of. Farmers who need feed oats should apply to elevators at once. Those farmers who have oats they wish to use for seed should obtain a germination test as soon as possible

"Look forward to the first of the series of "The Adventures of Maisie," at the Columbia, Dec 13 & 14. There is a whirlwind of fun in these new 2 reelers, each one a complete story. Don't miss it. Everyone is bound to enjoy you in laughter

NOTICE

All Electric Power Users are notified they must go off the line at 6 o'clock p.m. daily during the months of December and January, in accordance with the terms of their contract.

Failure to comply will cause down at power plant

FIGHT FERGUSON, NOT TORY PARTY

Will of People Disregarded, States Ontario Liberal Leader

OSHAWA, Ont., Nov. 30 Declaring that "the will of the people must prevail," W. E. N. Sinclair, provincial Liberal leader, in a final election appeal issued here yesterday, calls upon the people of the province to reject Premier Howard Ferguson and other Conservative candidates whom he charges with having disregarded that will.

The battle waged by the Liberals during the present campaign was not against the Conservative party the Liberal leader said but against Premier Ferguson and his candidates "who stood upon a policy in direct violation of the principle that the will of the people ought to prevail" Premier Ferguson," he said, "chose his own policy. That policy has never been endorsed by the Conservative party. Rather has he chosen to depart from the policy of his party. Members of Conservatives are preparing to return to follow Premier Ferguson with his self-made policy.

"With your endorsation at the polls, you may rest assured that I and those whom you elect to support me will furnish Ontario with a business administration whose foundation shall be integrity, economy, good will and obedience to the will of the people."

ALBERTA OIL AND GAS PRODUCTIONS

Alberta deep gas wells for the first time in history, produced more gas than Ontario during the year 1925, according to statistics issued by the bureau of statistics. Production of 9,115,504 thousand cubic feet by Alberta wells is recorded, against 7,462,942 for Ontario. In 1925 Ontario produced 142,134 barrels of oil, while Alberta produced 182,691. A total of 2,805 wells were in operation in Canada during the year.

ALBERTA FARMER WINS WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP FOR WHEAT AND OATS AT CHICAGO

Herman Trelle of Lake Saskatoon Awarded Double Honor

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Herman Trelle of Lake Saskatoon, Alberta, at noon today was adjudged onto king of America by winning the coin sweepstake at the international hay and grain show held in connection with the livestock exhibition here. Trelle was, yesterday, picked as wheat king of the country.

This is the first time in history when world's champion wheat and world's champion oats were grown on the same farm, and means that Canada is not only professional by right of time in those two most important grains for another year; but that she retains the versatility trio of all time.

Teen Victory Calmly

The young Alberta farmer took calmly the decision making him the most famous farmer in North America. Very modest in years of age, Mr. Trelle told reporters that he started talk ers's age as a homestead farmer, with no capital, after finding his profession, civil engineering, not to his liking. At that time he did not know the difference between wheat and oats. Now he is king of both.

From 160 acres he has increased his holdings to 320 acres.

The Albertan has developed into a scientific farmer, using government bulletins and reading all available books on the subject.

The wheat he is showing is Marquis which has won every prize here, both American and Canadian. His wheat weighed 65.5 pounds to the bushel. The oats were the Victory variety, weighing 41 pounds to the bushel, the heaviest of any exhibit here. He gave credit for his success to his wife.

Celebrate The Arrival Of Railway

Elk Point and District Hold Banquet

A most enjoyable evening was spent through the efforts of Messrs. F. S. Van Arnam and L. G. Courrier, in the pool room which is run by Mr. Courrier and who very kindly lent it for the purpose of celebrating the long and patiently waited for railway. Invitations were sent out to all the families in town and enjoy a social evening, which was responded to in great numbers. The memorable occasion was started at nine p.m. with a Whist drive and dance. Supper was supplied free to all after which Hon. Landas Jolly of St. Paul and the Hon. Amos Dubuis, member for Beaver River were gave quite an eloquent get-upon speech, congratulating the people of Elk Point in at last securing the railway, also remarking on the very happy relationship of the community to each other. Both the honorable members were heartily applauded. After the inner man had been satisfied the dance proceeded. A word in season may be said about the orchestra which consists of four very able instrumentalists who gave a much varied selection of dance music.

The committee were assisted in preparing the supper by the following ladies: Mrs. F. E. Van Arnam, Mrs. Lester Smith, Mrs. Frank Pinder and Mrs. Mulholland. The guests numbered two hundred.

A hearty vote of thanks was given to the committee for the use of his hall which made the gathering possible. The dance was concluded at four thirty

James White, aged 86 years and 7 months, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. G. Armstrong at the farm northeast of Vermilion, on Tuesday morning. The funeral took place this Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the services being held at the United church, and interment was made in the Vermilion cemetery. Mr. White lived in town for a number of years past, being prominent in Orangeism and was probably one of the oldest Orangemen in the province. He was highly thought of by a very large circle of acquaintances and was a man of strong character and kindly disposition.

Presbyterian Church Sale A Splendid Success

The annual sale of the Ladies' Aid Hiery of the First Presbyterian church Was held Saturday afternoon last in the Britannerube Hall and was a splendid success. Particular interest centred on the sewing table which was laden with household articles of almost every variety and all the handiwork of the members of the auxiliary. Everybody present commented on the beautiful array of aprons, nursery dolls, children's knit goods, crochetwork, christmas gifts, notions, etc. Two or three tables were devoted to the sale of home cooking and candy A pleasing feature of the occasion was the rendering of solos by Rev. F. J. Stevens Harwood and Gilbert Brine ruthe played several selections during the afternoon. Misses Nora Parker and Isabel McKone very charmingly assisted in serving tea. Over $115 were realized

The thanks of the committee in charge are extended to all those who so kindly patronized the sale as well as to those who assisted in the work of preparation also wish to express their appreciation of the advertising facilities extended to it by the Standard and Craig Bros. Ltd

Proficiency Medal For Grade Eight

To the pupil standing highest in the examinations for Grade VIII as set by the department of education, Mr J. W. G Morrison, chairman of the school board, will award a gold medal. The announcement was made by the chairman at a meeting of the board held last week. Pupils in this grade heretofore have been promoted to Grade IX largely by recommendation of the principal Before the opening of this term the board made it known that in future pupils of grade eight would have to take the examinations set by the department for that grade. This was later confirmed by a resolution of the board. The examination takes place in June The general proficiency of the pupil during the term will be taken into considerations in making the award.

TAX ON WOLVES

Unfortunate to the practice adopted in other western provinces, the Alberta Provincial Game Department has now decided to add to the list of furbearing animals on which a tax must be paid, the wolves of the province. These include the timber wolf, the grey wolf, and the prairie wolf or coyote. For all of which pelts, in future, a tax of twenty-five cents must be paid.

OBITUARY

In the passing away of the late Mr James White, Vermilion lost one of its o-ontne old-timers He was laid to rest in the Vermilion cemetery on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 2nd. The funeral service was held from the United church and was conducted by the Rev M S Kerr, assisted by Rev. J. W. Bell and Rev P. J. Slade. The pall-bearers were all fellow members of the local Loyal Orange Lodge

Mr. White was born in Belfast, Ireland, May 1st, 1811, and came to Canada as an infant. His family settled at Inverness, Quebec. In 1863 he married Miss Elizabeth Dempsey, who predeceased him on Feb. 20th, 1902. Nine children were born to Mr. and Mrs. White all whom the following survive William, James, John, Robert, Andrew, Mrs. Cooke, Wellesdale, and Mrs Armstrong, Island Hill

Mr. White came to Vermilion in 1911 and for several years resided in town. Latterly he spent his declining years between the homes of his two daughters, north of town. Enjoying remarkable health all his life he was able to get about, although well over eighty-five and until the Sunday before his death was able to be out of bed. A man of genuine integrity and high moral principle, his decease makes a notable blank in the community in which he was so favourably known

"The Captain of Plymouth"

The cream of 1926 productions, with a great and dazzling array of Vermilion's finest vocal and dramatic talent.

A one great big out-o-doors undertaking, involving heavy costs, to give to the good folks of this community a real and different class of evening's entertainment.

Upon the question is asked, what will be done with the proceeds, but seeing it over in the question asked, who is footing the bill for the advance expenses, and in the event of the production being on the wrong side of the balance sheet, who will make good the deficit?

For the benefit of those who are not aware of the fact, let me say this, that contributors or boosters on a cash basis only, and when one has to climb the coast of 70 performers in the costume of the period, it will then be realized easily, that someone has to put up the cash, and no reliable assurance that he or she will get it back from the entertainment's proceeds—

In this—our case, should the production make a surplus, then some worthy cause will benefit, but in case this it requires a bonus packed to capacity

The promoters have sought to give the public something unique in the entertainment line, so give them what they reward a full house, and you can rest assured you will get 100 per cent value for your dollars

In closing my notes, let me review the backbone of the principal characters. Miss Grace Hay needs no introduction, you all know her, know her capabilities, and know she is a high class amateur actress. You will enjoy her in the role of Kaionha, the Indian princess.

Mrs. Heather and the Misses McPherson and Alexander as three decidedly Puritan maidens, will be sure to catch your eye and please you with their dances and lively songs

So be pleased, dear folks, remember, remember, 15th December, the Columbia Theatre. W. R. Efford a Co in "The Captain of Plymouth."

Yours,

The Sales Tax

Spokesmen for the various organizations throughout the country which are now considering reductions in Federal taxation, including abolition of the Income Tax, are right in saying that the best method of relief is the bottom horse by the individual taxpayer but the necessity of encouraging investment in productive enterprises and in national works of development. Their main argument is that the Income Tax penalizes enterprise, drives people out of the country because of the heavy imposed on them and discourages investment in industrial and development works, leading people rather to invest in non-speculative bonds and securities.

If this is the chief evil to be achieved through a further reduction in taxes then and if the all important consideration is the stimulation of business and consequent employment, the Sales Tax would seem to be the better method. The Income Tax is not the only one which is examined to ascertain its effect on business and revenue is continually being altered. The Sales Tax which imposes a five per cent. levy whether you are making money or not is regulated by no such principle. The Income Tax is one which the wage earner, the man on a salary, the farmer, the manufacturer, the financial man, and those who are living on the interest from their investments, all contribute to. There is no escape. They must pay to the Government on their personal incomes, and pay proportionately large or small amounts dependent upon the size of their income in this respect it must be admitted that a properly graded income tax is a fair method of taxation.

The Sales Tax, on the other hand, is, in the final analysis, paid by the ultimate consumer, and the manufacturer, the financial magnate, the investor in bonds, mortgages and other securities, only pays to the extent that he is a consumer, and despite great wealth and large income it is only possible for a man to eat so much or wear so much clothes just as the average wage earner of man on a salary. They, like clothing and food and furniture may cost more, but the extent of his purchases are more or less regulated by his needs.

The manufacturer of a given article fixes his selling price. To that he adds five per cent. Sales Tax which he pays over to the Government. He has to collect this tax money back again from the jobber, wholesaler, the merchant to whom he sells his product. The manufacturer does not pay the Sales Tax himself. In like manner the jobber, wholesaler and merchant passes it on to the ultimate consumer, all as part of the cost of the article. The consumer, therefore, pays the tax to the Government, the others being middlemen in the process of collection.

This Sales Tax, therefore, operates directly to enhance prices in Canada and, consequently, to decrease the purchasing power of the whole people. It therefore imposes additional expense upon all business concerns in the matter of bookkeeping, collection, remittance, and interest paid on outstanding moneys.

It is a self-evident proposition that the removal of the Sales Tax would result in saving to every person in the Dominion, because all are consumers, whereas the removal of the tax on incomes would only benefit a comparatively small proportion of the population, and that portion which is best able to pay.

The removal of the Sales Tax, and the consequent lowering of prices which would automatically follow, would increase the purchasing power of the people, leading to larger sales, and increased employment, and more comfort and more money.

In a word, the effect of the removal of the Sales Tax would be just what the advocates of Income Tax abolition desire, namely, an added impetus to business production, to employment which would keep people in Canada, and to the whole all round development of the Dominion, including the bringing of its vast natural resources more quickly into the field of development.

On the other hand, if the Income Tax is abolished and the Sales Tax retained it will result in leaving the taxation imposed on are escalated and in the weaker section, without in the slightest degree benefiting the wage earner and man on a small salary, or that huge body of our population whose incomes are below taxable amounts, but, those people will all still contribute heavily through the Sales Tax, which would contribute as a drag on business expansion and national development.

If the financial requirements of the Dominion Treasury can stand it, reduce the Income Tax by all means and, as proposed in a previous article in this column, provide for continued gradual reductions over a period of years. But if same is to be abolished outright and the other retained, the removal of the Sales Tax would appear to confer the greater benefit, not only on business enterprise and works of development, but on the people of the whole land.

The Strength Of Rafters

Floor Alive With Creatures After Reported Washings When Small Quantity Was Spilled.

Once in a laboratory a tiny tube containing less than two thousandths of an ounce of radium was accidentally dropped on a hardwood floor and broken. With a camel's hair brush they swept up the radium. Then they washed the floor with ordinary water to get the rest of it. But enough remained to render necessary another washing, this time with acidulated water, and still another, with soda water, and a fourth time, with hydrogen water. Each washing yielded about $100 worth of radium, and still the floor was alive with radium emanations, and no accurate scientific measurements could be made in that room. Finally a carpenter came and ripped up the floor. Three years later the shavings were burned, and the ashes were found to be strong in radium emanations.

THE TONIC THAT GIVES STRENGTH

After Acute Diseases the Blood Must be Built Up Before Recovery is Complete

Fevers and other acute diseases like pneumonia and influenza, leave the blood thin, weak, with little red, life giving nerves. The period of convalescence is often long and trying and tests the power of health. Frequently followed so brief an illness as an attack of influenza, pneumonia, etc. Much of this sort of misery could be avoided by taking steps to build up the blood so that it can carry to the nerves and tissues the nourishment the body the elements they need to repair their waste, with renewed health and vitality. To build up the blood and restore the nerves to health, there is no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. From first to last it is the blood that these pills make blood and that restore good health and vigor.

The value of these pills in combating disorders described above is shown by the statement of Mrs. Roberts Griffin, Bonnyville, Alta., who says: "In March, 1921, I was stricken with pneumonia, and at the time I had little hope was held out for my recovery. However, by the skill of the doctor and the help with about after some months. But I did not recover my strength. The cough left me, but my appetite was poor, I grew nervous and restless. My blood was thin and I gradually grew up body of ever being strong again. Reading something that in my girlhood I had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for pale people, I decided to try them again. By the time I had used two boxes there was no doubt the pills were helping me, and before long my health was soon able to attend to my household duties. I continued using the pills, however, until I had used twelve boxes, by which time I was enjoying better health than I had for years previous ten years. In gratitude for what the pills have done for me I give this statement in the hope that it may be the means of helping some other weak, de-pendent woman."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Was World-Famous Inventor of Firearms

John M. Browning Dies While Working on New Shotgun

John M. Browning, world famous inventor of firearms, is dead in Belgium, Browning went to Liege, Belgium, to perfect his latest invention, an "over and under" double-barrelled shotgun and the message telling of his death came from Liege. The new gun had one barrel above the other instead of horizontal barrels. It was to be manufactured in the Liege plant. It was this plant which in 1912 manufactured the military rifle, machine gun and pistol. In honor of this achievement King Albert conferred upon Browning the title of Chevalier of the Order of Leopold.

Chinese New Method Of Making Steel

Germany Has Produced Metal Without Impurities and Defects

Discovery is claimed of a new steel making process which yields a harder and at the same time more elastic metal than any made by existing methods.

The discovery, made in the laboratories of the German Dye Trust, is said to have resulted in the production of steel of the finest quality with none of the impurities and defects now unavoidable in the smelting process.

It is said the steel thus produced is cheaper to manufacture, and it is hoped that the new invention will place the German industry in a dominant position in the international market.

Few Vacancies in Senate

Deaths Occur of Two Senators in Ontario and Two in Quebec

Two senatorial vacancies occurred recently through the deaths of Senator George McIlraith Lindsay and Senator Richard Blain, Brampton. Both senators were representatives of Ontario in the Upper Chamber. Later Senator McIlrath was a Liberal, while Senator Blain was a Conservative.

Four vacancies now exist in the red chamber. The other two are for the provinces of Quebec, brought about by the death this year of Senators H. L. David and Alfred Thibodeau

U. G. G. WILL NOT SELL ELEVATORS TO POOL SYSTEM

Calgary.—That United Grain Growers, Ltd., will not sell out its elevator system to the three provincial wheat pools of Western Canada was the decision reached at the annual meeting by a majority estimated as more than 4 to 1, it is understood, of the delegates. The question had been brought before the delegates by a number of resolutions from locals of the company, some of them in favor of sale, while others expressed determined opposition. In addition, the directors submitted to the meeting a letter received a few days ago by which the boards of the three provincial pools, as a result of a joint meeting held in Winnipeg, notified the company that they were prepared to submit negotiations for the purchase of all United Grain Growers' grain handling facilities, transfer to be completed by 1927, for the handling of the 1927 crop. The resolution which was debated read as follows:

"That the meeting endorse the principle of selling United Grain Growers' grain handling facilities to the provincial wheat pools, and instruct the board of directors to continue negotiations with the pools along the line of the letter submitted to the shareholders in accordance with the requirements of our charter and by-laws, and that the transfer be effected in time to handle the 1927 crop."

An amendment to this resolution submitted during the course of the debate, when it was apparent that the majority would support the first resolution, which it was sought to endorse because of all elevators instead of sale, was defeated, and the resolution which was supported only by one or two votes.

Rely Must Control Temper

France Does Not Take Kindly to Attacks on Legations

Paris.—Italy has the right to show her temper, but France does not, remarked, Premier Minister Briand told the chamber of deputies. At the same time he quietly warned him that he does not take kindly to attacks on her legations in foreign countries, such as recently occurred in the border town of Ventimaglia after the recent attempted assassination of Premier Mussolini.

Most of the foreign ministers' discussion dealt with French relations with the government, resulting in mutual understanding with Germany, he said that only a real settlement of difficulties, so that the peace might be settled, would make for permanent peace.

"Grave differences with Germany still exist," he said, "but we and they are talking with Dr. Stresemann (the German foreign minister) and every day marks progress."

Group of Kabbalists Want to Re-build Solomon's Temple

Geneva.—A petition that the League of Nations request the Palestine Government to allot a strip of land on Mount Moriah, Jerusalem, for the reconstruction of Solomon's temple has been tabled by the Permanent Mandates Commission, here.

The petition emanated from a group of highly orthodox Kabbalists in Jerusalem, headed by Rabbi Jesse Isser

Several petitions concerning Palestine, Syria, and Southwest Africa were considered by the commission.

Good Year for U. G. G.

Calgary. Reports submitted to the twentieth annual meeting of the United Grain Growers Limited, in Calgary, stated that the past year's results had been the best in the history of the company, and certainly, considering the taxation, being $474,374.35. This was due to the large handling of grain through the company's elevators.

FERGUSON WINS IN ONTARIO ON LIQUOR POLICY

Toronto.—The Ferguson Government has emerged from the provincial election with a clear majority of 37 over all opposition.

Every cabinet minister was elected with the exception of Hon. Dr. Doris Jamieson, Minister without Portfolio, taken into the cabinet at dissolution who was defeated in favor of Sperling, a 22-year-old farmer, Farquhar Oliver, member of Hon. John Oliver, premier of British Columbia, in his home constituency of Grenville. Premier Ferguson was elected by the handsome majority of 1,241, though this was surpassed by the 2,318 majority of the Liberal leader, Mr. Sinclair, in Centre South. Mr. Raney, the Progressive leader, had a hard fight in Prince Edward County, but finally won by 61 majority.

An outstanding feature of the election was the defeat in Kingston by over 2,000 majority of Hon. W. F. Nickle, attorney-general in the late government, who parted with Mr. Ferguson on his government policy and ran as a Prohibition candidate.

The verdict of the larger urban centres was solidly in favor of government control, rather unexpectedly the entire Toronto representation being on the side, as did also the three Ottawa seats, the three Hamilton seats, the two London seats and two Windsor seats.

It is anticipated Premier Ferguson will shortly issue a statement forecasting the early calling of session of the newly elected legislature for the purpose of giving effect to his proposals for the government control of liquor, details of which have not yet been determined, and on which he has announced he did not wish to take the collective judgment of the House.

Rush Work On H. B. Road

130 Men Engaged in Laying Rails on Uncompleted 92 Miles

Saskatoon.—According to a special dispatch from Hudson Bay Junction, a gang of 130 men have commenced laying rails on the uncompleted 92 miles of the Hudson Bay Railway. The approaches to the Kettle Rapids Bridge on the North side have been completed and it is the intention to lay the rails to the Limestone River this winter if weather permits, so that supplies for the Limestone bridge can be put in before spring.

In all 700 men are now at work on the railway for the Hudson Bay Company, the port used for heavy mail, line traffic are now in operation to Mile 214, and one train-load of supplies a week is being up the line for construction.

U. F. A. Convention

Lesser Number of Resolutions to Come Before Annual Meet

Calgary.—There will be an unmistakable shrinkage in the number of resolutions that will be presented at the forthcoming annual convention of the U. F. A., when opens in Edmonton January 18. This is owing to the farmers now having their own government. The U. F. A. convention is by no means now regarded as "the Farmers' Parliament." That phrase was thrown into discard after the sensations actually assumed the reins of office in 1922.

The wheat pool also has had the effect of minimizing the number of resolutions sent to the U. F. A., as all those dealing on the wheat pool lines are now forwarded to the board at the pool for attention. At the present time not more than 50 resolutions have been received for presentation to the U. F. A. convention.

Will Test Newest Wheat

Dominion Experimental Farms to Plant Reward Seed Next Spring

Ottawa. — Plant wizards at the Dominion experiment farm here have evolved a new variety of wheat, named Reward, which they say will supersede Marquis as Canada's premier wheat.

The new wheat, it is understood, ripens ten days earlier than Marquis and has proved resistant to rust. It gives greater yields an acre because of the heavier weight of the kernels Reward grown at the experimental farm last summer averaged 65 pounds to the bushel The new variety mills better than Garnet, and is equally as wheat perfected recently at the farm producing a white flour similar to Marquis

Plots of Reward wheat will be planted at the twenty-seven government experimental farms throughout Canada next spring to test its adaptations to practical growing conditions in various soils and climates.

Millions of dollars in research have been put into the pockets of farmers of Canada and the United States It is pointed out, through discoveries at the dominion experimental farm at Raleigh where which is the result of a variety of both countries and which has won world's championships many times in international competition. The chemist in charge of the work has been responsible for the production of a number of new varieties of grain, all of which have been recommended by the Dominion Experimental Farms Service for production on a large scale.

Western Horses Win

Clydesdale Stallion From Reston, Man., is Winner at Guelph Fair

Guelph, Ont.—The Clydesdale horses which came out on top in the judging at the Guelph Winter Fair, made a showing never equalled before at Guelph and very seldom equalled at any show in the Dominion. Arapho Emigrant, owned by the Reston Agricultural Syndicate of Reston, Man., stallion which carried off the grand championship award at the Royal Winter Fair, headed the list of Clydesdales with Pyrie Star, the property of W. J. McCallum, of Brampton, and Reginas, winning the junior champion ship.

Westerners had a walkover in the Clydesdale class, Arapho Emigrant, Man., winning champion honors. Reginas, Man., champion mare. Son of Monarch.

Hon. T. A. Crerar Looks for Big Development in Next Twenty-five Years

Calgary.—Development of Canada during the past 50 years forms a romance unequalled in the history of the world but what has been done is only the vision encouragement, said Hon. T. A. Crerar, president of the United Grain Growers, at a banquet tendered by the board of trade to some delegates to the annual convention of the company.

No country in the world, continued Mr. Crerar, is to see the development in the next 25 years that Canada will see. The delegates were welcomed on behalf of the city by Alderman Frank Hamilton and J. H. Gray, K.C., on behalf of the board of trade.

Says France Setting Trap For Britain

London Paper Comments on Coming Disarmament Parley at Geneva

London.—France is trying to trap Britain into calling for Europe's disarmament, in the opinion of some papers here, and that is used against the settlement of the Anglo-French naval dispute. Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express declaring a trap is being set for Great Britain at Geneva. The Observer, however, takes a more serious view of the matter, warning against Great Britain's accepting the proposals which will be submitted by the delegates of France, Belgium and Finland at Geneva on Monday.

EMPIRE DEFENCE SPEECHES MADE AT CONFERENCE

London. — Speeches delivered by Premier Stanley Baldwin, Premier Mackenzie King of Canada, Premier Bruce of Australia, Premier J. G Coster of New Zealand, Premier W. F Monroe of Newfoundland, Hon. N. C Havenga, South African Minister of Finance, and Maharajah Dhirapa, Ha hadur of Jhalawar, India delegate at the Imperial Conference, on the subject of Imperial defence have been issued

In his address Premier Mackenzie King expressed appreciation of the Australian proposals submitted by the Deputies Powers, adding that they fit in with the need for all parts of the Empire to keep abreast of defence developments. The maintenance of a navy adequate to the Empire's needs is the first line of defence for the overseas dominions, and the Canadian government has been giving careful consideration to the question of a naval policy for Canada. Canada's geographical position, with its long seaboards on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, makes the naval question one of special importance to the Dominion.

Mr Baldwin, the British premier, was the first speaker. Premier Baldwin stated that the present program of work is limited by what is essential to enable the maintenance of the Singapore scheme to proceed with reasonable expedition. The government would not ask for any increase in the naval estimates beyond what is necessary to carry out the Singapore scheme. He said he hoped the Dominions and India would share in the benefits and the advantages of the recently established Imperial Conference machinery.

Comedy Successfully Staged Monday Night

Large Audience Most Appreciative-Players Took Their Parts Well

December 6th has come and gone, and now stars in this theatrical firmament shone, and then moved on. It really seems a shame that the average amateur play lives such a brief time, when one comes to think of the work and patience that has been woven into them, for one or two nights' performance.

This year's production of the St. Saviour's Dramatic Club, "Whose Little Bride are You?" revealed many new faces among the cast, and all gave a good account of themselves, and performed his or her part very creditably.

A home talent play is, as a rule, always given a good turn-out, and Monday night proved no exception, as a good crowd was there and enjoyed themselves in the fullest. The play was a comedy and was packed with good laughs and humorous situations. Amongst the players, Vernon Cooper and Grace Bury stood out most prominent, and Vern certainly aroused sympathy (mostly from the ladies) for the way he was so badly abused. A part of this kind—Le Algie Clave, Alfonso Fibbet—suitable for Vernon, and he was at his best throughout, and gained more honours for himself.

Miss Bury as Mrs. Tobin, was a screamn, and Grace was certainly at home in her part and brought many a laugh from her audience. Very capable style.

Lucy Rashleigh this time played the part of a society widow, and rival to Mrs. Tobin, and so well did she display charms that Don Taylor fell for her eventually, and very gallantly the advantage over her rival. She was very good and did herself great credit

Don Taylor as Jack Tobin was also clever, capable and proficient, and he carried practically the burden of the play. He has added one more new role to his fame as an amateur Thespian.

New faces were predominant in this entertainment, and they all acquitted themselves creditably. Marian Kendall — as the little old girl — was petite, demure, and winning, and we can venture to say that no other member of the cast could have filled the role as Marian did. It was cleverly done.

Vonda Wilson, as sympathetic Florence Bellows, gave a very nice rendition, and it is to be regretted that she leaves the district so soon. She will be distinctly missed in future productions.

As Singleton, the flirtatious bachelor, we had Stan Riggs, and very few but gave him sympathy when they saw how well he got in the marriage lottery and bravely he took his medicine. Stan was good.

Kenneth Maclean should be be, at theatrical work as he showed himself to be very adaptable along this line Congrats., "Georgie"!

Hip! Hip! west Redmond when he imbibed the sherry severely, and he made a nice butler masquerading as a gentleman.

Maggie, who would fall in love, and who would go to the ravon, was taken by Doris Tatham, and she did her part justice. Congratulations to the players all round, and may you all be together in another one, very soon.

The club is deeply indebted to Miss Althea Ebbett for her kind assistance and to "The Orioles" orchestra for the excellent music dispensed between acts. Also to Mr. Waring and others for the use of furniture and properties used in the play.

The annual meeting of the Vermilion Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. G. Sample on Wednesday last. Fourteen ladies were present. After the general business was completed the election of officers for the new year took place. The following were elected: President, Mrs. A. Cameron; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. Hay; 2nd vice-president, Miss Pfevell; Secretary, Mrs. R. J. Gould; Treasurer, Mrs. R. Fraser; Board of Directors: Mrs. F. Baker, Mrs. M. Wener, and Mrs. J. Weber, Mrs. M. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Sample, the retiring president, for her splendid work in the Institute throughout the year.

Mrs. Newlove favoured the meeting with a delightful solo, accompanied by Mrs. Baker at the piano

Refreshments were served by Mrs Fish and Mrs. Sample

During the year, ten meetings were held, a "Print Aid" talk was given by Dr. Bell; 136 hospital calls were made by visiting committees New curtains and window box cover were purchased for the Institute ward in the Hospital A quilt was made for the Red Cross, and 34 articles made for the hospital by the Ladies.

The Institute obtained first prize ($25.00) at the Edmonton Fair, for the best Institute exhibit On the whole, the year's work was considered successful and it is hoped that more of the ladies of the community will a vail themselves of the opportunities for service, which this organization offers

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

A typewriting contest held in New York City, was won by a Brooklyn girl who typed 3,100 words in half an hour.

Over thirty-five million horses are not enough for the Russians and they are so lazy commercial arrangements with neighboring states for the import of more animal. In Russia are already one-third of the horses of the world.

Experts say that the output will soon be greater than the world's total annual consumption.

After 27 years in dispute, during which he was lost ten state charges, Charles Ponzi, the Italian swindler of London, will suffer 3 months' imprisonment in a home in a town in the Kerrigan district. Under which law Ponzi will be deported to his native country when he has served his prison sentence.

At graduation in 1926 he was awarded the Copeland scholarship and another gold medal.

Honey Is a Wholesome Food

Money to Predigested, and so Easily Assimilated

Money may be said to be predigested in that the bees have mouthed the sugar content of the nectar, which is sucrose so that in well-ripened honey the sugar content is chiefly levulose and dextrose in other words, the bees have already accomplished the change which takes place in the digestion of ordinary cane sugar or beet sugar. Honey is therefore immediately avail able as a source of energy to those having to undergo the process of digestion, as is the case with sugar. Honey is not the only food that is ready for assimilation when taken into the stomach. There are a number of preparations which may be said to be predigested food, in the same sense that honey is predigested, which are used for invalids or children who lack the processes of digestion may not be properly functioning. The fact that honey is ready for assimilation is a good talking point to its favor in some cases, but for those whose digestive apparatus is in good working order it is better to emphasize its other good qualities, especially that it is a delicious and concentrated article of food

B. C. Methouse Tomatoes

The second crop of hot-house tomatoes from Vancouver Island is finding a ready market this year. Already five cars of tomatoes have been shipped to Eastern Canada. Three cars have rolled to Toronto and two to Montreal. All are the product of the Victoria Cooperative Hot-house Growers Association who established a record with their large shipments to the east last spring. Cucumber shipments are so far confined to the prairie here. The price for both cukes and tomatoes is satisfactory

Curbing The Reckless

Cancelling Motor License a Sure Way to Deal With Drunken Drivers

During the first eight days of November, 1,202 automobile licenses were revoked and the rights of as many drivers to operate motor cars cancelled in the state of New York in many cases the cause was driving a car while intoxicated. The method of curbing recklessness and reducing the dangers from auto traffic is not a thing of very recent application across the border. It has the sanction of experience. Flaws and imperfections were found in work and penalty when imposed for minor breaches of the law relating to safety; but they were wholly inadequate in cases of habitual caution and excessive speed. It was discovered that the only way to deal effectively with the driver who appeared on a public highway in a state of inebriation, or who deliberately disregarded the safe-guards taken to safeguard life, was to take away his right to drive all vehicles that he owned or had registered in his name. The treatment is found to be remedial as well as effective.

After 27 years in operation, during which he was lost ten state charges, Charles Ponzi, the Italian swindler of London, will suffer 3 months' imprisonment in a home in a town in the Kerrigan district. Under which law Ponzi will be deported to his native country when he has served his prison sentence. Under such we shall have taken a long and promising step toward the protection of life, limb and property on our public highways. It must come to that. Why not now?—Montreal Gazette

Africans Cruel To Flyers

Forced to Land in Safaris Ore Killed and Two Wounded

The first instance of sheer serial mail-men have been victims of African native savagery is described in a brief report, received here recently from the Madrid authorities, telling of the death of a pilot and a mechanic and the serious wounding of a second pilot, all of whom had been forced to the operating an airplane of the postal service in the heart of the French East Africa between Dakar and Cape Juby.

Lost since October 27 fear was felt that these French aviators might have fallen into the hands of the surrounding blacks, who sometimes regard a disabled aeroplane as legitimate prey.

The message from Madrid gave no details, merely recounting the death of Henry, the pilot, and Pintado, the mechanic, and the wounding of the second pilot, who is now in the hands of the natives their machine devel oped engine trouble, forcing a land ing in a wild part of the Sahara Desert in the low-lying country near Cap Bojador in Spanish territory. The Spanish police operating in the western Sahara have taken steps to obtain the liberation of the wounded man

Predict New Empire Capital

May be Canadian City Opinion of Officers at Imperial Conference

It is not beyond the realms of possibility that London some day may lose its position as the heart of the British Empire to a mighty city in Canada or Australia.

Officials at the recent Imperial conference say the evolution of the British Empire will continue, but they are sometimes bewildered when trying at visualizing the distant future and contemplated possibilities and developments under the law schools of the things that has gradually been growing.

In the view of those far-sighted in habitants of Downing Street, the security of the Crown is considered one of the outstanding results of the Imperial conference. Men closely in touch with those conversations point out that the loudness of opinion expressed more than a month over the relations of the mother country to the overseas Empire units, but the question of the Crown was never raised for it is accepted as an incontrovertible fact that the Crown is the grass and democracy

Air Pilot Sticks to Damaged Airplane in Attempt to Save Passenger

The maritime tradition that the captain must be the last to leave a ship has carried into the air by Lieut. D. S. Cornwall, U.S.N., when one wings of his plane became damaged and his ship went out of control. Cornwall observed that his passenger, P. D. Curtiss, could not extricate himself for descent by parachute. Cornwall, realizing the air was full of ships, continued to manipulate his controls in a futile effort to bring the plane safely down. In the crash Curtiss was seriously injured and Curtiss killed.

Canadian Colonization

Is Just as Much a Problem as Immigration

Canada is pre-eminently an agricultural country, and yet the farm does not exert that attraction for a settling youth that it should in Europe they are preaching the doctrine of "back to the land." A similar movement would not be amiss in this country. The problem of the people of Canada is just as much a problem of colonization as of immigration and the finest colonization material is to be found right among our own people, if it can be attracted to the farm

Joins Wheat Pool Staff

W. A. MacLeod Appointed Director of Publicity for the Inter-Provincial Wheat Pool

W. A. MacLeod, Commissioner of Publications for the Saskatchewan government, is resigning his position to go to Winnipeg as director of publicity for the Wheat Pool the first of the year. It is announced by J. McPhail, President of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and chairman of the Inter-provincial Pool committee.

Mr. MacLeod, ex-bank-steadier at 3 former newspapers, has been in the employ of the provincial office since 1919, when he was appointed Editor of Publications. When the Bureau of Publications was created, approximately three years later, he was made its first commissioner. In this position he has been in charge of the open shelf, traveling libraries and motion picture branch and has had supervision of all government publicity.

Mr MacLeod came to Saskatchewan in 1906, and after homesteading in the Kerrobert district for a few years, joined the staff of the Saskatoon Phoenix. He was at different times editor of the Daily Phoenix, circulation manager, advertising manager, city editor and associate editor in partnership with J. F. Bole, now owner and proprietor of The Saskatoon Star and now proprietor of The Prince Albert Herald. In the Commons, now of Vancouver, he started The Saturday Press, and with T. M. Pearce, now deputy clerk in the House of Commons, was associate editor for several years of The Saturday Press and Prairie Farm at Parkdale.

Mr. MacLeod is an honorary member of the Saskatchewan Weekly Newspaper Association.

Big Fur Farms

Barren Islands off Northern British Columbia Coast to be Used for Breeding

Barren Islands off the Northern British Columbia coast are being converted into vast breeding grounds of foxes. Within the past few months several farms have been established at various points and stocked with animals brought from fur farms in Alaska, and those promoting the various enterprises declare that this territory will soon be able to compete on even terms with any other part producing district. Climatic and other conditions are said to be well suited for the early production of prime fur on these islands.

Five pair of blue fox, the first stock for the new farm established on the Barren Islands by Captain Charles Swanson have been turned loose during the past few days and another batch of five pair will soon follow, Alaska shortly. The Khaahan Islands farm is typical of a group of small fur farms that have recently been established and whose aggregate output is expected to be an important item soon in the province's commercial revenue.

More Wheat To China

Increased Demand for Canadian Wheat From Shanghai

An increased demand for Canadian wheat for the flour mills of Shanghai, China, is reported by C. O. Julian, trade commissioner of the Vancouver Harbor Board, who has been on a nine months' trade mission to the Orient. Julian says that Canada has a wonderful opportunity to develop her trade with the Far East and that the Canadian Pacific Railway generally throughout the East know the qualities of Canadian hard wheat and are making every effort to import larger quantities of it than ever. They mix it with the poorer grades of wheat that are grown in the East, and so keep up the standard of the whole

Wire Beds Wheat And Oat Championships

Norman Trelle, of Wembley, Alta., to First Kiss to Win Both Sweepstakes

Canada walked away with the championship for best oats at the International Livestock Exposition and Hay and Grain Show at Chicago, Herman Trelle, Wembley, Alta., following up his victory in wheat by duplicating the performance in oats with a sample weighing 40 pounds to the bushel.

Trelle has established a record by being the first man to win the wheat and oats sweepstakes in the same year

The International Wheat Producing Championship went to Canada for the fifteenth time in the last sixteen years.

We Cheat For League

Would Provide Financial Aid to Country Considered in the Right

A League of Nations war chest to provide funds to enforce any proposals adopted when the league council's chairman-at reconsideration of a dispute between members, originates with the Finnish delegation. Such a proposition of any nation which may be started with a $5,000,000 fund to give the league a power to rush financial aid to the country it decided was in the right and to discourage war.

With it will come up proposals planned to facilitate action by the league council when it is found that the body is called upon to check threat ened warfare, which might spread to other countries.

Belief that the league's general disarmament conference can be confidently looked for during next year is held by Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, Britain's representative at the forthcoming conference, who is here preparing for the meeting.

"Both the foreign secretary and myself are hopeful that we will reach the earliest possible date," said Viscount Cecil, but we are convinced that if the terms that have recently been published is made to might fail England is strongly in favor of disarmament and to the League's peace demand it."

Five Rules For Happiness

Simple Things That Will Make Life Easier

Five simple rules for happiness were given recently in an address in Montreal by by Charles Bamber, former chief engineer on a President Ball. They were as follows

(1) "Cultivate the habit of always looking on the bright side of things. Maybe but they cob too hard. I

(2) "Accept cheerfully the place life has allotted to you, believing that you are where you can do that piece of work for God

(3) "Throw your whole soul into every task you do it as well as you are capable

(4) "Form the habit of always doing courteous things. The more happiness you give the more you get

(5) "Adopt and maintain from day to day a simple childlike confidence in God as your Father."

An Interesting Exhibit

The naval section of the Imperial War Museum in London was opened recently. One of the most interesting things to be seen is the life gun fired by the Kaiser, which fired the first shot during the raid on Heligoland Bight on August 28, 1914. This wall of the gallery is lined with the names of every ship which flew the white ensign during the war

A Negro's Philosophy

The curious one asked a negro why was whitewashing a fence. "Sam, why don't you get a brush with more bristles in it?"

"What fish?" replied the old man "Why, if you had a good brush you could do twice as much work"

"Yassah, but Ah ain't got twice as much wuk to do."

An average size tree with spread of fifty feet of foliage under normal conditions throws off five barrels of water a day in the form of vapor. This is attracted to the clouds and returns to the earth as rain

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 11

THE BOY SAMUEL

Golden Text: "Speak, Jehovah; for thy servant heareth.—1 Samuel 3:9.

Lesson: 1 Samuel, chapters 1-3.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 119: 9-16.

Explanations and Comments

1. Samuel's Call, verses 1-9.—The Hebrew word translated "child" in the text is applied in the Bible to an infant and also to a man of forty. Jewish says Samuel had just completed his twelfth year when the word of the Lord came to him. If so then he had reached the age that Jesus had when he dedicated himself to the Lord's business. Samuel's childhood fell in the service of the temple, and seems to have been the special attendant of the aged man whose eyes had begun to grow dim

"The continuous growth of character, from a child carrying "Old Ironsides" to say, he learned his work from the old man, and to obeying him he never failed. Success, he says, is largely obedience to human guides, and he never tried to be smart. What he did—a lesson needed in our days by both parents and children."—Dr. Alexander Maclaren.

ferent agony every month. One day when I was at my wits' end I decided to get some to try your medicine. Mr. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once and I took it. I started a second bottle, and to my surprise and joy the pains left me. I am completely well and I am able to do all my work without help. Lastly, I am a farmer's wife, so you see I can't be idle long. In all, I have taken a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and have also used the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. L. LAFLEUSSE, Box 103, Camden, Ontario.

"Now you may bring me some tea." For a moment the maid hesitated, then answered: "Lord Inverlaire has been waiting, Mademoiselle, for much more than an hour He is in his room."

Joanna was all sweetness immediately. "Why, didn't you send him away. What in the world does he mean by waiting an hour, downstairs, a man sitting in my sitting room, at his hour of the day?"

"He said," the maid Mademoiselle had told him that he might come for her at nine. He is in riding clothes."

"Well, I shall give him now for supper. Put something around me that I won't slow through and bring him up. I won't keep him waiting—I'm not that kind, him hold my tray."

Martha spread a hasty dinner and pushed the room—a room that was all gold and pink, a spacious setting for the great golden bed with its collar of things fashioned of gold and ecumbs—feminine things about, bowls and cupboards. Joanna saw Martha's eyes rest on the gold service on her "Oh, I shall keep his eyes on gaged; don't fear Martha. He is not the type to be enticed by gold corners of a young lady's chamber. Or to show it, at any rate."

The maid, whose Inverlaire appeared at the bedside Joanna ignored the flood that hinted his distaste for gold and pink, and turned to the bedside sitting room, and frowned up at him without so much as giving him the privilege of a curtsy.

"What a trifle man you are," she accused him, "to begin on me so early in the morning. Haven't you some good reason or other to call on me?"

"But you told me last night that I might come for you at nine, and you promised to ride to San Remo it's a gorgeous morning, too."

The man looked him politely. "Do you know," she said, "you are the most beautiful thing I could look at in a morning. Some men, I realize, are born to be most disagreeable habit of reminding me of the morning of what foolish things we said at night. That's not fair, Teddy. Things are different in the morning, you."

"Surely you don't expect me to forget all those things you said to me, last night so soon as this morning."

"I really said that?" she asked, then stood over the bed and studied him. "I was a little tipsy, I suppose, and you took advantage of me. Well, I'll be ready in a minute. Tell Martha to bring you some coffee and to hurry."

"If you please, Mademoiselle," Martha replied, but soon her insistence deemed more of hope than a conviction. Mademoiselle, For one hour, in truth, while the faithful maid held the slim yellow robe the slender little body was subdued in her arms to the warmth and pulse of it must straight to her heart and she wish, I that she could be sure that this was the served through a hectic gallopine year, was not a trance!

Examples of that suspicious pair had reached Bambourg and filmaires, the distraught, mistified Martha had wept down the stairs to her first triumphs in Vonnie's house off the Strada had become the Golden Girl around whom a mystery raged, a glittering, luring feather of parasols—in a world of money and mediocre. And down in the servants' rooms at Martha's cost there was a fear that she wished wasn't there to explain. Fear was the most pleasant word in her vocabulary—perhaps, it might have been stirred anew, if she could have seen a hard, unpleasant shadow that passed swiftly across brown eyes when her mistress caught the note of prayer in her maid's assurance that she was not what the disappointed Prince Michael had dubbed her But the shadow had gone completely when Joanna was propped again in her mountain of pillows The sweetness was still in the voice when it now demanded:

"Martha, you have been with me for a long time, haven't you?"

The balance will be paid out $82,000 in commodity dividends to patrons, shippers and farmers to enlarge the

Not Excepted From Rule

British Premier Requires Coal for Admittance to Royal Functions

When the Prime Minister of England goes to a party there is no exception to the rule which he has to carry an invitation just like any of the other guests. This was recently illustrated at a party on a big ocean liner when Mr. Baldwin, a fellow passenger of the Gentleman Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, was asked by the latter for a few pockets, was unable to find his invita tion. The doorman had never seen the Prime Minister before.

"There's a gentleman here who says he's the Prime Minister, but he hasn't got a card," said the doorman to one of the duke's aides, who quickly went to the room Mr Baldwin was then found without the document, but when he showed all the other Prime Ministers who had had been no absent ticket.

Little Helps For This Week

Dear child to God and He will draw right to you—James 4:8.

Dear Father when we call on Thee, Help us to draw near to God, Help us to hear Thee.

Heaven is never dear but when we draw near it.—Quarles.

The spirit of prayer is the spirit that says: I will arise and go to my father and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son; make me as one of thy hired servants. And he arose and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran and fell on his neck and kissed him. And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son. But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet: and bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat, and be merry: for this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be merry.—Luke 15:11-24.

Solved Housing Problem

Bavarian Woman Lived for Some Time in a Church

Munich—Frau Anna Wimmer, a Bavarian woman, has solved the housing problem for herself by living in a church. She has been living in the church of St. Peter in Munich for the last two years. Frau Wimmer, who is 60 years old, has been a widow for 20 years. She has no children. She has been living in a room in the church tower, which is reached by a ladder. She has a bed, a table and a chair in the room. She has been living on the charity of the people of Munich. Frau Wimmer is a devout Catholic. She says she has been living in the church because she wanted to be near God.

VOL. XVII. NO. 32. VERMILION, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1926.

M. D. Melberta Minutes

Regular meeting of Council of M. D. of Melberta No. 665, was held in the municipal office, Marwayne, Monday, December 6th. All the councillors were present, viz: Wm. Steele, reeve; M. J. McCallum, A. Allanson, W. E. Smart, Jas Meeks and C. E. Dougs.

Minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

Survey of N.E. 15-61-6-4 was ordered cancelled.

It was ordered that the C. P. R. Co. be paid $12.00 per acre for roadway taken off the N½ and S.E. ¼ and 25¼ acre in S.W. 19-63-7-4 and $10.00 flat for what was taken off the S. W. 15-63-6.

Result No. 3539 for $200.00 made out to D. M. Davidson, was ordered cancelled and the money refunded.

Division 4 was given authority to buy old government grader for $60.00.

The following men were appointed Wild and Tax $110.94 and Pest and Weed Tax $6.55 for 1926-36 on S½ 21-60-7-4, this land being under cultivation in those years. Wild Land Tax $4.80, P. & W. Tax for 1926 on E½ NE 1-60-6-4, this land having been sold as a resident. Wild Land Tax $40.80 and P. & W. $2.05 for 1926 on S½ 1-60-7-4, this land having been abandoned.

Remuneration for councillors' fees was set as follows: Per meetings, Reeve $4 for meetings in M. and will range 10c each way. For overseeing 4.00 a day and mileage 10c each way.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, Feby. 21st, 1927, in the Osage Hall, Manville. C. E. Stephenson was appointed Returning Officer. The following D. R. O.'s were appointed: Div. 1, G. Dunsmore at S.S. 24 60-7-4; Div. 2, Chas Anderson, at J.A. McCallum's, Manville. Div. 3, E. A. Mercer, at Fire Hall, Manville; Div. 4, R. H. Scott, at SW 10-62-9-4; Div. 5, Wm Jackson, at Blanning on School. Div. 6, H. J. Taylor, at Ottawa school.

Messrs. Watling, Purcell's and Horne wrote the council asking for increased compensation for the land taken for roadway off their property. Council increased the compensation of Purcells and Horne to $75.00 each, but left Watling's the same.

G. M. Cundal, Secy-Treas.

The school will close for the Christmas holidays on Wednesday, December 22nd, to re-open again on Tuesday, January 4th.

On the evening of December 22nd, the closing dance of the term will be held

It is hoped at this time to raise funds for the school library. Those in charge of the library plan to promote its growth by the steady addition of books to the shelves, with the idea that, sooner or later, an Extension Library may be formed. An "Honor Shelf" of this kind, which provides not only students but also outsiders with books, has been found to work out very well in the case of the school of Agriculture at Olds

Those who attend the dance have the choice between paying the usual admission or bringing two books to be given to the library. Any books, so long as they are of recognized worth and in fair condition, will be gladly accepted.

All ex-students are especially invited to this dance.

Capt. Gibson left on Wednesday Afternoon for Edmonton where he will address the Edmonton Military Institute on "The Occupation of the Rhineland." He will also speak at the Boys' Life Work Conference, which is held under the auspices of the Edmonton Board of the Anglican Church

J. R. Brett Graham of Wildmere district returned last Friday from Winnipeg, where he was a patient for the past few weeks undergoing special treatment for ulcerated stomach at Misericordia Hospital in that city. Mr. Graham was suffering from this disease for two years and reports that he is now feeling fine and able to eat and enjoy a good meal without suffering any after pain or distress. The above hospital gives special treatment for cancer, diabetes arthritis, rheumatism, ulcers of the stomach and high blood pressure. His friends will be much pleased to learn of Mr. Graham's recovery.

Wellsdale To Retain Name

Thought Likely to be Changed to New Name of Clan Donald

VERMILION, Dec. 14.—Officials of the Canadian Pacific railway have visited Wellsdale and, after conferring with the local board of trade, announced that the townsite would be known as Wellsdale and would no appear on the time tables and official records of the company.

For some time there has been doubt whether it would be called Wellsdale or Clan Donald.

Criminal Charge Against A.P. Good Dismissed

His Honor Judge Taylor presided at the December sittings of the District Court here on Monday. There were no large cases tried. The charge laid against T. O'Neil for selling Bar baskets of grain under seizure by the Municipal District of Melberta for Seed Grain lien was heard and the accused found not guilty. The court gave Mr. Good rather a severe talking over. His Honor felt that the Crown had not proven that the accused had proper notice of the seizure. It appears that the bailiff tacked a notice of the seizure to the granary, it seemed being away from home at the time. He subsequently mailed a copy to Good but this was not received for a week or so later. The grain had in the meantime been removed. Crimes for the Crown and Mr. Ebbett for the accused.

Mr Morrison entered an appeal against a conviction made by Police Magistrate Russell at Vegreville, whereby John Nairn of Minburn had been found guilty of being intoxicated in a public place contrary to the Liquor Control Act. The appeal will probably be heard in February.

The case of Unisk vs. Kreashaben School District, an action for work done, was tried and the case dismissed. Ebbett for plaintiff, and Michalisk for defendant

John Chamanyk, Joe Chamanyk and Karol Diebich charged with committing assault with intent, elected to be tried by speedy trial and the case will likely be heard at the February sittings. Judgment was entered by default in Parish & Parish vs. Gregoire, an action for goods sold. Morrison for plaintiffs. Tom Robinson, found guilty at Vegreville some time ago on charge of theft of cattle, was given suspended sentence.

An Historic Conference

The Imperial Conference, which recently concluded its deliberations in London, marked the passing of another milestone in the history of the British Empire. In the importance of the new business unanimously arrived at the Conference is rightly regarded as a most momentous event in Empire relations, and in the development of constitutional self-government for the Overseas Dominions, and second only to that other historic occasion when the Dominions were admitted to the Peerage of Nations on terms of equality with Great Britain and all foreign nations.

The Conference decisions, in some respects even more shallow in importance, mark the entry of the Dominions into the League of Nations. The decisions [illegible]

Death of Mrs. M. J. Omness

Every effort was made to have at the funeral services held on the 9th inst., of Mrs. M. J. Omness who for many years has been living on the farm south of Admiralty, and the sympathy of the whole community goes out to the family who, in the one year, have lost both father and mother.

The funeral service was held at Islay on Saturday afternoon and, in spite of the severe storm which was raging at the time, quite a number of friends and sympathizers were present. The Rev. W. T. Crumb took the services and spoke very highly of the late Mrs. Omness as one of the most respected women in the neighborhood. A lovely display of beautiful flowers showed plainly the high esteem in which the deceased was held by her friends and the contented expression on her face as she lay in the beautiful casket showed like a call to follow in her footsteps and later join her in the life beyond.

At the close of the service, Mr. Warang—who had charge of the funeral—suggested that on account of the fierce blizzard raging at the time, that the pall-bearers only accompany him to the cemetery and complete the interment, advising all who had far to drive to make the most of what daylight remained to get home. He spoke feelingly of Mrs. Omness as one of his parishioners and knew, if it were possible, she would fully endorse his suggestion under the circumstances.

The Standard extends deepest sympathy to the bereaved family in their great loss.

Filmy Lingerie On the Endless Chain System

Local merchandisers are, these cold days, figuring out the possible profits made by an earnest dealer in anything which is called seed throughout the country under an endless chain system. There have been endless chain prayers, endless chain good cheer, endless chain verses. If you belong to the church churches and institutions have also said to have been covered through the endless chain theory of entrancing sums from the gullible public but this is the first time that which "nobody" can at least understock herself with filmy rayon silk, which is not really silk at all, at a price which has almost reduced legal dealers' lingerie for nights.

The "system" has most talking days about. It is any event, it is present gush. Mrs. A buys a coupon from Madame X for which she pays one dollar. This is "in the beginning" of it. Mrs. A. is required to send this coupon to the Shadow Wear company attaching to it perfectly good money to the extent of three dollars. In return for this she receives three coupons and a high sized trinket of literature of the endless chain variety, price Nets, etc. Among the literature of "how" to obtain Heaven (or there is one important direction which says that the name of her husband opposite said thing, that upon these coupons being returned to the company being accompanied by three dollars secured by the possession of the Hamilton City city to "demand for deed" the deed her, to the ordinary mental pabulum unmentionable dweller to the reign of at least $2.00. Mrs. A. B should be duly noted in sending her coupons to Madame B, C and D per one dollar for each of them so that she is actually out only the dollar paid Madame X. For the outfit sent to Mrs. A, the Shadow company have received $3.00 each from Madame B, C and D. As the chain continues to be extended, each of Madames B, C and D will receive a parcel of exquisite lingerie on an investment of one dollar and a little work among her friends. Can you beat it?

Rev. F. J. Stevens To be Raised to the Priesthood

Bishop of Saskatoon Here and Ordination Will Take Christmas Service—Canon Storey of Prince Albert, Special Preacher—Member of Clergy Will Also Attend.

A service of much more than local interest will be held on Tuesday morning next, December 21st in St. Saviour's Anglican church, Vermilion, when the Rev. F. J. Stevens, incumbent of the parish, will be raised to the Priesthood. The service will commence at 11 o'clock a.m. prompt.

The ordination service will be taken by the Rt. Rev. R. E. Lloyd, D.D., Bishop of Saskatoon Diocese and acting Bishop of Saskatchewan during the absence of Bishop Lloyd. The special preacher for the occasion will be Rev. Canon L. J. Strong of St. Alban's Cathedral, Prince Albert, and among the visiting clergy will be the Rev. Rural Dean A. Cosse of Lloydminster, Rev. A. Nash of Meauville, and others. The Rt. Rev. W. A. Gray, D.D., Bishop of Edmonton, has also expressed his intention of being present.

The incumbent, of St. Saviour's, Rev F. J. Stevens, was only made a Deacon in May of this year, coming to Vermilion directly after that event. His earnest labours in this parish are already bearing much fruit and the future of the church in this field is most encouraging. Mr. Stevens took his degree at Saskatchewan University and graduated in theology from Emmanuel College, Saskatoon. He also holds the A. T. C. M. degree in music. Serving overseas he was severely wounded but after a long period of convalescence, resumed his labours in the Master's vineyard. No only his parishioners, but the many friends as well will read with pleasure of his approaching elevation to the Priesthood of the Church.

It is hoped that as many as possible of the congregation will be present and many, who even though not members of the congregation, will attend to join reverently with their prayers and wishes for Mr. Stevens at this service.

"The Captain of Plymouth," presented by W. B. Elford last night, was greeted with a splendid house. It went with a vim and was enthusiastically received. Extended report in next issue.

WHEN ADVERTISING CEASES.

A generation ago "St. Jacob's Oil" was one of the most widely advertised products in America. It was a patent medicine enjoying enormous sales. When Charles Vogeler, the head of the business, died, on "export" went over the balance sheets and saw the enormous advertising appropriations

This "export" trimmed the expenditure to little or nothing, reasoning that St. Jacob's Oil was so well known that it was unnecessary to spend money any longer to advertise it. Orders dwindled as advertising contracts ran out. Business departed, never to return. It is safe to speculate that not one in fifty who reads this article remembers or ever heard of St. Jacob's Oil.

A similar thing happened to James Pyle's "Pearline"—A company which spent a $500,000 advertising fund as a flush in 1904 and was one of the best known products in the entire world. The ad. fund was lopped off and the business went dead. It tried unsuccessfully to make a comeback in 1914, and finally sold its plant for rust to a soap manufacturer

Killing off the advertising appropriations wrecked both of these prosperous businesses. The same policy would ruin many more businesses today.—Exchange.

HON. R. LEMIEUX ELECTED SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

Ottawa.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux was elected Speaker of the House of Commons. He is the only speaker in Canadian history who has presided over Commons for three successive parliaments. He was nominated by Premier King and seconded by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative leader, opposed the election of Mr. Lemieux on the ground that the custom of having a Speaker's chair filled alternately by French Canadians and Anglo Saxon Canadians, which rule prevailed during the regimes of Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and Sir Robert Borden, he revived. Mr. Lemieux, who is a French-Canadian, was however, declared elected by the clerk of the House.

The election of the Speaker followed the ancient custom of the Commons being summoned to the Senate Chamber, where the deputy of the Governor-General sends them back to the Commons Chamber to elect a Speaker.

Mr. Guthrie said he had no objections personally to Mr. Lemieux or to his qualifications for the office, but considered that stronger reasons than those set out by Premier King in his speech should be given for departure from the old established custom in the Canadian Parliament of alternating between English and French-Canadian speakers. The system of re-election of a speaker prevailing in the British Parliament was not followed in Canada.

In this country there was the system of dual languages and for this reason and in order that there would be no disparity between the English and French races, the practice had been followed from the time of Sir John A. Macdonald, of alternating in the speakership between the two great predominating races of this country.

Robert Gardiner (Progressive, Acadia), supported the nomination of Mr. Lemieux as speaker. Mr. Lemieux, in his opinion, was particularly qualified.

H. H. White (Conservative, Mount Royal), said he also favored the nomination of Mr. Lemieux as Speaker, and did so on personal grounds. Mr. White paid tribute to the qualifications of Mr. Lemieux.

Believes Five Day Week is Practical

Would Make Workers More Efficient Says American Labor President

New York.—Labor is advocating the five-day work week for economic and humanitarian reasons, believing it is practical from the viewpoint of equalizing production and consumption and declare the worker will be more efficient with the added rest, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said in an address before the New York Building Congress.

"The shorter work week is upon us and we will see it quite generally established in all lines of industry," he predicted.

A. J. McPhail to Again Elected President at Organization Meeting

Regina.—A. J. McPhail, Ladstock was re-elected president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool at the organization meeting of the newly elected board of directors, and L. C. Brouillette Landis, was re-elected vice-president.

Other members of the wheat pool executive were elected as follows: Harry Marsh, Hereford; J. H. Wesson, Maidstone; Brooks Catton, Hanley.

Want Cotton Price Stabilized

London.—The economic situation in Egypt is growing worse and worse in consequence of the slump in cotton, says a despatch in The Daily Mail from Cairo. Practical appeals are being made to the Government to stabilize the price of cotton. The slump in cotton is affecting all spheres of activity.

British Labor Leader Urges General Elections

Ramsay MacDonald Moves Vote of Censure on Baldwin Government.

London.—Former Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, in the House of Commons, moved a Labor vote of censure on the Baldwin Government regarding its policy during the miners' dispute.

His motion was received with loud cheers from the Opposition benches.

Mr. MacDonald declared the Government's policy had steadily alienated the confidence of the country and urged that a general election be held.

Premier Baldwin, replying, was greeted with hisses and shouts of "Murderer!" from Laborites which were drowned by cheers from the supporters of the Prime Minister. Mr. Baldwin said he would hold a general election in good time, but that he would not be intimidated by threats

May Lift Titles Ban

South Africa Changes Attitude Regarding Last Year's Resolution

London.—The probability of South Africa lifting the ban on titles because of the new status reached by South Africa after the Imperial Conference, is suggested in messages from Capetown.

Strong resolutions were passed a year ago against the bestowal of honors, but the attitude has now changed, according to those messages, because now South Africa is able to recommend directly to the king the names of the people on whom honors should be conferred instead of making the recommendations through the government.

Apparently South Africa is very pleased with the Imperial Conference, the Nationalists even singing "God Save the King" at the end of their meetings.

Easy To Smuggle Goods

Customs Probe at Coast Hears Some Strange Statements

Vancouver.—Material for melodrama was developed at sittings of the customs probe. There were mysterious code to-lessons to which white cars absolutely failed to furnish the key. There was talk of liquor running by automobile across the border with offers of return cargoes of machine guns to be transported in China. There were details of cheques and accounts with an item of many thousands labelled foreign funds. Finally there was evidence which indicated that it is a comparatively easy matter to smuggle goods from the United States into Canada as well as from Canada into the United States across the international boundary line which runs between British Columbia and the American republic.

Monks Killed In Avalanche

Slide Caught Them When Out on Routine Rounds

Berne, Switzerland.—Three monks from the famous St. Bernard Monastery have been killed in an avalanche which overwhelmed them in the Alpine pass.

The monks' occupation is a part of the religious society with which their regular routine of duties is bound up. They were out on their daily rounds when the slide occurred, but the bodies of two were found. The third is still missing.

Decrease in Betting

Toronto.—A decrease of three and a half million dollars in the amount wagered at the various Ontario race tracks during the past season, compared with 1925, is shown in the report of the provincial treasurer. The total this year was $27,012,715.40 as against $30,499,142. A corresponding reduction is effected in the Government tax of 5 per cent. which the total amounted to $1,671,922, a loss of $34,212

Want Milk Bill Passed

Washington.—Dairy interests of this country, especially those of New York, Wisconsin and nearby states are pressing for the passage this session of the Lehlbach-Tabor milk bill which is intended to enable the Department of Agriculture to improve sanitary restrictions on imports of milk and cream from Canada.

Russian Bandits are Sentenced

Moscow.—The Soviet supreme court today sentenced 16 convicted bandits to be shot. Those condemned belong ed to a gang of almost 60 men which carried out many acts of violence and pillage in the Tartar republic. Varying terms of imprisonment were imposed on the remainder of the band.

British Army Reduced

Done to Increase War Office John Says Says Lord Middleton

London.—The British army is two-thirds of its pre-war strength today, the figures showing a decrease of 224,000 men as compared with the 1914 period, but the administrative staff of the war office is doubled.

These facts were brought out by Lord Middleton during a debate in the House of Lords. He expressed alarm at the reduction when nations still are disposed to fly at each others' throats.

Detailed scrapping included thirty units of field and garrison artillery with a total of 7,000 men; states in battalions of the line are gone; nine others are reduced; three regiments of cavalry are abolished, and others are reduced to a skeleton size.

Referring to the doubling of the administrative staff, Lord Middleton said: "It is enlargement madness to cripple the army in order to maintain the war office."

Replying for the Government, Lord Cushow, under secretary of the war office, defended the reduction policy, declaring that the strength of the army has not fallen below what is compatible with the present military services of the Empire. He admitted that the recruiting had not come up to the expectations of quicker estimates

EMPIRE TIES NOW STRONGER THAN HAVE EVER BEEN

London.—The question of intimate personal relations was raised in the House of Lords by Lord Parmoor, who urged that the question of the future of the relations between the Dominions and the Mother Country ought not to be left undiscussed.

The Earl of Balfour, Lord president of the council, who was chairman of the Imperial Conference premiers' committee on Over Empire relations, in reply refuted the idea that equality meant separation. He declared the Empire was now a more united one than ever before. "We were held together by more definite and precise bonds of mutual interest and devotion to the free world ideals of peace and freedom than by anything else," he said, "the bond of empire, he added, and it was not enough nothing else would be. Any difficulty that might arise with regard to the separate identity of each of the self-governing states in the Empire, wherein all were united, friendship said, would be overcome in practice as difficulties had been overcome at former times."

Lord Balfour also referred to the European situation.

Anxious to Settle in Canada

A GOOD CITIZEN PASSES.

In the track death of Duncan B McLean of Mannville, not only that settlement but the entire district throughout which he was so well and favorably known sustains a severe loss. A true man in every sense of the word, he was held in the highest esteem. Among the earliest settlers in the Mannville district, he had seen and taken an active part in the development of the past twenty two years His death is mourned generally and a good citizen has passed to his reward. The widow and little daughter have the profound sympathy of all in their sad visitation.

INTOLERANCE LOSES.

Vancouver Sun.—Ontario's verdict in favor of Premier Ferguson in a political contest toward a freer sale of liquor. The fundamental issue, however, is not liquor, but intolerance. It is not prohibition, but the spirit that like baked prohibition.

Prohibition is only one manifestation of the moral autocracy that grew out of the exigencies of the war. It has inflicted a sordidism upon most an almost every phase of their activities. It has distorted their moral conception into artificial channels. It is rendering man's will flabby and impotent. The kingdom of heaven cannot be brought about by prohibitory legislation. And many people are finding it out.

Ontario's snitch in the wet column is not an evidence of any growing liquor appetite. It is simply a popular protest against autocratic domination of morals and behavior.

If the new Ontario Legislature is wise, it will handle its new mandate carefully. From the examples of both British Columbia and Quebec it will learn that the control of alcoholic consumption is best accomplished by reduction of alcoholic content. Carefully manufacturing of Ontario beer and Rhine Rhenish wines as opposed to hard imported spirits, will prove the solution of Ontario's liquor problem.

The Fan Herald stated that no less than five thousand drifting cattle will be working on mineral properties in Northern Manitoba this winter

PRESBYTERIAN STRENGTH

Recent reports of the strength of the Presbyterian Church in Canada indicates a marked development since the division occurred by the Union vote in 1925. At the end of 1925, the communicant membership was reported to the General Assembly at 164,243, not since that time it is estimated that at least ten thousand members have joined the church on profession of faith. This, brings the denomination third among the Protestant churches of the Dominion, and greater in numerical strength than the Union denomination in many other countries The same ratio of increase is shown in the congregations and preaching stations reported, having now passed the 1,200 mark with new ones being formed in every part of the country. There are nearly 8,000 elders and nearly 90,000 families, together with nearly a thousand Sunday Schools and 118,000 teachers and scholars.

Last month on oil drill was "spudded in" two miles north of Grandview and about 30 miles west of Dauphin, on the Canadian National Railways. Oil escapes are found in that part of Manitoba, and in many other places along the Dauk and Riding Mountains. In the presence of a large gathering of people keenly interested in the enterprise and hopeful of its success, Premier Bracken pulled the lever that started the drill going.

Oil has been struck in the Imperial Oil company's well in the Lloydminster district, on the west side of the boundary line between Saskatchewan and Alberta, at a depth of 1,307 feet. It is said that officials of the Imperial company admit that the flow might possibly be 500 barrels a day. This is the first well brought in in the Saskatchewan-Alberta field. Lloydminster is on the Edmonton-North Battleford Edmonton line of the Canadian National Railways. Several companies are drilling in that field at present.

Herman Trelle Honoured

Special honours have been given to Herman Trelle, winner of the sweepstakes in both wheat and oats at the Chicago international show this year. The Alberta Department of Agriculture has handed him an honorarium of $500 for his victory in both wheat and oats, this being in line with the policy of the Department in honouring those who win championships from this province at the international. J. T. Hill of Lloydminster wins the department's honorarium of $100 for first prize at Chicago in field peas. There is no sweepstakes in this class.

A complimentary luncheon was tendered Mr. Trelle last week by the Edmonton Board of Trade at which prominent citizens of Edmonton District, the Government and the University, attended official congratulations to the wheat king

Winners in Seed Grain

The complete list of Alberta winners in seed grains at Chicago, is as follows:

Hard Red Spring Wheat—

Alberta Poultry to the Front

Alberta poultry will come well to the front at the recent Royal Show at Toronto when 16 exhibitors from Alberta, with 1,000 choice birds, captured a total of 56 prizes.

At the World's Poultry Congress to be held in Ottawa, next July, this province will be well represented with some 250 birds to be exhibited. It is understood that Hon. Geo. Hoadley, minister of agriculture, for Alberta province will pay the transportation on the birds which will be selected by the Alberta committee to go to the congress exhibition.

It is expected that some 23 countries will be in the congress hall at Ottawa, represented by over 3,000 birds, over 22 of whom will have special exhibits. The American delegation is also expected to number 3,000.

Protest Conditions at Chicago

Special representations for the improvement of conditions under which seed grain is to be shown at Chicago International Hay and Grain Show at Chicago in 1927, made by Hon. Geo. Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture of Alberta, and other provincial departments of agriculture, to the authorities of the Chicago show. These representations follow up protests which have been made for the past four years by representatives from Alberta and other provinces against the unsatisfactory conditions under which the grain is now shown at Chicago. These conditions are such that it is impossible for exhibitors to interfere with, and introduce adulterants into the grain exhibits before the judges have done their work. It was found this year that mixed grain had been introduced into the Alberta and other Canadian exhibits a short time before judging commenced, and unknown to the authorities, and it was only quick work on the part of the exhibitors themselves that saved the exhibits from being counted out. The authorities will be asked to furnish complete protection for the exhibits before next year's exhibition.

Killed While On Way To Alberta

Daniel B. McLean En Route To Mannville, Topples From Train

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 13.—Daniel B. MacLean, about 56, en route from Port Barwell, Ontario, to Mannville, Alta., crashed through a three-pane window in the tourist car at C. P. R. passenger train No. 2 at Red Rock, east of this city Saturday night and was killed.

The body was found Sunday morning by C. P. R. officials in a creek at the bottom of the track embankment. MacLean was only slightly injured in the leap and death is believed to have been caused by exposure. His wife and a daughter are said to reside in Winnipeg.

Frank Brack-sberg, of Port Burwell, was accompanying MacLean to the west. He was talking to the porter of the tourist car and turned at the crash of breaking glass to see MacLean going through the window. The train was traveling between 35 and 40 miles an hour. It was stopped and a search of the track and the right of way failed to locate MacLean. Railway officials at Schriber were notified and early Sunday morning they left for Red Rock, finding the body shortly after daybreak.

ONE OF FIRST SETTLERS IN MANNVILLE DISTRICT

MANNVILLE, Dec. 13.—Daniel B. MacLean, who was killed in Ontario while on the way to Mannville, was one of the first settlers in this district, coming in before the railroad in 1905. Mr. MacLean was the first postmaster here, later taking the agency for C.P.R. lands, and acting as district agent for a motor company. He was an active Mason and a patriarch of the local lodge.

For some time past Mr. McLean has been in Winnipeg with his wife and 12-year-old daughter, Nancy, who has been receiving treatment in a hospital there. It is believed he was visiting relatives in St. Thomas prior to his return to Alberta.

Mr. McLean was highly respected in Mannville and district, and the news of his untimely death is received here with universal sorrow

JUDGING SEED GRAIN

In judging seed grain the judge keeps constantly in mind those factors which go to make grain of greatest value for seeding purposes. He must have in mind a three-cut definition of what good seed grain really is. This may be defined as grain which is free from seeds of weeds as well as other kinds and varieties of cultivated grains, and of inert matter; it should be bright, free from smuttiness of reasonably good colour, plump and uniform in size, it should be free from damage by severe threshing or by other causes, and should show no signs of disease

In the competitions, where the number of exhibits is large and the quality of a high order, the judge is obliged to make very fine discriminations, but if he has a keen eye and the ability to balance values, he is usually able to find merits in some samples which are lacking in others. Those who have judged, especially at the larger exhibitions, will recall instances where overly-enthusiastic exhibitors damaged their samples in endeavoring to make them appear particularly plump and to increase the weight per measured bushel. The most common damage arises from the practice of "clipping" grains intended for exhibition. This "clipping" process usually consists in placing the grain in a tub or other receptacle and "chopping" the grain with a spade in order to remove the unfilled tips of the kernels. This applies particularly, of course, to oats and barley samples. This "clipping," if not carried in excess, improves the appearance of the sample, but it often results in overdone, with the result that the ends of the kernels are exposed, it not actually broken. Such grain is not considered as desirable for seed as is grain which is left in a more natural state, but may be penalized accordingly

It is seldom possible to make germination tests of seed in advance of an exhibition so the judge must examine the grain closely for any evidence of low vitality. It is not possible to detect slight differences in vitality between samples, but where samples are shown which have suffered severely either by unfavourable weather conditions or by smutty, scabby or inferior seed, it is possible often to locate them.

In the actual judging of grain it is advisable first of all to locate what appears to be the best samples; then to locate the sample which appears to deserve first place. With the latter as a guide, the next best sample is located and so on down the line until the required number of prize winners is secured. With these lined up in the order in which they have been placed, they are then checked up carefully to insure that each occupies the proper place in relation to the others.

U.F.A. Have Own Group In Commons

Gardiner Is Leader

Eleven Former Members from This Province With Miss McPhail in New Group

PROGRESSIVES LED BY JOHN EVANS

OTTAWA, Dec. 11.—The opening of Canada's 16th parliament brought few surprises. The legislative program announced in the throne speech yesterday conformed generally with previous forecasts. The appearance of a new group under a new leader in the house of commons was one of the significant events of the day.

When Premier Mackenzie King moved that a committee, consisting of Liberal and Conservative members of the house, be appointed to strike the regular standing committees for the session, Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. member for Acadia, rose to raise a mild protest. Mr. Gardiner, in pointing out that there were eight groups in the house as well as the two older parties, performed his first act as leader of the United Farmers of Alberta in the commons. Mr. Gardiner is house leader of the group, and H. E. Spencer of Battle River, is secretary. They lead a group of 12 members, all from Alberta, except Miss McPhail, who is expected to align herself with the western group.

The definite emergence of the Alberta group is interpreted by the appearance of another group of insurgents, including a few who ran in Progressive colors as opposed to the Liberal-Progressive, now absorbed in the Liberal party. This group numbers five and will be led in the house by John Evans of Rossetown, Sask.

The Liberal-Progressive, sitting with Hon Robert Forke on the government side, number nine and it is expected that they will retain a certain amount of their identity by holding separate caucuses and the appointment of their own chairman

Death of Mrs. Campbell

The many friends of Mr. J. D. Campbell, and his daughter Miss M. G. Campbell, will regret to learn that Mrs. J. D. Campbell passed away and peacefully on Sunday morning, Nov. 28th, at her home, Wildwood district.

Mrs. Campbell had been in failing health for a few years. By the kind attentions of her daughter, the skill of the doctors, services rendered by the nurses of the hospital, she recovered from time to time. Some time before she died, she contracted a severe cold from which she did not fully recover. The end came very unexpectedly. This past year she and her daughter paid a visit to Ontario, hoping that this change among her own folks would help to improve her health. But on the 28th of June, she was somewhat the better for her visit, but the high altitude of the West, made her ill to continue.

Mrs. Campbell was born in the year 1865, at Elmvale, Ontario After her marriage she and her husband, took up their residence in Superior, Wisconsin, U.S.A., her husband being for many years a railway engineer in that part of the country. They moved west in 1918, taking up farming in the Wildwood community, and district of Islay, Alberta

Mrs. Campbell leaves besides her husband and daughter, to mourn her loss, two brothers, David C. Hunter, Islay, Alta., W. H. Dyndale, Elmsville, Ontario, three sisters, Mrs Albert Draper, Elmvale; Mrs Geroge McNicht, Elmvale, Mrs Jos Coleman Edam, Ontario

The deceased was much interested in the church, and the ladies' meetings of Wildwood. One of the last she attended with her daughter who is the secretary-treasurer, a few days before she died. Taking part in discussing matters relative to the ladies' aid, her suggestions and ideas of expedience were always well received by the members.

The body was conveyed to Islay for burial, where a very impressive service was held in the church by a very attentive congregation. Rev minister, Mr Mitchelson, preached the sermon, basing his remarks on St. John Ch. 12, v. 26. "Where I am there shall also my servant be" Mrs. R. Darrah kindly presided at the piano.

The Ladies' Aid of the Wildwood church, Rimbaud Mission Field, sent a tribute of flowers in the shape of a lovely wreath.

The pall-bearers were, Messrs Neil McKechnie, J. Fife, J. MacDonald, R. Darrah, J. E. Miller, W. C. Sutherland

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

At a meeting of the executive of the Town Planning Institute held at Ottawa, Horace L. Seymour, of Van couver, B.C. was elected president.

Canada's national debt was increased $14,997,154 during November according to a statement issued by the department of finance.

Before leaving for England His Royal Highness Prince George expressed the hope that he might accompany the Prince of Wales to Canada next year for the 60th anniversary of confederation.

After a month's search the Sacred Heat which at first was thought lost in the fire which destroyed the legislature building at St. Anne Beaupre November 1 has been found and is very little damaged.

Joseph P. Sweet, United States Consul at the precarious remains also, has received his pay as a lieutenant-colonel by Pierre Jay, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

A warrant for another 5 pounder gun has been developed at St. Anne Beach's Hospital, Washington. A visit also to examine the progress of the wounded convalescent from the primary stage of the disease also has been put forward.

King George and President Coolidge may be taken to each other from the White House and Buckingham Palace within the next three months, if plans materialize for the opening of trans-Atlantic radiophone service early in 1927.

The Saugeen ecumenical Exposition, celebrating the 400th birthday of the U.S.A., has asked officials although the grounds and the New Jubilee will be kept open for a short time on account of heavy expenses in connection with the liquidation of back bills. The Exposition closes with a deficit of more than $5,200,000.

Addition To Royal Navy

British Battleship Nelson 782 Feet Long is Fresh Vessel

A fresh name is, with the largest forecastle in the world and with an armored sheer gutter for a crown, will soon be added to the Royal Navy.

This strange vessel is the British battleship Nelson which has a displacement of 33,500 tons, more than the bridge. The total length of the monster is 782 feet, so that the fore part is more than half the beach.

The bridge, although so-called, is really an armored tower of many stories, containing every living accommodations for officers, her it chiefly encloses direction stations, observation posts and chambers, whose secrets have not been divulged.

Canada And Cardiff

Good Market for Canadian Foodstuffs in South Wales

With the object of developing trade in foodstuffs between Canada and Cardiff and other Welsh ports, a representative Cardiff Development Committee is visiting Canada. There is a large market for Canadian foodstuffs in the territory served by the Welsh ports," is the declaration, and a regular community of interests, both in cattle and other food products, is desired in order that Canada may secure full advantage of this market and also that the people of South Wales may be able to depend upon Canadian supplies.

Manicurists For 5th Workers

Manicurists are among the most important employees of artificial silk factories in Germany, and some of them be introduced to the cotton mills of England. "Silk hands" are needed for the silk work and No. 1 quality, but many really deteriorate into crude No. 2 if handled by rough fingers, London Daily Express explains.

Best Way to Find Out

"Isn't it strange how some people get along without tools? Why, these new neighbors of mine haven't a hammer, a hone, a step-ladder or a saw."

"How do you know the family?"

"Because the day after they moved in I tried to borrow them."

Wanted Sensational Guarantee

Americans pride themselves on honesty, a dentist in Sidney discovered when he offered a patient, 70 years old, a guarantee of five years on a set of false teeth. The patient however refused to permit the dentist to start to work on him until he had proof of a 5-years' guarantee.

A man with a grievance never will an opportunity to mention it.

Will Not Continue Toward Singapore Base

Australia, New Zealand, and India Refuse Their Support

Definite intimation from Australia, New Zealand and India—the three British Dominions most interested from the point of view of their security—that they could not continue toward the cost of the Singapore Naval Base, although they recognized its necessity, is one of the features of the report of the Imperial Conference on Imperial Defence, issued recent. As regards naval defence, it was evident from the statements of the different Prime Ministers that while Australia was maintaining a small but efficient fleet and New Zealand will contribute £100,000 a year, neither of the two dominions of the British Navy, little or nothing could be expected from the other Dominions. They all, however, are doing a good deal for the development of military and civil aviation.

Premier Bruce of Australia emphasized the primary obligation of each dominion to provide its own defence services. Mr. Coolidge last year instructed the senate for defence he said, "2 millions per head in the United Kingdom, 15 by New Zealand, 5 by Canada and 2 millings per head by South Africa. He said that in view of the figures just brought out, it became effortless that were not being met at the present by the Dominions concerned.

Mr. Hughes, Minister of Finance, of South Africa said that the exact figures were not ready, but he would depend upon the extent of his interest at the time, but that, subject to some minor reductions, the Government's policy to keep her military organization in harmony with that of Great Britain.

Sees Upward Trend In Canada's Trade

President of Bank of Montreal Believes Conditions Are Sound

Encouraging statements regarding the business conditions of Canada were made in Montreal at the 109th annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal. Sir Herbert Marshall, Bart., presided, speaking of the upward trend of business in general, all lines of industry showed that he could not see any indication that this trend of prosperity was soon coming to an end.

"I believe the underlying conditions are sound," said Sir Vincent, "and I have no hesitation in going forward with confidence."

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, general manager, said earlier: "The improvement in trade and commerce during the last year was reflected in the greater earnings of the bank, in an increase of approximately $2,000,000 in current loans in Canada and in all the main sources of profit." Sir Frederick said he could not see any indication that this trend of prosperity was soon coming to an end.

Radio Ends Long Search

Friend of Son of Man Sought, Heeds Appeal

A 25-year search covering the entire United States and parts of Mexico ended successfully at Carthage, N.Y., when Mrs. Lena Schwendy received a letter from her long lost brother Paul Gerber, now a resident of Marshfield, Wis.

Mrs. Schwendy and Gerber parted 25 years ago and ten years later got out of touch with each other. Since then each has been handicapped by poor efforts to locate. Eight years ago word came of his death in war and sympathy and letter poured in. Gerber received a radio appeal to locate a nephew who recognized the name as that of a bandit district of war.

Through the station, however, the soldier was found, and proved to be the son of the man sought. He met Mrs. Schwendy and Mr. Schwendy received the first letter from her friend in 25 years.

Had Already Arrived

Chauncey M Depew, at a reception in his New York home, spotted a pair of Jazz-lovers before morning. "They are typical," he said. "Their appetite for jazz and rapid rush after furniture reminds they had developed. Both grew to the island Continent where the "Grain Trade" got a try high out and as the share, regularly. Following the visit of H W Wood, chairman of the Alberta Wheat Pool, and G. U. Robertson, secretary of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, to the Antipodes, the people there have gotten together and will sell through a joint agency this year, according to a recent despatch from Liverpool.

World's Wheat Prize

Marquis Variety of Wheat Grown 400 Miles North of U.S. Boundary

When Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Alberta, who was born 31 years ago at Frederick, Idaho, U.S.A., was declared wheat king of the world at this year's International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago, it made the fourteenth time that the wheat championship has come to Canada in the sixteen years the international competition has been held. Last year it was won by L. P. Yates, of Fishtail, Montana. Trelle not only won the wheat crown at Chicago this year, but carried off the grand championship in oats, the first time that any one exhibitor at the International Show has been awarded the two crowns or sweepstakes His prize winning wheat was of the Marquis variety, which was originated at the Canadian government Experimental Farm at Indian Head in 1904 by Dr. Charles Saunders, and was a sample from a 65 acre field that yielded a total of about 2,000 bushels, or approximately 70 bushels to the acre. The champion ship oats were of the Victory variety, which yielded about 150 bushels to the acre.

Herman Trelle came to Alberta with his father from Idaho in 1910. He was educated at Edmonton and was graduated from the University of Alberta in 1924

When the Standard was going to press last week, rain was falling merrily and the mercury stood at somewhere in eight degrees above the freezing point. The week however, wrought a change that probably for suddenness plus real roughness, comes close to establishing a new record. Commencing with snow falling in increased quantities, accompanied by a northwester, the mercury dropped with surprising alacrity and a raging blizzard developed, continuing all day Friday and Saturday. Sunday an icy wind prevailed and during the night the mercury hit the 30 below zero mark. The first three days of the week saw a continuance of the cold wave. Today (Thursday) is much milder with forecasts of a further moderation.

A Christmas Tree and Entertainment is announced to be held Thursday evening, December 23rd in Kemnyia church. All welcome.

MORE PEOPLE BIG NEED OF ALBERTA

Greenfield Tells East Province Is Getting on Its Feet

OTTAWA, Dec. 16.—"The greatest need of Alberta and the whole west is for more people," said Hon. Herbert Greenfield, former premier of Alberta and new commissioner of colonization for the province, yesterday before calling on Hon. Robert Forke, minister of immigration, to discuss mutual problems. He said he was not ready as yet to make any recommendations to the minister.

"Conditions in Alberta are improving all the time" said Mr. Greenfield "We are getting on our feet."

Mr. Greenfield said he had been making a study of the whole question of immigration so far as it affected his province. Early in January he is going to London to open up an office which will endeavor to spread a knowledge of Alberta throughout the British Isles and to encourage an intelligent and controlled migration into his best districts.

MOORCROFT — MARSHALL

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Tuesday, December 21st at the United Church Manse when Miss Florence Annie Marshall of Southport, Lancashire, England, became the bride of Mr Arthur Moorcraft of Edmonton, Alberta. Rev M. S. Kerr officiated The bridegroom is one of Vermilion's earliest pioneers, coming from England as a youth and settling in this community before Vermilion was a town on the map. The bride has just lately arrived from the Old Country The best wishes of a host of friends go with them in their new estate

A recent despatch from Ottawa stated that 900 miles of track will be built in the West next year by the Canadian Pacific Railway company. The program provides for an 80 mile branch lines in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta as announced by this company.

No. 1 of these branch lines is the one in which a large portion of the country tributary to Vermilion is very much interested in, cutting as it will through the heart of the vast stretch of farm lands lying to the south of this town. The new line is to be constructed from a point at or near Unwin on the Cutknife-Whitford Lake branch in Saskatchewan thence in a generally northwesterly direction to a point in or near township 46 range 3 west of the fourth meridian in Alberta.

It will be seen that the proposed line penetrates the country lying between Vermilion and Walwright from the Alberta border to a point in range 3, south of Manville—altogether a distance of well over 50 miles, — and keep south of the Grizzly Bear coulee. While the need for rail-way facilities to serve the farmers in the territory mentioned has been urgent for many years, the realization has so far been deferred This was owing in a large measure to all probability to the large land holdings of the C. P. R. and Hudson's Bay company which were still unsettled or unsold. The land is now subject to municipal taxation and a big move is under way to people the entire tract. In fact this will be the first large area of country with which Alberta's burgeoning municipality, the Hon. Herbert Greenfield, who is already in the east, will direct his efforts in settling. As noted in this paper a few weeks ago, the head official of the C. P. R. land department was in Vermilion and went over the company's holdings Mr Greenfield stated after a personal inspection of the territory in question that there was room as a very conservative estimate, for no less than 250 families, and it was considered that it will be his objective to settle in this number at an early a date as possible. With the increased settlement of the land the railway will be justified from the standpoint of earning power, towns will spring up, community centres grow and an impetus given to agricultural production that will not only enable farmers to farm with fair prospects of making good, but will as well put this rich alive and fertile area permanently on the map of Alberta

Old Landmark Wiped Out

On Thursday afternoon, December 9th, the farm home of Harry Palmer eleven miles northeast of Vermilion was razed to the ground with almost the entire contents. The family were all home at the time and a number of parties were in the house, when Miss daughter Edna came into the kitchen and said that she smelled something scorching. On opening the door leading upstairs, smoke and flames shot down the stairway and in an incredibly short time the entire building was a mass of flames, the interior being preventing the saving of the contents with the exception of a few kitchen effects. All the clothes of the family were burned, including valuable furniture, the furniture 75 hundreds of potatoes, all canned fruit and supplies together with $700 in cash belonging to Miss Palmer. The total loss is estimated at $10,000. There was no insurance on contents and only $4000 on the house. The Palmer home was one of the outstanding landmarks among the old Campbell Lake trail and in the pioneering days was a favorite "break the journey" stopping place for the scattered settlers making the long journey into town. The family have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends in their misfortune. Mr. Palmer is rebuilding immediately and is erecting a bungalow 22x24 with 12x20 extension.

Once Painted On Safe Doors

Work of C. S. Rossiter, Famous Artist, to be Preserved

Thirty-five years ago, the late Chester S. Rossiter was one an painter, but about the quality of his canvas he he became in later years, when his fame as a painter of western subjects brought him wealth and titled patronage.

In his earlier days, pictures bearing his initials and the now familiar mark —a bleached buffalo skull—might be found somewhere about the places he frequented, the work of his life hour or the music of his friendship Many of these have disappeared but one, at least, acquired a degree of permanency. They were painted upon safe doors.

Since Rossiter's death, one edifice "The Antelope Hunt," a spirited and interesting scene, was found on the door of a vault in a now closed Leeds town bank Another has come to light in a Grand Forks garage, dated 1910 in the latter a solitary Indian brave is the principal figure.

It is planned to cut the steel with oxi-acetic torches to preserve the paintings.

Prince Needs Pedro He Lost Saw on the Somme

During a 5-hours visit to Kingswood School at Bath the Prince of Wales laughed with the 24 boys in their dining hall and chatted with them in their work and play and was nearly mobbed in the swimming bath display. The Prince laughed heartily when a story of his narrow escape in France during the war was related by the Rev Owen S Watkins, hon secretary to the governors. He was hot the first time he had met the Prince, he said- that was in a wood on the Somme, "I suppose," said Mr Watkins, turning to the Prince amid laughter, "that you have doubtless forgotten if you ever do bleed, a disreputable gentleman, named pedro lying flat in the mud, fleeing it was a very unpleasant kind of war and wondering if he would ever live to be able to swank that he had shared a shellhole with the Prince "

Has Unusual Farm

Naturalist Raises Frogs and Has Learned Interesting Things About Them

Frog's legs are a delicacy that fetch high prices on the American market. This has induced a naturalist, Emil Hendrich, to start a frog farm.

Incidentally he has made a biological study of frogs, and has discovered many facts about them hitherto unknown to science. He states that frogs are he cleanest creatures in the world. They thrive on insect life, but will eat almost any live food. They do not thrive their food but swallow it whole

Frogs are never sick, and are fearless A ball frog has been known to kill a rat They are cannibals, and hold nothing sacred. They are the gluttons of the animal kingdom

Mr. Hendrich has equipped his farm with electric lamps near the ground. The lights attract insects, so that the frogs have plenty of the food they love

He estimates that an acre farm will produce 18,000 frogs a year, a very profitable investment, he points out, if the taste for frog's legs keeps pace with the supply The delicacy does not appear on the ordinary restaurant menu.

Radiated Light Necessary

Impossible to Live Without it Says Noted Professor

That all human existence is dependent upon the radiated light of the sun, whether from the sun and the moon or from the earth's surface and from radio-active substances, was the object of a demonstration by Professor Adolph Lasnrez, of the Berlin University, at the last meeting of the Berlin Society for Physics.

Movies Stays Comrade

Dressed Up as a Ghost, Joke Turns Into Tragedy

John W. Most, fearless recruit of 17 in the British Royal Marines, upheld tradition of the "soldiers of the sea" when he challenged and laughed a ghost while on sentry duty.

The ghost had just died. Most told the story at the inquest on James W. Smith, 36, also a marine, who was the "ghost."

Smith dressed up in a sheet and tried to frighten Most. He did, but Most did not admit it at the time.

"I was on sentry duty," said Most, "when a white figure advanced calling out sentry! I thought it was a ghost, but as my orders were to let no one pass, I challenged it. At the third challenge the ghost rushed at me and landed on my bayonet. I pulled out the bayonet and the ghost ran away. I chased it, but could not catch it."

Smith died after three weeks in hospital. Marine officers inventually testified that Most had done his duty.

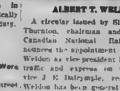
Broadcast Street Cries

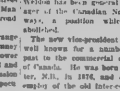
Cats of English Muckpeters Were Heard Over Radio

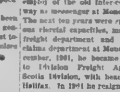
Ancient and modern English street cries were revived by the Man About Chester station of the British broadcasting Company.

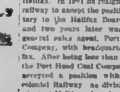
Street cries of England are strange and interesting. The grimy chimney sweep, the rag and bone man, flower girls and purveyors of cool, weed and foodstuffs form a constant procession through the streets, each with a pose or song or cry.

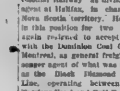
Some of these cries have been handed down from generation to generation. They have been beautified together with customary street noises and dialogues.

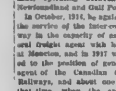


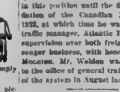


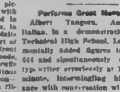


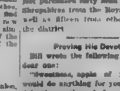


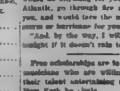




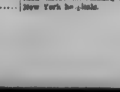








New C.N.R. Appointment



ALBERT T. WELDON

A circular issued by Sir Henry W Thornton, chairman and president, Canadian National Railways, announces the appointment of Albert T Weldon as vice president in charge of traffic and express on the system, the J E Dalrymple, resigned. Mr Weldon has been general traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways, a position which will be abolished.

The new vice-president has been well known for a number of years past to the commercial communities of Canada. He was born at Rochester, N.H., in 1876, and entered the employ of the old Inter-Colonial Railway as messenger at Moncton in 1896. The next ten years were spent in various clerical capacities, mainly in the traffic department and the freight claims department at Moncton. In December, 1901, he became chief clerk to Division Freight Agent, Nova Scotia Division, with headquarters at Halifax. In 1904 he resigned from the railway to accept the position of secretary to the Halifax Board of Trade, and two years later was appointed to the staff of the Halifax Fuel Company, with headquarters at Halifax. After being less than a year with the Fuel Company, Mr Weldon was accepted a position with the Intercolonial Railway as division freight agent at Halifax, in charge of the Nova Scotia territory. He continued in this position for two years, and again resigned to accept a position with the Dominion Coal Company at Montreal, as general freight and passenger agent of what was then known as the Black Diamond Steamship Line, operating between Montreal, Newfoundland and Cuba Ports.

In October, 1910, he again re-entered the service of the Inter-colonial Railway in the capacity of assistant-general freight agent with headquarters at Moncton, and in 1917 was appointed to the position of general freight agent of the Canadian Government Railways, and about one year from June 1, 1918, the amalgamation took place between the old Canadian Northern and Canadian Government Lines, when he was appointed freight traffic manager, with head quarters at Moncton, and a little later assistant to the vice president in charge of Eastern Lines, with headquarters at Montreal. He continued in this position until the creation of the Canadian National in 1923, at which time he was appointed assistant to the vice president in charge of traffic at Montreal, a position which he still holds.

Mr Weldon is a member of the Canadian Railway Research Association, with supervision over both freight and passenger business, with headquarters at Montreal. He is also a member of the committee of the Canadian National in 1923, at which time he was appointed assistant to the vice president in charge of traffic at Montreal, a position which he still holds.

Discover Secret Crypt

Believed to be Tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen's Queen

The latest information from Luxor reveals that the contents of the two inner chambers of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, recently opened by Howard Carter, are wonderfully beautiful.

Previous reports disclosed that the caskets already extracted were found to contain, among other things, twenty golden figures, six sacred barques and a quantity of royal robes. It is now learned that more than thirty statues have been discovered each having its own casket with fold ing doors, the latter being overlaid with gold leaf.

The barques are also sheathed with gold and covered with precious stones, while on the prow appears the name Tut-Ankh-Amen poised with a boomerang in hand as if on a duck hunting expedition. Representations of such expeditions exist in color in the mural decorations of the tombs in the neighborhood, but this seems to be almost unique in the present have not been discovered intact.

A further unsuspected crypt has been discovered under the chamber containing the royal sarcophagus, the existence of which was revealed by hieroglyphs drawn directly under the sarcophagus itself. One can but conjecture that the subterranean and hidden chambers may reveal, but by the care with which the entrance was arcealed and the hieroglyphic inscription left as it was, above it. It is conceivable that the examination in due course may be accompanied by an amazing discovery.

The secret crypt under the sarcophagus of Tut-Ankh-Amen's queen, the mortuary chamber of his queen, Ankh-Nes-Amen, the daughter of Khu-en-Aten, is the latest of 32 million dollars. In 1925 he had a rural population of about 5,700,000 with a corresponding urban population, and that was a low crop year. Our increase of production in 55 years is 600 per cent, with a corresponding rural population of approximately 100 per cent. Our system of agriculture is almost wholly the result of effort in the United States with value of production per man enormously in favor of the latter country. Our best authorities have long been thought that this was the work of thieves, but surprise was expressed at the fact that such treasures were left behind.

CHRISTMAS LESSON: BIRTH OF OUR SAVIOUR

Golden Text: Behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all the people.—Luke 2:10

Lesson Luke 2:8-20.

Devotional Reading: : Micah 5:1-5, 5:2.

Explanation and Comments

I. The Shepherds and the Angels, verses 8-14.—Because the angels bring things from the wise and prudent and reveal them unto babes, the birth of His whole was made known to us. The shepherds lie-lah, and all the flock by night. An angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of God shone round about them: and they were frightened. And an angel appeared, terrified the shepherds until the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be all to all people." And the good tidings? The birth of a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord, at Bethlehem, which is the city of David, a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord." And the sign that the truth had been spoken? The unusual spectacle of a babe cradled in a manger.

"The angel does not simply say, 'Babe is born, but to you he is born;' does he not? It is a gospel for you, but to you I bring glad tidings of great joy.' Furthermore, they were not to remain in them, but it was to be all people.'—Professor Rufus M. Jones.

"It is not so strange that shepherds should hear angels singing, for such sights and such voices combined to make such a vision and such a song. Here is the real wonder; and the wonder is the great fact we have to rejoice over, for there was nothing in the common thought and expectation of those men to stir them to believe the good news of God. If any one thinks otherwise, let him experiment with a few cowboys and fishermen, and see if they will see or hear anything like the shepherds' vision or the angels' song."—Professor Burton F. Bowne.

The number of automobiles licensed in Alberta in the year's first ten months' totalled 64,000, according to the figures of the Deputy Provincial Secretary. This adds 11,000 to last year's total.

Proud Position Of Canadian Agriculture

By C. W. Peterson

Canadian farmers receive, from time to time, a great deal of gratuitous advice from their city cousins on the virtue of studying efficiency in their raising and discarding old-fashioned methods. Sometimes there is a veiled hint to the effect that he is spending too much time in his automobile and otherwise neglecting his farm. Unfortunately, some farmers are ignorant and probably are not working as hard as they should and their poor financial returns are in many cases attributed to neglect of their business. At any rate, the implication is, that the Canadian farmer is not "keeping his knitting" as cleverly as his city brother, who is represented as the indefatigable "go-getter" who counts that day lost upon which he is unable to add one more touch to the perfection of his business or industrial machine.

Secretary Jardine, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said recently that during the past year "all remains the number of persons engaged in farming in that country has increased slightly but the volume of farm products produced has increased 200 per cent. Notwithstanding all that is said concerning that the subterranean and hidden chambers may reveal, but by the care with which the entrance was arcealed and the hieroglyphic inscription left as it was, above it. It is conceivable that the examination in due course may be accompanied by an amazing discovery.

The secret crypt under the sarcophagus of Tut-Ankh-Amen's queen, the mortuary chamber of his queen, Ankh-Nes-Amen, the daughter of Khu-en-Aten, is the latest of 32 million dollars. In 1925 he had a rural population of about 5,700,000 with a corresponding urban population, and that was a low crop year. Our increase of production in 55 years is 600 per cent, with a corresponding rural population of approximately 100 per cent. Our system of agriculture is almost wholly the result of effort in the United States with value of production per man enormously in favor of the latter country. Our best authorities have long been thought that this was the work of thieves, but surprise was expressed at the fact that such treasures were left behind.

There is no urban industry that can boast of any such spectacular increase in production output, as far as I am aware. The plain fact is, that the Canadian farmer efficiently stands at the very top of the world agriculture in point of efficiency, and, while no one on the subject, I might further point out that in the matter of business management, hours of work and industry of application, he can compare favorably with the urban dweller. The remarkable lessons indeed This farmer appreciates a deeply an intelligent interest in his welfare on the part of outsiders But he is weary of unintelligent criticism. While there is always room for improvement, the Canadian agriculturist is efficiently very efficient.

Further, I do not, however, consider that the Canadian agriculturist is going to be content to remain static. He is going to be a factor to reckon and Canada will time supplements in our urban population. Many of these will be townsmen also, rather than in the matter of farm in-fluence, in other than better farmers. It will be found difficult to materially improve the very high standard of Canadian agriculture.

Russia Satisfied With Shipment Of Horses

Only Six Born From Canada Lost in Transit

A shipment of 1,000 Canadian horses to Russia was pronounced to be in all respects satisfactory by the United States of Border Russia, according to J. C. Hargrave, veterinary of the department of breeds, and J. Hayes, Dominion livestock branch, who accompanied the shipment to Archangel. The Canadian Government representatives have returned home after the long voyage. Only six horses of the large consignment were lost in transit.

Production of Stone

Production of stone in Canada during 1925 totalled 5,766,113 tons valued at $7,684,377, according to provisional figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This compares with 4,761,815 tons valued at $6,166,000 in 1924. Last year's record is better than any since 1920. Ontario led with 53 per cent of total production, followed by Quebec, with 29.2 per cent. Then came British Columbia, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and New Brunswick.

"The thought of last night that bothers me is not so much your forgetfulness, as the memory of others. That's what I want to talk about. She didn't reply, nor did he continue. They rode in silence again, until they turned into a bridle path that went in among the trees in the Constantina, a path that none had guided the Romans under Caesar to the hiding place of the Christian slave who has sleep between Mr. Dennis, the patient and a sanctuary erected over the spot where she was captured and killed it is a narrow path. The horses must go each other as they threaded it. Suddenly Joanna said, softly:

"You love me very much, don't you Teddy?"

And he answered, again shortly, "Yes."

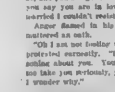
"It's true, almost. Isn't it." she asked, still softly, "that you have stopped loving other women and begun loved by them because of me?"

He glanced at her, to see if she were trifling. But she decided she wasn't. "I used to think," he said, "that my mission in life was to love women. But since knowing you, I've learned that it is better to love one woman, and put whatever qualities I have in her hands. I'm glad I've considered women by duty, I've wanted you to be my refuge. But I've said all that before, haven't I?"

"Yes, but," she agreed, "but you always put some new inflection into it. You say it now, Teddy, almost as handsome as a man ought to be, and you are good to listen to when you say you love me. I'm not worried I couldn't resist you, I know."

Anger flamed in his eyes and he muttered an oath.

"Oh I am not fooling with you," she protested earnestly. "I am just reminding you. You must not make up me take you seriously, you know. And I wonder why."



"I hate people, Teddy; it's either true or it isn't—what are the things they are saying."

"The obvious answer is because I am actually serious. So much so, that I don't like that they are talking about today from one end of the Riviera to the other—especially as I'm engaged to Prince Michael Kombworth's fascination for you and the affair of Venice, is getting stodgy. I'd like to get you out of it."

Joanna's eyes narrowed she counted rides, thirty, deliberately. "Is that why you went out here first, but there was no other sign that she was perturbed. When she was satisfied with the number of the landscape, she said again to the man who rode beside her.

"I hate gossip, Teddy. It's either true or it isn't, and either way it isn't good. But you may tell Prince Michael that I'm not through with him yet—that I'm not through with him yet."

Another man might have hesitated because of the fiery babble in the girl's voice, but pappy Dandimore was filled with the supremacy. "Perhaps," he answered, "about the middle of the Russian, you let the

Great Number of Animals Do Not Get Square Deal

The fashionable magazine s which devote a few columns to dog shows, fashions and beauty culture, now tell us that dogs belonging to the upside are not treated as well as a similar pattern and hue to the coats worn by their owners. Likewise, the dog that would command a high price in one year may have dinky collars and ties.

If we were a dog we would certainly prefer to be born in the days when there were one tale. We would rather accompany around picking up a living than have to be kept in a kennel and have the stuffing put from us.

Startling News

Had young Lord Dombinier been in love with Joanna's face, when he finished he would have been startled by what he saw. She had been frightened, while he told her that "they" were saying she had stolen the heart of Yvonne Constant's lovers. Slowly the brown flecks of her eyes had crept back until they were almost black, and the round red lips had set in a straight line. But Teddy didn't look in the girl's direction. He was busy with his last words hardly had died when he went back to work with him at the looked straight ahead, he pressed his mount's ears, and inwardly cursed.

Teddy furiously, for he had failed to see that part of Chas' story, and body, to anybody, much less respect it to the gossip of others. He was merry, and dance-mad. When he had finished dinner, and Joanna, her face had risened, the brown had come back to it, and her eyes were shining, Teddy joined the others in the drawing room. He had planned to spend the evening with Joanna, but Prince Michael, Count Kombworth's fascination for her and the affair of Venice, it is getting stodgy. I'd like to get you out of it."

Joanna's eyes narrowed she counted rides, thirty, deliberately. "Is that why you went out here first, but there was no other sign that she was perturbed. When she was satisfied with the number of the landscape, she said again to the man who rode beside her.

"Oh," he said at last slowly, as if he carefully weighed his conclusions, "there's nothing sporting about a man's regard for a woman. It's either honest, or it's not. You can't make a sporting deal out of it either way. I've watched you since that time a year ago when I stumbled once you in Yvonne's drawing room in New York. I've seen you fight for understanding, of all the crooked things that went on about you. I could have helped you learn many times, but I knew you'd learn everything in your own way. A girl does that, nowadays. There's a lot, perhaps, that I don't know about what's really inside of you, but I've a heart that doesn't grieve over anything you can't see. I wouldn't care, you know, whether you fell into the abyss, or whether you were so insane as you didn't know that anything that shouldn't be could be. However you are, I'd like, awfully, to have you marry me. I'm honestly in love with you."

Gave Generously To Charity

Queen Alexandra Did Not Spend Much on Herself

Popular impressions are that queens and princesses have wardrobes that would excite the envy and admiration of every woman. But the likelihood is that there are thousands of women in every country, particularly in the United States, who dress far smarter and much more expensively than the average blue-blood.

A lady-in-waiting to Queen Alexandra has given out that after the Dowager Queen's death only two dresses were found in her wardrobe. And one of them had been remade.

The fact is that kings and queens, in spite of the large allowances made to them by the state, are economists by your persons. Like Gutenberg-General and others with official pull they get their clothes at the lowest rate, and they get, and somedimes, in entertaining and in gifts to charities.

Queen Alexandra all her days was a generous supporter of charities and benevolent institutions during her last years she seldom went out. Therefore, she rubbed along with the minimum of a wardrobe. She probably knew what she didn't need to charity.

Queens are very human beings if we can believe the stories that have been told. When the ... Albians war was on, a foreign ambassador was admitted to the presence of the Empress Eugenie, who was a very great lady as well as very beautiful. He found her sobbing over her dog, which had been killed by a cab.

And if it's a dog's life to be a queen it's pretty much the same thing sometimes to behave like a real dog.

Take the case reported in the newspapers the other day. The queen of Spain's royal companion was destroyed at the behest of a court. What's All because the dog would have to be killed—and his mistress when attacked, what's the use of a dog at all? The problem is that if he didn't go to the royal Count's kennels, he would be killed.

Perhaps he made a mistake, but if a dog has been used to being killed—roughly $10 which no father would thought too much, as it was quite a common household pet.

FESTIVITIES AT THE UNITED CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL

Merry is the word that charac te rized the festivities at the Union ... on the hill as seen in reading ... with the Sunday School ... Christmas assignment. ... Sunday School was given a ... tainment and Christmas Tree in ... church. About 75 little children sat down to tables spread with dainty goodies and cakes and many other good things. An entertainment programme of games and songs had previously been enjoyed and after supper proper ... came Santa Claus and Santa was ... ed. Over was the delight of the little tots as he joyously made his appearance. Clinging to his arms and head they led him to the Christmas Tree where with laughter they distributed gifts for every child present. The arrangements for the occasion were in the capable hands of Mrs. Whitby, Miss Craig, Mrs. Scott and Mrs. E. Long. Many members were present also to share in the children's delight and all were home voting the occasion one of the most pleasant of the season.

On Friday night the senior section held sway. The young people to the number of 200 sat down to a splendid banquet of roast beef, potatoes and brown gravy with pies of every conceivable variety. The tables were beautiful indeed with snowy linen and Christmas favors and an atmosphere of jollity everywhere prevailed. Afterwards the company were entertained or rather, entertained an audience that crammed the church to the doors. Space would forbid detailing the programme. Each item was provided by a separate class prepared by the teacher. This provided a refreshing variety and individually exhibited a wonderful amount of originality of talent among the pupils. Not the least enjoyable was the part contributed by the college students, but suffice it to say that all present were unanimous in the opinion that the entertainment and banquet will stand out as one of the most successful in the history of the evening churches. The church decorations were in the hands of Mr. Geo. Law and Mr. Hopkins and much credit cannot be given them for all was in readiness form and the voice came out clear and crisp, his readings also being particularly commending. His part coupled with that of Mrs. McLeod was very different and made the entertaining chain running through the whole play. Mrs. McLeod possessed her usual charm and talent, giving the audience an added pleasure as the performance progressed.

Mr. Brimacombe made a splendid Elder; his action and expression gave the needed serious side to the whole play with the audience. Miss Myrtle Macdonald as "Mercy" showed great promise for the many other comedies we hope to see in the future. She was the leading spirit in the Puritan Maiden's chorus, which, taken with the song and dance at the "Bright Lads of the Colony" were the treats of the programme, not forgetting the sugar candy — that in itself was a sweet treat.

So one could go on indefinitely, but as stated at the beginning, without the chorus there would be principals to be. The Chorus are to be commended very highly for the splendid backing they gave, prompt response and good interpretation. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed and we look forward to the opportunity of witnessing same like it at other dates. The rendering of the opera proved we have the talent locally, and it's a pleasure to hear a comedy given with the real spirit which was exhibited in the Columbia Theatre on Wednesday night, December 14th, in "The Captain of Pirates."

Splendid support was accorded the players by the 5-piece orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Frederick J. Hopkins. Their work was of a high standard and they contributed in no small measure to the success of the performance

The splendid effects and elaborate costumes were the subject of much favorable comment, and Mr. George McLeod as stage manager and his able assistant, Mr. Geo. Law, are to be congratulated on the results of their efforts

Problems In The Maritimes

One of the outstanding matters to engage the attention of Parliament at its present session will be the report of the Royal Commission appointed to inquire into the claims of the provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island for better terms from the Dominion Government and the Imperial Government, and to consider, among other difficulties from which the said section of the Dominion is suffering.

The report of the Commission was presented to Parliament on the day of opening, while the Speech from the Throne dealt with the introduction of Government legislation dealing with various recommendations contained in the report.

The people of Canada as a whole will be found sympathetic in the taking of any reasonable steps to promote the development and prosperity of the Maritime Provinces and to assist the Provincial Governments and people to carry their most acute problems and overcome their most pressing difficulties. The Western Provinces will be found particularly sympathetic because people have fully realize that the extreme of Confederation are confronted with problems from which the central provinces of Ontario and Quebec are quite free, and which the people there cannot understand and consequently do not appreciate

Freight rates, for example, have long been a live topic in the West, literally and only what have been in process of adjustment for years. The complaints that unfair discrimination exists as between East and West in the matter of rates, and as between the scale of rates levied on various commodities. The West has waged a long battle on the subject of freight rates, and the end is not yet. It can, therefore, appreciate the importance of the recommendation made in the report of the Maritime Commission that rates be reduced 20 per cent on the Atlantic Division of the Canadian National Railway, and that the loss of revenue thereby entailed be made up to the railway from the Dominion treasury, and that the C.P.R. be likewise reimbursed. One of the arguments advanced in support if this recommendation is that the Intercolonial Railway was built for strategic purposes, as a commercial proposition and as a result it suffers from excessive mileage.

If, however, special rates are to be established for one section of the Dominion, and the losses to the railways made good by the Dominion as a whole, the door will be opened to demands for like treatment by other sections of the country.

The Commission further recommends substantial increases in the Federal subsidies to the three Maritime Provinces in order to assist those Governments in carrying on their functions and services, and in this connection supports the contention that the Western Provinces have suffered difficulty and more favorably treated. It is true the Western Provinces have been treated differently, because all their natural resources have been withheld from them and in lieu thereof they are paid annual subsidies, but whether this constitutes a more favorable position is open to debate. However, re-opening the subject of Federal subsidies is one group of Provinces must, inevitably, lead to a demand-ration of this question as it affects all Provinces, and the cost of governments in the Maritime Provinces is too great, it seems, passing strange that the Dominion Commission did not at least express an opinion on the advisability or a union of these three small provinces under one Provincial Government.

Recommendations suggestions and quoted opinions as to Customs tariff changes designed to benefit the Maritimes will undoubtedly cause wide-spread discussion. At present no steel is used in the manufacture of ships, but it is recommended; inferentially an increased duty on steel is suggested; a treaty with the United States is advocated providing for the free admission of Canadian fish and the free admission of coal, salt and agricultural implements into the United States. In fact the report seems to favor a policy of higher duties by Canada against United States coal and steel and lower duties by the United States on Canadian fish, and the net result, as a result of results, desired by the Maritimes which it would appear to be rather difficult to get the United States to accept.

In certain other matters as, for example, the development and raising of agriculture out of its present depression, and encouragement and co-operation in matters of immigration with the Federal authorities, the Commission makes a definite stand which is regarded by many people as somewhat timid.

Whatever may be the outcome of the Commission's labors, or the nature of the legislation to be passed at Ottawa, it is to be desired that true and hopeful, considerate and broad views in all matters be taken by the Federal Government, and that they will first encourage-ment in the steps taken in their behalf for themselves to grapple more intensively than ever with the problems which, in the final analysis, must be solved by the people themselves. The people of the west have found this to be true, and they have through their great co-operative enterprises and the application of their own energies succeeded to an amazing degree in bettering their conditions and advancing the development and prosperity of these Western Provinces.

STOMACH TROUBLE DUE TO THIN BLOOD

It Usually Disappears When the Blood Is Made Rich and Red

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble. It starves the digestive nerves, stimulates tired muscles and makes the digestive glands inactive. Soon the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more completely aid the appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich blood.

Dr Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this is why they benefit everything—weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles and makes the digestive glands that supply the digestive juices. In this way they improve the appetite, and soon the effect of these pills is noticeable right into the whole system. You feel that when you use these pills you are getting at the root of the trouble. If your appetite is feble, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms mentioned, you should at once get the Dr Williams' Pink Pills and profit by their better condition in health they will put your blood.

Dr Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

French Premier Absent-Minded

Forgets Dinner Engagements and Names of His Foreign Ministers

Monsieur Poincare, the Premier of France, is a famous mathematician as well as a statesman, and he has one of characteristic that closely belongs to his scientific rather than to his political side. That is his absent-mindedness, some outstanding examples of which are told by the Paris correspondent of the London Sunday Times.

The Premier was recently the principal guest at a political dinner, at the house of one of his friends, and though all the other guests had been there for half an hour, nobody was surprised that the host, for the moment, had disappeared. But astonishment was provoked when, a quarter of an hour later, a footman called to his official residence reported that he had begun the short journey an hour before. A messenger was sent downstairs to investigate, however, found M. Palaleve in the caretaker's lodge working out a mathematical problem, part of the home work of the caretaker's son.

Another time he was M. Palaleve the mathematician he had forgotten he was M. Palaleve the politician, and he was perfectly perplexed when he was disgusted everybody's sympathy by admitting that the problem was difficult. Another time he was to dine with a friend who to forget, the name of his Foreign Minister in full Chamber. On an Inspection when about to sign a document he unsuitable for debate became my friend Monsieur—" and here he stuck for a word, and was prompted, he tried again, "the ex Premier Monsieur—" and he again halted, till rich-prompted him with the name.

Must Be Ratified By All Parliaments

Britain Alone Cannot Effect Change in King's Title

With reference to the proposed change in the King's title—a recommendation by the Imperial Conference in which the term "United Kingdom" is dropped and the title made to read "King of the Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India," The Manchester Guardian's political correspondent in London asserts that the British Parliament alone cannot effect the alteration.

This will be seen, he says, to pass an identical act in the Irish Free State Parliament and every Dominion Parliament before the new title can become effective.

Building Better Roads In Saskatchewan

This Year 450 Miles Were Graded in Province

When the road-building season closed, 123 contractors who have been working in Saskatchewan this year finished approximately 450 miles of newly graded roads at an estimated expenditure of $400,000. This will make a total of 2,000 miles of roads in the program mapped out by the department some years ago, which will be completed when about 1,700 miles of trunk roads have been completed.

The mileage this year is spread over a wide area in Saskatchewan. Many roads were most needed, there the contractors were sent, say officials, and reports of the department's work was indicate every mile of road has been built to specification.

Convicted Man Three Years After Crime Was Committed

Fingerprints discovered nearly three and a half years after Otto Reinke in Berlin, in April, 1925, led to the committing a murder at Bad Oeynhausen, Germany, proved sufficient to bring the crime home to him when he was arraigned at the present term of court.

Robert Bieker, a young bath attendant at the Bathhausen Spa, was shot and killed on July 6, 1922, by an unknown assailant while the building he was guarding. Suspected of the crime, Reinicke, and a companion, Paul Schmidt, were taken into custody and tried but acquitted because of insufficient evidence.

Recently recently made a new examination of the murder chamber, which had been left virtually untouched since the day of the crime, and found the record time for the course. The race will be run 60 miles a day for three days.

Special Auto Equipped With All Modern Means for Investigating Crimes

Berlin's new "murder auto" has been put into service. Its object is not to slay people, as its name indicates, but to enable the police to detect crimes. The auto is fitted with cameras, searchlights—in fact, everything a modern Sherlock Holmes needs to run down criminals. Special lights and a special gong give traffic officers the signal to clear the way for the police car, which is immune from speed regulations.

Detective believe clues are often lost between the crime and the arrival on the scene. The present tendency to concentrate police forces at points of desired equipment, to begin their investigations in the shortest possible time after they are notified.

Wonderful Future For Radio

Marconi Predicts Future Progress Will Be More Rapid

Peering a quarter of a century into the future of radio, William Marconi, the inventor of the first fifth anniversary of his invention of radio, predicted progress that perhaps will be even more startling.

During the next 25 years, he said, "there will probably be almost as great advances in the science as those obtaining directional wireless transmission and reception as there have been in other directions during the last 25 years."

He expressed the opinion that the introduction of power will be reduced, distances may be developed and that, television may become an actuality.

MONARCHISTS IN GERMANY BUILD UP SECRET ARMY

Berlin.—Charges made in the Reichstag that a secret pro-monarchist clique is building up a huge illegal reserve army in Germany with munitions and aeroplanes hoarded in Germany and Russia faced the bourgeois-coalition cabinet of Chancellor Marx.

Philipp Scheidemann, head of the Socialist Democrats, whose accusations produced sensation in the Reichstag, demanded that the present cabinet be replaced by one in which every member was Republican.

He presented a number of new confidences in the government but the fate of the cabinet remained in the balance when the Reichstag adjourned.

Denouncing Soviet Russia for giving moral, if not financial, support to German militarists, Scheidemann said as late as last September and October, four ships landed at Stettin from Leningrad with munitions of war manufactured in Russia for a secret German army.

While the Nationalists showered "Traitor! Blackguard! That's treason!" and Chancellor Marx, Cabinet members and others denied the truth of the charge, Scheidemann rifled names, places and figures which he said showed that Defense minister Gessler was a "tool of the munitions Junkers."
